Arab terrorists surrender to Kuwaiti troops

By DAVID ZENIAN

KUWAIT (UPI) —Five Arab guerrillas, their hands raised over their heads, surrendered Saturday night to Kuwaiti troops who surrounded their jetliner on a sweltering tarmac, ending a kidnaping and hijack odyssey that began last Wednesday at the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Paris.

The guerrillas freed four Saudi diplomats seized at the embassy and held during a series of hop-scotch flights accross the Middle East. The Saudis were reported in good condition and, although not needing hospitalization, were to remain for a few days in Kuwait.

The terrorists, who had demanded unsuccessfully that Jordan release a guerrilla leader, were believed to be undergoing questioning by security officials, but their whereabouts were not immediately known.

As evening fell, one of their hostages, identified as Yehia Baha Eddin, a Saudi Embassy secretary, climbed down from the Boeing 707 Kuwait Airlines plane on a wood ladder and walked over to the troops.

Forty soldiers, bayonets fixed on their rifles, and a dozen armored personnel carriers, had surrounded the plane on the tarmac, where the temperature climbed to more than 100 degrees.

The hostage was released by the guerrillas to carry a message, declaring their intention to surrender, to Acting Premier Sheikh Saad AlAbdallah, the Middle East News Agency said.

Trailing a piece of rope, with which he had been tied, the diplomat reached the troops in a state of extreme exhaustion.

Thirty minutes later, the guerrillas began broadcasting messages over the plane's radio declaring they would surrender shortly.

The commandos and the hostages began disembarking from the plane at 7:50 p.m., one after the other, with their hands raised over their heads, the Middle East News agency said.

"All the guerrillas have surrendered without a fight," said Dr. Abdul Hamid, chief airport physician. Neither he nor other officials were able to say immediately under what terms the Arabs gave up.

The guerrillas said they staged the 27-hour occupation of the Saudi Arabian embassy in Paris and the subsequent air drama with the four Saudi diplomat hostages in an attempt to force the release of Abou Daoud, a guerrilla leader serving a life sentence in Jordan. Jordan early in the drama had refused.

The anticlimactic ending to the 95-hour international kidnaping followed a frustrating daylong effort Saturday by the Kuwaiti government. At one point, it appeared an amnesty offer would end the talks with freedom for both guerrillas and hostages.

That possibility went sour in midafternoon when the guerrillas seized Ali Yassin, an official of the Palestine Liberation organization who had been negotiating with them. They released Yassin four hours later, but threatened to blow up the plane if their full demands were not met.

His seizure convinced the Kuwaitis to call out the troops and tank-like armored cars.

Miss America title won by Colorado girl

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —Miss Colorado, Rebecca Ann King, 23, of Sterling, Colo., was named Miss America of 1974 Saturday night.

"I'm very surprised," the winner said. "Thank you very much.

Then she walked down the ramp at the Convention Hall, crying and smiling at the same time.

The first runner-up was Miss Wisconsin, Judy Heike, 19, of Monomonee Falls, Wis., followed by Miss New Jersey, Suzanne Plummer, 21, Wildwood, N.J., Miss Louisiana, Debbie Ward, 21, Baton Rouge, and Miss Pennsylvania, Tina Louise Thomas, 18, Lancaster, Pa.

Miss King, a blue-eyed blonde, sang "If I Ruled the World" during the talent competition. She has been chapel choir director at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver.

She is a graduate of Colorado Women's College, where she majored in secondary music education, but she hopes to attend law school. Her hobby is collecting and refinishing antique furniture.

Miss Colorado's measurements are 36-24-36. She is 5-feet-9.

She was named co-winner of the "Neat as a Pin" award in the contest's earlier rounds Saturday.

The pageant, which has been an annual event since 1921, was marked this year by efforts to get away from the image of a contest judged on beauty.

About 300 security guards and police with guard dogs patrolled Convention Hall Saturday to prevent striking firemen from sabotaging the 53rd Miss America pageant. The pageant's producer vowed the million-dollar show would go on.

Defying a court order, members of the city firemen's union surrounded the ocean-front arena in the hope musicians and other unionized workers would honor picket lines. The 50 contestants were locked inside the hall.

"This is a rotten damn shame," said Albert Marks, executive producer of the pageant. "But I think we're all pro enough to do what we have to do ... This pageant is going on tonight."

Rehearsals were interrupted briefly, but contestants and dancers returned to the giant stage for practice and continued preparing for the crowning of the 53rd Miss America.

Nixon to go on radio with new State of Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on nationwide radio today to give the public a one-day preview of the second State of the Union message he is sending Congress to get action on his stalled legislative program, the White House said Saturday.

Nixon taped the radio address —scheduled for broadcast at 11 a.m. PDT today on major networks — before going with his wife Pat to Camp David, Md.

Nixon told a news conference Wednesday he would send Congress a special message Monday asking lawmakers to fight inflation by holding down appropriations, pass his $79 million defense budget intact, and approve major proposals on energy, revenue sharing, housing and community development.

As the White House announced Nixon's radio speech, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield promised that administration legislative proposals "will be pushed along faster."

To relax pollution standards

Nixon acts to ease U. S. oil problems

Sets goal independent of Mideast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, setting a goal of independence from Middle East oil within five years, announced relaxation of air pollution standards for industry Saturday to ease an expected shortage of home heating oil this winter.

After a two-hour White House meeting on the energy situation, John A. Love, the President's special energy adviser, also disclosed new steps to boost imports of heavy oils used for heating through a change in price control regulations.

Love said rationing of home heating oil this winter was discussed as an emergency "contingency plan," but no decision was made.

The President listed a host of other measures, including pressure on Congress to approve the trans-Alaska oil pipeline, which he predicted would put U.S. energy resources on the road toward self-sufficiency. Love said it would take three to five years to reach that point.

Nixon announced he would ease some new air quality standards and postpone enforcement of others to allow greater industrial use of such high-pollution fuels as coal. This in turn will release more low-sulphur oil and natural gas for home consumption this winter.

Although Congress has legislated authority for progressively stricter air quality controls, Nixon said he could act on his own to modify the actual standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency. Love said he would meet with a delegation of governors next week to seek necessary changes in state air pollution laws stemming from federal standards.

Love said EPA administrator Russell Train agreed with the decision because no health hazards would be involved.

Government officials have estimated home heating oil might fall 15 per cent short of demand this winter if cold weather is severe enough. Love has said supplies were "very tight."

Love disclosed that the Cost of Living Council next week will announce regulations allowing a boost in retail heating oil prices to help importers recover more fully the cost of higher-priced oil from abroad.

This probably will translate into a domestic price hike of 2 cents a gallon this winter.

The move was intended to increase imports to help meet the anticipated domestic demand for an additional 200,000 to 400,000 barrels of fuel oil daily this winter, even without a severe winter, said Charles J. DiBona, a special White House energy consultant.

Even though Love predicted the United States would be importing some oil, "certainly from this hemisphere and probably from the Middle East," after it becomes self-sufficient in three to five years, the President reaffirmed his determination to resist increasing political pressures from Arab oil-producing countries.

"The United States must be in a position so that no nation in the world has us in the position where they can cut off our oil," Nixon said.

The President said Americans faced a short-term energy problem—"we do not face a crisis in that sense of the word"—but that long-range prospects for an adequate U.S. energy supply were "excellent" and perhaps better than for any other industrialized nation.

After what he described as a "quite spirited" discussion with 15 Cabinet members and energy advisers, the President reported agreement on:

—A sharp speedup in development of nuclear power generators.

—Accelerated federal research on clean-burning uses of coal, such as conversion to gas.

—Development of oil reserves in the government-controlled Elk Hills naval reserve lands in California for domestic consumption.

Watergate investigations causing 'persecutorial atmosphere'--Agnew

ST. CHARLES, Ill. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, lashing out at Watergate critics of the administration, Saturday night blamed the investigations for a "persecutorial atmosphere hanging over the American political system.

Agnew made what was billed as a major address before about 2,000 who paid $10 apiece to hear him in this GOP bastion of northern Illinois. It was a welcome respite from the troubles besetting him and the administration. At least three Illinois Republican leaders said they believed Agnew would run well in the state as a presidential candidate in 1976.

The vice president made no direct reference to reports involving him with a federal grand jury investigation of political corruption in Maryland, where he was governor.

But, in dwelling upon the Watergate affair, Agnew:

—Said Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate investigating committee, had done a "rain dance" to embarrass President Nixon.

—Predicted Americans would not tar the entire Republican party for "the misguided actions of a few zealots."

—Professed "I have never been more proud of my party," despite the "real and tragic abuses" of Watergate.

The Kane County Republicans gave Agnew a warm welcome. There was a 50-second standing ovation at the start of his half hour speech and he was interrupted 27 times by applause—the heartiest when he laced into Ervin.

However, there were almost 1,000 empty seats, probably because many who had bought tickets found their view obscured by television installations. The Republicans had sold 4,000 tickets for a hall with only 3,000 seats.

Agnew diverged from his prepared text only once, saying, "There is no depression, there is no recession. I want to impress on you, and I think it is important for us as Republicans to remember, that for the first time since the Eisenhower years, we have peace and prosperity coexisting."

Agnew said, "Today ... the motives of us involved in politics at all levels are being called into question. Many assume that we are out simply for ourselves, with no thought of the public interest."

And at another point, Agnew told the dinner in honor of House Republican Whip Leslie H. Arends of Illinois: "Those embittered critics of this administration and this party who could not discredit us at the polls in November will make every effort —no matter how reckless —to discredit us now."

"The preoccupation with anything and everything related to Watergate is the most obvious but not necessarily the most insidious by-product of the affair," Agnew said. "Far more dangerous, in my opinion, is the persecutorial atmosphere hanging over the American political system."

Agnew charged that Ervin and some other Democrats on the select Senate Watergate committee were trying to "milk this issue dry."

"Our opponents will argue that the strength of our free system lies in our willingness to wash our dirty linen in public; and to some extent, they are right," he said.

5 hurt in London station bomb blast

LONDON (UPI) —A bomb that police said might have been set by the IRA exploded in London's Victoria railway station Saturday only minutes after about 1,000 travelers had fled the area, police said.

But five persons were injured as the blast in the commuter ticket office brought down the ceiling and shattered windows, a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

Pomona boy, 2, drowning victim in backyard pool

POMONA — A 2-year-old Pomona boy drowned Saturday afternoon in a pool in the backyard of his home.

The victim, Kevin C. Braxton of 1220 Mission Blvd., was prounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital about 1:25 p.m.

Police said the victim's uncle, Kevin G. McFatridge, 18, of the same address, told them that the boy had been playing in the front yard with his two brothers, ages 3 and 4, before he was discovered missing by his mother.

When she went to find the youngster, McFatridge told police, she discovered the rear fence gate open, and upon entering the backyard she found the boy lying at the bottom of the pool.

Police said the boy's grandfather attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the boy until the fire department rescue unit arrived.

Police said Mrs. Braxton was too overcome by the incident to give any further details.

Two fires out of control

By United Press International

Two forest fires burned out of control Saturday in isolated, steep terrain of Northern California near Eureka and Vacaville.

Flames blackened nearly 4,400 acres of timber and brush in the two blazes but no structures were engulfed. There were no injuries.

Firefighters and six aerial tankers managed to halt a wall of flames which had moved within three quarters of a mile of several homes six miles west of Vacaville. Flames burning along the ridge between Solano and Napa counties charred 3,400 acres.

By nightfall Saturday, firemen had the Vacaville fire 80 per cent contained despite a 35-mile-an-hour north wind and heavy brush.

"We feel certain the fire was mancaused," said a spokesman for the California Division of Forestry. "We hope for possible containment sometime Sunday morning.

Fifty miles south of Eureka in the rugged Finley Creek area, fire consumed more than 950 acres of timber and threatened some homes along the drainage plain of Eubank Creek. The division of forestry asked the Humboldt County sheriff's office to evacuate families living in the Eubank area.

Five air tankers bombed the fire with chemical retardants and 300 men were deployed on the fire lines. The firefighters were plagued with spot fires breaking out in advance of the fire line.

By sundown Saturday, firemen had established a line around approximately 50 per cent of the Finley Creek blaze.

First since 1911

U.S. cholera case reported

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) —Two weeks ago Dr. James M. Thompson, a Navy doctor two years out of medical school, was faced with a dying patient with an undiagnosed illness.

After much research, Thompson cured the sick man and the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) in Atlanta, Ga., announced Saturday the patient had the first confirmed case of cholera in the United States since 1911.

"I was scared," said Thompson, who works weekends at Port Lavaca's Champ Traylor Memorial Hospital. "The man was not responding to treatment. He was dying and I didn't know why."

Thompson ordered symptomatic treatment and laboratory tests, then went to the hospital library to the reference books.

"I read up on all the various insecticide poisonings, the food poisonings, the heavy metal poisonings," he said, reviewing the bacterial and viral diseases.

But one word stuck in Thompson's mind.

"The man must have cholera because nothing else fits," he told himself. "This is a classic case of cholera, though there hasn't been a case in the United States in over 50 years."

Cholera, a dreaded disease among American pioneers that is currently being battled in Italy, produces toxins which cause circulatory collapse, pooling the blood in the major vessels. It leads to diarrhea, rapid heartbeat, shock and death.

After questioning the unidentified man's wife about their water and sewer facilities, Thompson consulted the man's private physician and requested —and received—permission to treat for cholera.

A new antibiotic was administered and, Thompson said, "By the next morning the patient looked like he was going to live."

Meanwhile, tests were sent to Victoria, and eventually on to Austin and the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Ten days later Dr. Jack Weissman of the NCDC succeeded in tracking down Thompson through the Navy.

"He congratulated me," Thompson said. "I almost fainted."

But how the man contacted the disease remained a mystery. The NCDC said an investigation revealed the patient had not left the country since serving in the military in the 1950s. He had not been away from home for several months. And he had no known contact with persons with a history of recent foreign travel, the NCDC said.

It added that an extensive search has revealed no additional cases of suspected cholera in the area. Further investigations are underway to determine the source of the patient's infection, the NCDC added.

The NCDC said the absence of cholera cases reflects the "minimal potential for spread of cholera in areas with safe food and water supplies, such as those commonly encountered in the United States." It added that the Texas case is unrelated to the current outbreak of cholera in Italy.

Because more than 10 days have passed since hospitalization of this single case, the area where the Texas patient resides is not a cholera-infected area under provisions of international health regulations, according to the NCDC.

Smell of death, wounded crying amidst battle

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Government and Communist troops fought for control of once-beautiful Kompong Cham Saturday, ignoring the stifling smell of death and the cries of the wounded in their nine-day-old battle for the provincial capital.

Field reporters and refugees who fled from the surrounded town 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh said they saw dozens of dead and wounded, many of them civilians caught in the cross-fire.

One refugee said the streets were strewn with mangled bodies and others died screaming because there was no medical care available.

In Vietnam, fighting was at a wartime level Saturday, despite the seven-month-old cease-fire.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, reported 120 Communist truce violations between noon Friday and midday Saturday. The total was six fewer than the previous day, but the second highest 24-hour total since July 27, when there were 127.

Spokesmen said the heaviest Vietnam fighting was in the Central Highlands centered about 200 miles north of Saigon.

From Phnom Penh, the Cambodian High Command gave an optimistic picture of the Kompong Cham fighting. "The enemy cannot attack. Their chance to attack the city is finished," said command spokesman Col. Am Rong.

Refugees said the nauseating smell of decomposing bodies hung over the town, Cambodia's third largest.

One report said many would be refugees were killed in the cross-fire when insurgent troops overran the southern section of the city Friday, only to be driven out by government soldiers.

New cars to show miles per gallon on price tag

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Prospective new car buyers soon may be able to determine at a glance how many miles the 1974 models are expected to get on a gallon of gasoline.

The idea, first advanced by the Environmental Protection Agency last month, is to post the information next to the price sticker on car windows and the EPA said Saturday most automakers have indicated they would take part in the voluntary program.

The EPA said each car would bear a label showing comparative mileage rates for cars in various weight categories and the cost of gas for driving the vehicle 10,000 miles at 40 cents a gallon.

By looking at the data, EPA said buyers could tell that new cars weighing 2,000 pounds should average 24 miles per gallon and that expected mileage would get progressively lower as car weight increased.

For example, a new 1974 car weighing 5,500 pounds would get only about eight miles per gallon while a 3,000 pound car should average close to 15, the EPA said.

In terms of operating costs, the EPA said the 5,500 pound vehicle would burn up around $500 worth of gas to go 10,000 miles compared with $265 for the 3,000 pound car and $165 for the subcompact 2,000 pound auto.

The agency noted, however, that actual fuel economy would depend on such variables as individual driving habits, condition of the vehicle and the amount of optional equipment, including air conditioners and power steering.

Wategate hearings resume Tuesday on alleged misdeeds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With the issue of President Nixon's secret tape recordings mired in legal proceedings, the Watergate investigation is turning toward other alleged misdeeds in the 1972 presidential campaign.

The Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities meets Tuesday for the first time since concluding 11 weeks of public hearings Aug. 7. It is expected to resume hearings the week of Sept. 17 with a half-dozen witnesses providing transitional testimony between the Watergate and "dirty tricks" phases of its probe.

The committee must decide whether to handle the "dirty tricks" and campaign financing phases as a whole or as two subcommittees, and whether to try to complete all hearings by Nov. 1 as chief counsel Sam Dash has indicated.

The situation on the various aspects of the investigation:

Watergate —Expected to testify before the Senate committee are former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson; E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former White House consultant convicted in the bugging of Democratic national offices; Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr., head of the White House "plumbers" investigative unit; David R. Young, Krogh's aide; William O. Bittman, Hunt's attorney; and Kenneth W. Parkinson and Paul O'Brien, attorneys for the Committee to Re-elect the President.

"Dirty tricks" —Three Senate investigators who fanned out across the nation have learned that former Treasury Department lawyer Donald H. Segretti contacted about 25 persons to participate in alleged acts aimed against Democrats. Segretti has been indicted in Florida on charges involving defamatory letters about Democratic candidates in that state's 1972 presidential primary.

Campaign financing —Senate investigators sent letters to 100 corporate donors and 100 individual contributors and went to Key Biscayne, Fla., site of one of Nixon's homes. About 10 corporations have informed Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox they made illegal contributions to the Nixon campaign or were asked to do so.

The Tapes —The proceedings involving the White House recordings of Nixon's coversations are the most tangled of all with separate suits by the Senate committee and Cox to obtain them.

Won't discipline strikers, Chrysler gives assurance

DETROIT (UPI) —With less than a week of bargaining time left before a strike deadline, Chrysler Corp. Saturday rescinded all disciplinary action taken against 1,447 United Auto Workers members who took part in heat strikes last month.

Chrysler said it decided to end the penalties against employes at its plants in Windsor, Ont., in response to assurances from UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Vice President Douglas Fraser that they would devote their "personal attention" to preventing more unauthorized walkouts.

Thirteen workers were fired and another 398 suspended in what company spokesmen referred to as a "routine disciplinary action" because of heat strikes Aug. 27. But Fraser, who heads the union's Chrysler Department, described the action, which also included sending letters of reprimand to more than 1,000 other workers, as "outrageous."

In letters to Woodcock and Fraser, William O'Brien, vice president of personnel for Chrysler, said he understood union officials "would insist that the employes of the Windsor plant comply with the no-strike provisions of their contracts and the law."

"We sincerely hope that this action will inaugurate the stability and responsibility that we have come to expect in plants that your union represents," the letter concluded.

Chrysler said it took the action in response to a "special request" from the union.

The UAW and Chrysler continued to meet through the weekend, hoping to work out details of a new contract for 127,500 U.S. and Canadian workers before 11:59 p.m. Friday, when the old pact expires. Workers already have authorized a strike if one is necessary.

Princess Anne in fall from horse in riding competition

KIEV, USSR (UPI) —Princess Anne, the defending champion at the European Equestrian Championships, fell head over heels off her horse Goodwill Saturday during the cross-country event and was eliminated from competition.

The Princess came up shaking and limping. Later a British spokesman said she had a gruised left leg and an apparently chipped collarbone.

The fall came on her first attempt at the jump which claimed 8 of the first 17 riders.

She favored her left leg and sported a dirty splotch on the seat of her white jodhpurs but managed a wry smile.

Her fiance, Capt. Mark Phillips, also an Olympic gold medalist, walked behind. He had scouted the jump earlier.

Reinecke takes slap at Republican 'non-candidates'

By GEORGE SKELTON

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke said Saturdy that other potential candidates for the 1974 Republican gubernatorial nomination should either get in or get out of the race and stop "kidding the people."

"We should not be wasting money on non-candidates. We should not be wasting time on non-candidates," Reinecke declared in a strongly-worded statement released at the largest California Republican convention in history.

The harsh comments of Reinecke, the only formally announced GOP gubernatorial candidate, were aimed at Controller Houston I. Flournoy, Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger and — particularly —former Lt Gov. Robert H. Finch.

It was a general theme echoed by Republican state chairman Gordon Luce of San Diego, who urged delegates to "advise would-be candidates to step aside if polls and other evaluations show they can't win."

"Let's honestly evaluate the field," Luce said. "We've seen resources diluted and unity suffer with too many candidates in the primary."

Gubernatorial politics and the 1976 Presidential election—with guest speakers John Connally of Texas and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California potential contenders — dominated the Republican state central committee's fall convention.

Virtually every speaker mentioned the Watergate bugging scandal.

Presidential counselor Anne Armstrong told the 2,000 delegates and party faithful that President Nixon's Re-election Committee and its "Johnny come latelies" who broke into Watergate were not part of the real GOP.

"It was irresponsible political freebooting outside the two-party structure which led to Watergate," Mrs. Armstrong said.

In her prepared remarks, Mrs. Armstrong lashed out at the "few political fakes, misfits and outsiders" who caused Watergate. But she softened those tough words to "Johnny come latelies" in her actual delivery, explaining later the purpose was to emphasize that the Committee to Re-elect the President was "a separate organization" from the real Republican party.

Flournoy, Younger and Finch —who is delaying a decision about his 1974 political plans until late December—all were at the convention, hosting cocktail receptions in their suites and lobbying delegates.

But, for the most part, these party faithful were regarded as supporters of Reinecke, the Republican leader in the California Field poll released last week

Some gas stations shut down in protest

BARSTOW, Calif. (UPI) —A number of gasoline stations on Interstate Highway 15 from outside San Bernardino to Las Vegas closed down Friday evening in protest against price regulations but the majority were reported to have opened again Saturday.

Retailers attempted to get together a boycott concentrating on the Barstow, Victorville and Blythe areas but many did not join and the California Highway Patrol said Saturday that it appeared that most stations were open.

The Automobile Club of Southern California said there had been plans for a 72-hour shutdown but that it was not being observed. The club warned motorists, however, against driving on the Las Vegas-San Bernardino highway at night.

A number of operators in Barstow were attempting to serve their regular customers but turn away travellers heading from Los Angeles to Las Vegas.

Barstow police said that a number of tourists camped in their cars in service stations waiting for them to open and that a number of operators opened up briefly to get rid of them and then shut down again.

One operator said he decided not to join in a shutdown voted by members of the Service Stations Association in Barstow.

"I consulted with my lawyer and he said I didn't want to get involved because of a possible legal issue if there was a massive shutdown," he said.

"I also didn't go along with it because it's like a utility company suddenly shutting down services to get a rate increase. You don't completely demobilize people to solve a problem."

The Automobile Club said it had received word from the American Automobile Association of Arizona that there was a boycott by operators from Gallup, N.M., to Kingman, Ariz., on U.S. Highway 40.

Claremonters hurt in crash

UPLAND — Four Claremont youths were injured Friday afternoon when the car in which they were riding crashed into a railroad crossing signal standard at Mountain Avenue.

The driver, Michael S. McLean, 17, of 1959 Stowe Court, is in fair condition at San Antonio Community Hospital. Police said he apparently lost control of his car which jumped a traffic island and struck the signal.

Three other passengers Mark E. McLean, 6, of the Stowe Court address; Susan L. Holmes, 13, of 1926 Stowe Court and Kathy M. Vignoli, 14, of 162 E. Radcliffe Drive were treated for injuries at the hospital and later released

Chemical is suspect in plant illness

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) —An Ohio Health Department physician said Saturday "the finger of suspicion" points toward a cloth-dye chemical as the cause of a mysterious nerve illness that has struck at least 11 workers in the print shop of Columbus Coated Fabrics, a textile mill.

The chemical solvent, methyl butyl ketone, manufactured by the Tennessee Eastland Corp., "is the only thing we can identify that has changed in that shop in many years," said Dr. Donald J. Ballmaier, a physician in the Department's occupational hazards division.

"The finger of suspicion points at that, but we can't prove it yet," Ballmaier said.

Columbus Coated Fabrics switched to the new solvent about a year ago to replace a chemical, methyl isobutylketone, that created air pollution hazards, he said.

Since April, at least 11 print shop workers have been stricken by peripheral neuritis, a disease which can result in nerve damage in the arms and legs and general weakness. As many as 20 other cases are suspected among the 90 employes.

Aging prints trap suspect

TOKYO (UPI) — Police said they arrested an arson suspect through fingerprints left on an empty bottle five years ago. The suspect, an apprentice bartender, was on the police wanted list for 20 cases of arson reported in the Sumid Ward since 1960

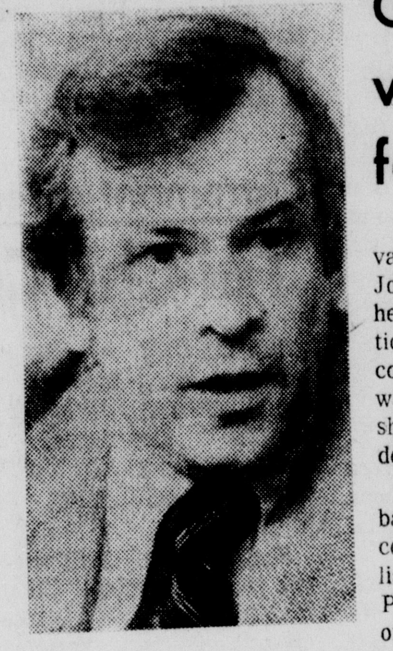
King Gustaf's condition worsens

STOCKHOLM (UPI) —King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden was in "extremely serious" condition Saturday, his physicians said.

The king was rushed to the Helsingborg Hospital three weeks ago for an emergency operation when physicians removed the lower part of his stomach. He has suffered minor internal bleedings since then and has been kept alive by a respirator since Aug. 24.

His chief physician, Dr. Gunnar Bioerck, said the 90-year-old king's heart and blood circulation had worsened since Friday.

"His condition must be described as extremely serious," the medical bulletin read by Bioerck said.



PLENTY FOR ALL — Sen. Howard Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, says there will be ample embarrassment for both Republicans and Democrats in the next phase of the Watergate hearings.

Galbraith would run for Senate

NEW YORK (UPI) —Harvard professor and economist John Kenneth Galbraith says he is not interested in a political job in 1976 but he would consider running for Sen. Edward Kennedy's Senate seat should Kennedy win the presidential nomination.

Galbraith, a former ambassador to Indian, said in a copyrighted interview published in today's issue of Parade Magazine, he thinks of himself "primarily as a writer—a man of ideas—not a political figure."

The economist said in the interview, "Every year economists intellectually condition thousands of students and much of the public through writing and pronouncements."

Prison officials ignore violence warnings--Hoffa

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Former Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa said Saturday prison officials often ignore specific warnings about riots that are about to explode within their walls

Hoffa, at a news conference before a dinner sponsored by the National Association for Justice, said officials at the Stateville Prison at Joliet, Ill., and the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City had been warned about problems that could evolve into riots.

In both cases, he said, as with prison officials in general, the warnings were ignored. Riots erupted soon after at both facilities.

Hoffa said the unresponsiveness of prison officials is a major cause of inmate discontent. "The arrogance of the warden and the captains, you would not believe," he said.

Other major problems, he said, are overcrowding, poor medical care and recreation facilities, bad food and a lack of classification among different types of prisoners.

"They're all lumped together," he said.

Too often, Hoffa said, no attention is given to these conditions until a riot occurs.

"The biggest problem we have," he said, "is getting responsible people to realize that preventing a riot is better than quelling a riot."

Hoffa said during the five years he spent at the Lewisburg, Pa., prison he witnessed rapes, murders and riots. He said in some cases guards provoke riots because they want people to see prison conditions on television

The problems are not racial, he said. "The inmates are so busy trying to combat officials at the prison they don't have time to develop a black and white situation"

A lack of change is the problem, Hoffa said. Most jails are 75 years old or more and still use antiquated methods—"rules and regulations, lock and key, bells and chimes." It's incarceration, he said, not rehabilitation.

He said many of the changes could come about by legislation, but action has been held up by congressional attention focused on Watergate.

Sunday, Sept. 9

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't discuss money matters with friends today. It's the worm that will spoil the apple.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Use persuasion without being dictatorial to get your way today. If angered, make an effort to conceal it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will have an opportunity to help someone. For a reason known only to you, you won't. Is that nice?

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're a little edgy today. Your temper has a short fuse. Relax. Take things as they come.

LEO (July 23 Aug. 22) Don't expose your ambitions in front of others. They're too involved with their interests to be a good audience.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Put your work aside for today. Relax and enjoy. Though there are tasks you want to finish, you'll do them poorly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is one of those days where you'll have to be on guard against overindulgence. Practice moderation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone is going to try to force you to make a decision. Put them off for a few days.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're going to be puttering around the house today, don't use unfamiliar tools. Beware of overexertion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a luxury item you have your eye on and would like to have. It isn't a good buy now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll enjoy yourself more if you get out of the house and do something different. Chores will irk you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You need time to yourself today. Make this a day of rest and seclusion. Re-charge for the busy week ahead.

New work or career opportunities will open for you this coming year, but don't make changes unless they're carefully investigated. Gain comes from diligence.

For Monday, September 10

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A poor opinion someone held regarding you will be reversed today. Their judgment was based upon incomplete information.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something to do with your work or career will gain attention. Praise will come from higher-up.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A social contact made today will figure in your future. Through him you'll meet someone who will have a role in coming events.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will find new strength today through a relationship you deeply value. Greater security comes through knowing you're cherished.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A situation that could have gone sour will be turned to your benefit because you employ diplomacy, instead of obstinance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's a good day to pick up the loose ends where work is concerned. At this time you are productive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct 23) Your personality has that added sparkle today. You'll notice others will be eager to please.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone you've been nice to the favor. Expect the unexin the past is going to return pected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Get in touch with friends you haven't heard from for a while. Bring them up to date on what you've been doing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 2-Jan. 19) Financial conditions should show some improvement today. Give full attention to profitable business matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something is in the mill today from which you will reap benefits. You'll learn of it now. The results won't come until later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20 Your interests are being protected by another. Let him continue to handle things. He knows what he's doing.

Strike rejected by teachers in San Bernardino

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — The majority of teachers here have voted against a strike but are holding out for more pay. A smaller teachers' group previously said it would strike but now says it won't.

The larger, 1,100-member San Bernardino Teachers Association, rejected a strike Wednesday but voted to return to the bargaining table to seek an extra 2 per cent pay hike added on to a 7.1 per cent increase previously granted.

The smaller San Bernardino Federation of Teachers voted to strike for a 6.9 per cent pay raise but a spokesman said its 130 members would now report to the classroom because the larger organization voted against a strike.

Don't wholly blame geriatric tablets

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I started giving my old terrier, Spunky, some geriatric tablets and right away she got pregnant. Do you think there was a connection? —M. W.

Dear M. W.: Absolutely. There had to be a connection . . . don't give too much credit to the geriatric tablets, however. Chronological age is less important than how one feels. Obviously, Spunk was feeling considerably younger than you thought she was.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Angie, my cat, has always had this habit of nibbling on her food rather than eating it all at once. Many times during the summer, she would be eating her food eight hours after it had been put down. This has never caused her a stomach ache or anything like that. Now my sister tells me her Blackie got poisoned because his food was out all day and spoiled before he ate it. Blackie recovered but I guess he was plenty sick at the time. Does this mean I really should be taking up old food after just a few hours and replacing it with fresh? It would be a nuisance but I would certainly do it instead of letting Angie get sick over it. — D. K.

Dear D. K.: The peak food-poisoning season is passing now; Angie ought to be able to make it from here on. Actually, as far as a good quality canned cat food is concerned, the hazard of dangerous spoilage within an eight hour period is not great. Even so, during the hot months it would be prudent to put down fresh food in the afternoon. A far greater hazard would be when the pet is fed refrigerator leftovers. Some of these may be almost spoiled by the time the poor animal gets them and they could heat up to a dangerous contamination level within a very few hours. Many of these leftovers belong in the garbage—not in your pet's dish in the first place. Any time leftovers are too old to be put back on a human table, they are too old for the pets in the family, too.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our pair of chinchillas really hate it when it gets up to 90 degrees or so but they seem perfectly comfortable at a 70-degree room temperature. Do they really have to get colder than that to be healthy? — F. G.

Dear F. G.: No, 70 degrees is ideal except for those unfortunates who are to be pelted. A more luxurious coat would be produced at lower temperatures.

Youth breaks up over cop's plight, caught

DALLAS (UPI) —When a police officer spotted a runaway boy in northwest Dallas recently he took off after him.

The boy ran through a briar patch; so did the cop, who tore his pants. The boy turned into an alley; so did the cop, and his cap blew off.

The boy ran across a field; so did the cop, and his toupee came off.

Overcome by laughter, the boy stopped and the policeman captured him.

A department spokesman said the police department will have to replace the toupee. The policeman was not identified.

Erma Bombeck

Las Vegas. . .When I was five years old, my older sister and her girl friend lured me under the back porch one afternoon and engaged me in a game of strip poker.

I learned an important lesson that day. Never engage in a game of strip poker with two hustlers (who know their numbers) while wearing only a sunsuit and a pair of briefs.

I have been overdressed ever since.

Las Vegas is not as subtle about gambling as my experience under the back porch.

I know somewhere in this city are men who carry Donald Duck thermoses to the office and fall asleep in their chairs in the evening. I know that somewhere are mothers who live in houses without room service and save green stamps and have children who play in the sprinkler, but my time was spent in the part of town that tourists see.

There was something about it that made me feel like Doris Day had come to town with the egg money. Maybe it was the strange way the cashier looked at me when I asked for a quarters worth of nickels.

All I know is, something happened to me the first time I put in a nickel, pulled the arm on the slot machine and got two nickels back.

Doris Day went bananas. Feverishly, I put in two nickels at a time so that I could raise my odds. Then I began loading the machine on my left, pulling the arm and inserting a coin in the next machine without even waiting to see if I hit anything or not.

My palms began to sweat. I refused food or drink, perched myself on a stool and went at the job of losing money with all the dedication of a guy balancing 18 twirling plates on bamboo poles.

Numb with excitement, I didn't notice my husband at my elbow. "How are you doing?" he asked quietly.

"Doris Day is down to her last freckle," I said sadly.

"I've got the luggage," he said. "Don't you think we ought to get out of the airport and into town?"

"I'll call the kids and tell them we got here," I said.

Inserting two nickels in the phone I gave the operator the number. Then I heard it. . .that magic tinkle-tinkle of two coins being returned.

"I won!" I shouted, jumping to my feet. I stood up too soon. A man took my place and began inserting nickels into the telephone.

It's that kind of a town.

Giant Rio bridge nears completion

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — After ten years and $250 million, the longest continuous box and plate girder bridge in the world is nearing completion in Brazil.

Linking Rio with Niteroi across Guanabara Bay, the massive 8.8 mile long concrete and steel structure is scheduled to be opened to traffic by the middle of next January.

Long the brunt of jokes because of delays and cost overruns, the bridge took ten years of planning. Construction began in December 1968, and 10,000 workers currently toil day and night to finish it.

When completed, the structure will have six lanes for traffic and a total length of 46,932 feet, according to Transportation Ministry figures.

Officially named the Costa e Silva Bridge (after the late President Artur Costa e Silva), the structure is expected to carry an average of 15,000 vehicles daily between the two cities in 1974.

The 958-foot-long central span —constructed entirely of steel— will be the longest of its type in the world, surpassing the 856-foot span of the more than 196 feet above the Sava I bridge in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

The center span will be more than 196 feet above the surface of the bay, permitting the largest ships to navigate under it.

Total weight of the structure when finished will be equal to the weight of 800 ten-story buildings. The 150 million sacks of cement poured into the structure would circle the globe one and one half times, according to the figures.

Spain's Costa del Sol is inviting foreign retreat

By DONALD W. REYNOLDS

MARBELLA, Spain — When was the last time you heard a rooster crow just before down—particularly from the 16th floor of a modern air conditioned hotel?

The incident is typical here on the Costa del Sol in Spain. The builder and developer has moved in before the farmer has had a chance to gather his flock and head for a vanishing rural area.

Just 20 years ago this Sun Coast on the Spanish shores of the Mediterranean was a string of fishing villages. Then the tourists, attracted by the sun and cheap prices, started coming. Today it is no longer cheap, but remains a favorite sunshine playground and attracts more than two million tourists a year from all over the world.

August is the hottest month during the days but the evenings are cooled by sea breezes making the nights comfortable. The 85 miles, extending on both sides of the city of Malaga from Almeria in the east of Algeciras in the west has seen the most spectacular development.

It is a land of contracts. Of fishermen pulling their boats onto the sand and mending their nets in the shade of skyscraper hotels. Of mule trains loaded with sugar cane jogging along the busy four-lane highway. And just a few kilometers inland from any of the modern resorts along the coast will bring you to villages with narrow cobbled streets, whitewashed houses with wrought iron balconies where at dusk the villagers ride in from the fields on donkeys.

It has been called a picture post card world that really exists.

It has been almost fiteen years since I first visited Malaga. An acute arthritic attack caused the specialists at the Americal hospital in Paris to advise a pleasant, warm, sunny climate in which to recuperate. Malaga appeared to be the ideal answer—an was. In those days the old Miramar Palace Hotel was on the beach and a suite with a balcony overlooking the sea was $8 per day, including three meals. A horse-drawn carriage clip clopped along the three-mile drive the the main fountain near the cathedral square. The charge was 25 cents and a 10 cent tip sent the driver into ecestasies. Now what appears to be the same carriage will make the same trip, with an additional 10 minutes spent in the park for 200 pesetas. That's a bit over $4 — and a tip of less than another dollar identifies you as a "cheap American." But, let's face it, the $3 half-hour trip through Central Park in New York is now ten bucks — and you take your life in your hands if you make it after dark without an armed escort.

Spain has never really been a nation of beachgoers. The Spanish tend to regard the sun as something to keep well out of which probably accounts for all the shutters and galleries that enclose most native homes. While coach loads of foreign tourists fight over bits of beach-space in the noon day sun, the smart Spaniards is far more likely to be sitting calmly in the shade sipping his sangria or coffee. That's why you will hear as much German, French and English along the beach as you do Spanish. Not being a linguist, I'll probably never know what is going on—but it is a restful pleasure to join the natives in the share-an ideal spot for the "Manana" existence.

Victim's steaks so good, they returned

DANVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Thieves just couldn't resist another crack at the freezer in the home of H.E. Tillman.

Police said recently that burglars took two New York cut steaks in one breakin. Several days later, investigators said, they returned to take a pound of round steak and a pound of ground round.

Expo '74 runs into another financial rut

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74's financial woes have worsened with the announcement by the Economic Development Administration that the city's application for a $3.8 million grant would be denied.

The money was to go directly into the world's fair treasury, which for several weeks has been operating under what Expo President King Cole termed "an extremely serious" cash-flow problem.

Expo Board Chairman Roderick Londsay said the world's fair now would turn to the community and businessmen for the money.

Remapping plan shifts power to valley

New Assembly, state Senate, Congress zones unite most of area for swing vote

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Pomona and the West End of San Bernardino County can expect a greater degree of home rule if the State Supreme Court adopts the redistricting plan proposed by its special masters panel.

The remapping would unite a heretofore politically fragmented area into Assembly District 65, and leave it without an incumbent.

It would also give the area a stronger voice in the election of a state senator and a congressional representative.

Under the new plan, the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino—which have tightly knit economic ties and account for better than two-thirds of the populace in the Pomona Valley—would compose the 65th district.

4 representatives

These cities are presently represented, depending on district lines, by four assemblymen, none of whom reside within the boundaries of the proposed district.

And it is unlikely that any of the four legislators would change their residences to compete for a seat in the new district since Pomona and the West End communities represent only a small portion of their present districts.

Pomona is now represented by Bill Lancaster, R-49th Dist., and Joseph Montoya, D-50th Dist.; Ontario, Montclair and Chino by John Briggs, R-35th Dist.; and Upland by John Quimby, D-72nd Dist.

The 65th District would be combined with the 66th, which is entirely within San Bernardino County and consists of the communities of Colton, Fontana and Rialto, and a major portion of the city of San Bernardino, to form the 32nd Senate District.

The present senatorial set-up has Pomona in the 35th District under James Whetmore, while the West End is in 20th District represented by William Coombs.

Coombs undecided

Coombs, from Rialto, would be the incumbent in the proposed 32nd District, but he is not sure if he will run for re-election.

"I really don't know if I'm going to run the next time," Coombs said Friday. "This is a constant question, and it has been triggered again by reapportionment. A decision will be made next January or February when we have to file."

He acknowledged rumors persist that he will not seek re-election, but he added, "There have been rumors ever since I came here (Sacramento). It's possible one of the rumors could jell today. But for now a decision has not been made."

Although the major part of the Pomona Valley is united by the new plan, a small part of it would be included in yet two other Assembly and Senate districts.

The foothill communities of Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas would be placed in the 62nd Assembly District and the 25th Senate District, while the Walnut-Diamond Bar area would fall in the 64th Assembly District and 33rd Senate District. The 62nd District includes the cities of Glendora, Covina and West Covina in addition to the three Valley communities.

San Diman pleased

"The new plan keeps community identity," San Dimas Mayor Tom Nuss said. "The cities in our Assembly district have the same interests, and we are glad that we will be able to keep Bill Lancaster as our assemblyman." Lancaster would be the incumbent in the 62nd.

The 64th is an elongated district which is centered around Whittier and La Mirada on the south side of a range of hills and Hacienda Heights and Diamond Bar on the north side.

However, the entire Pomona Valley, with the exception of the Diamond Bar and Walnut area, will form the center of the 35th Congressional District. To obtain the necessary population, Covina and West Covina are included in the district, as well as the sparsely populated parts of the San Gabriel Mountains just north of the populated areas.

As in the Assembly, the Pomona Valley is badly split in the present Congressional districts. Representatives Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., George Brown, D-38th Dist., and Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., all lay claim to some part of the Valley.

But under the new plan, only Wiggins might be considered as a possible contender. Wiggins' home is in Covina, and his present district has been carved up by the masters panel.

Wiggins unhappy

The congressman has voiced his displeasure with the realignment of the congressional districts, especially the 25th. He called the plan "a disservice to the people in my district," and said it "lacks common sense."

65th ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

The 65th Assembly District proposed by a special masters panel consists of the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and Upland, together with adjacent unincorporated areas in San Bernardino County. The foothill communities of Claremont, La Verne, and San Dimas will be represented in the 62nd Assembly District, while the Diamond Bar and Walnut area will be included in the 64th Assembly District.

Finance company's wary when couple is separated

My husband and I are separated. During the last six months we have paid our bills on time and things are better now financially than before.

My car is falling apart and my husband's car broke down. We decided to get a better auto. My husband would and could easily make a $75 payment each month.

But as soon as the loan companies find out that we don't live together, they won't finance a car purchase for us. Why must a married couple live together in order to finance anything? — P. M., Chino

We picked a loan company at random, asked the above question and received the answer we expected.

Loan companies are likely to suspect that when a couple separates, legal action is imminent. That means court expenses to be paid by the couple.

Under the California community property law, both the husband and wife must sign for the loan. A legal hassle might delay for a while the determination of which marriage partner is to take over what debts.

Under those circumstances, loan companies have found, many people don't pay their bills.

For over a month now, I have been trying to obtain a copy of the Nightly News Theme by Del Kacher. This is the theme used at the end of the KNBC Newservice.

I have purchased a version of that song through Wallichs Music City in West Covina entitled Nightly News Parts 1 and 2 on a Verve Records label. However, this is not the version that I want and have heard on K100-FM in Los Angeles. K100 was only able to tell me that the version I want is on an AMI records label.

My inquiries to KNBC have gone unanswered. Would you please assist me in obtaining a copy of this recording by finding a way I may order it? — P. B., Claremont.

We wrote to K100. We reecived a prompt answer and on the same day you received the record itself from the station. Ann Van Bebber, music director, bought the record at Wallichs Music City in Hollywood and mailed it to you.

Our dividend was a thank-you letter from you.

For the last two years, since August 1971, we have paid our rent faithfully on time. Never, not once, have we been late.

We have lived here quietly, except for baby cries which our manager complains about, and have not bothered anyone.

Our manager has served us an eviction order. We can see no reason for this. The manager's husband had words with my husband when he almost hit our car and that is when we were served the eviction notice.

Is it possible to get evicted when you have kept your rent and lived quietly in an apartment? — Mrs. L. M., Montclair.

Generally speaking, the landlord has the right to evict you as long as he follows the correct procedure according to California law, says Steve Nelvin, directing attorney of the Pomona Legal Aid Office.

An excpetion would be an eviction on the basis of race or creed. This is illegal.

You say that after writing to Action Line, you decided to leave the apartment regardless of legal rights rather than face a continuation of problems.

You have located a place which is more family-oriented.

Increase in school milk fees sought

POMONA — An increase in school milk prices will be asked at the Pomona school board meeting Tuesday night.

Increases are necessary, educators say, because the federal government has not provided funds to continue the school milk subsidy.

Children will pay 10 cents for a half pint and 15 cents for a third of a quart of milk, if the increase is approved by the board.

Last year milk cost 6 cents for a half-pint and 7 cents for the one-third quart.

It is anticipated that a new principal will be named at Lorbeer Junior High School.

And the board, in addition to accepting summer school and physical fitness testing reports, will be asked to approve attendance of board members and the superintendent at a meeting Sept. 26 at the East San Gabriel Valley Area Trustees Association in West Covina, at which state school Supt. Wilson Riles will speak.

New coordinator named for anti-abortion group

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Everette Seymour, mother of four and an active church worker, has been named coordinator of the Pomona Valley-West End Lifeline of the Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization.

She succeeds Mrs. Charles Heatherly who was active in establishing the Lifeline, a telephone counseling service to women seeking alternatives to abortion. Mrs. Heatherly is moving from the area.

Mrs. Paul Vadnais of Upland has been appointed league statistician.

"We are averaging two to three calls a day on the Lifeline," said Mrs. Seymour. "Most are from girls seeking alternatives to abortions. Some are from people seeking information and some are people who call to say they agree with the league's pro-life views."

Mrs. Seymour said a second training session for telephone counselors would be held in October. Volunteers interested in assisting may contact Mrs. Seymour by calling 624-9273.

Volunteers must attend five meetings conducted by social workers familiar with Lifeline procedures. Following training, they are asked to serve one 12-hour shift in their homes every two weeks and take calls anonymously.

The Lifeline telephone number is 985-0205. It is the ninth operated by a chapter of the Right to Life League of Southern California.

League members sell Circle of Life bracelets to defray costs of operating the Lifeline. Cost is $3.25. They may be ordered by writing Right to Life League, Box 651, Upland 91786.

West End Demo Club will meet

UPLAND — The West End Democratic Club will hold its monthly meeting Monday at the Upland Inn, beginning with a no-host cocktail hour at 7 p.m.

A forum on the expansion of the Ontario International Airport will highlight the meeting. Participants will include Jim Lloyd, West Covina mayor; Harold Hayes, Montclair mayor; and Adrian Meewis, an Ontario resident. Dr. Grandville Henry, professor of mathematics at Claremont Men's College, will serve as moderator.

Club president George Morris also announced that the WEDC's headquarters has been moved to 304 W. G St., Ontario. There will be a grand opening Sept. 23, and the event will be attended by Congressman George Brown, D-38th Dist., and Assemblyman John Quimby, D-72nd Dist.

Maximum security site?

Decision nearing on fate of Camp Glen Rockey

By LENORE WALLACE
.P-B StaffWriter

SAN DIMAS — The issue of whether Camp Glen Rockey will change its present concept and be turned into a maximum security prison may be settled Tuesday when Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum returns from vacation.

Bill Gilson, press representative for Schabarum, said because of the controversy surrounding the erection of a 14-foot wall at Camp Glen Rockey in the San Dimas foothills, the supervisor has assigned four county departments to prepare a report and recommendation on the matter.

Gilson said the reports from the probation department, the office of the chief administrative officer, the fire department and the county superintendent of schools will be presented to Schabarum Tuesday when he returns from a backpacking trip in the Sierras.

Fire protection assured

The press representative said the only advance knowledge he had of the report is that it does guarantee the county will have no lessening of the number of persons assigned to fire prevention and fire protection.

This statement comes after the Los Angeles County Watershed Commission last week voted unanimously to oppose a maximum security use of the camp and further urged the county not to discontinue the use of the boys in the camp for fire prevention and protection in the foothill areas.

San Dimas City Councilman D. F. Hooper, the city's representative on the commission, was asked by fellow members to give the city's viewpoint in the controversy at last week's meeting.

Hooper, who retired from the fire department after 34 years of service, said he told the commission that nearby residents of the camp don't want the wall erected and that the city had taken a stand against it.

Forestry goal

"People don't want the camp changed to a maximum security facility. It was first located there many years ago by the forestry, and boys from the camp were always available for watershed protection."

Hooper said the boys won't be available if the concept of the camp is changed.

Hooper said the commission also took the position that if the county goes ahead and erects the wall, a paid camp of firefighters be put in the area. He said similar camps are located in Malibu and Oak Grove Park. He said young men work fulltime and alternate days that they live at the camp to provide fire protection service at all times.

He said it would be a "great loss" if the boys at Camp Glen Rockey can no longer be used. He said the young crews clear firebreak trails, land adjacent to roadways and the motorways that are closed to the public but are used by firefighting equipment in an emergency.

Values cited

The city councilman said he, as a veteran of the county fire department, knows the value of these camp crews. He said it is also good for the young men, 16 to 18, to do something useful. "It often makes men of them."

In May, the La Venre City Council and the Glendora City Council both took stands supporting San Dimas' opposition to the erection of the wall.

State Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-19th Dist., and Assemblyman Bill Lancaster R-49th Dist. have both stated that they disapprove of the county plans to change the concept of the camp.

San Dimas City Manager Robert Poff said that the city has requested that a meeting be held with Schabarum to discuss Camp Glen Rockey but the date for the meeting is pending.

New dorm planned

The camp is located at 1900 N. Sycamore Canyon Road and presently has a dormitory capacity for 95 boys. The county wants to construct a dormitory that will house 20 boys in individual rooms. The rooms would be used to isolate problem boys and to ease any possible racial problems.

Robert Ballentine, assistant fire chief for the county, has stated the county will no longer be able to conduct its present rehabilitation program for youths at the camp.

He said the camp would not be able to handle the undisciplined and aggressive youths that will be sent there. Runaways from other area camps will be sent to San Dimas because of the maximum security installations.

The camp has been in operation for the past 30 years. The fire department works with boys during daytime hours and turns the youths over to the probation department in the evening.

The young men receive 80 hours of training. Parents of the young boys give their consent for them to participate in the watershed fire protection and fire prevention activities.

They have not been used on actual fire lines since 1968 when seven teenage boys died while fighting a major fire in the San Gabriel Mountains in Fish Canyon.

The boys were from the county probation camp in Saugus. The crew's foreman also died in the blaze. Three other young men received serious burns.

Studies of actual spending needed

The most disturbing feature of government today is that the Congress has no way of effectively checking on the quarter trillion dollars the federal departments and bureaus spend each year.

Today, for example, no one in Congress knows for certain whether we are spending too much money for defense or too little, and whether what is being spent is used most effectively.

The same goes for the $80 billion a year for Health, Education and Welfare and the millions spent by the Veterans Administration, by Agriculture, by the Agency for International Development, by Interior, by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — and so on down the line.

Talk to a congressional staffer and he moans, "The Pentagon tells us they need so much equipment for so many squadrons. But we have no way of knowing whether they need the units, whether this is the right equipment, or whether we should hold off for a while until some new research pans out."

Congress does not have the staff to adequately study even the major multibillion-dollar proposals which come before it to determine whether they are needed, adequately planned and free of fat. Or whether other programs aimed at the same objectives would be more effective, or cost less to achieve the same ends.

The Library of Congress research service and the General Accounting Office perform some of these functions. But they are so understaffed they can only pick at the surface. The GAO does its work, in the main, on programs already in effect. Its investigations normally do not include proposals. Yet it is obvious that the time to halt wasteful, ineffective programs is before they start.

The hearings Congress holds on the spending proposals of the various departments are often ludicrous. Senators and congressmen, lacking informations, frequently don't know what questions to ask. They are snowed by diagrams, charts, figures and lengthy statements of justification and objectives.

Independent institutions, such as Brookings, have attempted to fill the gap in some instances, making suggestions of what could be cut or changed, if Congress had a mind to. Though there are some exceptions, these studies too are usually somewhat thinly manned. Too often they are heavy with a variety of opinions, ot hard facts. Intricate formulas, erudite statements and a variety of figures are imperative — but quite often hide a paucity of real information.

The government departments and bureaus have staffs of tens of thousands to call on up and down the line in preparing their proposals, and millions to spend in studies by private think tanks.

Congress needs equivalent resources. A larger number of research assistants for one. And the House and Senate must on a regular basis let major contracts out to research groups independent of government for thorough studies of spending proposals and investigations into the results of major programs after they've been in effect for a year or two.

We are of course talking about more than a waste of money, important as that is. We are speaking about whether the objectives we have set for our government are being met.

Warning to big spenders

The people of the United States are beginning to learn that creeping inflation is but the prelude to galloping inflation and that government spending beyond income is the forerunner of rising prices and devalued dollars. A nationwide, independent survey sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation and involving 1,123 personal interviews in 24 metropolitan areas and 11 nonmetro counties reveals that 86 per cent of the people favor cutting government spending to combat rising food prices. If the findings of the survey mean anything at all, politicians are going to find it increasingly difficult to spend and spend without regard to the taxpayer's ability to pay. As the consequences of their acts are felt in terms of more inflation, they are likely to find it harder to pass along the blame to businesses, industries, retailers, farmers and workers for what happens to prices.

No matter how many billions are poured into social programs to buy votes, their effect will be crushed along with the hopes of beneficiaries by the roaring express train of inflation. In the end, the groups of people that free-spending politicians have counted on the most to keep them in office will become the most venomous in demanding retribution.

Thought for today

But we exhort you, brethren, to do so more and more, to aspire to live quietly, to mind your own affairs, and to work with your hands, as we charged you; so that you may command the respect of outsiders, and be dependent on nobody. — I Thess.4:10, 11, 12.

Undermining minority programs

WASHINGTON — The federal government's $2.17 million program to help black businessmen is being administered by political proteges of the Senate's diehard segregationist, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The cantankerous Thurmond has been able to place two cronies and one in-law over the Small Business Administration's minority business development office, causing outraged howls from blacks and other minorities who seek help from the SBA.

The Thurmond Three are: — John Patrick, the acting director of the program. He is a retired Air Force colonel from South Carolina and is a longtime family friend of Thurmond.

Overall boss

— Marshall Parker, a former state senator in South Carolina, who jumped to the GOP with Thurmond in 1964. Twice he has run against South Carolina's Democratic Sen. Ernest Hollings, with Thurmond's backing. Parker is overall boss of the SBA's minorities programs.

— Horace Crouch, an in-law of Thurmond. His late sister was Thurmond's first wife. Crouch is Parker's top aide.

Since the first of the year, the Thurmond Three have tried to reduce federal food service contracts which had been going to minority businessmen and have otherwise undermined the minority programs, according to SBA insiders and black businessmen.

So restrictive were some of the new guidelines that SBA Administrator Tom Kleppe had to step in and ease them. Despite Kleppe's intervention, however, Parker and Patrick have cut back the increase in funding of black and other minority enterprises to a mere $33 million this year, compared with an increase of $195 million between 1970 and 1973.

One black on job

The Thurmond mystique has even extended into the SBA minority division's offices. There is only one professional black employed in the section supposed to assist blacks and he was hired before Parker took command three years ago.

Both Kleppe and Parker insist that the Thurmond Three's tenure has not hurt the program. Kleppe, however, confided that having Thurmond's men in charge of a minority division does not look good and said a black soon will be appointed to take over Patrick's job.

FOOTNOTE: Although Parker has cut back program in increases for minorities, he spares no expense when it comes time to fund conferences on other SBA programs. He vetoed a less expensive conference site recently in favor of the lush, plush Greenbriar in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

NIXON TOY SOLDIERS: President Nixon is determined to emulate the crowned heads of Europe by providing himself with resplendent palace guards attired in uniforms of days gone by.

Some time ago, awed by the pomp and circumstance of police he saw on a European trip, he tried to bedeck the White House police in costumes out of a turn-of-the-century operetta company.

The public laughed him out of the idea. But now the Army is reviving the Nixon dream by spending $70,000 to festoon the 72 men of a nearby military unit in Revolutionary war garb. They will be the President's official escort for galas at the White House.

The idea for reincarnating George Washington's "Lifeguard Company" was hatched by Maj. Gen. James Adamson, commander of the Washington, D.C., Military District. The "Lifeguarders" were formed in 1776 and Army historians have carefully researched the old unit to make sure President Nixon sees exactly what President Washington saw.

Indians remain poorest minority

The Supreme Court of the United States is deciding whether federal welfare benefits should be extended to all American Indians.

As it is, they receive such benefits only if they stay on their reservations. The Snyder Act of 1921 promises benefits to Indians "throughout the United States."

But as it is, if they leave a reservation to accept productive employment elsewhere to assimilate themselves into society and industry, then are out of work for any reason — they are denied welfare benefits which are available to others.

We can learn much about the Administration and end results of government welfare from the American Indians because in 140 years we have done almost nothing right.

Americans have become addicted to government handouts of one sort or another only because politicians bought votes with promissory notes.

Today, the politicians are prisoners of all those IOUs.

With national elections decided by a few hundred thousand votes, what national leader would dare turn his back on a solid bloc of 15 million welfare recipients and their families?

Let's learn from our own Indians. After 140 years of government efforts to improve them economically and socially, most are worse off now than then.

The Bureau of the Census is forced to concur in this ominous diagnosis. The Indians — cared for as wards of our government for 140 years — remain the "poorest minority in our nation."

The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights agrees: "Indians are worse off than all other Americans."

The government's Bureau of Indian Affairs has tried. There are almost as many bureaucrats as Indians trying to improve the lot of those first Americans.

There are fewer than a half-million native Indians. Next year's funding for Indian programs totals $1.2 billion. That's $2,400 per Indian per year. Yet they remain last in employment, in productivity, in income, in housing and in health.

Education has not been the answer: 95% of all Indian children between 7 and 13 attend school. Indian enrollment in colleges — while low — has doubled in 10 years.

Despite the example of the enterprising few who do not lean on government, most do. Following each reorganization of the Bureau of Indian Affairs — and you've seen it reorganized a lot of times in the past 30 years — there is genuine, conscientious effort to reshape policies. They've tried giving the American Indian everything except incentive.

So 488,000 American Indians — like 15 million other Americans — find welfare beats working. You work, you pay taxes. You loaf, you get paid off in tax-free dollars. Their choice is not their fault; it's ours.

Gossip for today

Once again it would seem the time has come to update some of the old time maxims. Let's start with one that today should go:

WATERGATE, WATERGATE EVERYWHERE IT'S DRIVING ME TO DRINK!

And of course, in the case of the American motoring public, another old timer should be revised to read:

NEVER QUIT DOING TODAY WHAT YOU CAN PUT OFF QUITTING DOING UNTIL TOMORROW!

One of the many motorists I questioned, clearly and concisely summed up the general public's atti- just as long as tude in this fashion: "I'll keep going I can buy gasoline and THEN I'll start worrying."

But it is heartening to note that in spite of this permissive age we are slowly but surely getting back to some of the ancient truths and verities. — Not all the way, mind you! that would be asking too much. But since Watergate a lot of folks are definitely becoming much more willing to release the beliefs and convictions and at least admit that:

ONCE YOU GET CAUGHT, HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY.

Middle East holds key to oil supply

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — America's energy crisis is as much a concern to the free world countries as it is to us. How we settle our problems will, to a large degree, decide how the rest of the free world must work to do the same.

According to a just-released report prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the free world is rapidly running into two problems of energy resource dependency . . .

. . . mounting dependency on oil, a limited resource, and . . .

. . . specific dependency on Middle East oil.

The report says the next 5-to-10-years will be difficult for major oil consuming nations dealing with the Middle East, and there is little that can be done about it.

For the present and immediate future there is no alternative to free world consumption of Middle East oil. Foreign officials reached that consensus, but it does not particularly worry them.

European and other countries have for years imported as much as 80 per cent of their petroleum needs from the Middle East.

U.S. may create shortages

They feel their historical trade relations will help smooth future negotiations with the Middle East oil-producing countries. But they fear the U.S., unused to short supply and the world's gargantuan user of petroleum, will somehow bungle the works in that volatile area and create serious supply shortages for everyone.

Europeans note that Arab countries have threatened to limit production or cut it off altogether unless certain foreign policies are changed, e.g., the U.S. position on Israel.

Radical elements have already gained control of two major producers, Libya and Iraq. Both have stated that oil and oil sales revenues should be used as political weapons.

We have already received a political shot from Libya. A doubled price for oil and refusal to accept American dollars, announced earlier this past week, are sharp jabs to remind us that Libya is prepared to play the political game to the hilt.

The rest of the free world would like to see a union of interests among oil-consuming countries. The Middle East already has such a union, made up of countries that control 85 per cent of all oil available for export to the free world.

Oil reserves conserved

The Middle East union has been able to deter price competition among members; increase profits; conserve oil reserves for future production; and gain "participation" arrangements with oil companies.

Perhaps most significant, the union has been able to undermine outside control of oil production in member countries.

Foreign officials feels without a counterpart consortium, consumer countries will attempt to outbid each other for oil. The obvious result would be ever increasing prices.

For any of these plans to succeed, foreign officials say U.S. support is essential. They say the U.S is the only country rich enough to go it alone and develop other energy sources.

They fear Middle East economic and political pressure will cause the U.S. to retaliate in some way, thus upsetting the apple cart for all.

And, if the U.S. fails to respond, European countries are ready to develop their own special ties with the oil rich Arab countries.

Proposal shifts more power to valley

A spokesman for Wiggins said the congressman has not reached a decision as to what his plans will be, but that he is "going on the assumption that the reapportionment plan will be final."

Brown, whose present district includes south Pomona, south Ontario, Chino and Montclair, would be the incumbent in the 36th District. The valley cities would be eliminated from his new district, but he would pick up the city of Riverside and the bulk of San Bernardino.

He has already voiced his approval of the plan, and has remarked that he would not be unhappy with losing Chino, Montclair and Ontario where he did poorly in last year's general election.

Pettis, meanwhile, would be the incumbent congressman in the 37th District, which would contain the outer suburban, rural mountain and desert areas of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties.

Of course, all of this hinges on whether the State Supreme Court accepts the advice of its specially appointed masters, who are three retired judges.

Hearings slated

The Supreme Court will hold public hearings on the reapportionment plan, and some changes could result before a final decision is reached.

Meanwhile, some city and county legislators in the area who foster hopes of high office are taking a close look at the proposed plan.

Most of them have adopted a wait-and-see attitude, but it appears that one man, Ontario Mayor Howard Snider, will definitely seek higher office.

Snider had been reported as saying that he would run for a higher position, and a source close to him confirmed the report Friday. However, the source would not elaborate about the mayor's plans.

Snider, who spent most of the week in Washington and is now attending the Republican state convention in San Diego, was defeated by Brown in the 38th District general elections last year.

Among the other possible candidates from the West End are San Bernardino County Supervisors Ruben Ayala and Daniel Mikesell, and Montclair Mayor Harold Hayes.

Ayala, Mikesall undecided

Both Ayala and Mikesell said Friday they are still undecided about running for higher office.

But Mikesell also said that he would not be interested in either an Assembly or Congressional seat, but "that under certain circumstances I would be interested in the state Senate." He indicated he "would make a decision in about 10 to 15 days" about whether to run for a senate post.

Said Ayala, "I seldom run into a politician who doesn't think about running for a higher government office." He noted that voter registration in the 32nd Senate District and the 65th Assembly District would favor the Democrats.

Ayala is a Democrat and Mikesell a Republican.

Hayes is in Northern California attending an insurance seminar and could not be reached for comment.

In Pomona, Mayor Ray Lepire emphatically stated that he is not interested in "any office above the mayor's position," but former mayor Richard Brownell says he s keeping his options open.

"I have learned through years as a public official to keep my options open," Brownell said earlier this week. "What if no one is qualified to run and I let it go by default?"

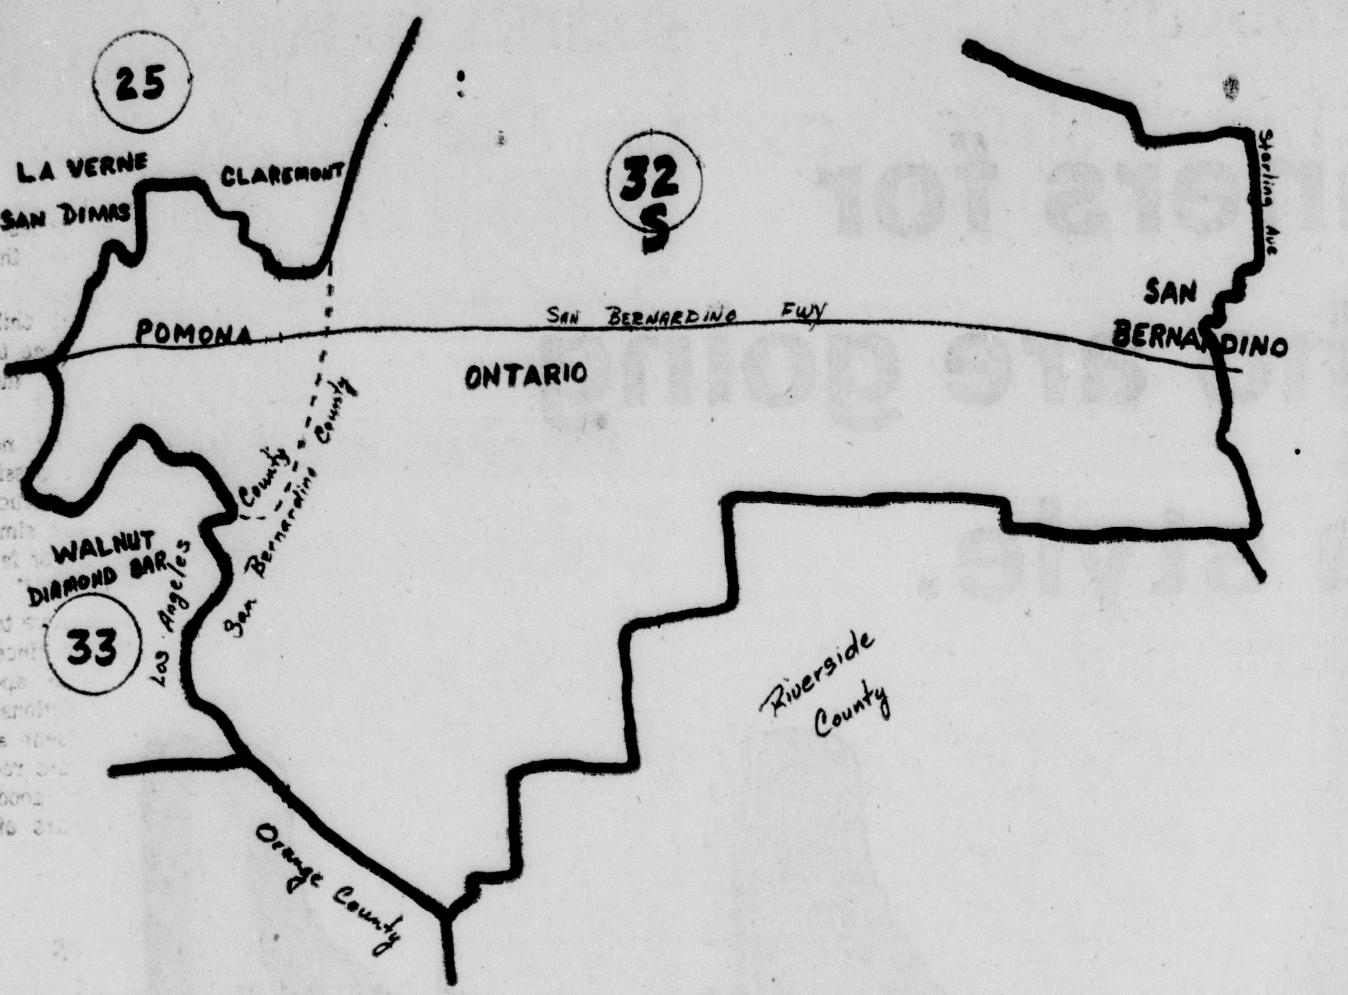
Also being mentioned as a possible candidate for the Assembly is Charles Bader, a Pomona councilman.

19 complete Chino health aide course

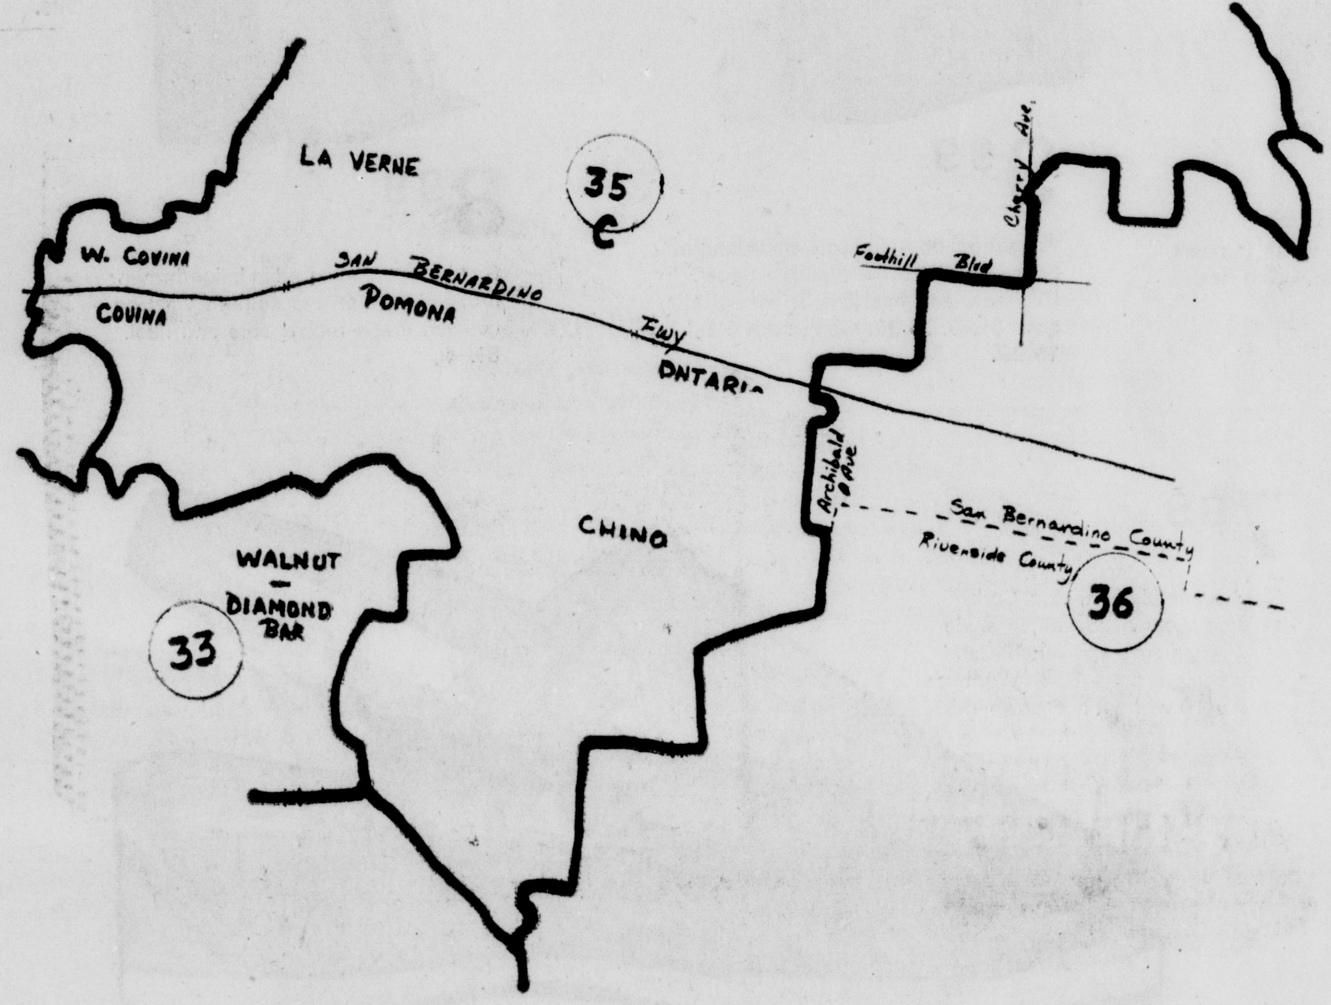
CHINO — Nineteen persons earned the home health aide certificate in graduation ceremonies held recently at Chino High School.

They were Bessie Alexander, Kathleen Borges, Suzie Carpentier, Mary Ann Castro, Louise Farnsworth, Florann Finn, Rosie Lobo, Lillie Louis, Doris Matteson, Mikell McIlrath, Rick McIlrath, Patricia Mendez, Karen Rodgers, Bessie Lenora Schreiner, Bessie May Schreiner, Charleen Souza, Beverly Vichkon, Linda Vichkon and Tomothy Vichkon.

Tomothy Vichkon also recieved the district certificate for nursing assistant.



32ND SENATE DISTRICT—This district is composed of the 65th and 66th Assembly Districts. Except for Pomona, the district is entirely in San Bernardino County, and includes most of the city of San Bernardino. The foothill communities of Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas will be a part of the 25th Senate District, which contains the northern and eastern portions of the San Gabriel Valley. Diamond Bar-Walnut will be in the 33rd Senate District, which encompasses the cities of Downey, Norwalk and Whittier. The Pomona Freeway serves as the northern boundary for most of the district.



35TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT—This district includes all of the Pomona Valley, with the exception of the Diamond Bar and Walnut area, Covina and West Covina. The sparsely populated part of the San Gabriel Mountains just north of the populated areas of the district is also included. Diamond Bar-Walnut is in the 33rd Congressional District. Hearings will be held soon on the proposal.

'Hobby' castle

Last haven of peace, quiet

By EMIL SVEILIS

VILA NOVA DE MILFONTES, Portugal (UPI) —There is an old saying that a man's home is his castle, whether it be a rundown shack or a split level in the suburbs. But for Dom Luiz De Castro E'Almeida its the real thing he picked up for a nifty price 34 years ago.

It is also, according to one recent guest, the writer, the last peace and quiet in the world, about 100 miles south of Lisbon.

Dom Luiz, 76, is the owner of Milfontes Castle, a fortress dating back to the Carthaginian era and rebuilt by the Moors to guard the mouth of the Mira River from enemies approaching by the Atlantic.

Like so many castle owners these days, Dom Luiz soon found that he could not maintain the accustomed grand style with his resource, so at the urging of the American Ambassador to Portugal, he decided to take in paying guests to help with the castle's expensive upkeep.

"People used to come as friends and I did not have enough to support them in those days," Dom Luiz said in an interview. "This was 11 years ago when we came to live here.

No night life

"Then years ago, then Ambassador George Anderson suggested that I take in paying guests. I told him it was ridiculous because no one would come here. I can give them nothing—no night life—to which he said you have got the last peace and quiet in the world."

Dom Luiz said Anderson sent him his first two paying guests soon afterwards and they have been coming ever since— sometimes booking up to six months in advance to get one of the seven rooms that are for rent.

One thing Dom Luiz does not like to be called is a "hotelier."

"I consider myself as the owner of the house," he said. "If I don't like the guests, I don't receive them." Dom Luiz even keeps a blacklist of unwanted guests "who will never come back."

Dom Luiz's guests live in grand style. His rooms for let— all doubles—are superbly furnished with antiques, including canopied beds. Full room and board costs approximately $25 a day for a couple.

Super view

Not bad, considering that a North American highway motel will charge $25 just for the room alone for two people, never mind the tastefully prepared three meals a day, or the superb view of the Mira River and the Atlantic.

And where else could you get a three-mile long private beach thrown into the package?

A son of well to do Portuguese parents, Dom Luiz attended finishing school in Switzerland, had a brief diplomatic career in the Portuguese foreign service, tried his hand at journalism by attempting to interview Lenin and Trotsky during the Third International, and then worked for a shipping firm in Lisbon "ending up in Sao Tome where I nearly died of malaria."

"Since I was a boy in school, the name of the village, Vila Nova de Milfontes, attracted me," Dom Luiz said. "I came here the first time in 1939 and 24 hours later I had bought the castle for 100 pounds (at that time about $350).

"The castle had absolutely nothing. It was a ruin. The government sold it at auction in 1906 and it was bought by an army officer. After that it was sold to three different people until I purchased it from the then-owner.

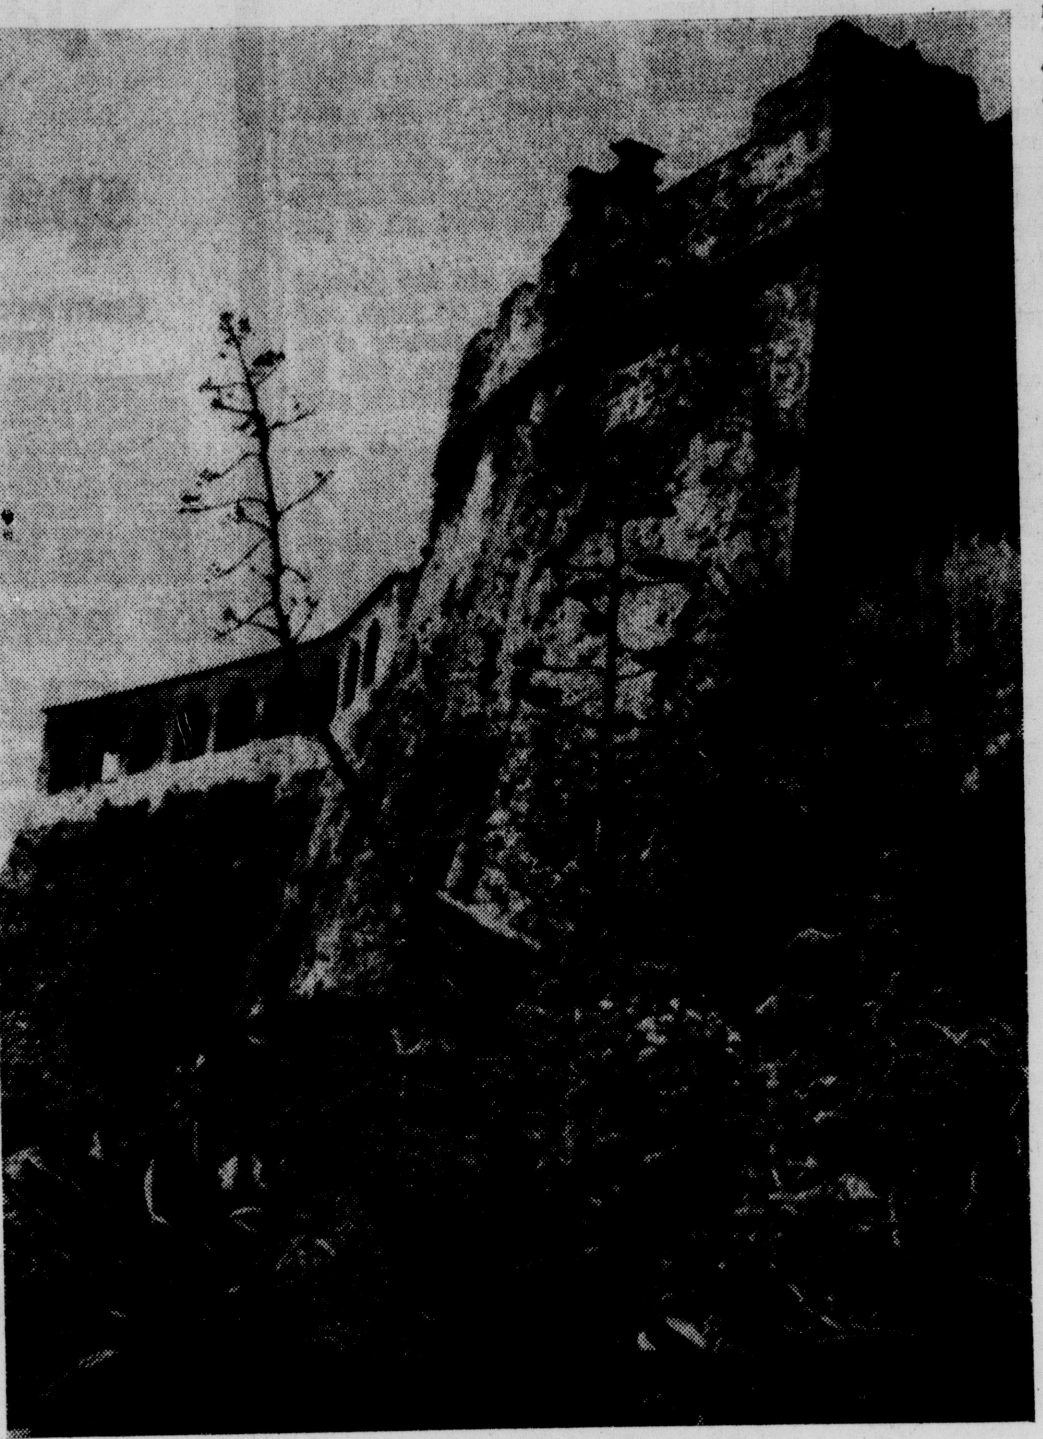
Worth $500,000

"When I bought it, I immediately started remodeling. The local villagers thought I was mad in doing this, but I eventually got the job done."

Dom Luiz said Milfontes Castle is now probably worth about $500,000. "All the furniture in the castle was inherited, except that which I had made. Plus, if you bought it as it is, you would get 140 pounds of sterling silver alone," he said.

For Dom Luiz, being the owner of a castle is more or less a hobby. "I live off of it, but I still owe to the banks. I am happy in what I am doing, because I love people."

But he said, "I don't think I will end my life here. We (Dom Luiz and his wife, Dona Margerita) are getting to the age where we are needing doctors and checkups and I can't do it here.



OPEN TO THE PUBLIC — "Paying guests" are not welcome at Milfontes Castle to help Dom Luiz De Castro E'Elmeida with the castle's expensive upkeep. Dom Luiz bought the ancient fortress in Portugal in 1939 for about $350, remodeled it and estimates it is worth $500,000 today. It is located on the Mira River on the Atlantic.

Education reform sparks new church-state hassle in Poland

WARSAW (UPI) —Bozena Karkowska is a blue-eyed, dark-haired 9-year-old who lives in a farming village 25 miles southwest of Warsaw. Like millions of other Polish children, she attends classes at her local schoolhouse six days a week until 1 p.m.

Under a recent proposal Bozena and her classmates would join other students from surrounding villages at a new, larger district school where they would study and play under faculty supervision until 5 or 6 p.m. each day.

The all-day school proposal— made by a top-level government commission—has touched off a serious row between Poland's Communist rulers and its Roman Catholic Church.

The dispute is threatening a fragile peace hammered out over the past 2 ½ years by state authorities and the Church, which claims 85 per cent of this country's 33 million people are Catholics.

Polish bishops have appealed to the faithful to "defend ourselves against this atheism," while a party leader said some churchmen were "anti-socialist." A government official told UPI, "We definitely have a state of tension."

Reforms spark trouble

The flashpoint is a wide-ranging educational reform plan released this spring from a government commission headed by sociologist Jan Szczepanski.

In calling for "universality of education" at primary and secondary levels throughout the country, the Szczepanski commission recommended:

— All-day, comprehensive schools with extensive extra-curricular activities for Poland's 10 million school-age children.

—Re-education over a six-year period of 150,000 teachers so they all have at least a college education.

— Consolidation of many small, understaffed and inadequate schools, especially in rural areas, into district schools with fuller programs and better staffs.

Religious education

Most educators described the proposed reforms as far-sighted and badly-needed. But Church officials disagree. They see the changes as an attack on the teaching of religion to children.

"The recommendations reveal without doubt a tendency to eliminate religious education," Polish bishops said in a communique. "Elements of the plan are very unfriendly."

Religious instruction long has been a sore point in Poland, where the state has adamantly refused church requests for catechism to be taught in schools. As a result, priests conduct religious classes after regular school hours during the week, or in the evening.

Bishops say under the Szczopanski proposals children would be too tired or too occupied with school activities to keep up with religion classes.

They also object to increased involvement of children in the state-run schools, which stress "socialist education," and to remarks such as one made to Parliament by Prime Minister Piotr Jaroszewicz that, "the chief organizer of education, work and social activity in our country is the socialist state."

At a recent meeting with Western correspondents, Education Minister Jerzy Kuberski expressed surprise at the church's complaints.

"The all-day system is used in many Western countries," he said. "What's all the fuss?"

Kuberski argued that children still would have time to attend catechism under the improved school system.

"Our proposals by no means conflict with the possibilities for religous instruction," he said. "We are simply meeting the needs of families and the community."

The argument may prove to be academic, however, since Parliament has yet to approve the recommendations. Still, the dispute has sent a chill through church-state relations — never good here—after several years of relative calm.

RESOLUTION NO. 1254

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT FIXING THE AMOUNT OF REVENUE FROM PROPERTY TAXES NECESSARY TO SUPPORT ITS DEPARTMENTS, THE GOVERNMENT AND OTHER BUSINESS OF THE CITY, AND TO PAY TO THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES AN AMOUNT EQUAL TO THE AMOUNT THE COUNTY WOULD DERIVE FROM TAXES FOR FIRE PROTECTION AND LIBRARY SERVICES, AND TO PAY OTHER INDEBTEDNESS OF THE CITY, DURING THE FISCAL YEAR 1973-74.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT DOES RESOLVE AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. This resolution shall be effective for the fiscal year 1973-74, commencing July 1, 1973, and terminating June 30, 1974.

SECTION 2. Pursuant to the budget of the City of Walnut for the fiscal year 1973-74, the City Council does hereby find that the amount of revenue from property taxes necessary to support its departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as well as the indebtedness of the City, exclusive of the cost of fire protection and library services provided to the City by the County of Los Angeles, during said fiscal year 1973-74 is $157,166.00.

SECTION 3. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code of the State of California (Assembly Bill 1588) the City Council of the City of Walnut has elected to pay to the District, as defined in Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, an amount equal to the amount said District would derive from its tax on all property within the incorporated limits of the City of Walnut for Fire or Library Services. Said amount of money necessarily must be determined by said District, in the amount, manner and time it determines the amount of money necessary to be raised by taxes throughout the District for said Fire or Library Services and the City Council of the City of Walnut does hereby authorize said District, or the County Tax Collector or Auditor, as the case may be, to determine on its behalf the amount of money to be raised by City property taxes to produce an amount equal to the amount said District would have derived from imposition of its tax on property within the City. Said amount of money and the rate of tax necessary to raise said amount of money is in addition to the amount of money set forth in Section 2 of this resolution and is in addition to the tax necessary to raise the amount of money set forth in Section 2 of this resolution. The City Council of the City of Walnut, by and on behalf of the City of Walnut does hereby agree and does by this resolution authorize the payment to the County of Los Angeles of an amount of revenue from City property taxes or from other City funds, and in any event at least an amount equal to the amount the District would have derived from imposition of its tax on property within the incorporated limits of the City of Walnut for Fire or Library Services if the City had not made the election herein contained under Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 2167.1(c) of the Revenue and Taxation Code of the State of California, said amount of money when so determined by the County Auditor or Tax Collector or District, whichever the case may be, to produce an amount equal to the amount the District would have derived from imposition of its tax on property within the City upon collection of City taxes by the County Tax Collector shall be. and the County Tax Collector is hereby authorized to transfer the same to the County Auditor for the benefit of said District.

SECTION 4. Pursuant to Section 51508 of the Government Code of the State of California, the City Council of the City of Walnut does hereby determine the amount of revenue from property taxes necessary to support its departments for the current fiscal year, to pay the bonded or other indebtedness of the City, and to pay said Fire and Library Services is the sum total of that amount set forth in Section 2 and determined pursuant to Section 3 of this resolution.

SECTION 5. The City Council hereby declares it would have passed this Resolution sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph, and section by section, and does declare that the provisions of this Resolution are severable, and if for any reason, any sentence, paragraph or section shall be held invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this Resolution.

SECTION 6. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and shall cause the same to be posted at least once within fifteen days of its final passage in four public places within the City of Walnut as heretofore designated by ordinance. The City Council hereby finds that there are no newspapers of general circulation published and circulated within the City and directs the City Clerk to cause this resolution to be published at least once within fifteen days of its final passage in the Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation, published and printed in the County of Los Angeles, and circulated in the City of Walnut. Failure to comply with said publication, however, shall not invalidate this resolution.

SECTION 7. This resolution shall take effect immediately upon adoption. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and shall forward a certified copy thereof to the Los Angeles County Auditor and to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles.

ADOPTED AND APPROVED this 29th day of August, 1973.

U.S. Information Agency --and Voice--in transition

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When James Keogh, a former Time magazine executive and White House speech writer, replaced Frank Shakespeare as director of the U.S. Information Agency in January, 1973, he found that America's propaganda machine needed not just an oiling but a major overhaul.

Created 20 years ago in the throes of the Cold War, the USIA has sought over the years to beat back the insults from Moscow and Peking, justify U.S. intervention in the Indochina War, and tell the story— sometimes tragic, sometimes dramatic—of domestic struggle and achievement.

Today the agency and its step-child, the Voice of America, are in transition.

"We're in trouble, and we better be changing," said one old-timer who has served from the beginning. "We were founded on assumptions which are no longer valid. We were founded as an advocacy agency in the strident sense of the word. This is no longer an approach which brings results."

Keogh, who was challenged by Congress almost as soon as he took office over the agency's proposed $231,854,000 budget, has been taking his own soundings. In an interview keyed to the agency's 20th anniversary this August, he gave this assessment:

Different Era

"We are in a different era today. It really began when President Nixon went to Peking. We at USIA have changed our policies for a new and different era that has been established.

"The contest between the socialist and capitalist countries is still there, of course. We can't make the assumption that it has gone even with the era of detente. And our relationship with Europe and Japan is evolving.

"There was a time when the United States had a client relationship to Europe and Japan. Now they are economic powers, and we need to make strong efforts to explain U.S. economic, financial and monetary positions."

Keogh contrasts sharply with his predecessor. He is attentive and soft-spoken. Subordinates describe him as a "good listener." They are watching to see what impact he will have on this sprawling bureaucracy, which employs over 9,000 Americans and foreign nationals in 100 countries around the world.

Shakespeare, a former CBS news executive, was known as an activist and strong conservative. He was skeptical of President Nixon's overtures to Moscow and Peking. Under his leadership the Voice of America was quick to broadcast reports of Egyptian and Soviet violations of the August, 1970, Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire at a time when the State Department was minimizing the affair.

Out of Step

Shakespeare insisted that promising USIA officers serve at least one tour in Eastern Europe, presumably to find out how bad it was. On the other hand, he was dedicated to his concept of the agency. He traveled widely, some say he was too often absent from Washington, and he allowed field officers more autonomy and control of local budgets.

After two years as director, Shakespeare recognized he was out of step with the Nixon administration and began casting around for another job, his friends recall. He left USIA to become a vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation after serving a full four years—longer than any other USIA director.

When Keogh assumed the spacious seventh floor office at 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, a stone's throw from the White House, he was immediately faced by two crises: the annual budget battle with Congress, and Watergate.

Through patient expositions, Keogh and his aides appear to have mollified some Congressional critics who were threatening a 15 per cent cut in the USIA budget. While Congress has not yet appropriated the agency's funds, USIA is expected to get about $219 million.

Keogh's Watergate decision caused considerable agonizing.

Since its creation in 1942, the Voice of America has prided itself on telling the whole truth. Employment of professional newsmen created a corps of reporters and editors eager to transmit every detail of the Watergate investigations, including charges from unidentified sources.

"The Watergate was a very sensitive problem for us," Keogh said. "The Voice of America is, after all, the official voice of the U.S. government. If we try to sugarcoat the pill, then we are not doing what we claim to be doing—telling the truth. But if we indulge in the kind of exageration and speculation which has occurred in the press, then we have gone far beyond our responsibility or duty."

So the order went out: The Voice of America will report the Watergate story factually, but will avoid hearsay, rumor, gossip or unattributed accounts. This was coupled with the guidance that the Voice of America must make every effort to explain the peculiarities of the American system of government, justice and the press.

There were charges that the Voice was being censored. But the order stuck, and Voice employes have labored on philosophically—some, predictably, more discontented than others.

Keogh has tried out successfully "the electronic dialogue" through which selected groups of officials, journalists and scholars overseas are plugged through to a high administration figure in Washington for a no-holds-barred interview of up to an hour. The new director also wants to promote personal contacts, cultural exchanges and ties in areas which have been neglected, such Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria.

Watergate hurting the Spy Store, too

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Clyde Wallace has more reason than most to be angered by the Watergate affair. Since the break-in at Democratic headquarters last year, Wallace says business at his "Spy Shop" has been reduced to bare bones.

Wallace said in an interview that he has been forced to reduce the number of full time employes at the Spy Shop from six to three. Sales of both bugging devices and counter measure devices have been cut sharply.

"I attribute it directly to Watergate," he said. "It's made a real and permanent impression on people's minds."

Wallace said potential customers confuse what he calls "Mickey Mouse" equipment used in the Watergate bugging with his equipment, most of it made by himself and his employes.

The Spy Shop also once did a sizable business in such items as tape cassettes, many of them sold to government employes.

"Now nobody wants a receipt from the Spy Shop," Wallace said.

But he contends that the customers who buy bugging equipment from him use it for legal purposes, at least he says he tries to make sure they do.

"According to the law any policeman who comes in off the street can buy bugging equipment," Wallace said. "But we require confirmation of the man's right to purchase this equipment from his chief. We won't sell to just anyone."

Wallace, who has operated his shop for six years, said most of his business is in counter measures, and he would like to restrict his sales to those items.

"But I can't," he said. "Not only do we make bugs, but we make arrangements to procure bugs from almost every other manufacturer. If we didn't, we wouldn't be able to design counter measures."

Wallace said most of his countermeasure devices are sold to businesses concerned about spying by competitors, especially firms that get contracts through competitive bidding.

"We set up countermeasures for companies that want to secure their bids on contracts," he said. "This is probably the biggest problem."

Our office boy never watches the clock; in fact, he pays no attention to it at all.

An optimist is anyone who hasn't read a news report the last three days.

RESOLUTION NO. 1255

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT FIXING THE RATE AND LEVYING TAXES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR BEGINNING JULY 1, 1973.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT DOES RESOLVE AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. That for the purpose of raising the sum of money necessary to be raised by taxes upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut as revenue to support its departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as well as other indebtedness of the City, except the cost of Fire and Library services, as set forth in Section 2 of Resolution No. 1254, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, the rate of taxes for the City of Walnut is hereby fixed, and the taxes are hereby levied on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City of Walnut in the amount of Eighty Seven Cents ($.87) upon each $100.00 of the assessed valuation of said property assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

SECTION 2. That for the purpose of raising the sum of money necessary to be raised by taxation as set forth in Section 3 of Resolution No. 1254 upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut as revenue to pay the County of Los Angeles for Fire and Library services, and as authorized and elected by the City Council pursuant to Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, the rate of taxes for the City of Walnut is hereby fixed and the taxes are hereby levied on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City of Walnut at the same rate determined and adopted by the County Board of Supervisors, acting as the governing body of said Districts providing Fire and Library services, upon each $100.00 of the assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

SECTION 3. The County Tax Collector, County Assessor, or County Auditor, as the case may be, is hereby authorized to raise by taxation upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut the amount of revenue necessary to support the departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as set forth in Section 1 of this resolution, plus the amount of revenue necessary to pay to the District as defined in Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code for Fire and Library services, and, is therefore authorized and directed by this resolution to fix and levy a total City of Walnut tax rate on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973 in the amount set forth in Section 1 of this resolution plus the amount authorized to be determined under Section 2 of this resolution, upon each $100.00 of the assessed valuation of said property assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

SECTION 4. The City Council finds that there are no City taxes to be set or fixed in any special districts within the City.

SECTION 5. The City Council hereby declares it would have passed this Resolution sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph, and section by section, and does declare that the provisions of this resolution are severable, and if for any reason, any sentence, paragraph or section shall be held invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this Resolution.

SECTION 6. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and shall cause the same to be posted at least once within fifteen days of its final passage in four public places within the City as heretofore designated by ordinance. The City Council hereby finds that there are no newspapers of general circulation published and circulated within the City and directs the City Clerk to cause this resolution to be published at least once within fifteeen days of its final passage in the Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the County of Los Angeles and circulated in the City. Failure to comply with said publication however, shall not invalidate this resolution.

SECTION 7. This resolution shall take effect immediately upon adoption. The City Clerk shall, prior to September 1, 1973, transmit to the Los Angeles County Auditor a statement of the tax rate so fixed and a certified copy of this resolution.

ADOPTED AND APPROVED this 29th day of August, 1973.

Richard A. Laughter

Agency gives birth defect scare info

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission announced Friday it is opening two telephone hotlines to answer a flood of queries from across the country on a birth defect scare involving aerosol spray glues.

At the same time, the agency said it hopes to have within the next few weeks a more definitive announcement on how great the hazard is of genetic defects for expectant parents who have been using the spray-on adhesives.

Since Aug. 17, when it banned the first of what eventually became 13 brands of spray adhesives, the commission has been flooded with telephone calls from doctors, industry representatives and patients from all over the country, a spokesman said. To help answer the questions, the commission said it had opened two telephone lines to locations in suburban Maryland. The numbers are (area code 301) 496-7965 and 496-7973.

A staff member will answer calls from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. EDT Monday through Friday, and a spokesman said collect calls probably would be accepted although they were not especially encouraged.

Work program cuts jail cost

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Convicts in the Texas prison system are required to work 40 hour weeks in agricultural, industrial, construction or maintenance programs. Prison officials say because of this employment the cost of keeping a prisoner in Texas is $4.55 a day compared with $20 a day in states without the work programs.

Quiet Texas town

'We're in Welfare, not on welfare'

By K. MACK SISK

WELFARE, Tex. (UPI) — Downtown is a tin-top general store and two wooden homes and at night the deer come right up to the house and eat the flowers from clay pots on the windowsill.

"I'd just a soon they eat my flowers than I would build a fence," said Mrs. Louis Magers, who lives with her husband out from town, in a "V" where the Zink and Little Joshua creeks come together.

"I love quiet. I don't like a lot of noise and a lot of buzzing around."

Most of the 90 folks who call Welfare home live in houses scattered through the hills. There are a few abandoned stone homes in the woods, the kind built with narrow slits from which pioneers fired their muskets at Indians.

The town's one-room schoolhouse where 42 kids used to study "Stories of Thrift for Young Americans" and other textbooks, still stand. A few books and desks are left but there is mostly silence there now.

Nutrias, raccoons, turkey, deer and other animals pretty well have the run of the hills of Kendall County, which once were thriving farmland. The hills are covered with huge oaks, wild grape vines and walnut trees that sprinkle the ground.

Mrs. Magers said it is cheaper to buy milk in town than to keep a cow at home.

"You farm for fun now," she said. "It doesn't pay anymore."

But the Magers grow and can about everything they eat, and even mill their own flour from wheat they grow in a small plot out back.

"She makes the finest chiffon cakes and homemade read," said Magers, miling proudly at his wife of 32 years. "She's one of a kind."

Magers and his wife get their water from a spring and they don't own a television. They never have. They listen to the radio some but he said most of the news he hears there is bad.

"We both read a lot," said his wife.

Welfare was founded in 1886 and it originally was called Bon Ton, Tex. But there was another town by the same name not far away, so citizens changed the name to Welfare. Their reasons for the name have been lost to posterity.

But as small as the town is, it has a mighty big motto: "We're in Welfare, not on welfare." It is a politically conservative county that has voted Republican in presidential elections since before Franklin D. Roosevelt's time.

Weiskopf ties Jack in Series

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus put on rubber pants and waded into a lake to blast out a shot and save a penalty, but that wasn't enough to hold off Tom Weiskopf's comeback and the two finished the first round of the World Series of Golf in a tie for the lead Saturday.

Both Nicklaus, who has won more major championships than any golfer in history, and Weiskopf had one-over-par 71— two strokes in front of Johnny Miller. Tommy Aaron struggled home with a 76.

The four-man field in golf's most exclusive tournament, which brings together the winners of the four major championships, looked most of the day like a bunch of weekend hackers rather than some of the world's greatest players.

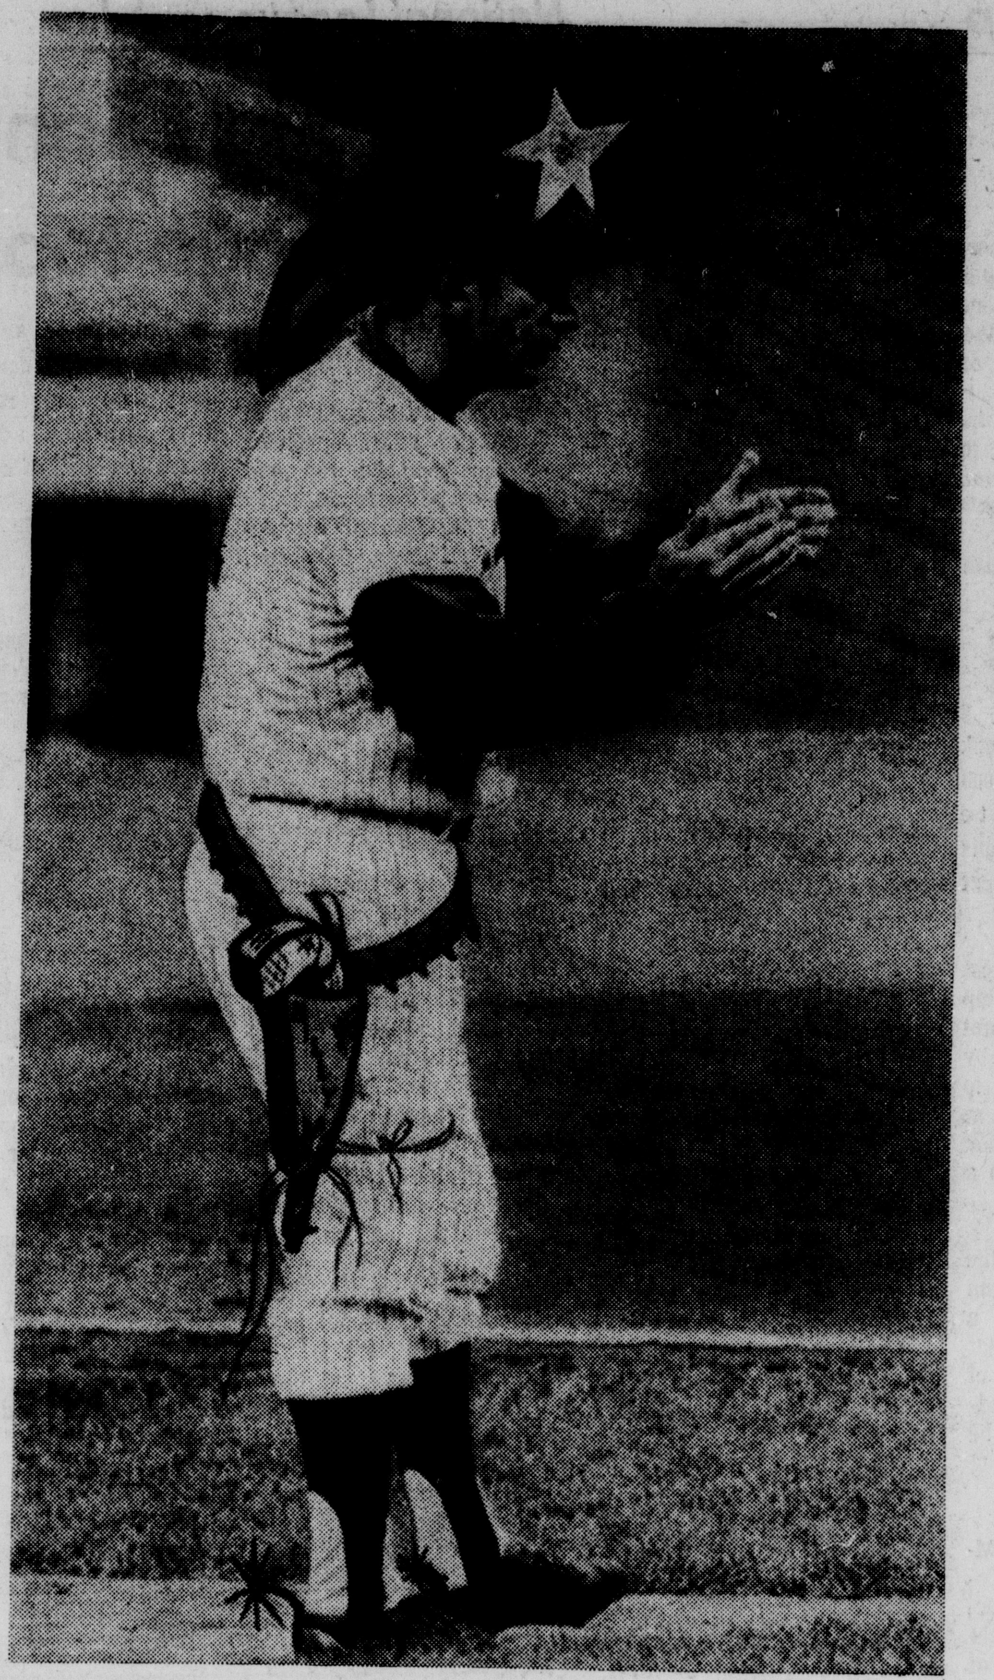
For instance, only Masters champion Aaron was able to put his drives on the fairways more than half the time. The long-driving Weiskopf was all over the course, hitting just three fairways, putting one shot into the lake, and knocking another drive off a spectator.

Nicklaus had a three-stroke lead with three holes to go when he dumped an 80-yard approach shot into the lake guarding the front of the green at the 625-yard 16th hole. After surveying the situation, he took off his right shoe, put on a pair of rubber pants which he carries with him, put the shoe back on, stepped into the lake, and drilled the ball from beneath the water's surface onto the green.

He still went on to make a bogey six there, but had he taken a penalty stroke and replayed it over the lake, he almost certainly would have had at least a seven.

Weiskopf moved within one stroke of Nicklaus' lead when he made a five-foot birdie putt at the same hole and then the tie was created at 18 when Nicklaus flew his approach shot over the green and made a bogey.

Nicklaus, who has won the $50,000 first prize here four times and finished second in his four other tries, fashioned his round with some unaccustomed scrambling. He missed nine greens, but one-putted seven times—six of them for pars, including a 25-footer at No. 11 and a 14-footer from off the green at 12.



BILLY THE KID

Billy Martin, the controversial former Detroit manager, took over as the Texas Rangers' new manager Saturday night. He was named to succeed Whitey Herzog Saturday morning in a special press conference. Texas won Saturday night, 4-3.

Dodgers make it nine consecutive

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers are simply amazing.

Oh, they're still losing but they have at least found the way to make the defeats exciting.

They're on a record-setting pace and it seems almost impossible for them to change the script.

Even Hollywood couldn't make Saturday night's 9-6 defeat to the lowly San Diego Padres believable.

The Dodgers came up with a season high of four home runs to turn what looked like certain defeat into an apparent victory but the pitching failed them as the Padres took the final round by scoring three runs in the eleventh inning to win the slugfest.

Again the slumping Dodgers, who have dropped nine in a row to come within one of a Los Angeles record, failed to take advantage of a Cincinnati Reds defeat.

L.A. enters today's finale of the homestand still 2½ games behind the Reds and 1½ ahead of the third-place San Francisco Giants — another Saturday loser — as the National League West race turns into a weirdo.

It's unreal the Dodgers could end up losing a game in which they twice staged miracle rallies.

Down 4-2 entering the bottom of the eighth inning, the Dodgers struck like lightning when Willie Crawford belted a two-run homer to gain a tie and Ron Cey followed with a solo blast to put L.A. ahead.

But the Padres tied it in the ninth and went ahead in the tenth by scoring a run without the benefit of a hit against Jim Brewer [illegible] Colbert scored a run on Fred [illegible]ndall's sacrifice fly after Colbert was safe at first when catcher Joe Ferguson couldn't handle Brewer's third strike. Colbert then went to third on a two-base wild pitch, and scored on what has to be one of the weirdest innings of the season.

Mike Corkins easily retired Tom Paciorek and Ferguson to open the bottom of the tenth but San Diego manager Don Zimmer didn't want the righthander to face Crawford.

Lefthander Mike Caldwell came in but Dodger skipper Walt Alston substituted righthander Ken McMullen, who promptly belted the first pitch into the left field pavillion for a dramatic tying home run.

It looked like the momentum might give the Dodgers that long-coveted victory when Von Joshua and Cey connected with back-to-back singles. Reliever Gary Ross intentionally walked pinch-hitter Manny Mota to load the bases but then got out of the jam by getting another pinch-hitter, Steve Yeager, on a pop-up.

San Diego went to work against Dodger southpaw Pete Richert in the 11th. Jerry Morales hit a two-run double after Darrell Thomas and Cito Gaston hit singles to break the game open. John Grubb's hit scored Morales for the third run of the inning.

It was too much for the Dodgers to come back this time, even though Paciorek had a two-out single to give some hope for another miracle.

The Padres took an early 3-0 lead as Colbert connected for a two-run homer in the first inning off of Tommy John. Bill Russell cut the margin in the sixth by leading off with his fourth homer of the season but the Pads got it back when Dave Roberts drilled his 18th round-tripper in the eighth.

It's hard to convince the Dodgers that San Diego is the National League's worst team. The Padres now enjoy a 7-1 margin at Dodger Stadium and a 9-6 edge overall.

DODGER NOTES . . . The homestand ends today with Andy Messersmith (11-10) returning to the mound to face San Diego lefthander Rich Troedson (6-6). Messersmith has been idle because of a pulled hamstring. Saturday's T Shirt Night crowd of 29,860 puts the Dodgers over the 1972 season total. With eight home games still remaining the Dodgers have attracted 1,878, 921 . . . The Dodgers play in Cincinnati Tuesday and Wednesday in a showdown series with both games being telecast by KTTV Channel 11 at 5 p.m.

Aaron pockets 709th homer

ATLANTA (UPI) — Slugger Henry Aaron of the Atlanta Braves moved within five home runs of equalling Babe Ruth's career record Saturday night when he drilled the 709th of his career off Cincinnati Reds' righthander Jack Billingham in the seventh inning.

It was the 36th homer of the season for the 39-year old Braves' star, and it also set a major league record for most homers in one league.

The Braves went on to win, 3-2.

Everything 'ducky' for Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) —It was raining and the artificial field was wet and sloppy Saturday when Nebraska and UCLA began the first televised game of the college football season. The Cornhuskers turned out to have just the ducks for the weather.

Steve Runty, a super sub at quarterback, is a senior in zoology whose teammates call him "ducks." "Ducks" and a running back who ought to have webbed feet, sophomore I-back Tony Davis, were all the No. 2-ranked Cornhuskers really needed in a convincing 40-13 triumph over No. 8-rated UCLA.

It wasn't the weather that got Runty his starting role. A knee injury and an elbow infection kept returning starter David Humm out of practice for two weeks and on the sidelines in the drizzle.

Runty gave Humm no chance to get into the game, nor UCLA much chance to win. He completed his first four passes for 49 yards, one of them for 10 yards to Frosty Anderson— whose father used to be Bradley and Michigan State basketball coach—for a touchdown.

Runty ran for one touchdown from one yard out. For the game he completed nine of 11 passes for 105 yards and completion percentage of .818, a record for both the Big Eight and Nebraska.

When Runty wasn't doing it, Davis was. The 212-pound rookie, kept out of action last year by knee surgery, ran 24 times for 147 yards and scored on runs of 1 and 43 yards. He sat out the last five minutes to give sub Jeff Moran a chance to score on a two-yard plunge.

The other Cornhuskers' score was on a 77-yard punt return by Randy Borg, in which he got three key blocks to spring clear at midfield.

It was Tom Osborne's first game as Nebraska's coaching successor to Bob Devaney, who coached the Huskers to the national championship in 1971, and the Huskers might be on the title road again.

"I can't think of a good excuse," beaten Coach Pepper Rodgers said. "We practiced all week for Humm's dropback passes and then we saw Runty roll out. And Runty is very good. I can't blame the weather. They really whipped us."

"Last year before UCLA," Osborne said, "I felt something was wrong and I didn't sleep at all." UCLA won, 20-17.

"I slept real good last night," Osborne said. "The only thing we didn't know about Davis was how he'd react to pressure and he was real great. Humm could have played. We thought we'd put him in in the second half but Runty was doing so well we decided against it."

"The whole team had complete confidence in Steve," Davis said. "He's a good quarterback and I'd even say first string."

"We'd have felt terrible if Humm had got in and got hurt," Osborne said.

Runty, a walkon who was not recruited, said, "It's the greatest feeling I've had in my 22 years."

It might be better in Nebraska's next game two weeks from now because Runty could be the quarterback and Nebraska will be vying for another national crown. "I don't know how to rate them," Rogers said.

Long Beach fumbles help Grambling

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback Joe Comeaux hit 11 of 21 passes for 126 yards and two touchdowns Saturday as Grambling opened its season by beating fumbling Cal State Long Beach 21-16 in the fourth football Freedom Classic before 30,884 fans.

Long Beach fumbles set up three touchdowns for the Louisiana school.

The Tigers' first touchdown came after Gary Johnson tackled the 49ers' Ron Choate hard and the ball bounced loose. Sylvester Bates recovered for Grambling on the 49er 8. Fallon Bush dove two yards over right tackle for the first Tiger touchdown with 1:28 left in the first quarter.

Long Beach quarterback Gary Wann fumbled on the second play after the ensuing kickoff and Richard Mayfield recovered for the Tigers on the Long Beach 15. Comeaux, on third down, passed 18 yards to Dwight Scales for Grambling's second TD six seconds into the second quarter.

Rodney Zeno, who missed the first two Grambling conversion attempts, kicked a 35-yard field goal with 24 seconds left in the second quarter to give the Tigers a 15-0 lead at halftime.

Long Beach scored its first touchdown early in the fourth quarter when Scott Ward intercepted a Comeaux pass in the Grambling end zone.

But the Tigers bounced for two more touchdowns, one of them on a seven-yard pass from Comeaux to Sammie White.

The victory avenged a 25-19 defeat to Long Beach last season. It was the 11th win in a row for Grambling, which was 11-2 last year.

Frustrated Broncos stun Fresno

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

FRESNO—It looked like it was going to be a bad weekend as soon as Cal Poly boarded the bus Friday. It was an hour late arriving.

Then after traveling uncomfortably for four and one half hours, head coach Roy Anderson scheduled a practice for 8 p.m. that same evening. But there were more problems. The stadium was locked and the Brncos were unable to use the field.

Saturday wasn't near as bad except for the meals, and the realization of playing the tough Fresno State Bulldogs.

As soon as game time came around things started to happen.

A group of young ballplayers noted for their lack of experience, size and enthusiasm pulled something of a shocker.

Evidently the 45-man Bronco squad hadn't heard that they were a two-touchdown underdog because they pulled off a 17-9 upset over the Fresno State before 13,000 partisan fans at Ratcliffe Stadium.

The win also avenges Poly's 1969 27-7 loss to the Bulldogs.

For almost the entire 60 minutes Poly dominated the game. Especially the defense which consisted of a mixture of veterans and freshmen.

Leading 10-9, minutes into the final stanza, Poly's quarterback Jim Zorn hit wide receiver Ron Tatum for an eight-yard scoring pass with 11:22 remaining.

When asked on post-game radio about the surprising outcome, Anderson remarked, "I don't think I'm that surprised, we knew we've got more talent on this team than we've ever had. They just have to play up to it.

"I was prepared for the heart attacks and the hero possibilities as well.

"We lost the momentum, we really didn't score twice when we should have but that's the mark of our young team. When they get consistent, we'll get much better."

The Broncos took advantage of five miscues and 97 yards in penalties in taking a 10-0 lead to the dressing room at intermission.

Fresno's Mike Harris fumbled the opening kickoff with Poly's Dale Biggs recovering to set the stage for the entire game.

Zorn then directed the Broncos to the 33 where Klaus Tretton split the uprights to give Poly a 3-0 lead with 2:55 elapsed.

After exchanging fumbles, Fresno QB Dennis Veeh threw a screen pass to Larry Miller who was hit and fumbled behind the line of scrimmage with Collin Bronlen recovering at the Fresno five.

Two plays later, Zorn hit Greg Cruz out of the backfield on the six-yard scoring pass with 12:55 left in the half. Trettin's PAT extended the score to 10-0.

Fresno came to life in the third period as QB Rod Kraft sparked it to a field goal and a 33-yard TD pass to Tom Voth.

The Bulldogs had another score nullified when Kraft hit Voth on a 23-yard scoring pass which was called back for holding.

"I'm very disappointed," said Fresno State head coach J. R. Boone after the game. "If we had lost and played well I wouldn't feel quite as bad though we gave the ball away on too many occasions."

"I thought Poly played real well. I don't think either team was sharp but I think they did well with what they had. I thought their quarterback Zorn did a good job and they had a couple of good receivers.

Zorn starting his first game as a Bronco signal-caller hit on nine of 21 passes for 136 yards and two TDs. Besides carrying the ball for 79 yards on 12 totes.

Cruz gained 67 yards on 13 carries while Rick Robinson added 39 on 15 carries. Joe Fabien was on the receiving of four passes for 90 yards.

Angels sweep doubleheader against K.C.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Mickey Rivers drove in the tie-breaking run in a three run sixth inning Saturday night, propelling the California Angels to a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals and a sweep of their doubleheader.

Lee Stanton started a five-run eighth inning with a two-run homer in the opener, giving the Angels a 9-6 victory.

Behind 2-1 in the nightcap, Stanton started the sixth with a single and went to third when centerfielder Steve Hovley misplayed the ball. Winston Llenas delivered the tying run with a two-out single, his 29th career pinch-hit for the Angels.

Dave Chalk walked before Rivers singled scoring Llenas. Chalk also scored on a hit by Sandy Alomar, which finished Paul Splittorff 15-11.

The Royals got one run back in the sixth when Hal McRae walked, moved to third on a ground out and an infield single and scored on a wild pitch by reliever Steve Barber.

California's first run came in the third on singles by Rivers, Bob Oliver and Stanton.

The Royals scored two runs before winner Rich Hand, 5-5, could retire a batter in the first. Frank White singled, advanced to third on a single by Hovley. White scored and Hovley moved to second on a wild pitch before Amos Otis delievered a run-scoring single.

Stanton's two-run homer over the centerfield fence, his eighth of the season, provided the tie-breaking runs in the opener.

Mickey Rivers scored three runs and scored three more for the Angels while Aurelio Monteagudo, 2-1, picked up the victory in relief.

Cookie Rojas had tied the game at 4-4 for the Royals with a three-run double in the sixth.

Court wins women's title, but Smith upset

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Margaret Court, the veteran first lady of women's tennis, won her fifth U.S. Open Championship Saturday and indicated she'll be around for "a couple more years," while Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes upset favored Stan Smith to set up a men's final with former winner John Newcombe.

Mrs. Court won the first all-Australian women's final in the history of the championship, which dates back to 1887, by defeating Evonne Goolagong, 7-6, 5-7, 6-2, in a 1:40 thriller.

Newcombe, three-time Wimbledon champion, beat the veteran Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3, and Kodes, who was forced to save two match points, upset Smith, the joint No. 1 seed, 7-5, 6-7, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, in a 2-hour, 50-minute marathon which was concluded in almost total darkness.

A record crowd of 15,137 saw one of the best women's finals on record and afterwards Margaret, the 31-year-old mother of a 15-month-old son, said, "I hope to play in America in this great tournament for a couple of years more."

Mrs. Court, who has been globe-trotting since 1961, with a couple of breaks to get married and give birth to her son Daniel, has now won 32 national titles which include 24 of the Big Four championships.

Her tremendous power and ability to win the big points was the difference between victory and defeat. Evonne, 22, said as much afterwards and admitted: "I still have a lot to learn, but I always learn something when I play longer."

Mrs. Court, who has already won $139,000, picked up a check of $25,000—the first time the ladies have earned equal pay with the men in a tennis championship anywhere in the world.

The 5-foot-11 Australian, a shy and retiring person off the court, said she had not joined the campaign for equal pay but was "happy" to receive the check. She also won a car while Evonne earned a consolation $12,000.

The match was virtually error free, but when it came to the decider Margaret forced Evonne into a corner and never let her get out. She lost only three points in four service games, breaking Evonne in the second and eighth.

Evonne's backhand, with which she'd hit some great winners early in the match, failed her in the clutch and in that fateful eighth game she found herself love-40 and with the unenviable task of trying to save three match points. She saved one, but then hit an intended backhand long and it was over, except for the presentations.

The first set went to the tiebreak after four service breaks, Margaret taking it five points to two after Evonne had lost the first two points with a wild smash and a double fault, one of three she was to serve.

The girls traded breaks in the sixth and seventh games of the second set before Margaret lost her delivery in the 11th, allowing Evonne to square the match in the 12th with the loss of two points.

When it was all over, and as Margaret signed autographs with the sweat of victory dripping from her brow, husband Barry said: "She's some girl," and so she is.

Sharon rips Boston

By United Press International

Dick Sharon tagged a solo homer, doubled and reached base on an error to account for three runs Saturday as the Detroit Tigers tripped the Boston Red Sox, 6-1.

Sharon gave the Tigers a 1-0 lead when he opened the second inning with a drive into the left field screen.

The Tigers added two more runs in the fifth on a single, two walks, an infield out and a pair of errors by third baseman Carl Yastrzemski on Sharon's grounder.

Sharon began the eighth inning with a double, went to third on a ground ball and scored on Ed Brinkman's sacrifice fly.

The loss was Boston's 11th in 13 games with Detroit this season.

In other games Baltimore downed Cleveland 6-1, New York trounced Milwaukee 15-1 and Minnesota defeated Chicago 6-2.

Jim Palmer tossed a five-hitter to notch his 19th victory of the season against eight losses and Al Bumbry drove in three runs to lead Baltimore over the Indians.

The victory gave the Eastern Division leading Orioles a five game bulge over the second place Red Sox and officially eliminated the Indians from the pennant race.

Palmer, one victory away from his fourth straight 20 game season, upped his career record against Cleveland to 14-4.

Graig Nettles aided George Medich's three-hitter with six RBIs to lead the Yankees to an easy romp over the Brewers.

In the third inning Bobby Murcer and rookie Otto Velez walked and Nettles hit his 20th homer to finish Reynolds.

In the eighth, the Yanks added another four runs off rookie lefthander Kevin Koeppel on a single by Jim Ray Hart, a pair of walks and Fred Stanley's first major league grand slam off the leftfield foul pole.

Larry Hisle rapped out three hits and drove in three runs to help the Twins down Chicago and snap the Chisox' winning streak at eight.

The Twins jumped on starter and loser Terry Forster, 6-6, for two runs in the first inning. Bobby Darwin doubled off the rightfield wall to score Hisle, who had doubled and Eric Soderholm, who was safe on an error.

Sports news in brief

JIM HARDY, a former Southern California quarterback of the 1940s who led the Trojans to two straight Rose Bowl victories, was named General Manager of the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum and Sports Arena Friday

Hardy, 50, succeeds William H. Nicholas, 67, who held the job for almost 28 years. Nicholas was forced into mandatory retirement.

RON WALTERS, a center-right wing who scored 54 points for the World Hockey Association Edmonton Oilers, was acquired by the Los Angeles Sharks Friday.

BRAD RICE, a freshman, will replace Anthony Davis as University of Southern California's kickoff man this season, coach John McKay said Saturday.

The coach of the No. 1-ranked Trojans said he wanted to give Davis more breathing time this season.

DON PIERCE, leading stakes-winning jockey in California this year and a four-time winner of the riding crown at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona, will be back to defend his title when the 14-day Fair meeting opens Friday.

The 36-year-old Pierce, currently enjoying one of the finest years of his riding career, his directed his mounts to more than $2 million in earnings in 1973 and has posted 24 stakes victories in the state.

STEVE HOLLAND, A 15-year-old Australian schoolboy who swims like clockwork, shattered his own world 1,500 meters record by six seconds to win Australia's first gold medal of the World Swimming Championships Saturday at Belgrade.

Holland touched home in 15.31.85.

THE HOOSIER HUNDRED USAC Championship Dirt Track auto race was postponed Saturday for one week because of rain. The $60,000 race over the state fairgrounds at Indianapolis was re-set for 11 a.m. next Saturday.

THE UNITED STATES lost its bid for the championship of the first Intercontinental Baseball Cup Tournament by dropping a 9-2 decision to Puerto Rico Saturday night at Bologna, Italy. Japan took over the championship with a 1-0 victory over Canada.

REGGIE JACKSON, the American League's home run and RBI leader, pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg in the second inning of Saturday night's Oakand-Texas game and might be lost to the club for the rest of the season.

ANTONIO "KID PAMBELE" Cervantes of Colombia Saturday night successfully defended his World Boxing Association version of the Junior Welterweight World Championship by stopping Argentina challenger Carlos Maria Gimenez in five rounds.

National League roundup

Kessinger, Santo team up as Chicago tops Cards, 3-1

By United Press International

Don Kessinger ripped a single in the bottom of the seventh inning to send home pinch-runner Matt Alexander with the go-ahead run and Ron Santo homered Saturday to help the Chicago Cubs defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1, in a nationally televised game.

Cub rookie Peter Lacock opened the seventh with a single to right. Cleo James sacrificed Lacock to second and Alexander, running for Lacock, scored when Kessinger bounced a hit over the pitcher's mound.

The Cubs' first run came in the fourth inning after Billy Williams and Rico Carty got consecutive singles. Jim Hickman sacrificed the runners along to second and third and Santo was purposely walked, filling the bases. Paul Popovich then hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Williams.

Santo drilled his 7th homer of the year with two outs in the eighth for an insurance run.

In the other National League day game, Houston topped San Francisco, 9-7.

Lee May drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and Jim Wynn chipped in with a two-run homer to help snap San Francisco's winning streak at seven games.

A walk, a sacrifice, a single for Bob Watson, another walk and May's first double netted the Astros three runs in the first and they added three more in the fifth on a single by J. C. Richard, Wynn's homer and a solo homer by Cesar Cedeno.

Elliott Maddox's bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning scored Dave Nelson to give the Texas Rangers a 4-3 victory over the Oakland A's in Billy Martin's debut as manager.

The loss was a costly one for the Athletics as slugger Reggie Jackson pulled a hamstring in his right leg in the second inning and had to be flown to Oakland for hospitalization. He may be sidelined for the rest of the season.

Maddox, in his first appearance at the plate in the game, lined a shot that fell just beyond the outstretched glove of left fielder Joe Rudi.

Nelson who had singled after two men were out, went to second on a stolen base and moved to third when Ray Fosse's throw went into center field. After Toby Harrah walked, Alex Johnson was walked intentionally to load the bases and bring up Maddox.

Hank Aaron set a major league record for most homers in one league when he cracked the 709th homer of his distinguished career t spark the Atlanta Braves to 3-2 victory over the Cincinna ti Reds.

The margin of victory turne out to be Dave Johnson's 39t homer but it was still over shadowed by Aaron's blast.

Aaron is still five homer short of Babe Ruth's caree mark of 714 homers but onl 708 of his homers came in on league. Ruth hit six of his 71 homers in the National Lea gue.

With the score tied 2-2 in th bottom of the ninth, Johnso led off the inning with a high fly ball that sailed far ove the 375-foot mark in left-center field. It gave the Braves' second baseman the league-lead in homers. He needs just three more to match Rogers Hornsby's record of 42 homers for a second baseman.

Player grabs Open lead

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — South Africa's Gary Player, battling humid 95 degree temperatures, fired a 3-under-par 67 Saturday to grab the third round lead in the $100,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

The 36-year-old Player, winner of 88 career PGA tournaments but a non-winner this year, grabbed a two-stroke lead over Forrest Fezler who checked in with a 66

Player, who closed out with a pair of pressure-packed birdies at 17 and 18, goes into Sunday's final round with a 54-hole total of nine-under par 201. Fezler is at 203.

Four strokes behind Player were defending champion DeWitt Weaver, Jerry McGee and John Schroeder. Weaver carded a 67 Saturday while the steady McGee recorded a 67.

Schroeder carried a two-stroke lead into Saturday's play but a bogey at the par 4 first hole and a costly triple bogey at No. 5 quickly dropped him back of the charging Player. Schroeder skied to a three-over 73.

Player pointed to a rather simple eight-foot putt on the 13th hole as the turning point in his round over the 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

"I was playing with Fezler and he had moved to within a shot. I hit a one-iron off the tee into a trap then followed with a lousy second shot. I chipped it to within eight feet then holed out to keep the lead. That saved it," Player said.

Player returned to South Africa last November for major abdominal surgery, then left the tour again in the spring for an operation on his leg. He returned full time in May and has yet to record his first victory of 1973.

"I just tried to come back too soon," said Player "I wasn't ready. When you try to come back that quickly, you're not ready to compete again. One thing I learned was that you should appreciate your health and not take it for granted."

Fezler opened with a pair of bogeys but recovered with one of the more consistent finishes of the hot and muggy afternoon.

"I stayed out of trouble," the 24-year-old Fezler said. "That's the important thing here. The greens are all downhill and it's easier to make a 25 or 30 footer uphill than a seven or eight footer downhill."

Fezler, on the brink of victory in five tournaments this year, was philosophical about his duel with Player, who the young Californian said has been a golfing hero of his since he was 12 years old.

"I've lost on the final day this year to Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton and Jack Nicklaus. I hope it isn't Player this time," he said with a laugh.

Sharing sixth place at 206 were Mason Rudolph, winner of the 1970 Southern Open, and Curtis Sifford. Rudolph and Sifford each recorded 69s Saturday.

Bunched at 207 were Dick Rhyan, who had the second lowest round of the 1973 tour with a 63, Sam Adams, taking advantage of a 30 on the back nine for a 66, Chi Chi Rodriguez, young Larry Stubblefield and Grier Jones. Jones went into Saturday tied with Player for second but had his problems with a 73.

CAC denies Norton glove change bid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Athletic Commission Friday trimmed down a request from the Ken Norton camp for eight-ounce gloves for Norton's 12-round rematch with Muhammad Ali Monday night.

The commission has used 10-ounce gloves from 1963 after the ring death of featherweight champion Davey Moore.

The commission did not waive any California rules.

The state's three-knockdown rule for nontitle fights holds that a man cannot be saved by the bell at the end of the round, including the final one.

Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer, objected to the state's accidental butt rule as "stupid." Presiding Commissioner Bob Turley said he would discuss it with the other commissioners but did not inticipate any change.

The rule provides that the referee, immediately after the butt, shall call the bout a technical draw if the injured boxer is behind on points, or declare him the winner if he has the lead.

Mills' Civitan Open rally saves lead

DALLAS (UPI) —Mary Mills survived a slump of three straight bogeys at the end of the front nine Saturday and rallied to shoot her second straight 71 and take a one-stroke lead going into the final round of the $35,000 Dallas Civitan Open.

Miss Mills' two-under-par 142 for two rounds over the 6,200-yard, par-72 Brookhaven Country Club course left her in position to pick up her third victory this year.

One stroke back at one-under 141s were Donna Caponi Young, Murle Breer and defending champion Jane Blalock. Miss Blalock, who had owned a two-stroke lead after one round, bogeyed four holes on the front side and had to sink birdie putts of 15 and 25 feet on the final two holes to grab a share of second place.

Beth Stone and Australian Robyn Dummett were next at one-under 143 while Kathy Ahern was alone at 144.

Miss Mills started the day two strokes back of Miss Blalock and picked up a shot at the par-five fourth when she ran in a five-foot birdie putt.

But starting at the seventh she bogeyed three consecutive holes, three-putting the seventh, failing to reach the long par-four eighth into the wind and hooking her tee shot on the ninth into the trees.

"I knew I had to get it going," said Miss Mills. "I knew the field was bunched and if I wanted to get back in it I would have to play aggressive golf."

She started playing aggressively by hitting the flag stick on the 10th hole and rolling in a three-foot birdie putt. Miss Mills then birdied the 13th with a 12-footer, chipped in from the edge of the green on the 15th for another birdie and then dropped a seven-foot downhill birdie putt on the par-four 16th.

Miss Blalock, who won in Dallas last year in a sudden death playoff with Kathy Whitworth, felt just as happy at being one stroke behind going into the final round as she would have if she had been in the lead.

"It's very seldom I can play good when I'm in front," she said. "I've only won one tournament in my life that I led going into the last round. I was feeling awfully despondent late in the day. Those two birdie putts on the last two holes made up for a lot of mistakes."

The most consistent of the leaders was Mrs. Breer, who hit 16 greens but could find only one birdie putt, a 25-footer on the par-five 12th.

Despite almost ideal scoring conditions, the low round of the day was a mere three-under-par 69 by Clifford Ann Creed, which left her at 145.

Tee to Cup

Golf Couse Inns of America and professional Gene Littler have announced a new $520,000 event—"Gene Littler's $520,000 Golf Course Inns of America Tournament"—to be played over eight consecutive weeks starting October 10 at Whispering Palms and El Camino Country Clubs, both located in north San Diego County.

Golf Course Inns owns three courses in Southern California as well as golfing facilities in several European countries.

Vallas said that for each of the eight tournmanet weeks the pros will compete over 54 holes for a $50,000 weekly-purse with $8,000 going to the winner.

The sponsoring Golf Course Inns of America quarantees the minimum $400,000 purse for the eight weeks, Vallas said.

A full tournament would be 160 players, with the field alternately playing the 6652-yard Whispering Palms layout in Rancho Santa Fe and 6769-yard El Camino course in Oceanside.

Both communities are located about 25 miles north of San Diego and enjoy the famed coastal climate.

As a special and unique incentive, the tournament field will be "cut" after 36 holes with the remaining pros then competing in an 18-hole pro-pro best ball competition that will have a weekly purse of $15,000, with $2400 awarded to the winning team. This tangent tournament will be in effect each week when the overall field exceeds 130 players. Otherwise, there will be no cut made of the original field.

The 54-hole competition will be scheduled on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week with the tournament concluding on Nov. 30. Prize money weekly will be distributed to 84 players.

Littler anticipates little difficulty filling the field on a first-come first-served basis with admission priority being awarded to those pros who commit for the entire tournament schedule. Entry fee for the eight weeks and the guaranteed $400,000 purse is $4800 per player.

Entries now are being accepted at tournament headquarters: Whispering Palms Country Club, Post Office Box 550, Rancho Santa Fe, California.

Littler, a resident of nearby La Jolla, has won $94,255 in official PGA purses this year, including his victory in the St. Louis Classic.

"I wish there had been a tournament of this nature available to me when I was starting out," Littler said. "All the opportunity a young professional needs to develop competitively and at the same time discover, at a minimal cost, how he might rate on the PGA tour are available—strong competition, a new 54-hole tournament each week, challenging courses, friendly and comfortable surroundings and sizeable prize money to be won."

Golf Course Inns will guarantee a minimum $400,000 purse. There will be eight weekly tournaments each with a minimum $50,000 purse.

Facilities at Whispering Palms and El Camino, both long-established private clubs, will be available to all professionals entered.

Golf carts will be provided, so will practice balls and complimentary lunches. Practice time will be available on non-tournament days and assistance will be provided in arranging housing.

Ali at crossroads

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) —His career at a crossroads, legendary Muhammad Ali tries to move back into the heavyweight title picture Monday night against Ken Norton, a tough ex-Marine who upset the former world champion five and a half months ago.

"If I lose," said the 31-yearold Ali, "it's time for me to retire because I'm in the best shape of my life. This is the first time I've ever trained."

The oddsmakers have installed the former Cassius Marcellus Clay II as a 5-2 favorite but Norton said he was not concerned.

"I'd say the odds don't mean anything," said Norton, who was a 5-1 underdog in their first meeting at San Diego March 31. "I proved that before. I don't worry about the odds."

Ali suffered a broken jaw in the first meeting. He said it occurred in the second round and Norton said it happened in the 12th.

"I'm about 75 per cent better than the day he fought me," claimed Ali. "It's a hard thing for anybody else to be that much better than they were."

Answered Norton, "I'd say I've improved but I can't cite a specific percentage. I didn't have to improve 75 per cent, though. I won the first fight. He's the one who had to improve 75 per cent.

Neither man expects to fight the new heavyweight king George Foreman, next.

"I think about the title but I won't push it," said Ali. "The world sees what's happening. Foreman will have to come to me, I won't go to him."

"I haven't made any plans past this fight," Norton added. "Four years ago I planned ahead and fell on my face. Now I just take each fight as it comes."

The 28-year-old Carson, Calif., heavyweight's only defeat in 31 pro fights came in 1969, a third round knockout at the fists of Jose Luis Garcia of Venezuela. Garcia recently has dropped from among the top contenders.

Ali is fighting Norton for his fistic life, 14 years after his pro career began after he won a gold medal at the Rome Olympics. His stunning defeat of Sonny Liston for the heavyweight crown came nearly a decade ago — Feb. 25, 1964.

His career record stands at 41-2 with 31 knockouts compared to Norton's mark of 30-1 with 23 KOs.

Ali's strategy will be to outbox his muscular opponent. He tried it last time but spent most of the day flat footed. In scoring a 12-round win over England's Joe Bugner at Las Vegas, Nev., Ali also was lackluster with his footwork.

"I have," he said, "come this time for some serious Muhammad Ali dancing. I'm faster now than I've ever been in my whole career. This is the first time in my life I've ever trained."

Although he won't name a round, Ali is predicting a knockout. Norton is more general than that. He's only predicting a victory.

"If it goes one round, I'm going to win and if it goes 12 rounds I'm going to win," he declared.

A crowd of between 14,000 and 15,000 is expected to watch the fight at the Forum, which seats 18,750 for boxing.

Cards deal vet Farr to Detroit

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Miller Farr, a nine-year veteran defensive back, was traded to the Detroit Lions Friday by the St. Louis Cardinals in return for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Farr, 30, started at left cornerback in three seasons with St. Louis. He intercepted three passes last year to boost his career total to 34.

Farr joined the Cardinals in January, 1970, with Pete Beathard in a trade that sent Charley Johnson and Bob Atkins to Houston.

Farr was an all-pro selection in 1970 and all-AFL at Houston in 1967 and 1968.

Earl Scheib

... For over 30 years you've heard me say, "I'll paint any car for $29.95." Unfortunately, the rising cost of labor and materials has finally forced me into a position where I can no longer do so. But you can still take advantage of, what I think is, the biggest bargain in America. I guarantee to hold my price of $29.95 'til October first of this year. Remember that date . . . October first. I will still paint any car for $29.95 . . . 'til October 1st.

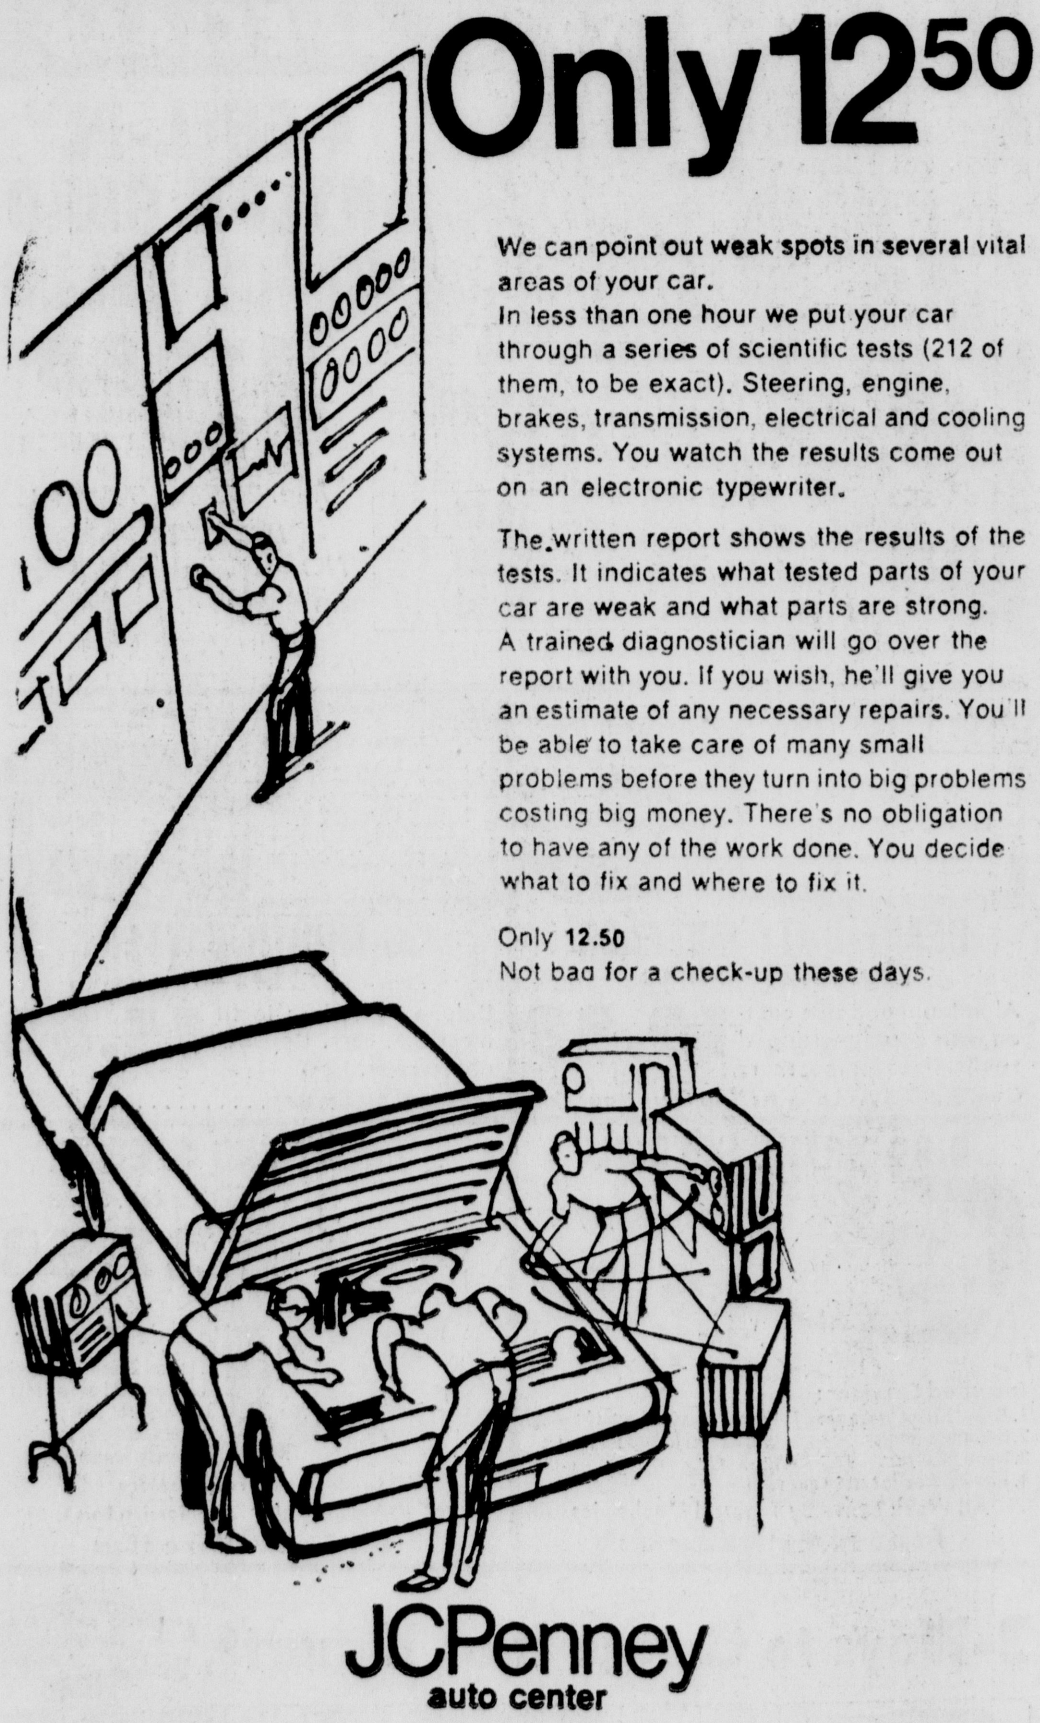
If you've got car troubles, come to Penneys Scientific Testing Center for an electronic examination of your car.

Only 12.50



We can point out weak spots in several vital areas of your car.
In less than one hour we put your car through a series of scientific tests (212 of them, to be exact). Steering, engine, brakes, transmission, electrical and cooling systems. You watch the results come out on an electronic typewriter.

The written report shows the results of the tests. It indicates what tested parts of your car are weak and what parts are strong. A trained diagnostician will go over the report with you. If you wish, he'll give you an estimate of any necessary repairs. You'll be able to take care of many small problems before they turn into big problems costing big money. There's no obligation to have any of the work done. You decide what to fix and where to fix it.

Only 12.50
Not bad for a check-up these days.

Golden Gate Bridge

World's busiest jumping off place

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —In the past 36 years, the Golden Gate Bridge has become the busiest jumping off place in the world for the suicidal.

Five months after the scenic orange bridge opened on May 27, 1937, Ralph DiRegolo leaped 220 feet through the fog to his death in the frigid waters at the mouth of San Francisco Bay.

The San Francisco man has been followed off the 4,200-foot long suspended span by nearly 500 known suicides —far surpassing the 358 persons who have leaped from the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

"Probably 150 or so more have jumped and been washed out to sea, unseen, unrecorded," said psychologist Richard H. Seiden, who has extensively studied Golden Gate Bridge leapers.

And Capt. Edward Ashoff, head of the bridge's security forces, estimated five or six potential suicides are deterred by bridge employes or California Highway patrolmen for each one who jumps.

Six persons who leaped from the bridge survived the long drop —one young man suffering only bruised feet when he struck the water.

After 36 years of suicides and a growing reputation as what Seiden called a landmark "with a fatal mystique that draws the suicide-prone," the bridge may be altered to make death more difficult.

The directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, Transportation and Highway District recently approved preliminary plans for an eight-foot high "suicide barrier" to replace the existing waist-high railing.

Architects Amman and Whitney were authorized to draw up plans for the barrier —thin tension rods six inches apart which would be too tiny to climb and too strong to bend — which had an estimated cost of $800,000 to $825,000.

Debate on the board centered around the practicality of preventing anyone bent on taking his own life from committing suicide.

"All we're doing is sending 'em to another bridge," scoffed district director Lowell Edington of outlying Napa County.

But Seiden, of the University of California School of Public Health, insisted "that simply isn't so."

"Of the officially confirmed number of suicide attempters who have been prevented from leaping from the bridge, less than 4 per cent have gone on to commit suicide," the psychologist said.

He also quoted one of the survivors telling him: "If there had been a barrier on the bridge, I would have gone home and forgotten about it."

Capt. Ashoff, who has worked on the span for 28 years, recalled "repeaters" —like a Los Angeles man who got on a bus every time he became drunk and showed up at the bridge periodically for a decade before he finally leaped to his death.

But Seiden and his colleagues pointed to the success of suicide barriers constructed at Arroyo Seco Bridge in Pasadena, Calif., and on the Empire State Building. Eighty persons jumped to the death from the bridge near the Rose Bowl from 1933 to 1936, before a barrier was built. There has been one suicide since. No one has leaped from the Empire State Building since an observation tower fence was built following 16 deaths between 1931 and 1947.

And the barriers' supporters, who rang church bells in San Francisco 491 times in mid-August in memory of the known bridge suicides at the time, quoted a note left behind by one leaper:

"Why do you make it so easy?"

Ashoff doesn't believe it's been easy since 1966, when two closed circuit television cameras and employes with binoculars began monitoring pedestrians on an around-the-clock basis.

The bridge also maintains a roving patrol on the span and the California Highway Patrol always has two cars driving back-and-forth over the bay.

"If they see anyone who looks suspicious, they stop and talk to them. Sometimes they lose one who assures them nothing is wrong, but we save five or six for every one that goes," Ashoff said.

He said the patrols have learned to spot potential suicides from their demeanor, the way they walk, their dress, and the way they arrive.

"If immediately," Ashoff said. "If we spot an old lady without a ciat standing on the bridge in cold weather, we stop. Or if someone's out in the rain without a raincoat ..."

"If someone gets out of a taxi and pays it off, we check them out immediately," Ashoff said. "If we spot an old lady without a coat standing on the bridge in cold weather, we stop. Or if someone's out in the rain without a raincoat ..."

Studies of the leapers showed their age has dropped —from an average of 49 in 1937 to 29.5 in 1971, men outnumbered women three to one, 95 per cent were from the bay area, all socioeconomic groups were represented, and there were more whites than blacks compared to their proportions of the population. Only one couple jumped together.

Their reasons: troubled romances and family squabbles, 40 per cent; emotional disturbances, 25 per cent; physically illness, 15 per cent; financial problems, 10 per cent; troubles with the law, 2 per cent.

"There are a lot more young people now," said Ashoff, "many of them longhairs and dopers. I believe some think they can fly out there."

Thomas C. Baker II, who survived the plunge on Nov. 5, 1969, said after he was plucked from the water: "It was like eternity, flying through the air like an angel. I felt as if it would last forever."

For most, the fall lasted just two and one-half seconds — ending with oblivion when they hit the water or the rocks below the Golden Gate Bridge at 80 miles an hour.

The doctor comments

Acid is stimulated by the vagus nerve

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You have commented on acid in the stomach in some of your columns. I had an ulcer operation and they cut the vagus nerve, which I understand is supposed to control the flow of acid in your stomach. Would you comment on this in your column, and how it affects the stomach acid?

Dear Reader — The stomach normally produces hydrochloric acid. The acid in conjunction with pepsin, also produced by the stomach, begins the initial digestion of proteins.

The acid pepsin formation in the stomach is stimulated by the vagus nerve. The nerve cells for the bagus orginate in the brain stem and the nerve fibers then are passed extensively over the entire digestive tract and other regions of the body. You can stimulate the nerve and immediately the little cells in the wall of the stomach that produce acid digestive juice begin to pump out this material. It is this nerve connection that enables psychic stress, or any other form of stimulation that reaches the brain, to affect the stomach's production of acid pepsin juice.

Not all stimuli that reach the brain, then stimulate the stomach to pour out acid pepsin juice, are stressful. The sight of appealing food stimulates the brain. The impulse is relayed to the vagus nerve and then to the stomach. The smell of favorite food cooking is another input.

Ulcer patients usually have an overproduction of acid digestive juice from cells in the wall of the stomach. Whenever surgery is used in such an individual, it's common to remove part of the stomach, thereby eliminating part of the cells and to cut the vagus nerve, thereby eliminating the nerve stimulus to cause these cells to produce acid digestive juice.

This does not mean that acid digestive juices ceases to be formed. It's just decreased to a much smaller amount. The cells in the stomach can produce acid digestive juice on their own, but will usually not produce excessive amounts if there is no vagus stimulation.

Much the same effects of surgery are achieved through various medicines. Probanthine and atropine-like drugs all have the chemical effect of blocking nerve impulses along the vagus. Such medicines literally induce "chemical surgery of the gavus nerve."

How effective the surgery is depends a lot on the individual case, whether or not a portion of the stomach was removed, how much and even how the vagus is cut, and if the fibers of the vagus nerve are regenerated or resume their old stimulatory effect.

Finally, I would have to say in either medical or surgical treatment of ulcers, part of the success depends on changing living habits that may have been the major factor in causing the problem to start with. This includes eliminating the use of cigarettes, alcohol, excessive amounts of coffee and nervous or emotional tension or stress originating either because of occupational or family situations.

Many patients with ulcers cannot be adequately treated unless the cause of the psychic stress can be eliminated or reduced. This may mean a change in jobs for some people.

Craft skills can be profitable

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—How crafty can your hands be?

They can be crafty enough to spend 320 hours making a quilt into a work of art—tapestry or bedspread—although the hands that stitched the quilt are arthritic.

They can be crafty enough to carve an apple so that when it's dried, it wrinkles into a facial likeness and becomes the head of an unusual doll.

They can be crafty enough to crochet fisherman's twine into place mats, handbags, and hammocks. They can turn out handsome patchwork pillows.

And all the skills of those hands combined can turn within one year a non-business into a thriving business with more than 100 women, who need the cash, recycling skills inherited through generations.

Behind the whole project is a slip of a girl, 26-year-old Vicki Lynn Crowe, a native of New Germany, N.S.

Miss Crowe organized and heads up Suttles and Seawinds, Ltd., the collective outlet for handicrafts created by the women from the village of New Germany, from Tancook Island and surrounding areas in the Canadian province. The Suttles part of the name comes from the old Nova Scotian word for rags and leftovers.

Miss Crowe, the daughter of a country doctor, attended the University of Nova Scotia and studied at the New York School of Interior Design.

While an assistant editor of interior design for American Home magazine in New York, she learned of the successful cottage industry operation of Mountain Artisans, Inc., a center in Charleston, W. Va. Mrs. Jay (Sharon) Rockefeller is active with Artisans, pushing sale of handicrafts from sections of Appalachia.

"We didn't have a Sharon Rockefeller," Miss Crowe said in an interview. "But we had a lot of women willing to sew samples for free to show buyers in the United States and Canada what we could do."

Their first success was with Abercrombie & Fitch, the prestigious New York store. Two of the company executives visited Suttles and Seawinds' hastily acquired showroom—an empty dry-goods store in New Germany.

They placed an order for $30,000 worth of the various merchandise.

Then, the provincial government in Nova Scotia became interested to the extent of advising Suttles on business organization and operation. The project gets no governmental financial aid, however.

Now, the crafts are selling in several outlets and Suttles is being asked to exhibit at craft shows and stores in both the United States and Canada.

And the women are earning from their skills. Miss Crowe said an expert on quilting could earn easily $100 a week, sewing at home from materials provided through the New Germany center.

This week, Miss Crowe and four other craftswomen returned the visit of the Abercrombie people with a crowd-drawing display at the store of the various crafts plus demonstrations of quilting and doll making.

Mrs. Wesley Stevens showed how the women of Tancook carve apples, dry them, recycle old hosiery for doll bodies, and from bits and pieces of fabric fashion costumes authentic of a century ago.

Mrs. William Hiltz, mother of four and grandmother of eight, quilted away while explaining that recently she thought she'd have to give up hand-stitching because of arthritis.

But her doctor told her, "No, use those hands. Keep 'em limber."

Mrs. Hiltz alone had put in the 320 hours on a poppy wreath quilt, a stylized pattern of red flowers on a white background.

Also very much as part of the exhibit was the Bluenose quilt, its pattern named for a famous racing schooner of the 1920's, the Bluenose, built in Lunenburg county, Nova Scotia.

"That's how we got our name," Miss Crowe explained. "Nova Scotians are called bluenosers."

Fashion look is nostalgic

PARIS — (NEA) — The fall collections shown by the Paris haute couture could be labeled "the Great Gatsby Nostalgia."

They conjure up the styles of the roaring '20s, the Zelda Scott Fitzgerald era, that gentle, moving jazz age. They are all there — for evening, the swishing mushroom-pleated skirts which stop short of the ankle (the better to show off a pretty leg) the long torso tops, the fluttering ostrich or sinuous fox boas, the glitter, the high heeled sandals, the soft, clinging fabrics.

While Paris seems to be concentrating on the evening picture, the daytime is no less feminine with the pleated or gored skirts, the dressmaker jackets, wrist-length, tie-belted and lavishly fur-trimmed, the pyramid topcoats and the swinging redingotes.

Here are some of the high points of the collections:

DIOR: Here are midi coats — some ultrawide — over wide trouser ensembles, midcalf-length cocktail dresses with draped mid-riff, lame print evening dresses and satin pajamas with loose tunic top. There are fur trims and ruffles galore. The clothes acquire a different, younger look mainly because of the four-fifths-inch heels to the shoes.

Marc Bohan likes a palish, faded blue which he uses throughout the day and evening line. With matching hosiery. The daytime length hides the knees very thoroughly and after dark hems gravitate from mid-calf to ankle. Only the very formal models hit the shoe top.

GIVENCHY: This perfectionist has indulged in an even more luxurious note than usual. Starting with the fabrics, his wools are hand-quilted or striped with handstitching and for evening the velvets are stitched with gold or silver thread or strewn with gold stars.

Then over and above this he introduces, on daytime as well as evening models, the softest snakeskin as a trimming, dyed in unusual colors.

His daytime clothes are somewhat sober in silhouette but they carry his signature all the same. The longer jackets are belted on straight or pleated skirts.

LANVIN: This year offers a pleasing interlude by Jules F. Crahay, presenting a most luxurious, glittering, sophisticated collection in the form of a ballet directed by Norbert Schmidt.

Here for the very modern young woman are handknit and hand-crocheted cardigans and topcoats in a galaxy of colors. They share favors with the more conventional wools and mohairs. These are worn with pleated skirts or dresses stretched to a skinny top.

The Lanvin dinner dresses are often black but there is an over-abundance of glitter in the formal dresses. The two dominant styles are the clinging sweater top with full pleated skirt or the siren sheath.

YVES. ST. LAURENT: The boy wonder of the fashion world offers a collection created in a romantic mood and primarily beamed at wealthy women who are difficult to please and difficult to dress.

Here are the simple shirtwaist dresses with softly knotted ties, the wide pants, the long, long cardigans with narrow metal belt, the roomy topcoats. But it is in the evening line where he shows his mettle. There are sexy chiffons handled by a master, black velvet dinner suits and pindotted crepe georgette midis worn with yards and yards of spreckled ostrich feather and long skinny sheaths of Chinese inspiration in lames, printed crepes, lacquered satin, silk jersey.

His daytime clothes cover the knees and from then on they continue to fall until they reach the ankle, for evening.

PIERRE CARDIN: His collection includes ample topcoats in ribbed or plain mohair or spreckled tweeds inspired by the painter's smock, two-piece numbers teaming peasant skirts pleated around the waist topped by brief jackets, suede sleeveless jerkins over simple dresses. There are "poncho" cape coats and slender flaring redingotes, most of them with his new rounded horseshoe collar.

There are quite a few pants in the Cardin collection but the also stresses the return of the "little Paris dress" simple to the point of skimpiness. Sometimes there is a touch of drapery or a fluttering cape but nary a touch of glitter.

MADAME GRES: This season she has resolutely created slick, slender topcoats of flared redingotes when she was the first ever to launch many years ago the ultra-wide "tent" coat. There are elegant suits with culotte skirts, naive little dresses with wrapover skirts but more important still, sensational and truly elegant evening dresses, unexpectedly sexy — slit, cut out or transparent. Most are shown with cover-up versions of the poncho with uneven hemlines.

Ramon Esparza for Chanel manages to produce a perhaps younger edition of the Chanel suit but there were few if any signs of his having been assistant and Man Friday for many years to the late Balenciaga, who ranked among the top five of Paris haute couture.

UNGARO: His label now is well established with the younger set. This season he shows big fleece coats in red, oranges and greens over harlequin printed or striped wool dresses. His evening dresses are long and skinny in printed crepe and flare from below the knees.

ANDRE COURREGE: The Courrege collection is less stiff and constructed, stressing the frilly, feminine note. There are pinafore dresses over sheer turtlenecks, slinky evening dresses in burgundy satin with nylon tops and a handful of "little girl" coats in pastel wools trimmed with small mink collars and cuffs. Hems with this designer just barely cover the knees.

MRS. BRIAN L. SIMMONS

Vows said in summer rites

Gray-Smith

The Boys' Republic Chapel in Chino was the setting for the afternoon nuptial ceremony uniting Miss Brenda Smith and Daven E. Gray.

The Rev. Johnnie Parker officiated at the double-ring rites.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sal Mastrianni of San Dimas was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore an old-fashioned gown fashioned with a high collar, a cotton lace apron edged in daisy trim and chiffon sleeves. Her chiffon train was also edged in the daisy trim. The bride wore a hat decorated with blue and white flowers and lily of the valley and carried a bouquet of daisies, rose buds and baby's breath.

Miss Gail Lang was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Mickie Mastrianni, the bride's sister, Miss Beverly Brady and Mrs. Linda Robinson. Sharon Miller held the guest register and Katie Blickenstaff took gifts.

Joseph Gonzales served as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gray of Claremont. Ushers were Frankie Gonzales, Bryan Graves and John Armanderez.

A reception at the home of the groom's sister followed the wedding.

After a honeymoon in Occidental Mr. and Mrs. Gray are making their home in Montclair.

Special wedding guests included the bride's grandmother, Maxine Gilmore, and the groom's grandfather, James B. Smith.

McConnell-Baumgartner

Miss Judith Joy Baumgartner of Chino became the bride of Paul Alden McConnell of Pomona in a nuptial ceremony in the Pasco First United Methodist Church, Pasco, Wash.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dale O. Baumgartner of Pasco, Wash., and the late Mr. Baumgartner. Mr. McConnell is the son of the Raymond A. McConnells of Pomona.

Officiating at the wedding was the Rev. Ritchie D. Ocheltree.

The fomer Miss Baumgartner wore a floor-length gown of white dotted swiss.

Miss Florence Baker of Enumclaw, Wash., was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Haptonstall of Richland, Wash., and Mrs. Kathy Knecht of Moscow, Idaho. Miss Tara Baumgartner and Brady Baumgartner, niece and nephew of the bride, were the flower girl and ring bearer.

Three brothers of the bride served as the groom's atendants. Duane D. Baumgartner was the best man and Richard C. Baumgartner and Gary L. Baumgartner were ushers.

A reception at the church preceded the couple's departure for a honeymoon trip to Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell are now making their home in Chino where Mrs. McConnell is a high school physical education teacher and her husband is a material handler for Freighliner Corp.

Surina-Watson

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Cynthia JoAnne Watson and Anthony James Surina in an evening ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church of Covina.

The Rev. Richard Chistensen officated at the rites uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Watson of Covina and the son of Mrs. Stanley Surina of Chino.

Given in marriage by her parents, the former Miss Watson wore a nylon organdy gown with a high neck and ruffled train. She carried a bouquet of roses and miniature carnations.

Miss Cathy Plesko was the bride's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Michele Purpora, Terry Paulson, Jean Deaniel and JoAnn Surina, the groom's sister.

Mike Bidart stood as best man for the groom. Ushers were Greg Watson, brother of the bride, Larry Eckrote and Jack Surina and Mike Surina, brothers of the groom.

A reception was held in the church. After a honeymoon in northern California the newlyweds will make their home in Covina.

Green-Kurtzer

Congregation Emanu El in San Bernardino was the setting for the marriage of Miss Lee Ann Kurtzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fischer of Pomona, and Alan Lee Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cavaretta of Riverside.

The afternoon ceremony was performed by Rabbi Hillel Cohn.

Escorted to the altar by her mother and stepfather, the bride wore a floor-length gown with a cluny lace apron over an organza skirt. The dress was fashioned with a high neckline, a Basque waist and lantern sleeves. The bride fashioned her four-tier fingertip illusion veil which was gathered in a pearl cap. The former Miss Kurtzer carried a bouqet of white carnations, yellow baby roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Mrs. Roger Stinnett was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Betty Kurtzer and Miss Karen Kurtzer, sisters of the bride.

Theodore Huling served as best man, and Robert Neal and Dan Thompson were ushers. Lighting candles was Stephen Cavaretta.

After a honeymoon in northern California Mr. and Mrs. Green are making their home in Herlong where the groom is stationed with the Army. Mrs. Green is a graduate of Pomona High School, Mt. San Antonio College and UCR. She will attend graduate school at the University of Nevada, Reno. Her husband graduated from North High School in Riverside, Riverside City College and UCR.

Special out-of-town wedding guests included the bride's father, A. Kurtzer of Dallas, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Marv Kurtzer, Kingston, Pa., brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

Simmons-Arnold

An evening nuptial ceremony at the Chapel of the Roses in Pasadena united in marriage Miss Diana Louise Arnold and Brian L. Simmons on Saturday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Arnold of Rialto was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore a white floor-length gown of georgette over taffeta. The gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline edged in floral lace and pearls and sequins, and long straight sleeves. Her three tier silk illusion veil was held by a Juliet cap trimmed in pearls and sequins. The bride carried a single long-stemmed rose with fern and baby's breath.

Miss Sharon Sakatani was the maid of honor for the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Roxie Kaiser and Miss Cynthia Arnold, sister of the bride. Mrs. Sharon Brooks, sister of the groom, held the guest book.

Dennis Raybould stood as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Simmons of Pomona. Ushers were Norman Miller and Alan Brooks.

A reception at the chapel preceded the coupe's two-week honeymoon trip in northern California and Lake Tahoe. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will make their home in Pasadena.

Barrett-Cordasco

Miss Margy Cordasco and Thomas Barrett exchanged wedding vows in an afternoon nuptial ceremony at Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church, Claremont.

Officiating at the double-ring rites was the Very Rev. Msgr. William Barry.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, the bride wore a gown of organdy over taffeta accented with lace, seed pearls and crystals. Her full-length train was trimmed in lace and her gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. A Juliet cap with pearls and crystals held a five-tiered bouffant veil. The new matron carried a bouquet of carnations, roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sue Cordasco served as matron of honor for the daughter of Mrs. Carolyn Cordasco of Claremont. Bridesmaids were the Misses Marguerite Cordasco, Carol Ann Cordasco, Jo Ann Barrett and Lisa Barrett, and Mrs. Sue Bonetti. Maria Fratino and Jeanette Cordasco were the flower girls and Franklin Bruno was the ring bearer.

Philip Barrett stood as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barrett of Pomona. Ushering were Vince Fowler, Dennis Jones, Pat Cordasco, David Barrett and Bob James.

A reception at Di Censo's Restaurant followed the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip to Hawaii the newlyweds will make their home in Long Beach.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT LEES

Golden anniversary marked by Pomonans

A party was held recently to honor Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lees of Pomona who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Friday.

Hosting the party were Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Lees of Cucamonga, son and daughter-in-law of the couple. Other children of the Lees are a son, Navy Cmdr. Leonard J. Lees of San Pedro, and a daughter, Mrs. Allen Van Duren of San Diego. The couple also has 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Thirty-five family members attended the event including Mr. Lees's sister, Mrs. Mary Gregory, 80, of New Bedford, Mass.

Married on Sept. 7, 1923, in Marblehead, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Lees lived in New Bedford, Mass., where Mr. Lees was a member of the New Bedford Police Department. After his retirement 17 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Lees moved to Pomona.

Mr. Lees is a World War I Navy veteran and both he and his wife were members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post in New Bedford. Mr. Lees is a member of the Keith Powell Post 78, American Legion, of Claremont.

Home-sewn fashions featured

Until recently, men have been neglected in the realm of home-sewn fashions. But the trend is changing.

Any major catalog will show patterns for men's styles.

"Sew Together: With William Heller Knits and McCall's Carefree Patterns," a fashion show of sew-at-home garments will be presented at all 20 May Company California stores this fall.

The 26 garments in the show will range from sweaters and jackets for both genders to glitter, evening garments in plush fabrics.

The style show will be presented at the Montclair May Company on Friday at 7 p.m. in the Forecast Shop and is open to all interested persons.

If you're a pearl girl, there are new ways of wearing them with the coming season's revival of the black short or long evening dress. Fasten one end to the shoulder with a jeweled pin, the other end of the strand (or strands) falling diagonally to the hipbone, and another fastener.

More mortgages

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mortgage debt,which more than doubled during the 1960s, is expected to show an even greater increase in the next 10 years, the Mortgage Bankers Association of America reports.

The projected rise is based on the anticipated need to finance higher-priced, higher-quality new homes and the resale of an ever-increasing number of houses, the Association says.

CHINESE COOKERY—Yula Yang, with the assistance of her daughter, Lisa, 8, uses a wok to prepare a Cantonese dish, stir-fried chicken almond. Mrs. Yang will conduct classes in Chinese cookery in a UCR extension course which begins Sept. 19 in Montclair.

UCR Extension

Cooking class set

An exloration into the techniques of Chinese cookery will be led by Mrs. Yula Yang of Claremont during a three-month University of California at Riverside extension course at Montclair High School.

Beginning on Sept. 19 classes will meet in Room 6 at the high school, 4725 Benito St., Montclair, on Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. Class sessions will continue through Dec. 19.

The science of food and nutrition using Chinese cookery as an incentive will be covered in the classes with demonstrations of preparation techniques and discussion of the aesthetic aspects and the principles of the Chinese culture.

In Chinese cooking the techniques rather than the ingredients is stressed in the proper cooking method. The UCR class will feature the preparation and recipes for familiar and unusual dishes including paper-wrapped chicken, Peking duck, egg drop soup and eight-treasure rice pudding. Besides receiving the recipes, participants will also be able to taste the prepared foods.

Students will receive four college credits for the course which can also go towards post-graduate class credit since it was designed for professional and occupational upgrading. Enrollment is limited for the 14-meeting course.

Mrs. Yang was born and raised in China. She received her B. A. degree at the National Central University, Nanking, China, and her M.A. in food chemistry at the University of Toronto. She has completed the requirements for a Ph. D. in food technology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Questions on the course can be directed to Mrs. Yang by calling 624-4695.

Retired Teachers set fall picnic Saturday

California Retired Teachers Association will meet for a fall picnic at the Palomares Adobe Park, 491 E. Arrow Highway, Pomona, on Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Featured in the program will be community singing led by Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Jaeger. Mr. Jaeger, a trumpet player, teaches math at Chaffey High School. Mrs. Jaeger, who will accompany the singing on guitar, is a teacher at Mountain View School in Claremont.

Clemett L. Neibel, president of the Pomona Historical Society of Pomona Valley will speak on "Historical Facts and Figures Concerning Our Pomona Valley." Mr. Neibel was born in Pomona and attended Pomona schools and Pomona College. He is retired from the Southern California Edison Co.

Members of the CRTA board of directors will be hosts and hostesses for the evening.

Vice president of the association making the picnic arrangements are Mrs. Elfrieda Jaeger of Claremont, program; and Mrs. Verda R. Carl and Mrs. Edna Deal, both of Pomona, social. Reservations for the picnic may be made with Mrs. Carl or Mrs. Deal.

Fellowship program announced

The first fall meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational, will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m.

A short business meeting will be followed by a program under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Tishkins. Diane Hilbig, co-director of youth work, will outline plans for study and social events.

Members of the congregation who attended the 60th anniversary of the Missionary Education Conference will provide a dialog, "Asilomar over the Coffee Cups." The members brought tapes of a series of lectures on Japan from the conference. The tapes are available for group use along with two new study books.

A noon luncheon during the meeting has been planned by Marjorie and Esther Smith.

Firemen's Wives set meeting

The Pomona Fire Department Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. Ron Torkelson at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The speaker for the meeting will be a member of the Upland Police Department who will discuss burglary prevention. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Dale Janssen and Mrs. Ron Bozarth.

Plans will be discussed for the bazaar at the Montclair Plaza, catering the Bekins sale and the children's Halloween party.

PBX Club schedules dinner

PBX Club of Pomona will hold its first meeting of the new club year Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Isabel Whelchel, 2457 S. Fairgreen Ave., Monrovia.

Events of the evening will include a swim party and potluck dinner followed by a business meeting and program.

During the meeting members will report on the International Convention in Mexico City held recently. Those attending from the local club were Mrs. Raylene Scott, Mrs. June Crane, president, and Mrs. Mary Jane Brown.

PBX members Mrs. Kay Reed and Mrs. Whelchel will present the Wednesday program on tooling and the making of leather goods. The two women are members of the Leather Guild.

Those interested in joining the PBX Club should call Mrs. Crane at 987-2521 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Plane service in Venezuala is maintained through 63 airports, including four international airports.

Small shoe look

The Fashion House of Norell believes in the small shoe look while many other stylists keep turning out those thick, thick soled numbers for both day and evening. David Evins did the shoe for the New York firm's fall and winter clothes collection. For day, the models wore "little girl" looking footwear, almost flat-heeled pumps done in alligator calif, lizard, patent and suede with grosgrain ribbon bow. For evening, bare sandals had skinny medium heels.

ARE PATTERNS OUT in today's carpet era, when there is so much news about textures and exciting new color mixtures? The answer is a ringing "No!" Patterns are just another way carpet manufacturers are showing us new ways to go.

New prints and patterns are very much part of the scene. This is partly due to the development of new printing and dyeing technologies — equipment and methods that make it possible to create patterns without a high penalty in cost.

All the popular textures and types — shags, cut-piles and loops — are available in a range of new patterns or prints, and in just about any fiber from wools to the modacrylics. And patterns are popular in the handy new carpet tiles as well as in broadlooms.

Prints and patterns fit into any decor. You'll find plaids for the Colonial setting, delicate florals for traditional rooms, bold geometrics for your modern class-and-chrome decor. The new patterns are made to be seen . . . and you should see them!

Prints and patterns — we have an outstanding array for you to choose from, and at prices from the most luxurious to honeymooners' budgets. Stop in, and bring your room measurements. Remember, you're always welcome to browse, at

What's Going on At Griswolds

A woman was sitting in the Redlands SMORGASBORD enjoying the meal and apparently enthralled with the surroundings. The manager happily commented to the woman that she was glad she was SO pleased. The guest replied that she was a novelist and was absorbing the atmosphere—the SMORGASBORD is the setting for her latest novel. We can't wait to read it!

Griswold's has a very good friend in Alta Loma. A telephone caller asked, "Is Casa Ramon missing a sign?" Upon checking, sure enough, the sign directing guests to our Mexican restaurant in Griswold's Old School House in Claremont was missing. Some adventurous soul had "lifted" the sign and thrown it into the yard in Alta Loma.

Improved English

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Sentence diagramming has not been cast out by all English teachers. I still teach it to my 7th and 8th-grade pupils, who are often surprised to find how much it helps them.

"When they are in high school they realize that their foundation in English is far better than that of most of their classmates. Some return to visit and express their thanks or very often in a chance meeting I'm told they do appreciate it.

"Teaching grammar is becoming more difficult each year. It has been bad enough trying to offset the mistakes in the publications and the glaring ones on TV and radio, but now we are receiving teachers whose spoken English is appalling. To hear 'Have went' or 'between you and I' was bad enough, but this year I hear 'yiz' for 'You.'

"Some teachers refuse to correct a pupil's spelling and grammar in written work because it may inhibit the child's free expression! The expression is so free that answers to essay-type tests can hardly be understood, and the result is that the testing in science, social studies and reading must be true or false or multiple-choice types.

"What are the teacher colleges doing?—Mr. W.F., Bayonne, N.J."

There absolutely must be a reversal in the teaching methods in the teacher colleges. How can young teachers who cannot speak well themselves, and who do not understand the grammar of their own language, expect to teach pupils how to express themselves orally or in writing?

You should add to your sources of bad grammar some of the advertising agencies. I recently heard a great conductor do a commericial on television, saying something like "As a conductor, noise . . ." Obviously the phrase should have been followed by the subject "I." The "conductor" isn't "noise."

Diagramming and very careful teaching can reach young children so they don't mangle the language in this way. Otherwise they may grow up to be advertising copywriters and other communicators who continue to communicate mushy English.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: What is the manner of succession when naming children? My husband's grandfather was John James Smith. My husband's father was Arthur John Smith. My husband is John James Smith. Our son is John James Smith. His son is John James Smith.

"Were we correct in calling our son Junior, or should he have been II? What is our grandchild?—Mr. F.G., El Paso,

Your son was properly named Junior. His son is III. He would have been II only if his name had been Arthur John Smith, for his grandfather. When a boy has the same name as his father, he is Junior until his father dies, then he may drop the Junior.

If a man who is a Junior becomes a doctor, and his father is not a doctor, he also wisely drops the Junior. The title Doctor is sufficiently definitive. On the other hand, if his father is a doctor and his a Junior and becomes a doctor himself, he retains the Junior until his father's death (or, if his father was a very distinguished man and there might be some confusion in history, as I point out, he might keep the Junior the rest of his life).

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: In regard to the 'early bird to church gets the aisle' controversy, my view has a logical reason. I have a small child and a baby whom I must take with me. If one or the other should cry or distract those around me, I must get out with as little commotion as possible. Have you ever tried to balance a baby in your arms and climb over six or eight pairs of legs?—Mrs. R.A., Fulton, Ky."

I have had so much mail on this subject that I will have to leave it for a while, but I could not resist running this letter, which makes so much sense.

(Miss Amy Vanderbilt welcomes your letters and strives to answer all those of general interst in her column. Send your questions and comments to Miss Vanderbilt in care of Progress-Bulletin.

Youths encouraged to develop potential

Phase two of a project held this summer will begin this month and continue throughout the school year under the direction of Epsilon Eta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

"To Reach Youth," TRY, offers youngsters an opportunity to develop their potential and explore areas beyond the regular school classroom. The Alpha Kappa Alpha project is in keeping with the sorority's national theme, "Personal Involvement Now."

Heading the project are sorority members Gwendolyn Tucker and Willie Tymony, assisted by parents of TRY participants, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moland. Member Vivian Scott provided transportation for some of the participants.

Each of the adults involved volunteered three-and-a-half hours daily giving guidance and providing constructive, productive and rewarding activities. Activities included knitting, crocheting, flower arranging, sewing, macrame, ceramics and woodcrafts.

The sorority is planning a public program to display the work of the children and offer it for sale.

Summer participants in the program were Vicki Gooden, Ellie Thompson, Sharon Hughes, Deardra Tucker, Dawn Terry, Kim Moland, Angela Boyd, Linda Hughes, April Scott, Adrienne Tucker, Stanley Harris, Ricky Moland and Alvin and Calvin Mosley.

The public is invited.

Mark Twain wouldn't recognize Russ 'Finn'

MOSCOW (UPI) —The film opens with a steamboat chugging down a river in what appears to be an American scene, but the river is the Dnieper, not the Mississippi.

The central character is a boy who smokes a pipe and rides a raft with a black man named Jim. The boy's features are Slavic, and his name in Russian is pronounced "Geckelberi."

The movie is the Russian version of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn," a book as popular with Russian readers as it is with Americans.

Filmed in southern Russia by one of the country's top directors, Georgi Daniela, it is scheduled to open in Moscow late this month. It already has proved a resounding success with preview audiences at the Moscow Film Club.

To American eyes, the film is remarkably authentic in many details, particularly in the costumes and sets. But it is also strangely tragi-comic, a rather far cry from the antic quality of the novel.

"When I started shooting, I meant this film to be very gay," Daniela said in an interview. "But as it went along, it became a film of problems, with this tragic atmosphere.

"I am mostly interested in the problem of good and evil. Good is symbolized by Jim and Huck and the river. When they get ashore, they come across hypocrisy and all kinds of evils. But in general, good triumphs."

There is a heavy emphasis on Jim's mistreatment at the hands of whites. Because this is a Russian film about an American subject, some viewers might see a political motivation in that.

But Daniela, 43, a short, lively Georgian with a mustache and graying hair, said he was attempting to describe a moral problem, man's inhumanity to man, rather than to indict American society.

"I have too many problems myself to be interested in that," he said. "Let American film makers do that. Injustice is a moral problem that exists in all countries."

Daniela's film is called "Sobsem Propashi" (Good For Nothing), a title based on Huck's frequent references to himself in the dialogue as "good for nothing." Daniela said he chose that title to avoid confusion with an earlier Romanian film called "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn."

"This has always been my favorite book, both as a child and as an adult," he said. "Hemingway said that all American literature came from one source — Huckleberry Finn. What Mark Twain wrote is still valid for mankind today."

The Russian Huck Finn is a blond, apple-cheeked, 10-yearold Moscow schoolboy, Roman Modyanov, who is appearing in his first film.

Daniela described him as "very fitted" for the role but said the boy had difficulty learning American names. "In one scene, he is asked where he is heading, and the first time we did it he answered 'New York Times', instead of New Orleans," Daniela said.

Jim is played by Felix Iemakuede, a former student at Patrice Lumumba University in Moscow who is now an oil engineer in his native Nigeria. Iemakuede had no previous acting experience, and his interpretation of Jim is emphatically solemn.

Daniela, who trained as an architect and went into filmmaking later in his career, is known to some American film buffs as the director of "A Summer To Remember," which won a film critics prize in the United States in the late 1950's.

He acknowledged that some aspects of his current film might be puzzling to American audiences, but points out he made it for Russian audiences, not American. It might even confuse Mark Twain, Daniela conceded with a smile.

"If Mark Twain could see it," he said, "he would think it was a film about Russia that has nothing to do with his novel."

HUCK FINN is an all-American boy, right? Right, except when he's Russian. Young Roman Madyanov plays the title role in a film of the Mark Twain novel being produced by the Soviet Mosfilm.

Condominium boom results from changes in society

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Condominium. Not so long ago it was something you looked up in the dictionary: "individual ownership of a unit in a multi-unit structure; a unit so owned."

Today, it's a household word. What's more, an increasing number of households are condominiums.

New condominium units offered for sale this year are expected to account for more than 50 per cent of the total number of new dwellings — perhaps as high as 58 per cent. As recently as 1970 condominiums accounted for only 11 per cent of new home sales.

The condominium boom mirrors important changes in the composition of American society. The groups most attracted to condominiums — younger buyers and senior citizens — now comprise 55 per cent of our population.

Unlike some housing trends of the past, condominiums did not emerge quietly — slowly gaining popularity. "Instead," says Robert W. Gaber, president of Conco Mortgage Co., San Francisco, "and explosion of demand reached, amost overnight, boom proportions."

Would-be owners are rushing to buy condominiums in all forms: townhouse and cluster homes; apartments — both the garden-type low rise and high rises.

There is a growing trend of converting rental apartments to condominiums. This involves rehabilitation of older run-down buildings, helping to renew many deteriorating neighborhoods and to meet the demand for inner-city housing in some areas. Many of the conversions also involve newer more modern apartment buildings that require little or no renovation.

Price and geographical location, of course, are important considerations for all buyers, and often a deciding factor is the minimum of time-consuming maintenance required by the condominium.

On principle, the concept has much to commend it. In many ways it gives the condominium owner the equivalent of single family home ownership. He can tailor the financing to a degree, to his own needs; has an equity interest which figures to give him a measure of inflation protection and gets the tax advantages of private home ownership—tax and interest deductions, deferment of tax on gain on sale within Code limits, and long-term capital gain treatment if tax deferment is not available. Normally, he is the absolute owner. And, if he wants, he can rent and take depreciation deductions like any other landlord.

As with most things, however, the condominium form of ownership is not without drawbacks and pitfalls. As with any home purchase, it requires an alert buyer aware of the cons as well as the pro.

From the Institute for Business Planning, New York City publisher of financial and real estate planning information, comes a checklist of some of the key items the potential buyer of a condominium should be aware of:

— Lease of Land. In many cases, the developer will retain ownership of the land and recreational facilities. He may thus collect rent for both from the condominium owners for longer periods—such as 99 years or possibly more. The rent may be way out of line.

For example, recreational facilities which cost $500,000 to build may be leased for $150,000 a year. Because of this, the condominium owner may be paying $50 or more per month over his normal maintenance expenses. Some developers write the lease into the deed as a mechanic's lien with the idea of getting priority for themselves over the lien of the mortgage.

— Maintenance Costs. The estimate given prospective purchasers may be very low. The developers may be able to defer costs while he's around. When he leaves, the actual costs show up.

— Renting. Possibility for renting a unit often is used as an inducement to purchase. Glowing rent estimates are made. They neglect to take account of the actual market, rental commissions, screening fees, the IRS limitation on tax deductions, the fix-up expenses and other factors. Taken into account, all these things might require a rent far larger than the market would support.

— Construction. The heating and cooling systems may be inadequate. The plumbing may not live up to expectations. Sound proofing may be thin. Room sizes may be smaller than the sale floor plans showed. The same may be true of parking spaces.

— Voting Control. The developer often will keep voting control of the management board of the project until all units are sold. This control serves the legitimate purpose of assuring proper operation and maintenance while the units are being sold. The danger is if there's no time limit on the developer's control and he finds it difficult to sell the units, he may be able to lower prices or start renting. That, of course, is not good for the unit owners. To guard against this, the developer's control should be limited, especially the time element, which should be no more than two years at the outside.

— Control of Utilities. In some projects, the developer will continue to control gas and electricity, water and sewers, and other utilities. This is to be avoided as unit owners are exposed to the risk of uncontrolled rates and poor performance without effective remedy.

— Growth of Project. Sometimes the developer plans to add more to the project in some undefined way. He might build so many additional units that planned recreation facilities may prove inadequate. Also the comfort and value of the original units may be adversely affected by the sheer increase in size and number of units available.

The whole character of a community may change. What starts out as a townhouse community may later have high-rise apartments added, creating all sorts of problems for the original owners — transportation schools, shopping, traffic, pollution, view obstruction . . .

— Management contract, Special attention should be paid to any management contract a developer may retain. Such a contract may, for example, give him an exclusive on the sale or lease of units by the condominium owners at standard commission rates or permit insurance deals and the placing of repair and maintenance contracts and orders for work with affiliated or related outfits. These management contracts usually are put together before any units have been sold. There's no bargaining or negotiation. And they could tie down the unit owners for years.

Condominium is a good way of life for increasing numbers of families, but, as with any other major purchase, it's "Caveat Emptor," let the buyer beware—and be informed!

Job mishaps in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI) — The Florida Department of Commerce says 27 deaths and nearly 35,000 injuries from on-the-job accidents were reported to the department's Bureau of Workmen's Compensation during May, 1973. Of the injuries, 13,341 were listed as disabling.

ANDY RAPATTONI

Group will host speaker at program

CLAREMONT — Andy Rapattoni, president of the Realty Computer Corp. in Westwood, will be speaker at the Apartment Association - Mt. Baldy Area program on Wednesday.

The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards.

The program, open to the public is being hosted by the Herbert Hawkins Realtors, which uses a computer in its investment division.

Rappattoni heads the firm that installed a computer at Herbert Hawkins Realtors several months ago for use in investment property analysis and property management accounting systems.

The problem clinic will be conducted by Victor Tessier, association attorney. Refreshments will be served.

Homebuilders charge:

Housing needs aren't being met

WASHINGTON — The increase in the FHA-VA mortgage interest rate to 8½ per cent, the second this summer, underscores the failure of federal credit and housing policies to provide for consumer's housing needs, said George C. Martin, president of the National Association of Homebuilders.

"Once again governmental inability to develop balanced economic policies to contain inflation has resulted in placing the major burden of the anti-inflation fight on the consumers served by the home building industry," he said.

"The housing needs of our people are being sacrificed on the altar of high interest rates and tight money, and the housing industry and those sectors of the economy related to it are headed for a major decline."

The housing mortgage market is already in deep trouble from the actions of July 5 when the federal regulatory agencies, led by the Federal Reserve Board, lifted interest rate ceilings on amounts paid to savers, he charged.

"That touched off an interest rate spiral that is still going on, and although theoretically intended to help keep funds in savings and mortgage financing institutions, had results diametrically opposite from those in tended," said Martin. "This action of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Veteran Admistration will simply add to the burdens of the already troubled consumer seeking housing, making it more difficult for him to get mortgage financing at reasonable rates.

"Our information is that Savings and Loans and Mutual Savings Banks, the principle suppliers of mortgage funds, will probably show a losss of $2 billion in August in savings accounts on deposit with them; most of this decline appears to be in funds shifted to Commercial banks, and into non-mortgage uses," he added.

Unless the July 5 action is reversed, making it possible for Savings and Loans and Mutual Savings Banks to experience a return of saving funds flows, it is more than possible that there will be virtually no money at any price for mortgage lending.

"Past experience clearly indicates that raising the FHA-VA rate does little to do away with discounts on mortgages; the conventional rate has already risen sharply in the last two months, and this action will reinforce that rise."

On the whole, the American people, consumers, and the housing industry are being badly served by policies which clearly result in higher interest rates, tighter mortgage money, and a decline in home building and the inability of people either to sell their current houses or buy new ones, said Martin.

National meeting:

Builders to discuss high interest rates

WASHINGTON — The mortgage money crunch affecting home buyers and builders will be a major issue when more than 1,000 persons involved in the housing industry convene Sept. 20-25 at New Orleans.

In addition to the shortage of mortgage money and high interest rates, directors of the National Association of Home Builders will also consider plans to implement a nationwide program of home warranty insurance for consumer protection.

The program concept was approved in principle last May at a board of directors meeting in Washington, D. C. Since then, task forces have been at work studying all the complex details involved in organizing such a program.

George C. Martin of Louisville, Ky., president of the NAHB, will preside

Another major topic will be proposed changes in the federal approach to housing low and moderate income families. James Lynn, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, is scheduled to address the NAHB board.

The board will consider further implementation of NAHB's 12 point program for action by Congress or the Administration to combat growing inflation and provide for the nation's housing needs.

Charging that the present administration policy which relies on high interest rates for inflation control is "self defeating and inflationary in itself," NAHB officials said the present policy adds to housing costs and diminishes the supply of mortgage funds in savings institutions.

Power of eminent domain seen in expanding states

POMONA — In a state as constantly changing and expanding as California, the power of eminent domain is highly visible.

It may involve taking property for a freeway, tearing down tenements for a city park, and taking for for other reasons, said James Odom, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

"But some aspects of that power are not always so visible, even though they can profoundly affect the owner of real estate.

"What if, for instance, you have a busy service station next to a railroad and the city puts in an underpass? Traffic is whizzing by at a lower grade level and you're forced to try to attract the drivers with signs, be satisfied with less volume, or go out of business."

That's a form of eminent domain causing consequential damage, and if the controlling governmental body has not paid compensation for it, there probably is cause for a damage suit, said Odom.

"In my work as a Realtor, I see clients sometimes shudder at the use of the word condemnation, but it is the word commonly used for invoking the power of eminent domain."

The federal government, states, cities, counties, improvement districts, public utilities, public educational institutions, and similar public and semipublic bodies may use it. When they do, the main issue is almost invariably "just compensation." How much will you be paid for your property.

Most costs have ruled you must be paid fair market value. But you are not entitled to moving expenses, compensation for loss of profits because you had to move your business and most other intangibles resulting from condemnation of your property, he noted.

There is what is known as "severance damage." Say only part of your property is taken under condemantion, reducing the market value of the whole parcel. You are usually entitled to just compensation as worked out in an agreement or established by a court.

"But suppose part of your land were taken for a new library and as a result the fair market value of your property increased. If the increased value of what remains more than compensates for your loss of acreage, you wouldn't be entitled to compensation. That is known as a special benefit."

Another consequence: suppose the water department puts up a maintenance station right next door, condeming residences to do so, but paying you nothing for the decrease in value the high block wall on your property line has caused. You can institute a suit for "inverse condemnation," hoping the court will agree with your claim, said Odom.

"Actions surrounding eminent domain are grounded in law and if you want to challenge them it should be with the aid of an attorney. This article is only a general look at such actions affecting real estate."

A long line even longer

FRESNO (UPI) —A man who apparently grew impatient standing in line and indicated he might use a gun to force the issue wound up in jail instead of the circus he was waiting to see.

Police said that William C. Cornett, 66, Fresno, was waiting in line with scores of other persons to buy circus tickets at the Fresno Convention Center recently.

A witness said Cornett pointed to a gun tucked in his pocket and said "What is everyone standing around for? I can get in the ticket office if I want to. I've got this."

Two deputies and a security guard wrestled the loaded .32 caliber automatic away from the suspect who was booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon.

A FAMILY SCENE — A mother pouring herself a cup of coffee is watched by her two children in a color-coordinated kitchen at Orchard Lane, an Upland condominium community. The homes, located near Fredricks Lane and Spencer Avenue, feature luminous ceilings, gas ovens and ranges, dishwashers, double sinks, ash cabinets and vinyl flooring.

Mobile homes show increase

NEW YORK — The modern mobile home is assuming an increasingly important role as a practical means of helping budget-conscious families beat the high cost of housing, said a finance firm official.

"Last year, manufacturers shipped nearly 600,000 new mobile homes to dealers throughout the U.S., which is close to six times the 1960 shipments of 103,700," said Glen E. Jorgensen, president of C.I.T. Financial Services.

Shipments for 1973 are expected to exceed 625,000, he added.

Citing the $7,000 to $8,000 price tag on typical newly produced mobile home, Jorgensen terms this mode of shelter "a real bargain in today's tight housing market."

What's more, he explained, the price includes such features as drapes, furniture, major appliances and wall-to wall carpeting supplied by the manufacturer as part of the package.

At least one of every three single family housing units produced in January through March was a mobile home, said Jorgensen. "The exact share of this market claimed by mobile homes was 36 per cent on the basis of units produced during that period.

"Improvements in the design and construction of the new mobile homes, more attractive and better managed mobile home parks and the skyrocketing costs of other forms of shelter are contributing to the strong demand for mobile homes," said Jorgensen.

The Sooners beat the gun

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Oklahoma was unique in instituting legally organized "land runs" which were begun with a pistol shot. The term "Sooners," a nickname for the state and its people, referred to those who "jumped the gun' and crossed into the land rush areas before the official starting time in order to stake out claims to the best land.

Highway deaths down

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Fatalities in motor vehicle accidents on California highways decreased 4.3 per cent in the first six months of 1973, compared with the corresponding period of 1972, the California Traffic Safety Foundation reports.

Old hand-crank phones to stay

BRYANT POND, Maine (UPI) —It's the only handcrank telephone system left in New England, and despite an attempt to have it replaced with electronic dial equipment, the hand cranks will stay, the Maine Public Utilities Commission has ruled.

Some telephone customers in nearby South Paris, Maine, which is within the Bryant Pond telephone system, said incoming long distance calls were being delayed because the hand-crank system does not allow for direct long distance dialing. An operator has to handle each call.

The complainers petitioned the state utilities commission, demanding modern equipment. But the commission ruled in favor of the status quo.

"We have carefully reviewed the complaint, and are convinced that the problem the complaintants are having with incoming toll calls is not with the Bryant Pond system."

The commission blamed the delay on "the unfamiliarity of Bell System personnel with the hand-crank magneto system."

Now that we're on the ave- of a new television season, we'll take the promises with a grain of salt.

Builder reports:

Parkview East homes provide 'best deal'

POMONA — Homes at Parkview East provide buyers a "best deal," said Edward Lynch, sales manager for Lewis Homes.

"You'll find homes there with nearly 1,600 square feet of living area, selling at a price that no builder could replace them for today."

The four bedroom homes are priced from $28,300. The price includes built-in dishwashers, ovens, ranges, and garbage disposal units. There is also wall-to-wall carpet in the living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms.

Other features include cathedral ceilings, stone and brick fireplaces and large family rooms.

The Parkview East homes are offered with FHA, VA and conventional terms with minimum down payments, said Lynch. Qualified Cal-Vets receive loans at 4½ per cent interest rates.

"Like the smart automobile buyer, the wise home buyer benefits from good timing," he added. "The builder's desire to close out the remaining homes at Parkview East so sales personnel may be moved to other building projects is reflected in the low selling prices of the homes."

The community is located on La Verne Avenue, east of Garey Avenue.

Real estate seminar set

LOS ANGELES — The National Institute of Real Estate Brokers will present a six day course entitled "Fundamentals of Real Estate Investment and Taxation" Sept. 24-29 at the Airport Marina Hotel here.

The course provides an introduction to the fundamentals of real estate investment from the standpoint of a broker who serves an investor-client. It will be co-sponsored by the California Real Estate Association.

These include: demonstration of the mathematical tools to calculate the rate of return on real estate investments; analysis of mortgage loans and other common real estate problems; analysis of operating statements of income-producing real properties; the impact of alternative forms of depreciation on the return from an investment; and the preparation of investment analysis forms used in client analysis and projection.

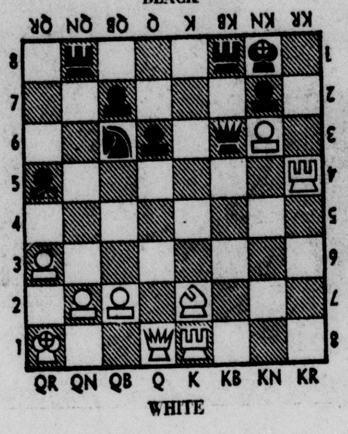
Registration may be made through the national institute's registration coordinator, 155 E. Superior Ct., Chicago, Ill., 60611. Further information may be obtained by contacting Al Wray, California Real Estate Association, 520 S. Grand Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90017.

Chess

Kicking oneself no compensation

No result can ever be taken for granted in chess. The best player in the world courts disaster and can lose to the worst if he makes one sufficiently weak move. Vulnerability to serious error is so widespread that even players of world championship calibre have overlooked simple mates when under extreme pressure.

(Diagram 1)
BLACK



WHITE

Our first position (diagram one) is to be found in the repertoire of many experienced amateur players. White has a quick checkmate after a double rook sacrifice. What is the mating procedure? Answer: 1) R-R8 check, KxR; 2) R-R1 check, K-N1; 3) R-R8 check, KxR; 4) Q-R1 check, K-N1; 5) Q-R7 mate.

There are many known examples of this type.

Doubtlessly the Malaysian player Lian Tan is not unfamiliar with the sacrifice of the two rooks. Yet he missed the win and the glory in the following position (Diagram two) reached against ex-world champion Vassily Smyslov in the 1973 Brazil Interzonal.

(Diagram 2)
BLACK Smyslov

Tan
WHITE

True, the position has its own unique twist but Tan will probably kick himself the rest of his days for missing the opportunity to so dramatically polish off his famous opponent.

Let's take the situation step by step and follow the hypothetical winning sequence, ingloriously missed by Tan (He played R-R7.) The first moves feature the sacrifice of the two rooks, i.e. 1) R-R8 check, BxR; 2) RxB check, KxR; 3) Q-R6 check, K-N1 and our third position is reached.

(Diagram 3)

WHITE

Now one move and one move only wins. It is not 4) N-N5 . . . threatening Q-R7 check and Q-R8 mate. N-N5 would lose after . . . . P-K3, which would provide an escape square at K2 for the black king. The winning move would have been 4) P-K6, unblocking the diagonal of the queen bishop and threatening mate with the queen at both N7 and R8. Both . . . . RxB and P-B3 fail to stop the mate since 5) N-N5 is unanswerable.

(Diagram 4)

So that you can more fully appreciate the effect of game conditions on mental function, diagram four presents a position in which the late Leonid Stein has just played R-N2, allowing an instant breakthrough by white. The game was lost whatever black did but it was probably not Stein's choice to lose so abruptly.

The winning move by white is 1) QxP check! - If . . . PxQ; 2) R-K8 checkmate. If . . . B-Q2 2) QxB check, QxQ; 3) BxQ, KxB; 4) NxP (discovered check) wins the rook.

As you can see, being a grandmaster is not insurance against drastic oversights.

Pollution fight is expensive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bringing existing facilities up to present pollution-control standards could cost American business $22.3 billion, or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year, according to McGraw-Hill's 6th Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

"This year's total investment of pollution abatement will represent 5.9 per cent, or $6.2 billion, of all capital spending — up from 5.1 per cent in 1972," reports Douglas Greenwald, McGraw - Hill's chief economist. "Total outlays in the anti-pollution area are expected to remain near the 6 per cent mark into 1976."

South Ontario, with its open spaces and friendly people, is one of the few spots left in Southern California with old-fashioned room to stretch out, to roam the countryside, to enjoy the outdoor living of yesteryear. But there's nothing old-fashioned about the conveniences of South Ontario! Modern shopping centers and cultural facilities are within minutes — and the schools are numerous and top-ranked. Look over the map above and check the many public and private schools near California Homes, including the new elementary and high schools just across the street. Then come out and see us . . . and discover the open spaces of South Ontario!

18-year-old dates young policeman

POLICEMAN: (Q.) I really need your help. A few days ago I met a COP! He asked me to go out with him some time, and I said OK.

To me, cops are something special. I don't want him to regret ever asking me out. Are there any tips you can give me on how to act or what to say when we're out? I am 18. He is 22 or 23. — Looking Forward in Florida.

(A.) I am glad he is young. You should not date a man much older than yourself, no matter what his work.

You might consider referring to your friend as a police officer, policeman, law officer or something else other than a "cop." Some officers think that word is uncomplimentary.

Be the same with him as you would be with any young man you wanted to know better.

A good friend is a treasure. Winning friends is an art. Some of the secrets are friendliness, knowing and caring about what a prospective friend is interested in, understanding and thoughtfulness, Respect is also a key ingredient in making friends.

HAIR: (Q.) My parents are really driving me crazy about my hair because I won't get it cut. I'll admit that long hair for boys is going out of style, but I still want it long. My friends all have long hair, and the girls I know like it long.

I think if I'm 15 years old, which I am, I should have a choice about the way I want my hair. Please try to help me! — Long hair in Louisiana.

(A.) You are correct about hair styles. There is a trend toward shorter hair, without sideburns, for males.

But if you and your firends are not ready to change, your parents should be tolerant about it.

I think any human, male or female, should have the freedom to wear his or her hair in the style preferred. Why should we dictate how males wear their hair when females have the freedom to change hair styles any time they wish?

Oscar-winner Hayes using fame to aid other blacks

CHICAGO (UPI) —In four lightning years Academy Award winner Isaac Hayes, "Black Moses", has become a superstar in black entertainment. Now Hayes is using his success to help people less fortunate.

Hayes, 30, won an Oscar for his score of the film "Shaft" in 1972. Shaft opened the door for a new wave of black films. Hollywood quickly realized the dollar potential of black films and the rest is history.

Born in Covington, Tenn., Hayes remembered when he was a child he didn't get a chance to see black entertainers. "Sometimes I would see them in the newspapers or I'd get lucky and see them on television," he said in an interview.

"More and more black entertainers are coming into the neighborhoods now. They are real, you can reach out and touch them.

"Black entertainers are where you can see, they're live, they did it. That's living proof that it can be done. This is what the whole philosophy is about. They don't have to read about them (black entertainers) in Negro history books once a year like we did."

Forms foundation

Hayes formed the Isaac Hayes Foundation three years ago to build low cost housing for poor people and contributed heavily to aid in the fight against sickle cell anemia, a disease that strikes blacks primarily. Hayes said that he had just completed two 36 low income housing units in St. Croix, Virgin Islands. He said the housing complex would be run by the tenants. He is even sponsoring a Little League team within the complex.

"We plan to build more low cost housing in the future," he said.

Hayes said he is sensitive to the needs of all poor people, not only blacks.

"I am constantly saying 'black' because before you do anything, you have to straighten up your own backyard," he said, "but after that you should deal with people in general, not only black but white, Chicanos, Mexicans, the whole thing."

His first commitment is to blacks. "There are still areas where they're being denied and we can't be naive about that," he said.

Singing the blues

On the subject of music, Hayes said black music has always been relevant. During certain times it was only through music that a black artist could express himself.

"Ten years ago a black could not sing about social problems. So he had to express himself in a different way," Hayes said. "The black man has been singing the blues for years."

He said the blues was always considered illiterate and often vulgar. Hayes said only recently has the blues been recognized as a "cultural thing."

"The reason black music has become much more serious now is because black artists have the freedom to express themselves in a lot of different ways."

In commenting on his million seller, "By the Time I Get to Phoenix," Hayes said, "I could relate to Phoenix because I have had experiences that were familiar. I'm sure whoever it touched had experiences or knew of someone who did, because it was so human."

Hayes said he tries to get to the core of any song he does. "I try to arouse the senses. There is a thing about sensuality, I try to touch."

DAINTY DANCE — Merriment characterizes many of the dances to be performed by these and other members of the Ballet Folklorico Mexicano de Graciela Tapia at the Ahmanson Theater of the Los Angeles Music Center Sept. 14 and 15. The performances will celebrate the weekend of Mexico's Independence Day. Tickets are on sale at the box office and Mutual, Liberty and Wallichs ticket agencies.

Francis Drake ship, with engine, at sea

LONDON (UPI) —She ghosted up the River Thames with all flags flying, and the clock seemed to turn back 400 years as the good ship Golden Hinde berthed at the Tower of London Friday.

There was only one problem. No wind.

Ignominiously, the American owned replica of the ship Sir Francis Drake sailed around the world in 1577 had to make the last stage of her first journey with the help of a distinctly modern engine.

Still the ancient-looking 102-foot ship made an impressive sight under the frowning battlements of the grim fortress Drake and his queen, the first Elizabeth, knew well.

On Saturday the Golden Hinde began the career for which she was built —showing herself to paying visitors. For this new ship is bound for San Francisco as a demonstration of the cramped, cockleshell vessels which first explored America.

This Golden Hinde has cost $750,000 so far, and the real payoff for her owners is a long and uncertain way off.

For the plan is to sail her across the Atlantic, without the engine if possible, through the Panama Canal since insurers were not keen about rounding the Horn, and up the Pacific Coast to her final berth near the spot where Drake landed in 1579.

"She seems a fair ship," said Capt. Adrian Small, who sailed her from Plymouth, near the southwest English port where she was built, to London over the past 17 days.

"She's new, and it's very early to tell how she'll handle," Small said, fingering the sword hung at his side by a thick leather belt across the chest. "She's slow. But I think we'll make it."

The Golden Hinde almost didn't make it out to sea, much less across one. Inspectors for the British Board of Trade decided she was unseaworthy and insisted 35 tons of ballast be added to the keel, not to mention such un-16th-century touches as ship-to-shore radio and fire extinguishers everywhere in the all-wooden craft.

But the new Golden Hinde looks impressively old. Her towering cliff-like wooden sides have been tarred, her forest of spars looks knocked about and the spider's web of rigging on her three stumpy masts seems purposeful and used.

Small said future plans were uncertain. The new Golden Hinde may tackle the Atlantic next spring or wait until next fall, he said.

Watercolor expert to demonstrate

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Watercolorist Kolan Peterson will give a demonstration at the year's first meeting of the Heights Art Association at the county library, 16010 La-Monde St., at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A native of Utah, Peterson now lives in Hemet and was president of the Hemet Valley Art Association for two years. His awards include the first place Professional Trophy Award at the Farmers Fair in 1970, and second in the Rancho California Invitational Show in 1972.

The demonstration is open to the public.

Self service coming fast

BOEBLINGEN, Germany (UPI) — Half of West Germany's service stations will be converted into self-service places by 1980 an oil company predicts.

A survey by the Shell Oil Co. showed 44 per cent of all motorists prefer to service their cars themselves. Shell predicted that by 1980 Germany's 44,000 gasoline stations will be reduced to 30,000 and only half of them will be manned.

Vandals destroy 800 young grape vines

TULARE (UPI) —Tulare County sheriff's deputies reported that vandals severed 800 young grape vines at the James Abercrombie Ranch here.

Inland ports

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI) — Duluth and neighboring Superior, Wis. lie more than 2,340 miles by canal and lake routes inland from the Atlantic Ocean. Ocean-going vessels make the voyage from the Atlantic along the Great Lakes in an average of seven days. The ships traverse several locks and climb 600 feet above sea level to dock here.

STOMACH TROUBLE GONE

Says J. Smolka, "I suffered from gas, indigestion, constipation for some time. Doctors Xrayed my stomach and found nothing, but their treatments didn't help.

I took Dr. Wing's treatments and was better after 2 weeks. In 12 weeks I was well enough to stop treatments and have felt well ever since. I can recommend anyone with stomach trouble to go see Dr. Wing."

SOLITUDE
ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY PINES!

Here's a secluded kind of apartment luxury living that you haven't seen before.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

DEAR POLLY—I was always losing my socks, but no more. I put all of my socks in a nylon bag (onions came in it originally) and since most of them are blue or black and only distinguishable from one another by pattern, I pin each pair together before they go in the hamper. —HAL

(Polly's Note—Just be sure the safety pins are rustproof and that the bag colors do not run.)

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—When working on a macrame project such as a belt I find it is quite easy to do the work on an empty fabric bolt that a store will usually give you. The pins stay in this well and it is the right size to lean against a table or place on your lap.—LES

DEAR POLLY—When a frosted cake slithers all around and the top layer is in real danger of sliding off I firmly anchor the layers together with a couple of thin steel knitting needles instead of toothpicks (those can be a hazard). The knitting needles can be removed easily at the last minute without going through the needle-in-the-haystack routine that toothpicks demand.—MRS. W. W. M.

DEAR POLLY—When altering a dress or any garment where the hem is let down, the creases are always filled with threads, lint and other dirty particles. The vacuum cleaner hose does away with them in a hurry.—OPAL

DEAR POLLY—To save time when baking a cake with a cake mix that calls for the pan to be greased and floured, I use a tablespoon of the dry cake mix instead of the flour and it works very well.—MRS. L. A.

DEAR POLLY—Here's a tip for those sewers who have a lot of cutting to do, particularly for such things as curtains: If there is no cutting space handy, they can use a smooth flush door. I pulled the hinge pins out of one, placed one end of the door on top of the ironing board at one end and on two chairs at the other end and found it made a most successful cutting table.—MRS. T. A.

DEAR POLLY—My baby uses so many bibs I now make most satisfactory and inexpensive ones. I buy soft, inexpensive washcloths in bright colors, cut a half-circle at the top for the neck and bind with bias tape, which is put on so that enough is left at each end for ties. Such a bib is easy to care for and can be used to wipe up a messy baby after his meal. —MARY BETH

By Ed Sullivan
IT'S BEAUTIFUL, FRED! I'LL HAVE TO TELL GEORGE ABOUT IT!
DON'T FORGET TO MENTION THE PRICE!
I WISH WE COULD FIND BARGAINS THE WAY FRED ERTLE DOES!
NOW WHAT DID HE GET?
A NEW BIRD BATH... AND IT ONLY COST $1.95
I DON'T BELIEVE IT! BIRD BATHS ARE MORE EXPENSIVE THAN THAT!
THAT'S RIGHT, GEORGE...$1.95! BEAUTIFUL, ISN'T IT? NICE, STURDY BASE...
EASY TO CLEAN, WEATHERPROOF, SIMULATED MARBLE FINISH...
WHAT'S IT MADE OF, FRED?
PLASTIC!

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:
FOR AN OBJECT TO FLOAT, IT MUST BE "LIGHT" ENOUGH TO BE BUOYED, OR HELD UP, BY THE WATER. A BOAT CAN FLOAT BECAUSE IT HAS A HOLLOW HULL. WHEN YOU PUT A BOAT IN THE WATER, THE WATER THE BOAT'S BIG HULL DISPLACES, OR PUSHES ASIDE, WEIGHS MORE THAN THE WHOLE BOAT ITSELF, AND THE BOAT BECOMES "LIGHT" ENOUGH TO FLOAT. A BOAT WILL FLOAT AS LONG AS IT NEVER WEIGHS MORE THAN THE WATER ITS HULL PUSHES ASIDE.

NBC

A one-hour dramatic series involving five Los Angeles policemen who form a quasi-official unit designated to handle major criminal cases that other departments cannot solve.
The squad, which divorces itself from official uniform, is headed by Capt. Chase Reddick
(Mitchell Ryan). Reid Smith portrays Norm Hamilton, expert helicopter pilot;
Michael Richardson is Steve Baker, hot rod/car expert;
Brian Fong portrays
Fred Sing, who rides his own custom motorcycle;
Wayne Maunder is
Sgt. Sam MacCray, supervisor of the younger officers and a specialist with trained police dogs; and Albert Reed appears as Inspector Frank Dawson, the squad chief's only contact with the police department.

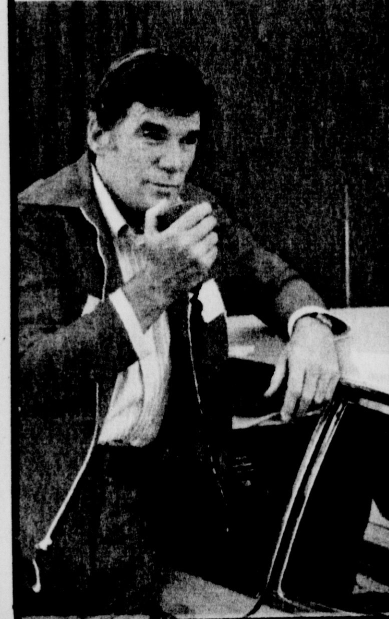
TUESDAYS 8PM

CHASE



NBC

An hour-long musical variety series featuring comedians, top singers, variety acts and a chorus line.
Sammy Davis Jr. will be just one of the headliners.
Each hour is presented on a proscenium arch stage, complete with gliding curtain and music conductor in the orchestra pit.
There will be no host, no customary patter between numbers and no interruptions in the entertainment . . .
except for commercials.

THURSDAYS 10PM

NBC FOLLIES

NBC

Sally Field and John Davidson co-star in this half-hour romantic comedy series about a young married couple facing all of the typical problems of newlyweds . . . plus one . . .
SHE has extrasensory perception!
Sally and John Burton's lives are complicated by the fact that Sally knows what John (or anyone else for that matter) is thinking,
or going to say,
before he says or does it.
Jack Sheldon is featured as John's brother, Jerry; and Zohra Lampert portrays Anne, an artist and co-owner of a boutique with Sally.

FRIDAYS 8:30PM

THE GIRL WITH SOMETHING EXTRA

NBC

Comedian Dom DeLuise stars as bachelor Stanley Belmont in this comedy series adapted from the British hit
"On the Buses."
Belmont, a man in his 30s, works as a clerk in the lost and found department of a New York City bus line.
Stanley is beset by a variety of problems at work
AND at home . . . where he must support his mother (Kathleen Freeman), his married sister Olive Swann
(Beverly Sanders) and his "unemployable" brother-in-law
Arthur Swann (Wynn Irwin).
Jack Knight appears as Stanley's friend and neighbor,
Bummy.

FOCUS '73

SPECIAL NOTE FROM THE EDITOR: What with the Watergate Hearings, the gas shortage, beef shortage, skyrocketing food prices and grain shortages, it has been a most irritating summer for most of us. TV WEEK is sorry to have to add to that irritation by being forced to provide you with a somewhat "edited" down version of the annual Premiere Issue of TV Week, encompassing information on the new season's offerings by the networks. Due to another SHORTAGE—this time it's newsprint paper stock—we've been placed on a limited monthly allotment of paper that enables us to "just meet" our weekly commitments of TV WEEK. A bigger and better edition (as has been the case each year for the Premiere Issue) would mean that we would NOT have paper to print the regular weekly issues at the end of the year. Therefore, for the month of September, we will endeavor to provide you with information on each of the new shows during the week they premiere on TV. With the limited space allowed us, we will still do our very best to keep you informed of what's happening and provide you with an up-to-date log of each week's programs. We extend our apologies and ask that you bear with us through this "lean" period.

on THE COVER

ADAM'S RIB
ABC FRIDAYS 9:30PM

Ken Howard and Blythe Danner star—as Adam and Amanda Bonner—in this romantic comedy based on the early motion picture starring Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy. The couple are both practicing attorneys, he an Assistant District Attorney on the rise and she a full partner in a respectable law office. Dena Dietrich co-stars as Grace, Amanda's secretary; Edward Winter is Kipple, Amanda's law partner; and Ron Rifkin portrays Roy, Adam's associate in the D.A.'s office.

DIANA
NBC MONDAYS 8:30PM

Unexpected apartment "drop-ins" and the frenetic activities of a New York department store provide the basis for this half-hour situation comedy starring Diana Rigg as Diana Smythe. A divorcee seeking a new life in America as a fashion coordinator, she works in the merchandising and advertising departments of Butley's Department Store on Fifth Avenue. David Sheiner co-stars as Norman Brodnik, president of the store; Barbara Barrie is Mrs. Brodnik; Richard B. Schull is Howard Tolbrook, Diana's co-worker; Carol Androsky is Holly Green, a zany tenant in Diana's apartment building; and Robert Moore portrays Reginald "Reggie" Dubois, the window-dresser at the store.

CALUCCI'S DEPT.
CBS FRIDAYS 8PM

Video-taped in New York, this half-hour comedy series stars James Coco as the head of a state unemployment office that is staffed by a bunch of bureaucratic eccentrics. Co-starring are Candy Azzara as Shirley Balukis, Jose Perez as Gonzales, Jack Fletcher as Cosgrove, Peggy Pope as Elaine Fusco, Bill Lazarus as Woods, and Bernard Wexler as Frohler.

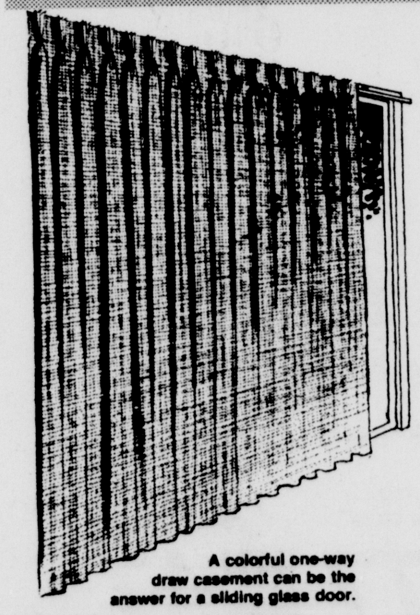
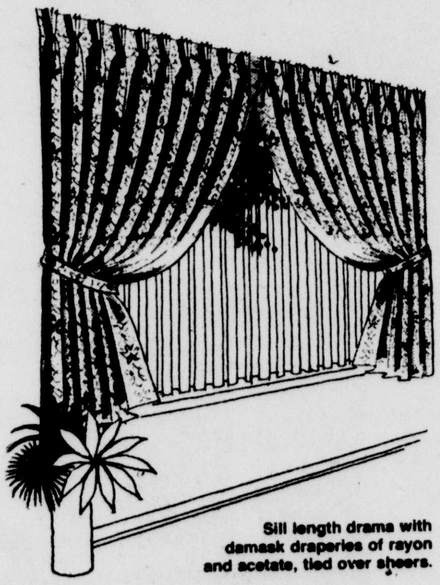
SAVE 20%-25%-30%! Made-to-Measure Draperies

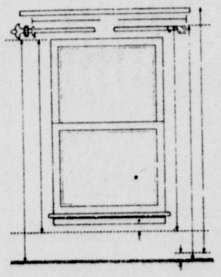
You help us measure. And we'll help you save! With Sears made-to-measure draperies, the only place we skimp is on the price. Take your window measurements. Then, choose from our great selection of fabrics and colors. Open or closed weave casements. Multicolored and monotone textures. Florals and prints. Formal fabrics. Sheers. You'll receive beautifully tailored draperies.



A colorful one-way draw casement can be the answer for a sliding glass door.

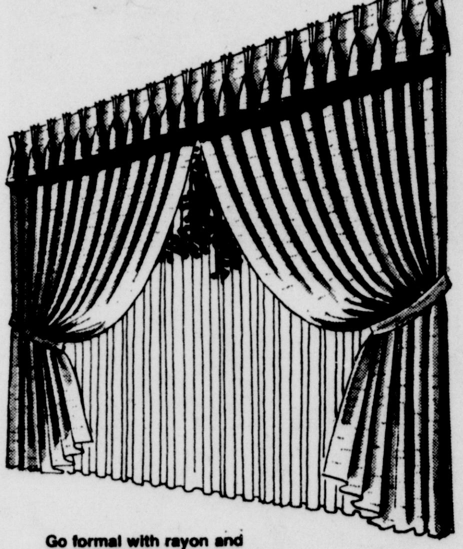


Sill length drama with damask draperies of rayon and acetate, tied over sheers.

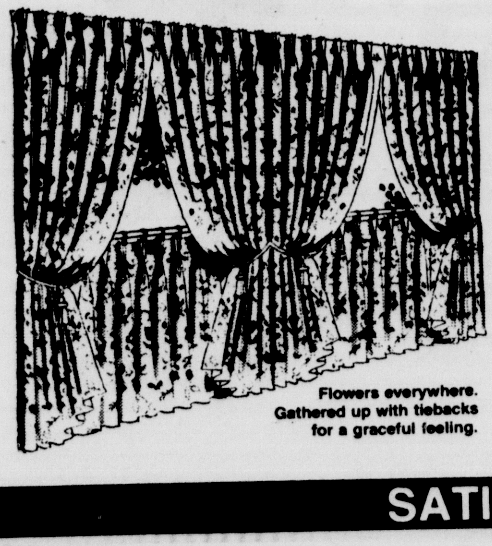


HOW TO MEASURE

For width, measure the width of a conventional rod plus right and left projection from wall. With decorative rod, measure distance between the end rings. For length, measure from the top of conventional rod, to desired length. Ask a salesperson for any help you need.



Go formal with rayon and acetate valance and draperies over coordinating sheers.



Flowers everywhere. Gathered up with tiebacks for a graceful feeling.

Some Mind-Boggling Questions From Medicine's Brave New World

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DON SHULA, Miami Dolphins football coach

What are the main ingredients for your successful coaching in the National Football League?—Richard Böye, Elkart Lake, Wis.

● I'm just a guy who rolls up his sleeves and goes to work. I don't have peace of mind until I know I've given the game everything I can, because the whole idea is to get an edge somehow. Sometimes it takes just a little extra something to get that edge. I try to do it with mental and physical preparation. Of course, I know that the people we play have the same goal—winning—so I try to put more effort into our preparation than they do into theirs. You set a goal to be the best, then work hard to reach that goal. If you let yourself settle for anything less than No. 1, you're cheating yourself.

FOR SHIRLEY JONES, actress

I hear that you are going to add a new member to your television "Partridge Family." True?—Cynthia Easton, Hillsborough, Calif.

● Yes. Four-year-old Ricky Segall will play the son of our next-door neighbors. He likes to visit the family because he feels free to "sing my little heart out." He will sing a solo in each episode.

FOR ALICE COOPER, rock singer

Who created your image?—Sandy Henley, Hobart, Ind.

● I know it's not my father, who is an engineer and ordained minister in Phoenix, Ariz., because he's often said, "It is quite a shock when you expect to sire a gospel missionary and instead you get a rebel rock star." On the other hand, my father's first name is Esther—so who knows?

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, pro football star

How do you feel about the proposal to give urinalysis tests to players in order to detect use of drugs?—John Morrissey, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I'm against it. I don't take "bennies" or anything else, but I don't like anyone forcing me to take a test. I'm a human being. Urine tests are okay for cows or horses, but I am not an animal. I spend a lot of time going all over the country talking about the evils of drugs. Now the league officials just about make me and every other NFL player a suspect.

FOR GARY PLAYER, South African golfer

Another pro golfer from a foreign country has stated that the U.S. Open championship does not mean much to foreign golfers. Is this true?—Frank Allen, Green Bay, Wis.

● No. If you gave me my choice of $1 million or a U.S. National Open championship, I would take the Open.

FOR SEN. ROMAN L. HRUSKA (R-Neb.)

With gasoline supplies so tight, can't a substitute be found? —B. H., North Platte, Neb.

● Several years ago, the state of Nebraska experimented on something called "gasohol." It explored the utilization of alcohol distilled from grain and blended on a basis of ten percent alcohol to 90 percent gasoline. It was found that this mix can be successfully burned in any existing automobiles. Now seems an ideal time to explore the possibility of developing this resource.

Cover Illustration by Don Ivan Punchatz

FOR BOBBY RIGGS, tennis star

At first I thought your bit about beating the leading female professional stars was just a way to pick up money and publicity. Now I hear talk from the ladies about making a victory over you a "cause." Do you have a cause yourself?—John Collins, Atlantic City, N.J.

● Yes. I personally believe women should stay home and do kitchen work. I'm going to put these women back where they belong.

FOR ANITA LOOS, author

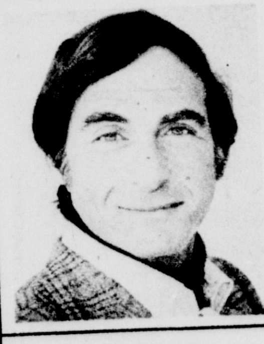
You have done well writing books like "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," in which beautiful but "dumb" women get the better of rich and "smart" men. Do you believe that women are smarter than men?—Mrs. R. F. Hunt, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● It's true that women are brainier than men, but we should keep this fact quiet because it could ruin our whole racket.



FOR SID CAESAR

As far as you know, did any of your comedy material ever offend anyone?—M. T. T., Garrison, N.Y.

● I once portrayed a musician who wore funny clothes and thick glasses. I got a letter from a woman in Baltimore who worked in a clinic for children with poor eyesight. She said the character made the children feel self-conscious—so I changed it. I would never consciously offend anyone.

FOR CYBILL SHEPHERD, actress

Do you go to see your own movies?—H. H. M., Wamac, Ill.

● No. I never even see daily takes while I'm making a movie, because I want to be as natural as possible. I would rather act intuitively than methodically, and not be dependent on specific directing. I think it's sad that the great Marilyn Monroe needed her drama coach to the end.

Doctors' Ethics in Upheaval: Tough Questions from the Brave New World of Medicine

"When the doctor came back, he saw to his relief that the baby was no longer breathing. The next morning he called the Hastings Center to ask, 'What do you think I should have done?'"

By Bruce Hilton

Ten years ago, life was simpler. So was the medical profession. The lines between life and death, right and wrong, were relatively clear and unquestioned.

This is no longer the case.

For two years I was a senior staff member of the Hastings Center, based in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. The Center brings together scientists and physicians with lawyers, philosophers and others to examine the ethical dilemmas arising from the "biomedical revolution." Below are just a few of the hundreds of knotty problems the Center has studied, and which doctors are encountering every day (names and details have been changed to protect anonymity). Most of these cases would not have come up ten years ago. None of them has an easy answer, but each demands an answer. Judge for yourself. You're the doctor. What would your answers be?

Elizabeth Gee

"She said nothing after the first experience of being strapped to the table, given a sedative, and jolted into a convulsion by the shock. But two days later she rebelled. 'That was torture!' she screamed. 'I won't let you touch me again!'"

THE FETUS THAT WAS A BABY

Mrs. L., a mother with five children, had come to a major big-city hospital for a therapeutic abortion. The child, she said, had been unplanned and was unwanted.

The operation was normal right up to the time Dr. B., the young physician on duty, realized that he was holding not an inert fetus, but a living, breathing premature baby.

What should he do? Placed quickly in an incubator, the baby would undoubtedly survive. Left alone, it would die. And there was no senior physician on duty to ask.

Looking much more calm than he really was, Dr. B. saw to the mother's needs, had the baby placed in a bassinet, and went to the cafeteria "for a smoke and time to think it over."

When he came back, he saw to his relief that the baby was no longer breathing.

The next morning he called the Hastings Center to ask, "What do you think I should have done?"

While the Center doesn't function as a counseling group, the staff did come up with these questions that might be part of the decision:

How much importance should be given to the mother's intent? To her ability to raise the child? To the rights of the child to life? To the rights of the brothers and sisters?

What about the possibility that the saline solution used to start the abortion could have caused brain damage in the baby?

And who should have made the decision anyway? Should the mother have been consulted?

The discussion produced no easy answer. But the staff, now at least, had some of the questions that would help them make such decisions in the future.

FORCIBLE SHOCK THERAPY

Mrs. F. had become deeply despondent and quarrelsome after her husband's death, and wasn't being helped by her psychiatrist.

She signed herself into the psychiatric ward of a private hospital for shock therapy. She had to sign a consent form before submitting to the treatment.

She said nothing after the first experience of being strapped to the table, given a sedative, and jolted into a convulsion by the shock. But two days later she rebelled. "That was torture!" she screamed. "I won't let you touch me again!"

The psychiatrist used every means to get her to continue. But she remained firm in her refusal, and only the locked door kept her from running away.

The staff met, and the majority decided to continue treatment. Kicking and screaming, Mrs. F. was carried back into the treatment room.

Later, in Center discussions, a psychiatric nurse argued that the full course of treatment was necessary for success, and that to stop before it was over could leave the patient in worse condition than before.

Once Mrs. F. signed the agreement, it was argued, she became the responsibility of the hospital staff, who had to do what was best for her own good. She could not withdraw consent—especially since her change of mind might be a symptom of her disease.

On the other hand, a physician-attorney argued, forcible treatment should be used only for a patient judged by a court to be unable to choose for himself—that is, one who's been legally committed. To force a voluntary patient like Mrs. F. to undergo treatment she doesn't want is clearly a violation of her rights, he said.

BUYING "DISCOUNT" BLOOD

With the growing need for blood in this country, a commercial firm found a profitable business: importing 10,000 liters of blood plasma each month from Haiti. Poorer citizens there could make as much as $182 a year selling blood.

Is such commerce ethical? Those who defended the practice pointed out that the money was helping the local economy to the tune of some half-million dollars a year, and putting food on the tables of many who might have gone hungry. It also brought badly needed plasma to the U.S.

Critics argued that the practice demeaned the donors and threatened their health, and that it eased the pressure to develop a better blood exchange system within the U.S. The extraordinary poverty of the Haitians meant they did not have the freedom to say no; any offer was one they couldn't refuse.

Finally, critics suggested, making blood a salable and importable commodity opened the door for an international commercial traffic in kidneys and hearts.

The question became moot when the man who arranged the deal fell out of favor with the Haitian regime, and the company lost its contract. But it—or a similar venture—will surely pop up elsewhere.

The author, Bruce Hilton, is now director of the National Center for Bio-Ethics a nonprofit organization whose role is to foster public awareness of ethical and social problems arising out of the "new biology."

IT'S A GIRL—ABORTION FOR SEX REASONS

Mrs. S., the 38-year-old mother of a boy and two girls, told her physician she feared her child might have Down's syndrome—mongolism, which is more common among children of mothers over 35. She asked for a relatively new test called amniocentesis, which reveals the child's condition—and its sex.

Dr. L., using a needle through the abdominal wall, drew out some of the fluid surrounding the fetus, and examined the chromosomes.

"There's good news," he told Mrs. S. "Your baby won't be mongoloid."

"But what sex is it?" she asked. And when she learned the baby would be a girl—she asked for an abortion.

Shocked, the doctor discovered from Mrs. S. and her husband that their real concern all along had been the desire to have another boy!

Aside from the ethical question of the lie to the doctor, other questions arise:

Is sex determination alone a sufficient reason for undergoing the amniocentesis —a relatively safe procedure, but which carries a risk of one to two percent for the fetus? And in a male-dominated society, what would be the effect on the boy-girl ratio if parents could select?

Assuming there are some genetic diseases so severe that early detection and abortion would be morally acceptable, just what is a genetic "defect"? Is being an unwanted gender a defect? Is conceiving a child with the intent of destroying it if it's the wrong sex any different from infanticide?

On the positive side, it has been argued that being able to select the sex of one's child, even by such a drastic measure, would help slow the population boom, since many "extra" babies come from attempts to beget a child of the desired sex. And those who favor free abortion for any and all reasons suggest sex determination is as good a reason as any.

IS YOUR BABY A CRIMINAL?

This time it was the physician who was tempted to lie. Mrs. R. was another older mother who wanted to rule out the possibility that her baby had Down's syndrome, and the tests indeed showed the fetus to be unaffected.

But the examination did turn up an extra "Y" chromosome in the baby's cells—and there is evidence that such "XYY males" may be somewhat more prone to crimes of violence than the general population.

The physician's dilemma was this: Should he tell Mrs. R.?

On the "no" side, he argued with himself that she had not asked him to check for the XYY syndrome—only for mongolism. And what would it do to the way she reared her son if she knew? Would she panic each time he threw a temper tantrum? Would she overprotect him, or damage him psychologically with her nervousness?

On the "yes" side was the trust the patient places in her physician, and his obligation to honor it. And, he asked, doesn't a patient have an inherent right to know the whole truth, even if it hurts? And, pragmatically: If the boy one day was one of that small minority of XYY males who end up behind bars, could the parents sue the physician for withholding the truth?

There are more than two pickups to choose from.

It seems that whenever most people consider buying a pickup they only consider the two biggies, Ford and Chevy.

Unfortunately, they don't know what they're missing.

The Other Pickup—International.

The Other Pickup has everything going for it except a familiar name. We have a smooth ride. Easy handling. Safety features like a collapsible steering column and a fuel tank located outside the cab.

We give you 13 colors to choose from, four different color-keyed interiors, and luxuries you don't often see in a truck.

You can have torsion bar suspension for easy handling or leaf spring suspension for heavy loads.

Or automatic transmission. Power steering. Power brakes. Or our exclusive anti-skid system.

After you've looked at the Ford and Chevy Pickup, look at us. The Other Pickup.

At your International dealer.

You just might end up thinking we're the Only Pickup.

The Franklin Mint announces a limited edition of

Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories

IN SOLID STERLING SILVER

Norman Rockwell has just completed a series of ten new works of art to be issued exclusively in the form of sterling silver ingots. Subscriptions for First Edition Proof Sets of this new Rockwell collection will be accepted only if they are postmarked by September 15, 1973.

For more than half a century, the art of Norman Rockwell has brought joy to the hearts of millions of Americans, young and old.

Now this great artist, at the summit of his career, looks back at the people and the country he loves . . . and portrays his fondest memories in the enduring medium of sterling silver.

Original Rockwell Art

Norman Rockwell has created ten original works of art exclusively for this collection of sterling silver ingots. These ten works will never be produced in any other form.

The First Edition should be of special interest to knowledgeable collectors. Not only because of the importance of the work itself—but also because the First Edition will be the only Proof-quality, hallmarked and serially numbered edition.

The artist speaks about his newest works

"I suppose I'm just a sentimentalist," says Norman Rockwell in describing this series. "I like to show people in happy and tender moments of their lives—sometimes with a little touch of humor. These are the things about people I remember most fondly."

Rockwell has now depicted his "fondest memories," exclusively for this collection, with that special brand of magic that is his alone.

The joy of kids romping at the old swimming hole. The pleasure of old friends meeting around a pot-belly stove. The pride of a Boy Scout carrying the flag in a parade down Main Street. The tenderness of a young girl helping her grandmother with her knitting. The warmth and devotion of a family enjoying a holiday dinner together.

Ten precious moments, ten cherished memories, each one sensitively portrayed by the best-loved American artist of our time.

The genius of Norman Rockwell

Each of "Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories" has been captured in a distinctive form: a sterling silver ingot measuring 2″ x 2½″ and containing 1500 grains of sterling silver. The famous signature of Norman Rockwell will appear on each ingot. And the complete set will be struck by The Franklin Mint, the world's foremost private mint.

The hallmarked First Edition Proof Set is available exclusively to subscribers whose orders are postmarked by September 15, 1973.

Build your collection on a convenient monthly basis

Regardless of how high the price of silver may escalate, we guarantee to send you the complete collection of these solid sterling silver ingots at the original issue price of $25 per ingot. You will receive the first ingot in October. Each month thereafter, for nine months, an additional ingot will be sent to you. You will enjoy the pleasure of seeing your collection steadily grow. And within ten months, your collection of "Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories" will be complete.

To house the complete collection, a handsome collector's case fitted with a hardwood display frame will be provided at no additional cost. The collection may thus be kept in the case or proudly displayed on the wall.

An heirloom collection

Any new work by an artist of the stature of Norman Rockwell is likely to become an important heirloom. This new Rockwell series is particularly desirable—not only for its beauty and intrinsic value but because it is the first time the work of this beloved artist has ever appeared in ingot form. The only previous medallic issues of Norman Rockwell's work have been the Rockwell Christmas Plates and the "Spirit of Scouting" medals—both Franklin Mint issues which are highly prized today and much sought after by collectors.

Now this new series—"Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories"—can bring you many years of pleasure and provide a treasured legacy you can pass along to your children and grandchildren.

Subscriptions close September 15, 1973

To acquire this important new Rockwell collection, your subscription must be sent to The Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pennsylvania 19063 and postmarked by September 15, 1973. There is a strict limit of one First Edition Proof Set per subscriber.

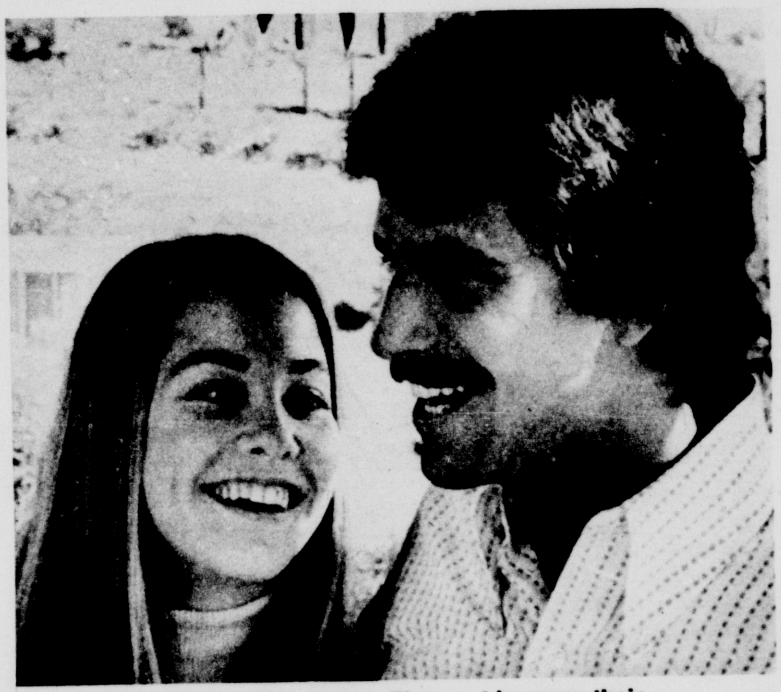
"Mark Spitz, You're 23 — What Do You Do for a Living?"

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

"Sometimes it gets embarrassing. People will come up and say, 'Are you really Mark Spitz?' Sometimes it also gets funny. I get offered an awful lot of free glasses of milk!"



UPI

Mark poses with his bride, Susan. They met because their fathers were in scrap iron.

We talked in the office of his publicist, Jay Bernstein, one of the multitude of people who currently surround swimmer-turned-endorser/hopes-to-be-actor Mark Spitz. He wore blue jeans, a white-and-blue plaid shirt and tennis shoes. To my surprise, he did not insist upon his publicist's attending the interview. When I'd met Mark at a previous press conference, he was surrounded by so many advisers, I had wondered if he had a mind of his own.

FAMILY WEEKLY: You seem to have made a career of becoming an endorser. Do you mind not having a profession?

MARK: Being an endorser is a profession. Whatever I do sells products. It's a basis of our society—to appeal to the public. After all, look at the cigarettes. They use a lot of beautiful women because they appeal to men who might smoke cigarettes.

FW: Then you don't mind being just an endorser?

MARK: Why should I? A lot of people like Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer do it as well. They cash in on what they're good at.

FW: But they don't spend all of their time endorsing. They play a pretty good game of golf on the side.

MARK: That's true, but they can't afford to live the way they do from what they earn, like $20,000 a game—something like that. That's why they are endorsers. They don't mind making a buck endorsing things.

FW: Just how many products do you endorse?

MARK: I've signed contracts with seven corporations and am discussing other deals but it is too early to talk about them.

FW: What do you actually do besides give your name?

MARK: I help coordinate the products I endorse. I inject my opinions. I wouldn't endorse anything I didn't thoroughly believe in. People like to believe in something, follow someone, identify. That's why I think I work out as an endorser. Young people want to identify with me.

FW: I understand you were offered a lot of acting roles. Have you settled on a film yet?

MARK: No. We are in the process of making a presentation of my first movie to the public. It takes 100 percent effort to get it going.

FW: What does it depend on?

MARK: Money. We have to find someone who will finance it.

FW: What kind of a part will you play in the film?

MARK: A young man—me.

FW: You mean a swimmer?

MARK: No, because people expect me to be a swimmer.

FW: Then someone entirely different?

MARK: Well, no, because if I play a bank robber, people might say "He's supposed to be a swimmer—how can he be a bank robber?" And I don't want to be identified with one type like Sally Struthers. She's in a series and can't do anything else. Same with Carroll O'Connor. He's Archie Bunker. I couldn't see him in a serious role. Or Lucille Ball. She's always Lucy. You can't see her in a serious part. And I wouldn't want to be known as Mark Spitz, the swimmer.

FW: If you feel people won't accept you in an entirely different role, what can you do?

MARK: I expect to play a character who is athletic and extremely motivated to win.

FW: I've heard various stories how you met your wife. What's the true one?

MARK: Well—I initiated it, but indirectly it was through our fathers that we got together. Both of our parents are in scrap iron. At least, mine used to be —he's now working for me . . . I mean, he's now working with me. The two men had a mutual friend and he had dinner with us one night and told me that if I ever came to Los Angeles, I should look up Herman Weiner's beautiful daughter. I looked her up, and that's how we became acquainted.

FW: In films, the director guides the actor; in acting school the drama coach does it. Isn't that just about the same as a swimming coach telling a swimmer what to do?

MARK: No one told me what to do for the last six years. I was just pampered.

FW: What did the coach do for you?

MARK: He was someone I could talk to. The workout I could do myself.

FW: But you think coaches are necessary?

MARK: They are—even after I became a successful champion swimmer I had to have one. It's a psychological necessity to have someone to talk to, to get psyched up. He provides a sounding board.

FW: What about Munich?

MARK: What about Munich!

FW: Why did you leave so hurriedly?

MARK: I didn't run away from any threats. I was already three and a half weeks late for dental school, and I couldn't wait around any longer. If I had stayed to the end of the second week of the Olympics, I would have had to take off a year.

FW: Was your life ever actually threatened?

MARK: No. If they had wanted to get me they could have and would have. Besides, if I would have stayed on in Munich, what could I have done?

FW: You had only one semester of dental school. What made you decide to give up dentistry?

MARK: When I got hepatitis early this year. It gave me time to think, and I figured with all the endorsements I'm giving, I would have no time for school or to practice oral surgery when I graduated. Besides, I like to win. I didn't want to be just another person doing a job. I like to be the best at whatever I am doing.

FW: Why did you pick oral surgery in the first place?

MARK: Because I love to work with my hands. I love to do mechanical things. Swimming, in a way, is a mechanical effort.

FW: What does financial success mean to you?

MARK: To be my own boss, to do what I want to do, to take time off as I want to.

FW: But what is it you want with the money? Couldn't you have made enough as an oral surgeon?

MARK: I looked into that too when I got started. The average doctor makes between $15,000 and $20,000 a year. Very few make over $100,000.

FW: What kind of a car do you have now?

MARK: A Mercedes 450.

FW: And your bride?

MARK: She has the same car.

FW: Do you like all the attention you get?

MARK: Sometimes it gets embarrassing. People will come up and say, "Are you really Mark Spitz?" Sometimes it also gets funny. I get offered an awful lot of free glasses of milk!

FW: Where do you think you got hepatitis?

MARK: I am told I may have caught it at the Olympic Games in Munich. I was in such great shape, it took that long to catch up with me. FW

THE KIDNEY FAMINE

Ralph S. advertised that he would pay $3,000 to the donor of a healthy kidney. Ralph suffered from total kidney failure, and his ad said he would commit suicide unless a transplant made it possible to end his sessions on the kidney machine.

On the day his notice appeared, 25 accident victims were buried in his state—most of them taking two healthy, transplantable kidneys to the grave with them.

Ralph's state, like others, has passed the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act, permitting people to carry cards willing healthy organs to others .

But as Ralph found out, very few people carry the cards, and there are not enough kidneys to go around. (It's estimated that more than 7,500 persons in the country have fatal kidney disease; fewer than 4,000 have access to kidney machines, and there are enough kidneys for only 1,500 transplants a year—leaving at least 2,000 people without hope. Some put the figure at twice that.)

Should the law be changed to make all healthy organs of the dead available for transplant? That is, unless the victim carries a card forbidding such use?

If the city can condemn a strip of private land for the public good, does it have the right—or duty—to "condemn" organs no longer of use to their original owners, for the survival of others?

BRAIN SURGERY OR IMPRISONMENT?

Ernest M., 38, is a huge, bright, good-natured and successful salesman—except once or twice a year when he flies into an uncontrollable rage. Then he may use his 265 pounds to fight seven police officers to a draw, or put his fist through a concrete block in his cell.

As the result of one such episode, and a subsequent courtroom threat to the judge, he now faces the equivalent of a life sentence in solitary confinement—in a hospital for the criminally insane.

Ernest's symptoms are similar to those of a rare form of epilepsy, associated with damage to the brain. And some neurosurgeons have had success in ending such attacks by making a tiny incision in one section of the brain.

But neurosurgeons have so far refused Ernest's case because there is no observable physical damage to his brain.

Should they take the case, and perhaps release Ernest from spending the rest of his life alone, under lock and key?

Those who say "no" would include those who oppose all psychosurgery (surgery on the brain for behavioral disorders), usually saying that the side effects are unpredictable, that there may be a blunting effect on the patient's emotional responses. They also say that slicing away some of a man's emotions means killing a part of him.

Others would argue that many operations have been performed without apparent side effects, that the patient has a right to treatment after all other methods have failed, even if there is no apparent physical damage—and that life on the outside with his family, even if the worst happens, would be preferable to a living death behind bars. She's Betty King Barker, industrial designer who can list among her credits 4 careers, 3 grandchildren, 2 sons, and 1 husband. She also manages to find time for tennis, golf and looking after her good looks. To keep her silvery hair bright and beautiful, she uses Silk & Silver, Clairol's long lasting color lotion in Silvery Pearl* #14.

"So easy," says Mrs. Barker, "I just shampoo it in every few weeks—it colors away the yellow, adds lots of body and wonderfully rich deep color." And it has no peroxide.

Mr. Barker approves. "Gray hair looks so young on Betty."

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya takes you on a beauty safari starring two young Americans. "One reward in this business," she says, "is to see how a change of appearance can affect a girl's personality. Gay and Dianne went to Europe as teenagers. When they came back, they had blossomed into women!"

When Hometown Girl Meets Europe's Beauty Experts...

"After." Dianne Risius, a bright, recent high school graduate (who has seldom been out of Bricelyn, Minn.), flashes her irrepressible smile after being "transformed." A study in contrasts, Dianne is a former "Miss Bricelyn," has won the President's Physical Fitness Award, and is a fine clarinet and saxophone player. Dianne's happy reaction: "It was such a change—I hardly recognized me."

Photos by Normand Menard

"Before." Dianne tours London before getting the beauty "works" at two prominent salons.

The last thing Dianne Risius ever thought she had was an exquisite set of cheekbones! Her new beauty asset emerged after an exciting one-day make-over session in London that included cosmetic and hairstyle transformations.

Dianne, who lives in Bricelyn, Minn. (she gets FAMILY WEEKLY in the Albert Lea Tribune), was one of the three finalists in the annual coast-to-coast hairstyling contest sponsored by John H. Breck, Inc. As a finalist she was given a trip to Europe in addition to a college scholarship. Here's how Dianne's exclusive make-over began:

The first stop on her beauty safari was the Michaeljohn salon, a young "with-it" establishment known for the elegant heads it turns out, from Princess Anne to Elizabeth Taylor.

Enter Dianne, whose hair is immediately swooped up and away from her face to the cry, "Look what it does for her cheekbones and how it adds height!" The Michaeljohn philosophy "that a woman doesn't start from the neck up, that you can't isolate the head, but must look at the whole shape" was beginning to take root. There remained one problem. Since a good cut is what any top hairdresser recommends and the trend is toward short, manageable hair, the stylist began sharpen-

Don't Let This Summer Destroy Your Complexion

The summer months may be a recreation season for you, but a near-disaster for your complexion. You enjoy a change of pace that ought to bring your face a relaxed, younger-looking expression. But instead you may end the three-month summer season looking decidedly older.

A single summer day can be a little like a whirlwind tour through all the climates of the world. You swim, then bake yourself on a sandy beach under a desert-like sun. You take windswept car rides. You step from sun-baked pavements, squinting against the glare, into chill air-conditioned restaurants or stores. A sudden summer storm leaves the air steaming and humid. Your complexion is exposed to a wide variety of environments, each with shocking suddenness.

Is it any wonder that your skin becomes dryer as the days pass? The dryer your skin, the more that dryness emphasizes little lines and wrinkles. And the older you look. But there's no need to despair. It is possible to enjoy the pleasures of summer and still maintain your youthful look.

Many younger-looking women, from Acapulco to Sydney, discovered that they can barely get through the summer happily without their beautiful secret, the unique fluid known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. This summer, share the secret, the lovely benefits of this world-renowned blend. Oil of Olay was created by beauty researchers to soften and silken a woman's complexion. The complexion-cherishing lotion contains a wealth of natural moisture, tropical moisturizing oils and other emollients.

Oil of Olay, available at drugstores, penetrates the important surface layer of the skin quickly, working with nature to ease away the dryness that can make you look older. The beauty blend helps maintain the oil-moisture balance, an essential element necessary for your complexion to look as young as possible. The skin-loving liquid also sets up an effective barrier to keep nature's own moisture from surrendering to sudden environmental changes.

You will know when your skin would welcome Oil of Olay. Whenever it feels dry or slightly tight or rough to the touch, your complexion is asking for, and needs, all the help it can get from the beauty blend.

No matter how often you soothe on cherishing Oil of Olay during the day, apply at bedtime, so it can work its wonders during nocturnal hours. And in the morning, as a moisty, non-greasy makeup base that lets cosmetics stay fresh for hours.

Summer Beauty Hints

Gently bathe away your sun-protective lotion after sunning. Pat your body almost dry, then soothe your still-damp skin with Oil of Olay wherever the sun's rays have reached you.

During these months when the need for Oil of Olay® is great, always carry a bottle with you . . . to the beach, on week-end trips, when going shopping.

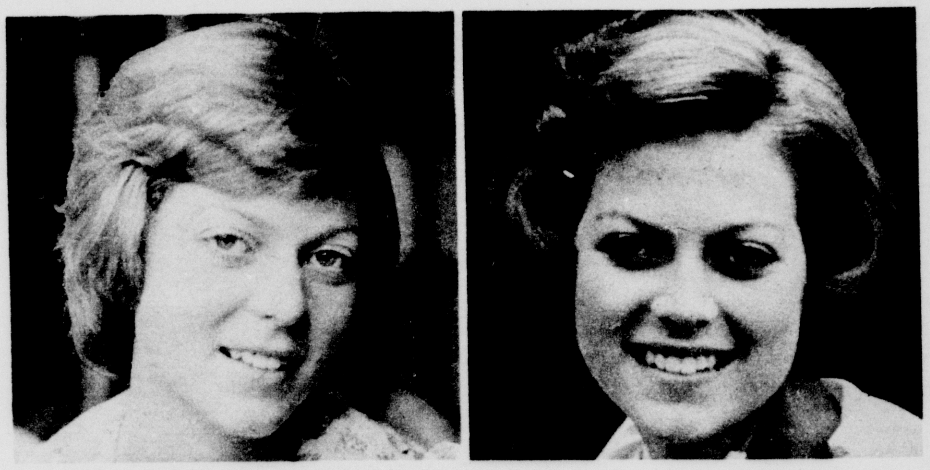
ing his scissors. But Dianne wasn't having any of that. Because of contest obligations in which her own hairdo design was still to be judged by a London jury, there could be no haircut. So the salon gave Dianne the short tousled look that seems so right for her. It was accomplished with tiny rollers, a brushout, then curls pinned all over her head.

Next, on to Yardley of London, where cosmetic expert Sue Priston analyzed Dianne's facial features. Prescription: Accentuate her eyes and cheekbones, shape her eyebrows and lengthen her upper-lip line, which tends to curve down. The primary step: "Start with an absolutely clean face." Skin freshener was applied to remove traces of oil or grime, then a light moisturizer to replenish the skin. (Dianne's skin tends to be normal-to-oily. For dry skin, a cream would be applied instead.) Because Dianne's skin is evenly textured, no makeup base was needed. Her eyebrows, a bit too thick, were plucked and given more of an arch. (A tip: Eyebrows should only be plucked from under the brow, never above, or the natural guideline is lost. The result could be a mismatched set.) To keep Dianne's total look very natural, her lips were first covered with a brown-shaded lipstick, then highlighted with a peach color. Her upper-lip line was extended to balance her fuller bottom lip.

Beauty prescription for Dianne's eyes: pearl-beige shade close to lash and swirls of mascara.

To bring out her cheekbones, a tawny cream rouge was blended in a circular motion out toward her hairline. An apricot eyeshadow was used on her eyelids; a medium-brown was applied in the crease to add depth, and a soft white highlighter was used on the brow bone. No dark liner was used, but Dianne's eyelids were polished off with a pearl-beige cream applied close to the upper lash line, to give sparkle. Upper and lower lashes were treated with a coat of mascara.

A Californian in Paris



Gay Dixon "before" and "after" her beauty make-over at famed Carita of Paris.

Gay Dixon of Lakewood, Calif., who was the winner of the Breck hair-styling competition as judged by a panel of prominent Londoners, had her beauty make-over in the chic French capital—where the smartest heads are sporting short hair and smoky, mysterious eyes. Gay's hairdo was changed to reflect a more sophisticated look and frame her face flatteringly. One side was parted, the other combed in a thirties-like wave caught up with a barrette. (Her hair, naturally curly, has to be straightened every three months.) Gay's cosmetic change was twofold: Her eyes, which have a distinctly round contour, had dark-blue liner applied at the base of the upper and lower lashes and extending slightly at the edge of eyes, to create an almond shape. Gay's full lips were de-emphasized by redrawing a thinner lip line with a coloring pencil, then filled in with tinted lip gloss.

Cleopatra had her beauty recipes, so did Marie Antoinette.

Beauty & You
Continued

Blend Your Own Beauty Recipes

Blend your own dry-hair conditioner with a mix of safflower oil, egg, avocado and lemon.

Today, with products from the supermarket, pharmacy, or garden, you can create natural beauty aids right in your own home, using a wire whisk, egg beater, hand mixer, or a blender, as we did.

But you won't be the first to devise your own beauty treatments. Cosmetic art, supposed to have started with the Egyptians about 5000 B.C., was the result of mixing natural ingredients. Queen Nefertiti designed her own foundation cream: a mixture of white lead, chalk powder, perfume and honey. During Cleopatra's day, wealthy women used overnight beauty masks made of honey, barley flour and narcissus balm, rinsed off the next morning with almond oil. Later in France, to prove their "blue blood," members of royalty painted the veins of their temples bright blue. They whitened their skins with creams of vanilla, cacao and almond paste.

Apple-Yogurt Mask is combined in "half-pint" Waring Lexan blend-and-store jars.

Here are some simple beauty recipes you can whip up:

Apple-Yogurt Mask

1 large apple
6 tablespoons yogurt

Peel and core apple. Chop fine and mash, or slice into wedges and place in a blender. Set blender for high speed, and switch on and off until well blended. Add yogurt. Beat with a fork, use a hand mixer, or blend at medium speed, until

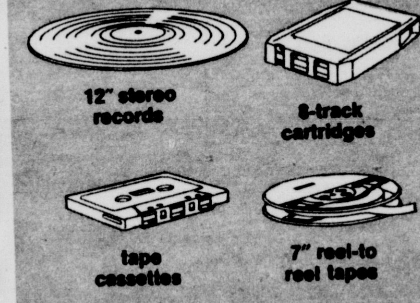
ALL SELECTIONS* ARE AVAILABLE ON



12" stereo records
8-track cartridges tape cassettes
7" reel-to reel tapes

* Selections marked with a star are not available in reel tapes

Columbia House
Terre Haute, Indiana 47808

Just look at this great selection of recorded entertainment—available on records, cartridges, cassettes and reel tapes! So no matter which type of stereo playback equipment you now have — you can take advantage of this special introductory offer from the Columbia Record & Tape Club!

If you prefer your music on 12" Stereo Records join now and you may have ANY 13 of these selections for only $1.97. Just indicate the 13 records you want on the handy postpaid application form and mail it today. In exchange, you agree to buy eleven records (at regular Club prices) during the coming two years . . . and you may cancel your membership at any time after doing so.

OR — if you prefer your music on Stereo Tapes join now and you may take ANY 10 of these selections for only $1.97. Just write in the numbers of your 10 tapes on the application (indicate whether you want cartridges or cassettes or reel tapes). In exchange, you agree to buy eight selections (at regular Club prices) during the coming two years . . . and you may cancel membership any time after doing so.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment . . . and the selections you order as a member will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices: records, $4.98 or $5.98; cartridges and cassettes, $6.98; reel tapes, $7.98 . . . plus a processing and postage charge. (Occasional special selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks you will receive a new copy of the Club's entertaining music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest, plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. (Since you'll receive 13 informative magazines a year, you'll always be up-to-date on the most current hits.)

. . . if you do not want any selection offered, just mail the response card always provided by the date specified (you'll always have at least ten days in which to make your decision)

. . . if you want only the Selection of the Month for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped to you automatically (naturally, you may return the regular selection at our expense and for full credit if you did not have at least ten days in which to decide)

. . . if you want any of the other selections offered, order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified

. . . and about four times a year we will offer some special selections (usually at a discount off regular Club prices), which you may reject by mailing the dated form provided . . . or accept by doing nothing.

You'll be eligible for the Club's bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement — a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases. Act now!

Cut along dotted line — seal (paste or tape) and mail as Business Reply Envelope. No stamp needed.

mixture achieves a smooth consistency. Use: Smooth on face, leave for 20-30 minutes. Rinse with cool water. The acidity in the apple acts on excessive oiliness. The yogurt clears and tones oily or sallow skin and has a mildly drying effect.

Avocado Dry-Hair Conditioner

1 cup safflower oil
1 egg
⅓ ripe avocado, peeled and seeded
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Beat or blend ½ cup safflower oil and all other ingredients. While beating, gradually add remainder of safflower oil until smooth. Use: Massage mixture into scalp and work into hair, leaving on 2 minutes. If hair is extremely dry, cover with plastic shower cap, leaving on 20-30 minutes. Rinse and shampoo as usual. The lemon juice adds highlights to the hair. The safflower oil contributes necessary moisture while the egg and avocado are good protein derivatives.

After-Sun Dry-Skin Cream

¼ cup glycerin
¼ cup petroleum jelly
4 tablespoons lanolin
2 teaspoons spirits of peppermint

Combine ingredients, blending until smooth. Use: Apply liberally to skin until cream is absorbed. It will protect against dryness and peeling. Glycerin, petroleum jelly and lanolin are natural moisturizers. Lanolin is a natural oil from sheep's wool. Glycerin, a by-product in soap-making, has moisturizing properties. The peppermint soothes and cools skin.

Oily Skin Foaming Cleanser

½ cup liquid Castile soap
3 tablespoons rubbing alcohol
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 tablespoons witch hazel

Blend or beat vigorously all ingredients until smooth. Use: Dip washcloth into the solution and scrub the face. Rinse with warm water, followed by cold. The alcohol and witch hazel are drying, disinfecting agents desirable for oily, blemished skin. Baking soda contains grains that deep-cleanse the pores. The Castile soap has olive oil to replace natural moisture and balance the effects of the two astringents.

Beauty Effects You Couldn't Get Last Year

Starting at the top, with your eyebrows in mind, Maybelline has formulated the first automatic brush-on eyebrow color. It's called Liquimatic Brow Color, and it comes in four shades. There's also an automatic Lightener that lets you tone your eyebrows to match your hair.

Consumers are demanding cosmetics that do more than one thing. How about a product that lets you shade a lid, line an eye, color cheeks, line and fill in lips and highlight anywhere? Elizabeth Arden's Creative Coloring Pencils fill the bill. Or a new waterproof makeup that weathers all climates without caking or requiring touchups? The protein-formulated foundation, called Great Coverage All Day Makeup, comes in six shades and is made by Coty. Studies show that air pollution and the stresses of modern-day living affect the skin. After a year of developing and testing, Dorothy Gray introduces the Basic Formula collection: a cleanser, toner and moisturizer—fragrance free, with no artificial coloring. Importantly, the formula is balanced to maintain the skin's ideal 5.5 pH factor, (acid mantle). Cosmetic technology moves ahead in nail-color application with new press-on polish. You simply stick colored nail shapes on top of your own and trim to fit. The finish is flawless and there's a wide range of colors to choose from.

Color brows with new Liquimatic wand.

These are called Swinger-Tips. fw

Lamb Shanks With Noodles

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen prepares a family dinner of economical lamb shanks. "Lamb shanks are one of the best meat buys in the country right now," says Marilyn, "yet I often hear from women that they don't know how to use them. This tangy lemon-flavored recipe is just right for a cool fall day."

Served over noodles and garnished with slices of lemon, these Lemony Lamb Shanks are a great food buy.

MARILYN'S MENU

Lemony Lamb Shanks with Noodles*
Whole Green Beans
Orange 'n' Carrot Aspic Salad
Whole Wheat Bread
Butter or Margarine
Apple Crisp
Coffee Tea Milk

*Recipe given

LEMONY LAMB SHANKS WITH NOODLES

- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon thyme leaves
- 4-6 lamb shanks (1-1½ lbs. each)
- 2-3 tablespoons flour
- 3-4 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 cup thinly sliced onion
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 peppercorns
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 sprigs parsley, chopped
- 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
- ½ cup lemon juice
- ½ cup water
- 12 ozs. noodles, cooked
- 2 tablespoons capers, optional
- 1 lemon, thinly sliced

1. Combine salt, pepper, paprika and thyme on sheet of waxed paper. Rub seasonings well over all sides of lamb. Coat lightly with flour.

2. Heat vegetable oil slowly in large heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Brown shanks, a few at a time, very slowly on all sides. Remove from pan.

3. Sauté onion and garlic in remaining oil about 5 minutes, until limp and transparent.

4. Return shanks to pan. Add peppercorns, bay leaf, parsley, lemon rind, lemon juice and water.

5. Bring to boiling. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 2 hours, or until tender. Turn shanks once or twice for even cooking. Add small amount of water if necessary.

6. Place meat on warm serving platter and keep warm. Blot up surface grease from pan gravy with paper towel; discard.

7. Heat gravy and stir briskly. Thicken if desired with mixture of 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons water. Bring to boiling, stirring. Let simmer 2-3 minutes.

8. Arrange cooked, drained noodles on platter, top with lamb shanks. Sprinkle with capers and pour some of gravy over lamb. Pass remaining gravy in sauce boat. Garnish platter with lemon slices. Makes 4-6 servings

Once upon a time there was a paper towel.
It was strong, soft and very, very absorbent.
But it was plain.
So Chiffon® decorated it with all sorts of pretty things that grow.
Now the towel was warm and pretty.
So Chiffon called the towel Sun Fresh™.
And made it in two designs and three colors.

Look inside the Mass through an outsider's eyes!

A man meets a woman on her way to Sunday Mass. She invites him to come along. He does. The result is a Sunday morning he will long remember.

Why? Because he discovers that the Mass can be a warm experience of people worshipping together. He senses the presence of Christ, feels moved to pray, finds a new sympathy for the beliefs of others which differ from his own, listens to the word of God calling all to love.

The woman's whispered comments guide him through the ritual and explain away the strangeness. He asks questions and gets straight answers. Pleased and impressed, he concludes that it was God's providence which provided him with this experience.

Now you can share his experience. Read the full story in our free pamphlet: "Pilgrim Goes to Mass." Mail the coupon today. No one will call.

Outfielder GARY MADDOX: Can He Fill Willie Mays' Shoes?

If Gary Maddox of the San Francisco Giants hadn't known when to duck, he wouldn't be alive today to be in the race to capture the National League batting championship. He was on patrol in Vietnam in 1970 when a Vietcong mortar shell came screaming toward his bunker. He ducked just in time to escape the impact of the explosion. When he dug himself free, he found he was unhurt. . . . Gary has found enemy pitchers easier to defeat than the Vietcong. In June he was hitting the ball at a .345 clip. If he wins the batting title he will be in a very select class of major-leaguers who were able to win a crown after less than two seasons in the majors. Maddox, 23, is a native of Cincinnati who grew up in California. He only played half a season in organized ball before getting shipped to Vietnam. "I grew up very fast in Vietnam and decided baseball wasn't my thing," he says. "I felt I should go to college. But my father had a heart attack and my mother became ill, so I wanted to go out and support the family."... Maddox's biggest thrill came when he was told he was being groomed to fill the shoes of his boyhood idol, Willie Mays. Maddox has displayed some of Mays' talent in making spectacular catches. He also has been given special dispensation by manager Charlie Fox to wear thick fuzz on his face—his skin is sensitive to the razor's touch.—By Barry Abramson

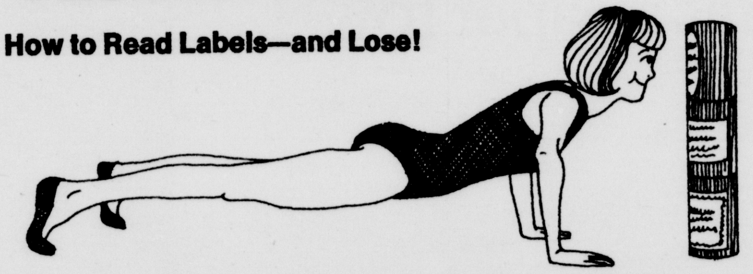
How to Read Labels—and Lose!



Reading the labels on canned groceries can make you skinnier. Canned stewed tomatoes, for example, contain sugar, but if you buy plain canned tomatoes and add a sugar substitute, you save calories. Checking the labels on canned fruits is important—canned sweetened applesauce, for instance, has 230 calories per cup, but the unsweetened has 100 calories; canned sweetened grapefruit juice has 130 calories per cup, but the unsweetened has only 100 per cup. Fruits packed in light syrup have fewer calories than those in heavy syrup, and water-packed fruits have fewest calories. Keep an eye out, too, when buying uncanned foods: A container of creamed cottage cheese has 260 calories per cup, but plain cottage cheese has only 170 per cup. A dieter needs plenty of nutrition, so cottage cheese might be called the "ideal" food for dieters. It's inexpensive, and a mere half-cupful gives you 20 protein grams, which is a third of our day's protein needs. That's about the same number as you get from a quarter pound of expensive steak.

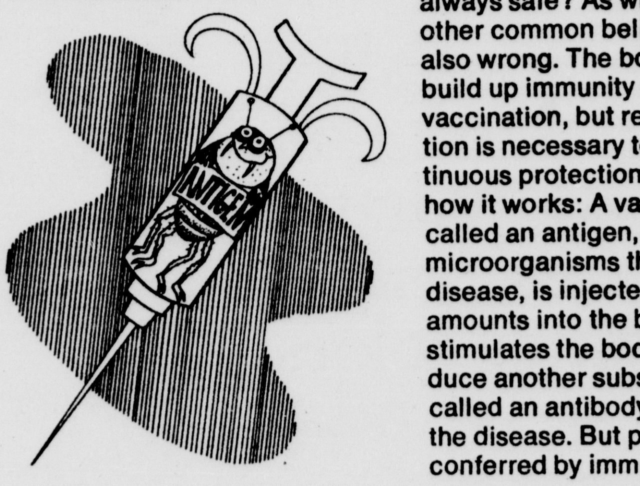
The Doctor Lets You In

How Long Does A Vaccination Last?



Do you believe that once you're immunized you're always safe? As with many other common beliefs—this is also wrong. The body does build up immunity through vaccination, but revaccination is necessary to have continuous protection. Here is how it works: A vaccine called an antigen, made from microorganisms that cause a disease, is injected in minute amounts into the body. It stimulates the body to produce another substance, called an antibody, that fights the disease. But protection conferred by immunization tapers off with the years. For example, a smallpox vaccination lasts only five to seven years. People should get revaccinated when exposed to smallpox or when traveling to areas in which smallpox occurs, like the Far East. (By the way, did you know that a combined vaccine made from six live antigens has been developed recently but is still under study? It consists of a combination of diphtheria-tetanus-whooping-cough-measles-mumps-German-measles antigens—plus a polio vaccine, too!)

CLAIRE BLOOM:

She Needs Three Locks on Her Dressing Room Door

"When I was acting in 'Hedda Gabler' on the stage in New York, the stage pistols were stolen off the wall, the tape recorder on which we played the music for the show was stolen, and I needed three locks on my dressing room door. When my husband knocked, I had to ask his middle name before I dared to let him in. What will our cities be like a few years from now if something isn't done to stop the deterioration?" asks Claire Bloom, whose latest film is "A Doll's House." "It isn't only in New York that life is unsafe and filled with hatred between people. I have found a similar atmosphere in other cities around the country that I have visited. Least afflicted are the rural areas, and these are the parts of America I enjoy most. But the problem will spread to the rural areas, too, if it is allowed to continue. I have no formula for changing things. But I hope those who have the power to take action will at least try to come to grips with the situation and not just let things drift. Surely we can't just sit back and watch the deterioration without doing something about it."

Jobmanship

Praise: What's the Real Story?

Do supervisors often express appreciation for a job well-done? One cause of friction between supervisors and workers is that they don't see the answer as the same one. According to one study: "My supervisor doesn't often show appreciation for a good job. Neither do I get more responsibility, a pat on the back or training for better jobs," was the response of almost 90 percent of the workers. But when the supervisors of these same people were asked how and when they reward good work, their replies were very different. "I give a pat on the back and thorough praise very often," said 80 percent of the supervisors. Somebody's fooling himself, but who?

People and You

Getting Kids to "Brush!"

Perhaps like so many others you have the "brush your teeth" problem in your home. At last, they've discovered where many of us go wrong. Seems that explaining to children and reasoning with them isn't enough. "Brushing will make your teeth healthy and strong," and other such talk is all well and good, but you have to add rewards. That is the finding of an in-depth investigation of children's health behavior. Heavy disciplinary methods fail.

Like other parents, you've probably read that children were supposed to take to good routines because you explained and treated them "like people." Not so, says the study. To create good health habits, you need three things: (1) provide the child with the explanation; (2) encourage your child to take responsibility for his own good health habits; (3) then polish up your words of praise and perhaps add some other rewards.

INTRODUCING THE MIRACLE

the key to a new diet program that lets you enjoy great-tasting, nutritious, low-calorie meals while still losing weight!

The Miracle Fruit Drop is the key to a totally new way of dieting—the Miralin™ Diet Program. This program can change your whole idea about dieting! The amazing Miracle Fruit Drop contains a protein concentrate—extracted from the berries of a tropical plant that scientists commonly call the Miracle Fruit Tree. This protein actually sharpens your taste for about an hour—the length of a meal. When you chew a Drop before mealtime, it causes you to perceive delicious tastes and natural flavors in Miralin low-calorie meals.

The Miralin Diet features menus and recipes that save you hundreds of calories by substantially reducing your sugar intake. Do you know that the average American eats more than one hundred pounds of sugar a year? Even if you don't like rich desserts and don't use table sugar, you still consume loads of sugar in the foods you eat regularly. Do you realize that most canned fruits, canned pork and beans, ketchup, even fruit-flavored yogurt all contain sugar? The unique action of the Miracle Fruit Drop's natural protein allows you to eat low-calorie, sugar-restricted foods and still enjoy the sweet taste of sugar-rich, high-calorie foods!

An extensive selection of weekly menu plans and recipes! Different people need to lose different amounts of weight. And because different people should lose weight at different rates, the Miralin Diet Program offers a wide choice of menu plans. You select one that's right for you! All of the easy-to-follow recipes—tested for taste satisfaction in typical households—have been created to take full advantage of the Miracle Fruit Drop's flavor-enhancing and sweetening qualities.

Why you'll stay on the Miralin Diet Program. You'll discover that you don't have to sacrifice flavor and sweetness in order to lose weight. Naturally, the Miralin menu plans are calculated for you to eat fewer calories than you ate before, but they provide satisfying taste sensations that help you forget the urge to eat sugar-sweetened, fattening foods!

Nutritional value makes this Program right for you. Each and every recipe in the Miralin Diet Program has been analyzed for taste, nutritional value, and low-calorie content by a team of scientists, nutritionists, and dietitians. The Miralin Diet Program wants you to consult your physician if you have any questions about losing weight.

Put yourself on the Miralin Diet Program now! We want you to experience the Miralin Diet . . . and decide for yourself if this isn't the best-tasting, most enjoyable Diet you've ever followed!

Send now for the Miralin Introductory Pack. It gives you exciting Miralin recipes and menu plans, and a three-to-five-day supply of Miracle Fruit Drops (enough for two people). The Drops will make the low-calorie Miralin meals taste more satisfying than you ever imagined a diet could taste! Also included are 12 samples from Miralin's growing line of food products, all designed to complement your meals and save you calories! You'll receive 4 servings each of iced tea mix and lemon drink mix, and 2 servings each of gelatin dessert and low-calorie dressing.

For a limited time, you'll also receive The Miralin Plan Cookbook—all for just $4.95, plus 75¢ for shipping and handling. This saves you a full $1.00 off the regular price! The Subtle Art of Influencing Others—Do You Really Know How It Works?

True or False: Your chances of talking your boss into giving you a raise are better if he's either overweight or underweight. (See number 3)

By John E. Gibson

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. When you're trying to sell someone on an idea or persuade him to do something you want, you should be careful not to repeat yourself—for this is likely to increase his sales resistance.

2. Don't waste your powers of persuasion on someone while he's in a worried or anxious state of mind. You aren't likely to get anywhere.

3. Your chances of talking your boss into giving you a raise are better if he's either overweight or underweight.

4. People who are the best at persuading others are the most difficult to influence.

5. If you're trying to talk somebody into doing something that's important to you, you should wait till you can get him alone, where there will be no distractions or interruptions.

6. When it comes to influencing people, flattery will get you somewhere.

ANSWERS

1. False. In studies at the University of Oklahoma, 120 subjects were exposed to various types of persuasive communications. Half of the subjects were exposed once, the other half three times. Results: "Speed of agreement was fastest for those who were exposed to persuasive communications three times." The moral seems to be that when you're knocking at the door of a man's mind, don't give up after just one try.

2. False. Studies at two universities have demonstrated that people tend to be much more receptive to suggestion, and thus easier to influence, when they're worried or anxious about something. (Note: If someone tries to sell you a bill of goods while you're in such a state of mind, postpone decision until you're in a different mood—tests show you'll be more astute and much less gullible.)

3. True—according to research sponsored by the National Science Foundation, in which over one hundred men and women were subjected to psychological tests designed to evaluate persuadability. Conclusions of the investigators: "The results show that both overweight and underweight subjects were more persuadable than others." It's difficult to determine exactly why this is so, but in the case of the overweight individual, it isn't likely he would be overweight if he didn't lack the resistance to say "no" to the silent persuasion of food.

4. True. Studies show that the most persuasive people tend to be the most difficult to influence. Incidentally, investigators have found that people of high intelligence are more easily influenced than those of lesser mental stature, when confronted with impressive logical arguments. But they are the most resistant to persuasion "which relies on unsupported generalities, or false, illogical, irregular argumentation." Moral: If your idea or project has merit, the smartest man you can find will be the easiest to sell on it.

5. False. Consensus of psychological studies has demonstrated—on tests on men and women from all walks of life—that people are most influenced by a persuasive appeal when it is interrupted by casual distractions, such as other people talking, a radio going, or other incidental sounds and noises. This distraction, as investigators point out, is effective because "it curtails counter-arguing on the part of the person listening to the persuasive message and makes him more receptive to the attempt to influence him."

6. True—for some personality types, False for others. Studies have shown that while persons with high self-esteem and self-confidence tend ordinarily to be harder to influence than others, they are rendered much more persuadable when flattered or complimented, and are more susceptible to being influenced if "exposed to favorable messages about themselves." On the other hand, it was found that "low-esteem persons [lacking in self-reliance] were more persuadable with unfavorable messages about themselves." In other words, with them, compliments are likely to get you nowhere at all—for these personality types simply can't believe that they rate them, and thus are inclined to question your other statements.

HABAND of PATERSON

This child has a good home, nice clothes, a loving mother- and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

COME ON IN, THE PING-PONG'S FINE!
A new winter swimming idea?

Question: If you cross a swimming pool with 44,000 table-tennis balls, what do you get? If you said a pool table, sit down. What you get is this lovely waterscape in Duhrenbach, Germany. Here, they found that Danish-made plastic balls will act as a thermal insulation blanket when they cover the water. This lowers the cost of heating the water, and enables the pool to remain open year-round. The balls weigh only 3.8 grams each. This means that swimming can be done without any hindrance from the "blanket."

"High blood pressure, a major factor today in premature death from coronary disease, stroke, and also kidney disease, is strongly influenced by heredity. The brothers and sisters of any patient going to a doctor for high blood pressure are eight times as likely as other people to have high blood pressure themselves. If both your parents have had high blood pressure the chances are about 45 percent for you, and if one parent, 30 percent." From "How Not to Die Young," by Dr. Joan Gomez (Stein and Day, $6.98).

BUDDY EBSEN
A Broderick Crawford he's not

Actor Buddy Ebsen, TV's "Barnaby Jones," talks about the difficulties of learning lines: "When I started 'The Beverly Hillbillies,' I learned every word. For two years I had headaches. So I learned to 'wing' it. By that I mean that instead of sitting down every night with a tape recorder and learning the script verbatim, I use word association, with sounds, locations, and so forth. If you asked me today what I said yesterday, I couldn't tell you! I once saw Broderick Crawford come on a set, scan a page of dialogue—and he had it. Every word! Well, now, I don't have that kind of a mind! But once my method backfired. I did a stage play last year and on opening night I was fine. Had every line down pat. But the next night I was terrible! I had erased!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

ROBED THE WRONG WAY

There is a bathrobe that I wear
That has two moth holes and a tear.
It has no style, indeed it's drapeless;
It's wrinkled, rumpled, sadly
shapeless.
But it, for me, is fine and dandy:
It's always hanging where it's handy,
It's not too heavy, not too thin,
It fits me like another skin.
Oh yes, I know it's old and ratty
And makes me, I am sure, look batty.
But who's to see me? That's the trick:
The doctor, maybe, when I'm sick,
My wife, my children; others not—
I'd lose what status I have got.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Having one daughter five years old and a son three years old, we were pleased that our third child was another little girl. On my arrival home with the brand new baby, my daughter sat next to me. I was talking about my two beautiful little daughters when my son rambled over and asked sullenly, "Momma, do you like them girls better than me?" Of course I answered, "No, I love all of you, and especially you because you're my only son." With sheer delight and amazement he looked at me and said, "Oh Momma, am I really?"

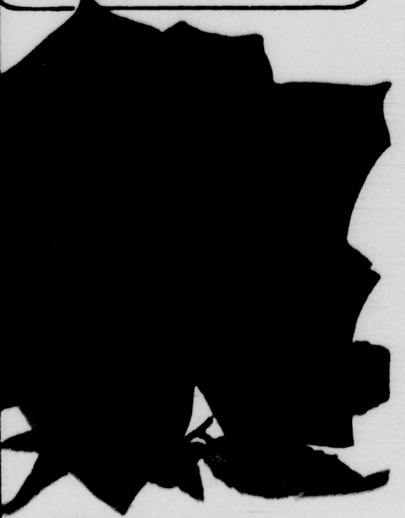
(Hibiscus Syriacus) Special bonus with orders mailed by Nov. 10. Grows 5-15 feet. Blooms Aug. to frost. A truly valuable bonus so mail order now.



CRIMSON GLORY

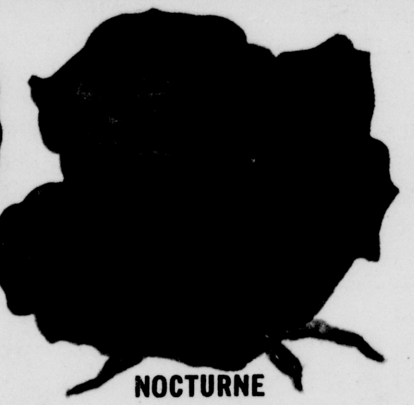
Deep velvety blooms are highest red of all . . . and most fragrant, too. Blooms in profusion all summer long. Rated 8.3 and ever popular. Only 99¢.

CHARLOTTE ARMSTRONG

Another former All American Rose of the Year selection, rated 8.4. Long buds open to wavy-petaled, high centered, light reddish-pink blooms. Consistent bloomer. Only 99¢ each.

FORTY-NINER

Blooms all summer long with brilliantly contrasting petals that are vivid Oriental red inside and chrome yellow outside. Grows to 3 feet high. Former All American Rose of the year is rated 6.1. Only 99¢.

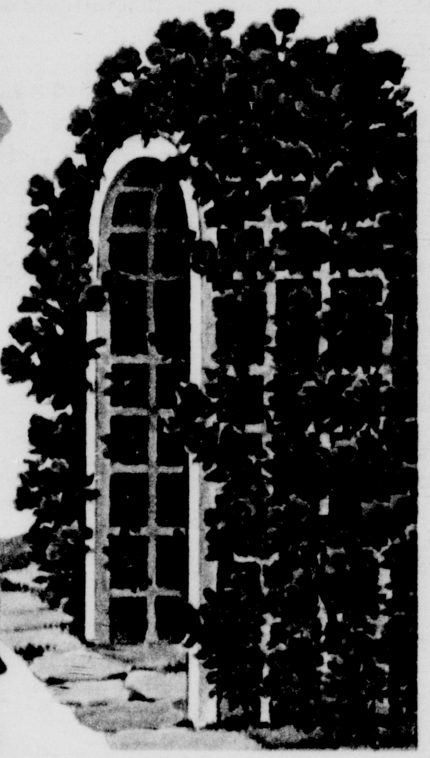


NOCTURNE

This velvety deep cardinal-red rose has one of the longest, most perfectly formed buds of any rose in its color range. Pleasantly fragrant, Nocturne is a former All American Rose of the Year selection. Rated 7.3. Only 99¢.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

Truly one of the most breathtakingly beautiful roses, its lovely pink flowers bloom early June to frost. Delightfully fragrant. Former All American Rose of the Year, very highly rated at 9.3. Only 99c.

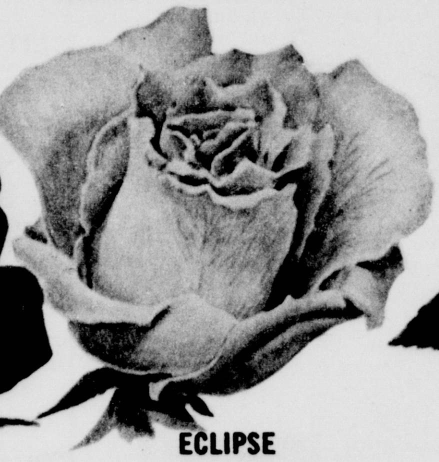


CLIMBING BLAZE

This champion climber produces a living blanket of big, 2 to 3 inch scarlet-red double blooms on many branched canes. Blooms again and again summer into fall, covering trellis, walls, fences with vivid color. Rated 7.9. Only 99¢.

MIRANDY

Strong, vigorous grower produces many surprisingly large well formed blooms, as befits a past All American Rose of the Year selection. Purplish-red maroon color. Rated 7.1. Only 99¢.



ECLIPSE

Profuse and remarkably long pointed buds open to deep-cupped, long-lasting doubled golden yellow blooms that come in waves far into fall. ECLIPSE is showy, alternately green, then yellow. Rated 7.5. Only 99¢.

THE DOCTOR

Long pointed buds expand to enormous blooms of silvery, satiny pink. Light green soft foliaged bush grows into a compact mound 2 to 3 feet high. Rated 6.9. Only 99¢.

RED PINOCCHIO

Rated 7.9, this free-flowering rose compliments any garden with its clusters of double petaled, cup-shaped scarlet blooms up to 3 inches across. Extremely hardy. Only 99¢.

With a Spiegel Charge Account, there is no finance charge. You simply pay the full cash sale price, plus shipping/handling charge and tax if any, within 25 days after your billing date.

You also have the option of paying on the famous Budget Power Monthly Payment Plan.

Under this plan you pay the time sales price, which is the cash sale price including shipping/handling charge and tax if any, plus the time price differential (monthly finance charge) and the charge for Spiegel Budget Power Group insurance (if authorized) according to the monthly terms below. Payments are credited on the date of receipt and early payments or payments in excess of minimum payment due result in smaller finance charges. No finance charge will be added if the outstanding balance is paid within 25 days of your billing date.

Effective July 1, 1972 for all new and paid-up customers.

MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENT	$8	$9	$10	$11	$12	$13	$14	$15	$20	$25
BUYS UP TO	$160	$180	$200	$220	$240	$260	$280	$300	$400	$500

With the Monthly Payment plan, there is a FINANCE CHARGE computed by the Average Daily Balance method which is the sum of the amount of actual daily balances each day during the billing cycle divided by the number of days in the billing cycle, calaculated at a periodic rate of 1.65% monthly (or a minimum of 50¢ monthly on balances under $30.30) which is an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 19.8%.

Shipping and tax, if any, Insurance coverage (if authorized) and the $1.00 handling charge on orders shipped direct will be included in your account.

Budget Power Group Insurance Available

PROPERTY INSURANCE for Direct and Accidental Loss or Damage to your purchases financed by Spiegel in the United States and Canada caused by: fire, lightning, inland marine perils, windstorm, cyclone, tornado, hail, explosion, vehicles, smoke, flood from rising waters and burglary is available to Spiegel customers from American Bankers Insurance Company of Florida, where not prohibited by law. Claims are paid by a credit to your account for the repair or replacement value of the damaged insured property or the unpaid balance (whichever is less). The cost of property insurance is only pennies a month, .0015 of outstanding monthly balance (which, for example, is only 15¢ for a balance of $100). This insurance may be obtained from any person of applicant's choice and purchase of this insurance is not a factor in approving the extension of credit. You may terminate this insurance at any time.

CREDIT LIFE INSURANCE. For pennies a month, .00165 of monthly balance (which for example is only 16½¢ for a balance of $100), you can be safeguarded by Spiegel Group Credit Insurance Policy, issued by Guaranty Life Insurance Company of America, which will pay your account balance up to $2,500 in the event of the death of you or your spouse. A certificate will be sent, describing all benefits in full. Purchase of this insurance is not a factor in approving the extension of credit, and the insurance can be terminated at any time.

Arab terrorists surrender to Kuwaiti troops

By DAVID ZENIAN

KUWAIT (UPI) —Five Arab guerrillas, their hands raised over their heads, surrendered Saturday night to Kuwaiti troops who surrounded their jetliner on a sweltering tarmac, ending a kidnaping and hijack odyssey that began last Wednesday at the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Paris.

The guerrillas freed four Saudi diplomats seized at the embassy and held during a series of hop-scotch flights accross the Middle East. The Saudis were reported in good condition and, although not needing hospitalization, were to remain for a few days in Kuwait.

The terrorists, who had demanded unsuccessfully that Jordan release a guerrilla leader, were believed to be undergoing questioning by security officials, but their whereabouts were not immediately known.

As evening fell, one of their hostages, identified as Yehia Baha Eddin, a Saudi Embassy secretary, climbed down from the Boeing 707 Kuwait Airlines plane on a wood ladder and walked over to the troops.

Forty soldiers, bayonets fixed on their rifles, and a dozen armored personnel carriers, had surrounded the plane on the tarmac, where the temperature climbed to more than 100 degrees.

The hostage was released by the guerrillas to carry a message, declaring their intention to surrender, to Acting Premier Sheikh Saad AlAbdallah, the Middle East News Agency said.

Trailing a piece of rope, with which he had been tied, the diplomat reached the troops in a state of extreme exhaustion.

Thirty minutes later, the guerrillas began broadcasting messages over the plane's radio declaring they would surrender shortly.

The commandos and the hostages began disembarking from the plane at 7:50 p.m., one after the other, with their hands raised over their heads, the Middle East News agency said.

"All the guerrillas have surrendered without a fight," said Dr. Abdul Hamid, chief airport physician. Neither he nor other officials were able to say immediately under what terms the Arabs gave up.

The guerrillas said they staged the 27-hour occupation of the Saudi Arabian embassy in Paris and the subsequent air drama with the four Saudi diplomat hostages in an attempt to force the release of Abou Daoud, a guerrilla leader serving a life sentence in Jordan. Jordan early in the drama had refused.

The anticlimactic ending to the 95-hour international kidnaping followed a frustrating daylong effort Saturday by the Kuwaiti government. At one point, it appeared an amnesty offer would end the talks with freedom for both guerrillas and hostages.

That possibility went sour in midafternoon when the guerrillas seized Ali Yassin, an official of the Palestine Liberation organization who had been negotiating with them. They released Yassin four hours later, but threatened to blow up the plane if their full demands were not met.

His seizure convinced the Kuwaitis to call out the troops and tank-like armored cars.

Nixon to go on radio with new State of Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on nationwide radio today to give the public a one-day preview of the second State of the Union message he is sending Congress to get action on his stalled legislative program, the White House said Saturday.

Nixon taped the radio address —scheduled for broadcast at 11 a.m. PDT today on major networks — before going with his wife Pat to Camp David, Md.

Nixon told a news conference Wednesday he would send Congress a special message Monday asking lawmakers to fight inflation by holding down appropriations, pass his $79 million defense budget intact, and approve major proposals on energy, revenue sharing, housing and community development.

As the White House announced Nixon's radio speech, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield promised that administration legislative proposals "will be pushed along faster."

Miss America title won by Colorado girl

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —Miss Colorado, Rebecca Ann King, 23, of Sterling, Colo., was named Miss America of 1974 Saturday night.

"I'm very surprised," the winner said. "Thank you very much.

Then she walked down the ramp at the Convention Hall, crying and smiling at the same time.

The first runner-up was Miss Wisconsin, Judy Heike, 19, of Monomonee Falls, Wis., followed by Miss New Jersey, Suzanne Plummer, 21, Wildwood, N.J., Miss Louisiana, Debbie Ward, 21, Baton Rouge, and Miss Pennsylvania, Tina Louise Thomas, 18, Lancaster, Pa.

Miss King, a blue-eyed blonde, sang "If I Ruled the World" during the talent competition. She has been chapel choir director at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver.

She is a graduate of Colorado Women's College, where she majored in secondary music education, but she hopes to attend law school. Her hobby is collecting and refinishing antique furniture.

Miss Colorado's measurements are 36-24-36. She is 5-feet-9.

She was named co-winner of the "Neat as a Pin" award in the contest's earlier rounds Saturday.

The pageant, which has been an annual event since 1921, was marked this year by efforts to get away from the image of a contest judged on beauty.

About 300 security guards and police with guard dogs patrolled Convention Hall Saturday to prevent striking firemen from sabotaging the 53rd Miss America pageant. The pageant's producer vowed the million-dollar show would go on.

Defying a court order, members of the city firemen's union surrounded the ocean-front arena in the hope musicians and other unionized workers would honor picket lines. The 50 contestants were locked inside the hall.

"This is a rotten damn shame," said Albert Marks, executive producer of the pageant. "But I think we're all pro enough to do what we have to do ... This pageant is going on tonight."

Rehearsals were interrupted briefly, but contestants and dancers returned to the giant stage for practice and continued preparing for the crowning of the 53rd Miss America.

Watergate investigations causing 'persecutorial atmosphere'--Agnew

ST. CHARLES, Ill. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, lashing out at Watergate critics of the administration, Saturday night blamed the investigations for a "persecutorial atmosphere hanging over the American political system.

Agnew made what was billed as a major address before about 2,000 who paid $10 apiece to hear him in this GOP bastion of northern Illinois. It was a welcome respite from the troubles besetting him and the administration. At least three Illinois Republican leaders said they believed Agnew would run well in the state as a presidential candidate in 1976.

The vice president made no direct reference to reports involving him with a federal grand jury investigation of political corruption in Maryland, where he was governor.

But, in dwelling upon the Watergate affair, Agnew:

—Said Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate investigating committee, had done a "rain dance" to embarrass President Nixon.

—Predicted Americans would not tar the entire Republican party for "the misguided actions of a few zealots."

—Professed "I have never been more proud of my party," despite the "real and tragic abuses" of Watergate.

The Kane County Republicans gave Agnew a warm welcome. There was a 50-second standing ovation at the start of his half hour speech and he was interrupted 27 times by applause—the heartiest when he laced into Ervin.

However, there were almost 1,000 empty seats, probably because many who had bought tickets found their view obscured by television installations. The Republicans had sold 4,000 tickets for a hall with only 3,000 seats.

Agnew diverged from his prepared text only once, saying, "There is no depression, there is no recession. I want to impress on you, and I think it is important for us as Republicans to remember, that for the first time since the Eisenhower years, we have peace and prosperity coexisting."

Agnew said, "Today ... the motives of us involved in politics at all levels are being called into question. Many assume that we are out simply for ourselves, with no thought of the public interest."

And at another point, Agnew told the dinner in honor of House Republican Whip Leslie H. Arends of Illinois: "Those embittered critics of this administration and this party who could not discredit us at the polls in November will make every effort —no matter how reckless —to discredit us now."

"The preoccupation with anything and everything related to Watergate is the most obvious but not necessarily the most insidious by-product of the affair," Agnew said. "Far more dangerous, in my opinion, is the persecutorial atmosphere hanging over the American political system."

Agnew charged that Ervin and some other Democrats on the select Senate Watergate committee were trying to "milk this issue dry."

"Our opponents will argue that the strength of our free system lies in our willingness to wash our dirty linen in public; and to some extent, they are right," he said.

5 hurt in London station bomb blast

LONDON (UPI) —A bomb that police said might have been set by the IRA exploded in London's Victoria railway station Saturday only minutes after about 1,000 travelers had fled the area, police said.

But five persons were injured as the blast in the commuter ticket office brought down the ceiling and shattered windows, a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

Pomona boy, 2, drowning victim in backyard pool

POMONA — A 2-year-old Pomona boy drowned Saturday afternoon in a pool in the backyard of his home.

The victim, Kevin C. Braxton of 1220 Mission Blvd., was prounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital about 1:25 p.m.

Police said the victim's uncle, Kevin G. McFatridge, 18, of the same address, told them that the boy had been playing in the front yard with his two brothers, ages 3 and 4, before he was discovered missing by his mother.

When she went to find the youngster, McFatridge told police, she discovered the rear fence gate open, and upon entering the backyard she found the boy lying at the bottom of the pool.

Police said the boy's grandfather attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the boy until the fire department rescue unit arrived.

Police said Mrs. Braxton was too overcome by the incident to give any further details.

Sets goal independent of Mideast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, setting a goal of independence from Middle East oil within five years, announced relaxation of air pollution standards for industry Saturday to ease an expected shortage of home heating oil this winter.

After a two-hour White House meeting on the energy situation, John A. Love, the President's special energy adviser, also disclosed new steps to boost imports of heavy oils used for heating through a change in price control regulations.

Love said rationing of home heating oil this winter was discussed as an emergency "contingency plan," but no decision was made.

The President listed a host of other measures, including pressure on Congress to approve the trans-Alaska oil pipeline, which he predicted would put U.S. energy resources on the road toward self-sufficiency. Love said it would take three to five years to reach that point.

Nixon announced he would ease some new air quality standards and postpone enforcement of others to allow greater industrial use of such high-pollution fuels as coal. This in turn will release more low-sulphur oil and natural gas for home consumption this winter.

Although Congress has legislated authority for progressively stricter air quality controls, Nixon said he could act on his own to modify the actual standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency. Love said he would meet with a delegation of governors next week to seek necessary changes in state air pollution laws stemming from federal standards.

Love said EPA administrator Russell Train agreed with the decision because no health hazards would be involved.

Government officials have estimated home heating oil might fall 15 per cent short of demand this winter if cold weather is severe enough. Love has said supplies were "very tight."

Love disclosed that the Cost of Living Council next week will announce regulations allowing a boost in retail heating oil prices to help importers recover more fully the cost of higher-priced oil from abroad.

This probably will translate into a domestic price hike of 2 cents a gallon this winter.

The move was intended to increase imports to help meet the anticipated domestic demand for an additional 200,000 to 400,000 barrels of fuel oil daily this winter, even without a severe winter, said Charles J. DiBona, a special White House energy consultant.

Even though Love predicted the United States would be importing some oil, "certainly from this hemisphere and probably from the Middle East," after it becomes self-sufficient in three to five years, the President reaffirmed his determination to resist increasing political pressures from Arab oil-producing countries.

"The United States must be in a position so that no nation in the world has us in the position where they can cut off our oil," Nixon said.

The President said Americans faced a short-term energy problem—"we do not face a crisis in that sense of the word"—but that long-range prospects for an adequate U.S. energy supply were "excellent" and perhaps better than for any other industrialized nation.

After what he described as a "quite spirited" discussion with 15 Cabinet members and energy advisers, the President reported agreement on:

—A sharp speedup in development of nuclear power generators.

—Accelerated federal research on clean-burning uses of coal, such as conversion to gas.

—Development of oil reserves in the government-controlled Elk Hills naval reserve lands in California for domestic consumption.

Northern California

Two fires out of control

By United Press International

Two forest fires burned out of control Saturday in isolated, steep terrain of Northern California near Eureka and Vacaville.

Flames blackened nearly 4,400 acres of timber and brush in the two blazes but no structures were engulfed. There were no injuries.

Firefighters and six aerial tankers managed to halt a wall of flames which had moved within three quarters of a mile of several homes six miles west of Vacaville. Flames burning along the ridge between Solano and Napa counties charred 3,400 acres.

By nightfall Saturday, firemen had the Vacaville fire 80 per cent contained despite a 35-mile-an-hour north wind and heavy brush.

"We feel certain the fire was man-caused," said a spokesman for the California Division of Forestry. "We hope for possible containment sometime Sunday morning.

Fifty miles south of Eureka in the rugged Finley Creek area, fire consumed more than 950 acres of timber and threatened some homes along the drainage plain of Eubank Creek. The division of forestry asked the Humboldt County sheriff's office to evacuate families living in the Eubank area.

Five air tankers bombed the fire with chemical retardants and 300 men were deployed on the fire lines. The firefighters were plagued with spot fires breaking out in advance of the fire line.

By sundown Saturday, firemen had established a line around approximately 50 per cent of the Finley Creek blaze.

WHERE EVERYBODY SAVES

First since 1911

U.S. cholera case reported

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) —Two weeks ago Dr. James M. Thompson, a Navy doctor two years out of medical school, was faced with a dying patient with an undiagnosed illness.

After much research, Thompson cured the sick man and the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) in Atlanta, Ga., announced Saturday the patient had the first confirmed case of cholera in the United States since 1911.

"I was scared," said Thompson, who works weekends at Port Lavaca's Champ Traylor Memorial Hospital. "The man was not responding to treatment. He was dying and I didn't know why."

Thompson ordered symptomatic treatment and laboratory tests, then went to the hospital library to the reference books.

"I read up on all the various insecticide poisonings, the food poisonings, the heavy metal poisonings," he said, reviewing the bacterial and viral diseases.

But one word stuck in Thompson's mind.

"The man must have cholera because nothing else fits," he told himself. "This is a classic case of cholera, though there hasn't been a case in the United States in over 50 years."

Cholera, a dreaded disease among American pioneers that is currently being battled in Italy, produces toxins which cause circulatory collapse, pooling the blood in the major vessels. It leads to diarrhea, rapid heartbeat, shock and death.

After questioning the unidentified man's wife about their water and sewer facilities, Thompson consulted the man's private physician and requested —and received—permission to treat for cholera.

A new antibiotic was administered and, Thompson said, "By the next morning the patient looked like he was going to live."

Meanwhile, tests were sent to Victoria, and eventually on to Austin and the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Ten days later Dr. Jack Weissman of the NCDC succeeded in tracking down Thompson through the Navy.

"He congratulated me," Thompson said. "I almost fainted."

But how the man contacted the disease remained a mystery. The NCDC said an investigation revealed the patient had not left the country since serving in the military in the 1950s. He had not been away from home for several months. And he had no known contact with persons with a history of recent foreign travel, the NCDC said.

It added that an extensive search has revealed no additional cases of suspected cholera in the area. Further investigations are underway to determine the source of the patient's infection, the NCDC added.

The NCDC said the absence of cholera cases reflects the "minimal potential for spread of cholera in areas with safe food and water supplies, such as those commonly encountered in the United States." It added that the Texas case is unrelated to the current outbreak of cholera in Italy.

Because more than 10 days have passed since hospitalization of this single case, the area where the Texas patient resides is not a cholera-infected area under provisions of international health regulations, according to the NCDC.

New cars to show miles per gallon on price tag

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Prospective new car buyers soon may be able to determine at a glance how many miles the 1974 models are expected to get on a gallon of gasoline.

The idea, first advanced by the Environmental Protection Agency last month, is to post the information next to the price sticker on car windows and the EPA said Saturday most automakers have indicated they would take part in the voluntary program.

The EPA said each car would bear a label showing comparative mileage rates for cars in various weight categories and the cost of gas for driving the vehicle 10,000 miles at 40 cents a gallon.

By looking at the data, EPA said buyers could tell that new cars weighing 2,000 pounds should average 24 miles per gallon and that expected mileage would get progressively lower as car weight increased.

For example, a new 1974 car weighing 5,500 pounds would get only about eight miles per gallon while a 3,000 pound car should average close to 15, the EPA said.

In terms of operating costs, the EPA said the 5,500 pound vehicle would burn up around $500 worth of gas to go 10,000 miles compared with $265 for the 3,000 pound car and $165 for the subcompact 2,000 pound auto.

The agency noted, however, that actual fuel economy would depend on such variables as individual driving habits, condition of the vehicle and the amount of optional equipment, including air conditioners and power steering.

Smell of death, wounded crying amidst battle

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Government and Communist troops fought for control of once-beautiful Kompong Cham Saturday, ignoring the stifling smell of death and the cries of the wounded in their nine-day-old battle for the provincial capital.

Field reporters and refugees who fled from the surrounded town 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh said they saw dozens of dead and wounded, many of them civilians caught in the cross-fire.

One refugee said the streets were strewn with mangled bodies and others died screaming because there was no medical care available.

In Vietnam, fighting was at a wartime level Saturday, despite the seven-month-old cease-fire.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, reported 120 Communist truce violations between noon Friday and midday Saturday. The total was six fewer than the previous day, but the second highest 24-hour total since July 27, when there were 127.

Spokesmen said the heaviest Vietnam fighting was in the Central Highlands centered about 200 miles north of Saigon.

From Phnom Penh, the Cambodian High Command gave an optimistic picture of the Kompong Cham fighting. "The enemy cannot attack. Their chance to attack the city is finished," said command spokesman Col. Am Rong.

Refugees said the nauseating smell of decomposing bodies hung over the town, Cambodia's third largest.

One report said many would be refugees were killed in the cross-fire when insurgent troops overran the southern section of the city Friday, only to be driven out by government soldiers.

Wategate hearings resume Tuesday on alleged misdeeds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With the issue of President Nixon's secret tape recordings mired in legal proceedings, the Watergate investigation is turning toward other alleged misdeeds in the 1972 presidential campaign.

The Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities meets Tuesday for the first time since concluding 11 weeks of public hearings Aug. 7. It is expected to resume hearings the week of Sept. 17 with a half-dozen witnesses providing transitional testimony between the Watergate and "dirty tricks" phases of its probe.

The committee must decide whether to handle the "dirty tricks" and campaign financing phases as a whole or as two subcommittees, and whether to try to complete all hearings by Nov. 1 as chief counsel Sam Dash has indicated.

The situation on the various aspects of the investigation:

Watergate —Expected to testify before the Senate committee are former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson; E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former White House consultant convicted in the bugging of Democratic national offices; Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr., head of the White House "plumbers" investigative unit; David R. Young, Krogh's aide; William O. Bittman, Hunt's attorney; and Kenneth W. Parkinson and Paul O'Brien, attorneys for the Committee to Re-elect the President.

"Dirty tricks" —Three Senate investigators who fanned out across the nation have learned that former Treasury Department lawyer Donald H. Segretti contacted about 25 persons to participate in alleged acts aimed against Democrats. Segretti has been indicted in Florida on charges involving defamatory letters about Democratic candidates in that state's 1972 presidential primary.

Campaign financing —Senate investigators sent letters to 100 corporate donors and 100 individual contributors and went to Key Biscayne, Fla., site of one of Nixon's homes. About 10 corporations have informed Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox they made illegal contributions to the Nixon campaign or were asked to do so.

The Tapes —The proceedings involving the White House recordings of Nixon's coversations are the most tangled of all with separate suits by the Senate committee and Cox to obtain them.

Won't discipline strikers, Chrysler gives assurance

DETROIT (UPI) —With less than a week of bargaining time left before a strike deadline, Chrysler Corp. Saturday rescinded all disciplinary action taken against 1,447 United Auto Workers members who took part in heat strikes last month.

Chrysler said it decided to end the penalties against employes at its plants in Windsor, Ont., in response to assurances from UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Vice President Douglas Fraser that they would devote their "personal attention" to preventing more unauthorized walkouts.

Thirteen workers were fired and another 398 suspended in what company spokesmen referred to as a "routine disciplinary action" because of heat strikes Aug. 27. But Fraser, who heads the union's Chrysler Department, described the action, which also included sending letters of reprimand to more than 1,000 other workers, as "outrageous."

In letters to Woodcock and Fraser, William O'Brien, vice president of personnel for Chrysler, said he understood union officials "would insist that the employes of the Windsor plant comply with the no-strike provisions of their contracts and the law."

"We sincerely hope that this action will inaugurate the stability and responsibility that we have come to expect in plants that your union represents," the letter concluded.

Chrysler said it took the action in response to a "special request" from the union.

The UAW and Chrysler continued to meet through the weekend, hoping to work out details of a new contract for 127,500 U.S. and Canadian workers before 11:59 p.m. Friday, when the old pact expires. Workers already have authorized a strike if one is necessary.

Princess Anne in fall from horse in riding competition

KIEV, USSR (UPI) —Princess Anne, the defending champion at the European Equestrian Championships, fell head over heels off her horse Goodwill Saturday during the cross-country event and was eliminated from competition.

The Princess came up shaking and limping. Later a British spokesman said she had a gruised left leg and an apparently chipped collarbone.

The fall came on her first attempt at the jump which claimed 8 of the first 17 riders.

She favored her left leg and sported a dirty splotch on the seat of her white jodhpurs but managed a wry smile.

Her fiance, Capt. Mark Phillips, also an Olympic gold medalist, walked behind. He had scouted the jump earlier.

Reinecke takes slap at Republican 'non-candidates'

By GEORGE SKELTON

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke said Saturdy that other potential candidates for the 1974 Republican gubernatorial nomination should either get in or get out of the race and stop "kidding the people."

"We should not be wasting money on non-candidates. We should not be wasting time on non-candidates," Reinecke declared in a strongly-worded statement released at the largest California Republican convention in history.

The harsh comments of Reinecke, the only formally announced GOP gubernatorial candidate, were aimed at Controller Houston I. Flournoy, Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger and — particularly —former Lt Gov. Robert H. Finch.

It was a general theme echoed by Republican state chairman Gordon Luce of San Diego, who urged delegates to "advise would-be candidates to step aside if polls and other evaluations show they can't win."

"Let's honestly evaluate the field," Luce said. "We've seen resources diluted and unity suffer with too many candidates in the primary."

Gubernatorial politics and the 1976 Presidential election—with guest speakers John Connally of Texas and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California potential contenders — dominated the Republican state central committee's fall convention.

Virtually every speaker mentioned the Watergate bugging scandal.

Presidential counselor Anne Armstrong told the 2,000 delegates and party faithful that President Nixon's Re-election Committee and its "Johnny come latelies" who broke into Watergate were not part of the real GOP.

"It was irresponsible political freebooting outside the two-party structure which led to Watergate," Mrs. Armstrong said.

In her prepared remarks, Mrs. Armstrong lashed out at the "few political fakes, misfits and outsiders" who caused Watergate. But she softened those tough words to "Johnny come latelies" in her actual delivery, explaining later the purpose was to emphasize that the Committee to Re-elect the President was "a separate organization" from the real Republican party.

Flournoy, Younger and Finch —who is delaying a decision about his 1974 political plans until late December—all were at the convention, hosting cocktail receptions in their suites and lobbying delegates.

But, for the most part, these party faithful were regarded as supporters of Reinecke, the Republican leader in the California Field poll released last week

Some gas stations shut down in protest

BARSTOW, Calif. (UPI) —A number of gasoline stations on Interstate Highway 15 from outside San Bernardino to Las Vegas closed down Friday evening in protest against price regulations but the majority were reported to have opened again Saturday.

Retailers attempted to get together a boycott concentrating on the Barstow, Victorville and Blythe areas but many did not join and the California Highway Patrol said Saturday that it appeared that most stations were open.

The Automobile Club of Southern California said there had been plans for a 72-hour shutdown but that it was not being observed. The club warned motorists, however, against driving on the Las Vegas-San Bernardino highway at night.

A number of operators in Barstow were attempting to serve their regular customers but turn away travellers heading from Los Angeles to Las Vegas.

Barstow police said that a number of tourists camped in their cars in service stations waiting for them to open and that a number of operators opened up briefly to get rid of them and then shut down again.

One operator said he decided not to join in a shutdown voted by members of the Service Stations Association in Barstow.

"I consulted with my lawyer and he said I didn't want to get involved because of a possible legal issue if there was a massive shutdown," he said.

"I also didn't go along with it because it's like a utility company suddenly shutting down services to get a rate increase. You don't completely demobilize people to solve a problem."

The Automobile Club said it had received word from the American Automobile Association of Arizona that there was a boycott by operators from Gallup, N.M., to Kingman, Ariz., on U.S. Highway 40.

Claremonters hurt in crash

UPLAND — Four Claremont youths were injured Friday afternoon when the car in which they were riding crashed into a railroad crossing signal standard at Mountain Avenue.

The driver, Michael S. McLean, 17, of 1959 Stowe Court, is in fair condition at San Antonio Community Hospital. Police said he apparently lost control of his car which jumped a traffic island and struck the signal.

Three other passengers Mark E. McLean, 6, of the Stowe Court address; Susan L. Holmes, 13, of 1926 Stowe Court and Kathy M. Vignoli, 14, of 162 E. Radcliffe Drive were treated for injuries at the hospital and later released

Chemical is suspect in plant illness

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) —An Ohio Health Department physician said Saturday "the finger of suspicion" points toward a cloth-dye chemical as the cause of a mysterious nerve illness that has struck at least 11 workers in the print shop of Columbus Coated Fabrics, a textile mill.

The chemical solvent, methyl butyl ketone, manufactured by the Tennessee Eastland Corp., "is the only thing we can identify that has changed in that shop in many years," said Dr. Donald J. Ballmaier, a physician in the Department's occupational hazards division.

"The finger of suspicion points at that, but we can't prove it yet," Ballmaier said.

Columbus Coated Fabrics switched to the new solvent about a year ago to replace a chemical, methyl isobutylketone, that created air pollution hazards, he said.

Since April, at least 11 print shop workers have been stricken by peripheral neuritis, a disease which can result in nerve damage in the arms and legs and general weakness. As many as 20 other cases are suspected among the 90 employes.

Aging prints trap suspect

TOKYO (UPI) — Police said they arrested an arson suspect through fingerprints left on an empty bottle five years ago. The suspect, an apprentice bartender, was on the police wanted list for 20 cases of arson reported in the Sumid Ward since 1960

King Gustaf's condition worsens

STOCKHOLM (UPI) —King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden was in "extremely serious" condition Saturday, his physicians said.

The king was rushed to the Helsingborg Hospital three weeks ago for an emergency operation when physicians removed the lower part of his stomach. He has suffered minor internal bleedings since then and has been kept alive by a respirator since Aug. 24.

His chief physician, Dr. Gunnar Bioerck, said the 90-year-old king's heart and blood circulation had worsened since Friday.

"His condition must be described as extremely serious," the medical bulletin read by Bioerck said.

PLENTY FOR ALL — Sen. Howard Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, says there will be ample embarrassment for both Republicans and Democrats in the next phase of the Watergate hearings.

Galbraith would run for Senate

NEW YORK (UPI) —Harvard professor and economist John Kenneth Galbraith says he is not interested in a political job in 1976 but he would consider running for Sen. Edward Kennedy's Senate seat should Kennedy win the presidential nomination.

Galbraith, a former ambassador to Indian, said in a copyrighted interview published in today's issue of Parade Magazine, he thinks of himself "primarily as a writer—a man of ideas—not a political figure."

The economist said in the interview, "Every year economists intellectually condition thousands of students and much of the public through writing and pronouncements."

Prison officials ignore violence warnings--Hoffa

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Former Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa said Saturday prison officials often ignore specific warnings about riots that are about to explode within their walls

Hoffa, at a news conference before a dinner sponsored by the National Association for Justice, said officials at the Stateville Prison at Joliet, Ill., and the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City had been warned about problems that could evolve into riots.

In both cases, he said, as with prison officials in general, the warnings were ignored. Riots erupted soon after at both facilities.

Hoffa said the unresponsiveness of prison officials is a major cause of inmate discontent. "The arrogance of the warden and the captains, you would not believe," he said.

Other major problems, he said, are overcrowding, poor medical care and recreation facilities, bad food and a lack of classification among different types of prisoners.

"They're all lumped together," he said.

Too often, Hoffa said, no attention is given to these conditions until a riot occurs.

"The biggest problem we have," he said, "is getting responsible people to realize that preventing a riot is better than quelling a riot."

Hoffa said during the five years he spent at the Lewisburg, Pa., prison he witnessed rapes, murders and riots. He said in some cases guards provoke riots because they want people to see prison conditions on television

The problems are not racial, he said. "The inmates are so busy trying to combat officials at the prison they don't have time to develop a black and white situation "

A lack of change is the problem, Hoffa said. Most jails are 75 years old or more and still use antiquated methods—"rules and regulations, lock and key, bells and chimes." It's incarceration, he said, not rehabilitation.

He said many of the changes could come about by legislation, but action has been held up by congressional attention focused on Watergate.

LA VERNE — The La Verne Nursery School will hold an orientation meeting for parents at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the library at the La Verne Church of the Brethren.

Parents are to bring all completed admission and medical forms filled out. Children's class schedules and mother's working schedules will be assigned.

The world's longest vehicular tunnel, seven-mile Mt. Blanc, cuts through the Alps between France and Italy.

Vernon K. Westray

POMONA — Vernon K. Westray of 301 E. Foothill Blvd. died Saturday in a San Dimas Convalescent Center after nine months of illness.

Mr Westray was born Jan. 27, 1910 in Missouri. He came to California in 1912 and lived in San Pedro and South Gate prior to moving to Pomona in 1964.

Besides his widow, Harriet, he is survived by two sons, Michael A. of Downey and Peter B. of Saugus; a brother, William A. of Key West, Fla.; and five grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Private burial will be made in Inglewood Park Cemetery, Inglewood.

Lee Roy Fink

LONG BEACH — Lee Roy Fink of Long Beach died Friday in the Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Fink was born Sept. 5, 1898 in Tennessee. He came to California in 1912 and lived in Fresno for 14 years before moving to La Verne. He later lived in Pomona, and had lived in Long Beach since 1955.

Surviving is a son, Edward of Pomona; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Marguerite C. Rea of Long Beach; and two grandchildren.

Private services will be held and private committal will be made in Pomona Cemetery. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Walter K. Sprott

CHINO — Walter K. 'Jack" Sprott, formerly of 5608 Esther St., died Wednesday at the Loma Linda University Medical Center following a short illness.

Mr. Sprott recently moved to Hemet to reside with his son, Walter H.

Mr. Sprott was born Feb. 17, 1882, in Eureka, Kan. He moved to Chino from Pomona 26 years ago. He worked as a salesman up to the time of his final illness.

Mr. Sprott was graduated from Stanford University with the Class of 1906. He was an all-American tackle for the Stanford football team. He was a member of the Kappa Alpha engineering fraternity.

Surviving are two sons, Walter H. and Edward K. of Newhall; two sisters, Miss Mary E. Sprott of Porterville and Mrs. Louise Strong of Palo Alto; two grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Graveside services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Pomona Cemetery. Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. today and Monday at Griffith Mortuary in Chino.

Memorial Contributions may be made to the Arthritis and Kidney Foundation.

Sunday, Sept. 9

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't discuss money matters with friends today. It's the worm that will spoil the apple.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Use persuasion without being dictatorial to get your way today. If angered, make an effort to conceal it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will have an opportunity to help someone. For a reason known only to you, you won't. Is that nice?

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're a little edgy today. Your temper has a short fuse. Relax. Take things as they come.

LEO (July 23 Aug. 22) Don't expose your ambitions in front of others. They're too involved with their interests to be a good audience.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Put your work aside for today. Relax and enjoy. Though there are tasks you want to finish, you'll do them poorly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is one of those days where you'll have to be on guard against overindulgence. Practice moderation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone is going to try to force you to make a decision. Put them off for a few days.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're going to be puttering around the house today, don't use unfamiliar tools. Beware of overexertion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a luxury item you have your eye on and would like to have. It isn't a good buy now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll enjoy yourself more if you get out of the house and do something different. Chores will irk you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You need time to yourself today. Make this a day of rest and seclusion. Re-charge for the busy week ahead.

New work or career opportunities will open for you this coming year, but don't make changes unless they're carefully investigated. Gain comes from diligence.

For Monday, September 10

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A poor opinion someone held regarding you will be reversed today. Their judgment was based upon incomplete information.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something to do with your work or career will gain attention. Praise will come from higher-up.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A social contact made today will figure in your future. Through him you'll meet someone who will have a role in coming events.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will find new strength today through a relationship you deeply value. Greater security comes through knowing you're cherished.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A situation that could have gone sour will be turned to your benefit because you employ diplomacy, instead of obstinance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's a good day to pick up the loose ends where work is concerned. At this time you are productive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct 23) Your personality has that added sparkle today. You'll notice others will be eager to please.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone you've been nice to in the past is going to return the favor. Expect the unexpected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Get in touch with friends you haven't heard from for a while. Bring them up to date on what you've been doing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 2-Jan. 19) Financial conditions should show some improvement today. Give full attention to profitable business matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something is in the mill today from which you will reap benefits. You'll learn of it now. The results won't come until later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20 Your interests are being protected by another. Let him continue to handle things. He knows what he's doing.

Strike rejected by teachers in San Bernardino

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — The majority of teachers here have voted against a strike but are holding out for more pay. A smaller teachers' group previously said it would strike but now says it won't.

The larger, 1,100-member San Bernardino Teachers Association, rejected a strike Wednesday but voted to return to the bargaining table to seek an extra 2 per cent pay hike added on to a 7.1 per cent increase previously granted.

The smaller San Bernardino Federation of Teachers voted to strike for a 6.9 per cent pay raise but a spokesman said its 130 members would now report to the classroom because the larger organization voted against a strike.

Don't wholly blame geriatric tablets

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I started giving my old terrier, Spunky, some geriatric tablets and right away she got pregnant. Do you think there was a connection? —M. W.

Dear M. W.: Absolutely. There had to be a connection . . . don't give too much credit to the geriatric tablets, however. Chronological age is less important than how one feels. Obviously, Spunk was feeling considerably younger than you thought she was.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Angie, my cat, has always had this habit of nibbling on her food rather than eating it all at once. Many times during the summer, she would be eating her food eight hours after it had been put down. This has never caused her a stomach ache or anything like that. Now my sister tells me her Blackie got poisoned because his food was out all day and spoiled before he ate it. Blackie recovered but I guess he was plenty sick at the time. Does this mean I really should be taking up old food after just a few hours and replacing it with fresh? It would be a nuisance but I would certainly do it instead of letting Angie get sick over it. — D. K.

Dear D. K.: The peak food-poisoning season is passing now; Angie ought to be able to make it from here on. Actually, as far as a good quality canned cat food is concerned, the hazard of dangerous spoilage within an eight hour period is not great. Even so, during the hot months it would be prudent to put down fresh food in the afternoon. A far greater hazard would be when the pet is fed refrigerator leftovers. Some of these may be almost spoiled by the time the poor animal gets them and they could heat up to a dangerous contamination level within a very few hours. Many of these leftovers belong in the garbage—not in your pet's dish in the first place. Any time leftovers are too old to be put back on a human table, they are too old for the pets in the family, too.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our pair of chinchillas really hate it when it gets up to 90 degrees or so but they seem perfectly comfortable at a 70-degree room temperature. Do they really have to get colder than that to be healthy? — F. G.

Dear F. G.: No, 70 degrees is ideal except for those unfortunates who are to be pelted. A more luxurious coat would be produced at lower temperatures.

Youth breaks up over cop's plight, caught

DALLAS (UPI) —When a police officer spotted a runaway boy in northwest Dallas recently he took off after him.

The boy ran through a briar patch; so did the cop, who tore his pants. The boy turned into an alley; so did the cop, and his cap blew off.

The boy ran across a field; so did the cop, and his toupee came off.

Overcome by laughter, the boy stopped and the policeman captured him.

A department spokesman said the police department will have to replace the toupee. The policeman was not identified.

Erma Bombeck

Las Vegas. . .When I was five years old, my older sister and her girl friend lured me under the back porch one afternoon and engaged me in a game of strip poker.

I learned an important lesson that day. Never engage in a game of strip poker with two hustlers (who know their numbers) while wearing only a sunsuit and a pair of briefs.

I have been overdressed ever since.

Las Vegas is not as subtle about gambling as my experience under the back porch.

I know somewhere in this city are men who carry Donald Duck thermoses to the office and fall asleep in their chairs in the evening. I know that somewhere are mothers who live in houses without room service and save green stamps and have children who play in the sprinkler, but my time was spent in the part of town that tourists see.

There was something about it that made me feel like Doris Day had come to town with the egg money. Maybe it was the strange way the cashier looked at me when I asked for a quarters worth of nickels.

All I know is, something happened to me the first time I put in a nickel, pulled the arm on the slot machine and got two nickels back.

Doris Day went bananas. Feverishly, I put in two nickels at a time so that I could raise my odds. Then I began loading the machine on my left, pulling the arm and inserting a coin in the next machine without even waiting to see if I hit anything or not.

My palms began to sweat. I refused food or drink, perched myself on a stool and went at the job of losing money with all the dedication of a guy balancing 18 twirling plates on bamboo poles.

Numb with excitement, I didn't notice my husband at my elbow. "How are you doing?" he asked quietly.

"Doris Day is down to her last freckle," I said sadly.

"I've got the luggage," he said. "Don't you think we ought to get out of the airport and into town?"

"I'll call the kids and tell them we got here," I said.

Inserting two nickels in the phone I gave the operator the number. Then I heard it. . .that magic tinkle-tinkle of two coins being returned.

"I won!" I shouted, jumping to my feet. I stood up too soon. A man took my place and began inserting nickels into the telephone.

It's that kind of a town.

Spain's Costa del Sol is inviting foreign retreat

By DONALD W. REYNOLDS

MARBELLA, Spain — When was the last time you heard a rooster crow just before down—particularly from the 16th floor of a modern air conditioned hotel?

The incident is typical here on the Costa del Sol in Spain. The builder and developer has moved in before the farmer has had a chance to gather his flock and head for a vanishing rural area.

Just 20 years ago this Sun Coast on the Spanish shores of the Mediterranean was a string of fishing villages. Then the tourists, attracted by the sun and cheap prices, started coming. Today it is no longer cheap, but remains a favorite sunshine playground and attracts more than two million tourists a year from all over the world.

August is the hottest month during the days but the evenings are cooled by sea breezes making the nights comfortable. The 85 miles, extending on both sides of the city of Malaga from Almeria in the east of Algeciras in the west has seen the most spectacular development.

It is a land of contracts. Of fishermen pulling their boats onto the sand and mending their nets in the shade of skyscraper hotels. Of mule trains loaded with sugar cane jogging along the busy four-lane highway. And just a few kilometers inland from any of the modern resorts along the coast will bring you to villages with narrow cobbled streets, whitewashed houses with wrought iron balconies where at dusk the villagers ride in from the fields on donkeys.

It has been called a picture post card world that really exists.

It has been almost fiteen years since I first visited Malaga. An acute arthritic attack caused the specialists at the Americal hospital in Paris to advise a pleasant, warm, sunny climate in which to recuperate. Malaga appeared to be the ideal answer—an was. In those days the old Miramar Palace Hotel was on the beach and a suite with a balcony overlooking the sea was $8 per day, including three meals. A horse-drawn carriage clip clopped along the three-mile drive the the main fountain near the cathedral square. The charge was 25 cents and a 10 cent tip sent the driver into ecestasies. Now what appears to be the same carriage will make the same trip, with an additional 10 minutes spent in the park for 200 pesetas. That's a bit over $4 — and a tip of less than another dollar identifies you as a "cheap American." But, let's face it, the $3 half-hour trip through Central Park in New York is now ten bucks — and you take your life in your hands if you make it after dark without an armed escort.

Spain has never really been a nation of beachgoers. The Spanish tend to regard the sun as something to keep well out of which probably accounts for all the shutters and galleries that enclose most native homes. While coach loads of foreign tourists fight over bits of beach-space in the noon day sun, the smart Spaniards is far more likely to be sitting calmly in the shade sipping his sangria or coffee. That's why you will hear as much German, French and English along the beach as you do Spanish. Not being a linguist, I'll probably never know what is going on—but it is a restful pleasure to join the natives in the share-an ideal spot for the "Manana" existence.

Victim's steaks so good, they returned

DANVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Thieves just couldn't resist another crack at the freezer in the home of H.E. Tillman.

Police said recently that burglars took two New York cut steaks in one breakin. Several days later, investigators said, they returned to take a pound of round steak and a pound of ground round.

Giant Rio bridge nears completion

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — After ten years and $250 million, the longest continuous box and plate girder bridge in the world is nearing completion in Brazil.

Linking Rio with Niteroi across Guanabara Bay, the massive 8.8 mile long concrete and steel structure is scheduled to be opened to traffic by the middle of next January.

Long the brunt of jokes because of delays and cost overruns, the bridge took ten years of planning. Construction began in December 1968, and 10,000 workers currently toil day and night to finish it.

When completed, the structure will have six lanes for traffic and a total length of 46,932 feet, according to Transportation Ministry figures.

Officially named the Costa e Silva Bridge (after the late President Artur Costa e Silva), the structure is expected to carry an average of 15,000 vehicles daily between the two cities in 1974.

The 958-foot-long central span —constructed entirely of steel— will be the longest of its type in the world, surpassing the 856-foot span of the more than 196 feet above the Sava I bridge in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

The center span will be more than 196 feet above the surface of the bay, permitting the largest ships to navigate under it.

Total weight of the structure when finished will be equal to the weight of 800 ten-story buildings. The 150 million sacks of cement poured into the structure would circle the globe one and one half times, according to the figures.

Expo '74 runs into another financial rut

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74's financial woes have worsened with the announcement by the Economic Development Administration that the city's application for a $3.8 million grant would be denied.

The money was to go directly into the world's fair treasury, which for several weeks has been operating under what Expo President King Cole termed "an extremely serious" cash-flow problem.

Expo Board Chairman Roderick Londsay said the world's fair now would turn to the community and businessmen for the money.

Remapping plan shifts power to valley

New Assembly, state Senate, Congress zones unite most of area for swing vote

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Pomona and the West End of San Bernardino County can expect a greater degree of home rule if the State Supreme Court adopts the redistricting plan proposed by its special masters panel.

The remapping would unite a heretofore politically fragmented area into Assembly District 65, and leave it without an incumbent.

It would also give the area a stronger voice in the election of a state senator and a congressional representative.

Under the new plan, the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino—which have tightly knit economic ties and account for better than two-thirds of the populace in the Pomona Valley—would compose the 65th district.

4 representatives

These cities are presently represented, depending on district lines, by four assemblymen, none of whom reside within the boundaries of the proposed district.

And it is unlikely that any of the four legislators would change their residences to compete for a seat in the new district since Pomona and the West End communities represent only a small portion of their present districts.

Pomona is now represented by Bill Lancaster, R-49th Dist., and Joseph Montoya, D-50th Dist.; Ontario, Montclair and Chino by John Briggs, R-35th Dist.; and Upland by John Quimby, D-72nd Dist.

The 65th District would be combined with the 66th, which is entirely within San Bernardino County and consists of the communities of Colton, Fontana and Rialto, and a major portion of the city of San Bernardino, to form the 32nd Senate District.

The present senatorial set-up has Pomona in the 35th District under James Whetmore, while the West End is in 20th District represented by William Coombs.

Coombs undecided

Coombs, from Rialto, would be the incumbent in the proposed 32nd District, but he is not sure if he will run for re-election.

"I really don't know if I'm going to run the next time," Coombs said Friday. "This is a constant question, and it has been triggered again by reapportionment. A decision will be made next January or February when we have to file."

He acknowledged rumors persist that he will not seek re-election, but he added, "There have been rumors ever since I came here (Sacramento). It's possible one of the rumors could jell today. But for now a decision has not been made."

Although the major part of the Pomona Valley is united by the new plan, a small part of it would be included in yet two other Assembly and Senate districts.

The foothill communities of Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas would be placed in the 62nd Assembly District and the 25th Senate District, while the Walnut-Diamond Bar area would fall in the 64th Assembly District and 33rd Senate District. The 62nd District includes the cities of Glendora, Covina and West Covina in addition to the three Valley communities.

San Diman pleased

"The new plan keeps community identity," San Dimas Mayor Tom Nuss said."The cities in our Assembly district have the same interests, and we are glad that we will be able to keep Bill Lancaster as our assemblyman." Lancaster would be the incumbent in the 62nd.

The 64th is an elongated district which is centered around Whittier and La Mirada on the south side of a range of hills and Hacienda Heights and Diamond Bar on the north side.

However, the entire Pomona Valley, with the exception of the Diamond Bar and Walnut area, will form the center of the 35th Congressional District. To obtain the necessary population, Covina and West Covina are included in the district, as well as the sparsely populated parts of the San Gabriel Mountains just north of the populated areas.

As in the Assembly, the Pomona Valley is badly split in the present Congressional districts. Representatives Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., George Brown, D-38th Dist., and Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., all lay claim to some part of the Valley.

But under the new plan, only Wiggins might be considered as a possible contender. Wiggins' home is in Covina, and his present district has been carved up by the masters panel.

Wiggins unhappy

The congressman has voiced his displeasure with the realignment of the congressional districts, especially the 25th. He called the plan "a disservice to the people in my district," and said it "lacks common sense."

65th ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

The 65th Assembly District proposed by a special masters panel consists of the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and Upland, together with adjacent unincorporated areas in San Bernardino County. The foothill communities of Claremont, La Verne, and San Dimas will be represented in the 62nd Assembly District, while the Diamond Bar and Walnut area will be included in the 64th Assembly District.

Finance company's wary when couple is separated

My husband and I are separated. During the last six months we have paid our bills on time and things are better now financially than before.

My car is falling apart and my husband's car broke down. We decided to get a better auto. My husband would and could easily make a $75 payment each month.

But as soon as the loan companies find out that we don't live together, they won't finance a car purchase for us. Why must a married couple live together in order to finance anything? — P. M., Chino

We picked a loan company at random, asked the above question and received the answer we expected.

Loan companies are likely to suspect that when a couple separates, legal action is imminent. That means court expenses to be paid by the couple.

Under the California community property law, both the husband and wife must sign for the loan. A legal hassle might delay for a while the determination of which marriage partner is to take over what debts.

Under those circumstances, loan companies have found, many people don't pay their bills.

For over a month now, I have been trying to obtain a copy of the Nightly News Theme by Del Kacher. This is the theme used at the end of the KNBC Newservice.

I have purchased a version of that song through Wallichs Music City in West Covina entitled Nightly News Parts 1 and 2 on a Verve Records label. However, this is not the version that I want and have heard on K100-FM in Los Angeles. K100 was only able to tell me that the version I want is on an AMI records label.

My inquiries to KNBC have gone unanswered. Would you please assist me in obtaining a copy of this recording by finding a way I may order it? — P. B., Claremont.

We wrote to K100. We reecived a prompt answer and on the same day you received the record itself from the station. Ann Van Bebber, music director, bought the record at Wallichs Music City in Hollywood and mailed it to you.

Our dividend was a thank-you letter from you.

For the last two years, since August 1971, we have paid our rent faithfully on time. Never, not once, have we been late.

We have lived here quietly, except for baby cries which our manager complains about, and have not bothered anyone.

Our manager has served us an eviction order. We can see no reason for this. The manager's husband had words with my husband when he almost hit our car and that is when we were served the eviction notice.

Is it possible to get evicted when you have kept your rent and lived quietly in an apartment? — Mrs. L. M., Montclair.

Generally speaking, the landlord has the right to evict you as long as he follows the correct procedure according to California law, says Steve Nelvin, directing attorney of the Pomona Legal Aid Office.

An excpetion would be an eviction on the basis of race or creed. This is illegal.

You say that after writing to Action Line, you decided to leave the apartment regardless of legal rights rather than face a continuation of problems.

You have located a place which is more family-oriented.

Increase in school milk fees sought

POMONA — An increase in school milk prices will be asked at the Pomona school board meeting Tuesday night.

Increases are necessary, educators say, because the federal government has not provided funds to continue the school milk subsidy.

Children will pay 10 cents for a half pint and 15 cents for a third of a quart of milk, if the increase is approved by the board.

Last year milk cost 6 cents for a half-pint and 7 cents for the one-third quart.

It is anticipated that a new principal will be named at Lorbeer Junior High School.

And the board, in addition to accepting summer school and physical fitness testing reports, will be asked to approve attendance of board members and the superintendent at a meeting Sept. 26 at the East San Gabriel Valley Area Trustees Association in West Covina, at which state school Supt. Wilson Riles will speak.

New coordinator named for anti-abortion group

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Everette Seymour, mother of four and an active church worker, has been named coordinator of the Pomona Valley-West End Lifeline of the Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization.

She succeeds Mrs. Charles Heatherly who was active in establishing the Lifeline, a telephone counseling service to women seeking alternatives to abortion. Mrs. Heatherly is moving from the area.

Mrs. Paul Vadnais of Upland has been appointed league statistician.

"We are averaging two to three calls a day on the Lifeline," said Mrs. Seymour. "Most are from girls seeking alternatives to abortions. Some are from people seeking information and some are people who call to say they agree with the league's pro-life views."

Mrs. Seymour said a second training session for telephone counselors would be held in October. Volunteers interested in assisting may contact Mrs. Seymour by calling 624-9273.

Volunteers must attend five meetings conducted by social workers familiar with Lifeline procedures. Following training, they are asked to serve one 12-hour shift in their homes every two weeks and take calls anonymously.

The Lifeline telephone number is 985-0205. It is the ninth operated by a chapter of the Right to Life League of Southern California.

League members sell Circle of Life bracelets to defray costs of operating the Lifeline. Cost is $3.25. They may be ordered by writing Right to Life League, Box 651, Upland 91786.

West End Demo Club will meet

UPLAND — The West End Democratic Club will hold its monthly meeting Monday at the Upland Inn, beginning with a no-host cocktail hour at 7 p.m.

A forum on the expansion of the Ontario International Airport will highlight the meeting. Participants will include Jim Lloyd, West Covina mayor; Harold Hayes, Montclair mayor; and Adrian Meewis, an Ontario resident. Dr. Grandville Henry, professor of mathematics at Claremont Men's College, will serve as moderator.

Club president George Morris also announced that the WEDC's headquarters has been moved to 304 W. G St., Ontario. There will be a grand opening Sept. 23, and the event will be attended by Congressman George Brown, D-38th Dist., and Assemblyman John Quimby, D-72nd Dist.

Maximum security site?

Decision nearing on fate of Camp Glen Rockey

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B StaffWriter

SAN DIMAS — The issue of whether Camp Glen Rockey will change its present concept and be turned into a maximum security prison may be settled Tuesday when Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum returns from vacation.

Bill Gilson, press representative for Schabarum, said because of the controversy surrounding the erection of a 14-foot wall at Camp Glen Rockey in the San Dimas foothills, the supervisor has assigned four county departments to prepare a report and recommendation on the matter.

Gilson said the reports from the probation department, the office of the chief administrative officer, the fire department and the county superintendent of schools will be presented to Schabarum Tuesday when he returns from a backpacking trip in the Sierras.

Fire protection assured

The press representative said the only advance knowledge he had of the report is that it does guarantee the county will have no lessening of the number of persons assigned to fire prevention and fire protection.

This statement comes after the Los Angeles County Watershed Commission last week voted unanimously to oppose a maximum security use of the camp and further urged the county not to discontinue the use of the boys in the camp for fire prevention and protection in the foothill areas.

San Dimas City Councilman D. F. Hooper, the city's representative on the commission, was asked by fellow members to give the city's viewpoint in the controversy at last week's meeting.

Hooper, who retired from the fire department after 34 years of service, said he told the commission that nearby residents of the camp don't want the wall erected and that the city had taken a stand against it.

Forestry goal

"People don't want the camp changed to a maximum security facility. It was first located there many years ago by the forestry, and boys from the camp were always available for watershed protection."

Hooper said the boys won't be available if the concept of the camp is changed.

Hooper said the commission also took the position that if the county goes ahead and erects the wall, a paid camp of firefighters be put in the area. He said similar camps are located in Malibu and Oak Grove Park. He said young men work fulltime and alternate days that they live at the camp to provide fire protection service at all times.

He said it would be a "great loss" if the boys at Camp Glen Rockey can no longer be used. He said the young crews clear firebreak trails, land adjacent to roadways and the motorways that are closed to the public but are used by firefighting equipment in an emergency.

Values cited

The city councilman said he, as a veteran of the county fire department, knows the value of these camp crews. He said it is also good for the young men, 16 to 18, to do something useful. "It often makes men of them."

In May, the La Venre City Council and the Glendora City Council both took stands supporting San Dimas' opposition to the erection of the wall.

State Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-19th Dist., and Assemblyman Bill Lancaster R-49th Dist. have both stated that they disapprove of the county plans to change the concept of the camp.

San Dimas City Manager Robert Poff said that the city has requested that a meeting be held with Schabarum to discuss Camp Glen Rockey but the date for the meeting is pending.

New dorm planned

The camp is located at 1900 N. Sycamore Canyon Road and presently has a dormitory capacity for 95 boys. The county wants to construct a dormitory that will house 20 boys in individual rooms. The rooms would be used to isolate problem boys and to ease any possible racial problems.

Robert Ballentine, assistant fire chief for the county, has stated the county will no longer be able to conduct its present rehabilitation program for youths at the camp.

He said the camp would not be able to handle the undisciplined and aggressive youths that will be sent there. Runaways from other area camps will be sent to San Dimas because of the maximum security installations.

The camp has been in operation for the past 30 years. The fire department works with boys during daytime hours and turns the youths over to the probation department in the evening.

The young men receive 80 hours of training. Parents of the young boys give their consent for them to participate in the watershed fire protection and fire prevention activities.

They have not been used on actual fire lines since 1968 when seven teenage boys died while fighting a major fire in the San Gabriel Mountains in Fish Canyon.

The boys were from the county probation camp in Saugus. The crew's foreman also died in the blaze. Three other young men received serious burns.

Opinion

Studies of actual spending needed

The most disturbing feature of government today is that the Congress has no way of effectively checking on the quarter trillion dollars the federal departments and bureaus spend each year.

Today, for example, no one in Congress knows for certain whether we are spending too much money for defense or too little, and whether what is being spent is used most effectively.

The same goes for the $80 billion a year for Health, Education and Welfare and the millions spent by the Veterans Administration, by Agriculture, by the Agency for International Development, by Interior, by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — and so on down the line.

Talk to a congressional staffer and he moans, "The Pentagon tells us they need so much equipment for so many squadrons. But we have no way of knowing whether they need the units, whether this is the right equipment, or whether we should hold off for a while until some new research pans out."

Congress does not have the staff to adequately study even the major multibillion-dollar proposals which come before it to determine whether they are needed, adequately planned and free of fat. Or whether other programs aimed at the same objectives would be more effective, or cost less to achieve the same ends.

The Library of Congress research service and the General Accounting Office perform some of these functions. But they are so understaffed they can only pick at the surface. The GAO does its work, in the main, on programs already in effect. Its investigations normally do not include proposals. Yet it is obvious that the time to halt wasteful, ineffective programs is before they start.

The hearings Congress holds on the spending proposals of the various departments are often ludicrous. Senators and congressmen, lacking informations, frequently don't know what questions to ask. They are snowed by diagrams, charts, figures and lengthy statements of justification and objectives.

Independent institutions, such as Brookings, have attempted to fill the gap in some instances, making suggestions of what could be cut or changed, if Congress had a mind to. Though there are some exceptions, these studies too are usually somewhat thinly manned. Too often they are heavy with a variety of opinions, ot hard facts. Intricate formulas, erudite statements and a variety of figures are imperative — but quite often hide a paucity of real information.

The government departments and bureaus have staffs of tens of thousands to call on up and down the line in preparing their proposals, and millions to spend in studies by private think tanks.

Congress needs equivalent resources. A larger number of research assistants for one. And the House and Senate must on a regular basis let major contracts out to research groups independent of government for thorough studies of spending proposals and investigations into the results of major programs after they've been in effect for a year or two.

We are of course talking about more than a waste of money, important as that is. We are speaking about whether the objectives we have set for our government are being met.

Warning to big spenders

The people of the United States are beginning to learn that creeping inflation is but the prelude to galloping inflation and that government spending beyond income is the forerunner of rising prices and devalued dollars. A nationwide, independent survey sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation and involving 1,123 personal interviews in 24 metropolitan areas and 11 nonmetro counties reveals that 86 per cent of the people favor cutting government spending to combat rising food prices. If the findings of the survey mean anything at all, politicians are going to find it increasingly difficult to spend and spend without regard to the taxpayer's ability to pay. As the consequences of their acts are felt in terms of more inflation, they are likely to find it harder to pass along the blame to businesses, industries, retailers, farmers and workers for what happens to prices.

No matter how many billions are poured into social programs to buy votes, their effect will be crushed along with the hopes of beneficiaries by the roaring express train of inflation. In the end, the groups of people that free-spending politicians have counted on the most to keep them in office will become the most venomous in demanding retribution.

Thought for today

But we exhort you, brethren, to do so more and more, to aspire to live quietly, to mind your own affairs, and to work with your hands, as we charged you; so that you may command the respect of outsiders, and be dependent on nobody. — I Thess.4:10, 11, 12.

Undermining minority programs

WASHINGTON — The federal government's $2.17 million program to help black businessmen is being administered by political proteges of the Senate's diehard segregationist, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The cantankerous Thurmond has been able to place two cronies and one in-law over the Small Business Administration's minority business development office, causing outraged howls from blacks and other minorities who seek help from the SBA.

The Thurmond Three are: — John Patrick, the acting director of the program. He is a retired Air Force colonel from South Carolina and is a long-time family friend of Thurmond.

Overall boss

— Marshall Parker, a former state senator in South Carolina, who jumped to the GOP with Thurmond in 1964. Twice he has run against South Carolina's Democratic Sen. Ernest Hollings, with Thurmond's backing. Parker is overall boss of the SBA's minorities programs.

— Horace Crouch, an in-law of Thurmond. His late sister was Thurmond's first wife. Crouch is Parker's top aide.

Since the first of the year, the Thurmond Three have tried to reduce federal food service contracts which had been going to minority businessmen and have otherwise undermined the minority programs, according to SBA insiders and black businessmen.

So restrictive were some of the new guidelines that SBA Administrator Tom Kleppe had to step in and ease them. Despite Kleppe's intervention, however, Parker and Patrick have cut back the increase in funding of black and other minority enterprises to a mere $33 million this year, compared with an increase of $195 million between 1970 and 1973.

One black on job

The Thurmond mystique has even extended into the SBA minority division's offices. There is only one professional black employed in the section supposed to assist blacks and he was hired before Parker took command three years ago.

Both Kleppe and Parker insist that the Thurmond Three's tenure has not hurt the program. Kleppe, however, confided that having Thurmond's men in charge of a minority division does not look good and said a black soon will be appointed to take over Patrick's job.

FOOTNOTE: Although Parker has cut back program in increases for minorities, he spares no expense when it comes time to fund conferences on other SBA programs. He vetoed a less expensive conference site recently in favor of the lush, plush Greenbriar in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

NIXON TOY SOLDIERS: President Nixon is determined to emulate the crowned heads of Europe by providing himself with resplendent palace guards attired in uniforms of days gone by.

Some time ago, awed by the pomp and circumstance of police he saw on a European trip, he tried to bedeck the White House police in costumes out of a turn-of-the-century operetta company.

The public laughed him out of the idea. But now the Army is reviving the Nixon dream by spending $70,000 to festoon the 72 men of a nearby military unit in Revolutionary war garb. They will be the President's official escort for galas at the White House.

The idea for reincarnating George Washington's "Lifeguard Company" was hatched by Maj. Gen. James Adamson, commander of the Washington, D.C., Military District. The "Lifeguarders" were formed in 1776 and Army historians have carefully researched the old unit to make sure President Nixon sees exactly what President Washington saw.

PAUL HARVEY

Indians remain poorest minority

The Supreme Court of the United States is deciding whether federal welfare benefits should be extended to all American Indians.

As it is, they receive such benefits only if they stay on their reservations. The Snyder Act of 1921 promises benefits to Indians "throughout the United States."

But as it is, if they leave a reservation to accept productive employment elsewhere to assimilate themselves into society and industry, then are out of work for any reason — they are denied welfare benefits which are available to others.

We can learn much about the Administration and end results of government welfare from the American Indians because in 140 years we have done almost nothing right.

Americans have become addicted to government handouts of one sort or another only because politicians bought votes with promissory notes.

Today, the politicians are prisoners of all those IOUs.

With national elections decided by a few hundred thousand votes, what national leader would dare turn his back on a solid bloc of 15 million welfare recipients and their families?

Let's learn from our own Indians. After 140 years of government efforts to improve them economically and socially, most are worse off now than then.

The Bureau of the Census is forced to concur in this ominous diagnosis. The Indians — cared for as wards of our government for 140 years — remain the "poorest minority in our nation."

The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights agrees: "Indians are worse off than all other Americans."

The government's Bureau of Indian Affairs has tried. There are almost as many bureaucrats as Indians trying to improve the lot of those first Americans.

There are fewer than a half-million native Indians. Next year's funding for Indian programs totals $1.2 billion. That's $2,400 per Indian per year. Yet they remain last in employment, in productivity, in income, in housing and in health.

Education has not been the answer: 95% of all Indian children between 7 and 13 attend school. Indian enrollment in colleges — while low — has doubled in 10 years.

Despite the example of the enterprising few who do not lean on government, most do. Following each reorganization of the Bureau of Indian Affairs — and you've seen it reorganized a lot of times in the past 30 years — there is genuine, conscientious effort to reshape policies. They've tried giving the American Indian everything except incentive.

So 488,000 American Indians — like 15 million other Americans — find welfare beats working. You work, you pay taxes. You loaf, you get paid off in tax-free dollars. Their choice is not their fault; it's ours.

Gossip for today

Once again it would seem the time has come to update some of the old time maxims. Let's start with one that today should go:

WATERGATE, WATERGATE EVERYWHERE IT'S DRIVING ME TO DRINK!

And of course, in the case of the American motoring public, another old timer should be revised to read:

NEVER QUIT DOING TODAY WHAT YOU CAN PUT OFF QUITTING DOING UNTIL TOMORROW!

One of the many motorists I questioned, clearly and concisely summed up the general public's atti- just as long as tude in this fashion: "I'll keep going I can buy gasoline and THEN I'll start worrying."

But it is heartening to note that in spite of this permissive age we are slowly but surely getting back to some of the ancient truths and verities. — Not all the way, mind you! that would be asking too much. But since Watergate a lot of folks are definitely becoming much more willing to release the beliefs and convictions and at least admit that:

ONCE YOU GET CAUGHT, HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY.

Middle East holds key to oil supply

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — America's energy crisis is as much a concern to the free world countries as it is to us. How we settle our problems will, to a large degree, decide how the rest of the free world must work to do the same.

According to a just-released report prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the free world is rapidly running into two problems of energy resource dependency . . .

. . . mounting dependency on oil, a limited resource, and . . .

. . . specific dependency on Middle East oil.

The report says the next 5-to-10-years will be difficult for major oil consuming nations dealing with the Middle East, and there is little that can be done about it.

For the present and immediate future there is no alternative to free world consumption of Middle East oil. Foreign officials reached that consensus, but it does not particularly worry them.

European and other countries have for years imported as much as 80 per cent of their petroleum needs from the Middle East.

U.S. may create shortages

They feel their historical trade relations will help smooth future negotiations with the Middle East oil-producing countries. But they fear the U.S., unused to short supply and the world's gargantuan user of petroleum, will somehow bungle the works in that volatile area and create serious supply shortages for everyone.

Europeans note that Arab countries have threatened to limit production or cut it off altogether unless certain foreign policies are changed, e.g., the U.S. position on Israel.

Radical elements have already gained control of two major producers, Libya and Iraq. Both have stated that oil and oil sales revenues should be used as political weapons.

We have already received a political shot from Libya. A doubled price for oil and refusal to accept American dollars, announced earlier this past week, are sharp jabs to remind us that Libya is prepared to play the political game to the hilt.

The rest of the free world would like to see a union of interests among oil-consuming countries. The Middle East already has such a union, made up of countries that control 85 per cent of all oil available for export to the free world.

Oil reserves conserved

The Middle East union has been able to deter price competition among members; increase profits; conserve oil reserves for future production; and gain "participation" arrangements with oil companies.

Perhaps most significant, the union has been able to undermine outside control of oil production in member countries.

Foreign officials feels without a counterpart consortium, consumer countries will attempt to outbid each other for oil. The obvious result would be ever increasing prices.

For any of these plans to succeed, foreign officials say U.S. support is essential. They say the U.S is the only country rich enough to go it alone and develop other energy sources.

They fear Middle East economic and political pressure will cause the U.S. to retaliate in some way, thus upsetting the apple cart for all.

And, if the U.S. fails to respond, European countries are ready to develop their own special ties with the oil rich Arab countries.

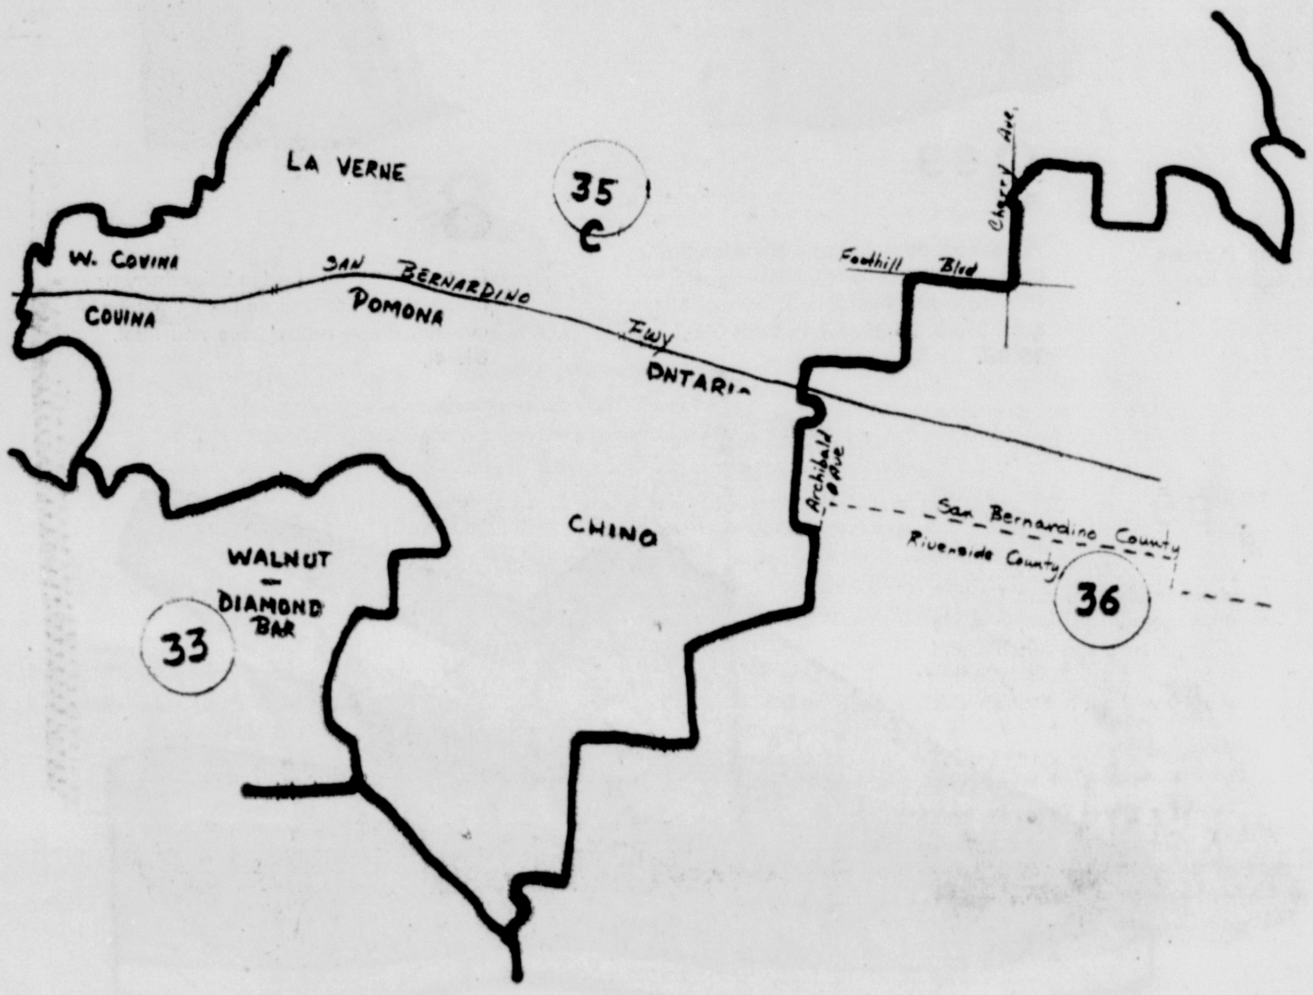
32ND SENATE DISTRICT—This district is composed of the 65th and 66th Assembly Districts. Except for Pomona, the district is entirely in San Bernardino County, and includes most of the city of San Bernardino. The foothill communities of Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas will be a part of the 25th Senate District, which contains the northern and eastern portions of the San Gabriel Valley. Diamond Bar-Walnut will be in the 33rd Senate District, which encompasses the cities of Downey, Norwalk and Whittier. The Pomona Freeway serves as the northern boundary for most of the district.



35TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT—This district includes all of the Pomona Valley, with the exception of the Diamond Bar and Walnut area, Covina and West Covina. The sparsely populated part of the San Gabriel Mountains just north of the populated areas of the district is also included. Diamond Bar-Walnut is in the 33rd Congressional District. Hearings will be held soon on the proposal.

Proposal shifts more power to valley

A spokesman for Wiggins said the congressman has not reached a decision as to what his plans will be, but that he is "going on the assumption that the reapportionment plan will be final."

Brown, whose present district includes south Pomona, south Ontario, Chino and Montclair, would be the incumbent in the 36th District. The valley cities would be eliminated from his new district, but he would pick up the city of Riverside and the bulk of San Bernardino.

He has already voiced his approval of the plan, and has remarked that he would not be unhappy with losing Chino, Montclair and Ontario where he did poorly in last year's general election.

Pettis, meanwhile, would be the incumbent congressman in the 37th District, which would contain the outer suburban, rural mountain and desert areas of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties.

Of course, all of this hinges on whether the State Supreme Court accepts the advice of its specially appointed masters, who are three retired judges.

Hearings slated

The Supreme Court will hold public hearings on the reapportionment plan, and some changes could result before a final decision is reached.

Meanwhile, some city and county legislators in the area who foster hopes of high office are taking a close look at the proposed plan.

Most of them have adopted a wait-and-see attitude, but it appears that one man, Ontario Mayor Howard Snider, will definitely seek higher office.

Snider had been reported as saying that he would run for a higher position, and a source close to him confirmed the report Friday. However, the source would not elaborate about the mayor's plans.

Snider, who spent most of the week in Washington and is now attending the Republican state convention in San Diego, was defeated by Brown in the 38th District general elections last year.

Among the other possible candidates from the West End are San Bernardino County Supervisors Ruben Ayala and Daniel Mikesell, and Montclair Mayor Harold Hayes.

Ayala, Mikesall undecided

Both Ayala and Mikesell said Friday they are still undecided about running for higher office.

But Mikesell also said that he would not be interested in either an Assembly or Congressional seat, but "that under certain circumstances I would be interested in the state Senate." He indicated he "would make a decision in about 10 to 15 days" about whether to run for a senate post.

Said Ayala, "I seldom run into a politician who doesn't think about running for a higher government office." He noted that voter registration in the 32nd Senate District and the 65th Assembly District would favor the Democrats.

Ayala is a Democrat and Mikesell a Republican.

Hayes is in Northern California attending an insurance seminar and could not be reached for comment.

In Pomona, Mayor Ray Lepire emphatically stated that he is not interested in "any office above the mayor's position," but former mayor Richard Brownell says he s keeping his options open.

"I have learned through years as a public official to keep my options open," Brownell said earlier this week. "What if no one is qualified to run and I let it go by default?"

Also being mentioned as a possible candidate for the Assembly is Charles Bader, a Pomona councilman.

'Hobby' castle

Last haven of peace, quiet

By EMIL SVEILIS

VILA NOVA DE MILFONTES, Portugal (UPI) —There is an old saying that a man's home is his castle, whether it be a rundown shack or a split level in the suburbs. But for Dom Luiz De Castro E'Almeida its the real thing he picked up for a nifty price 34 years ago.

It is also, according to one recent guest, the writer, the last peace and quiet in the world, about 100 miles south of Lisbon.

Dom Luiz, 76, is the owner of Milfontes Castle, a fortress dating back to the Carthaginian era and rebuilt by the Moors to guard the mouth of the Mira River from enemies approaching by the Atlantic.

Like so many castle owners these days, Dom Luiz soon found that he could not maintain the accustomed grand style with his resource, so at the urging of the American Ambassador to Portugal, he decided to take in paying guests to help with the castle's expensive upkeep.

"People used to come as friends and I did not have enough to support them in those days," Dom Luiz said in an interview. "This was 11 years ago when we came to live here.

No night life

"Then years ago, then Ambassador George Anderson suggested that I take in paying guests. I told him it was ridiculous because no one would come here. I can give them nothing—no night life—to which he said you have got the last peace and quiet in the world."

Dom Luiz said Anderson sent him his first two paying guests soon afterwards and they have been coming ever since— sometimes booking up to six months in advance to get one of the seven rooms that are for rent.

One thing Dom Luiz does not like to be called is a "hotelier."

"I consider myself as the owner of the house," he said. "If I don't like the guests, I don't receive them." Dom Luiz even keeps a blacklist of unwanted guests "who will never come back."

Dom Luiz's guests live in grand style. His rooms for let— all doubles—are superbly furnished with antiques, including canopied beds. Full room and board costs approximately $25 a day for a couple.

Super view

Not bad, considering that a North American highway motel will charge $25 just for the room alone for two people, never mind the tastefully prepared three meals a day, or the superb view of the Mira River and the Atlantic.

And where else could you get a three-mile long private beach thrown into the package?

A son of well to do Portuguese parents, Dom Luiz attended finishing school in Switzerland, had a brief diplomatic career in the Portuguese foreign service, tried his hand at journalism by attempting to interview Lenin and Trotsky during the Third International, and then worked for a shipping firm in Lisbon "ending up in Sao Tome where I nearly died of malaria."

"Since I was a boy in school, the name of the village, Vila Nova de Milfontes, attracted me," Dom Luiz said. "I came here the first time in 1939 and 24 hours later I had bought the castle for 100 pounds (at that time about $350).

"The castle had absolutely nothing. It was a ruin. The government sold it at auction in 1906 and it was bought by an army officer. After that it was sold to three different people until I purchased it from the then-owner.

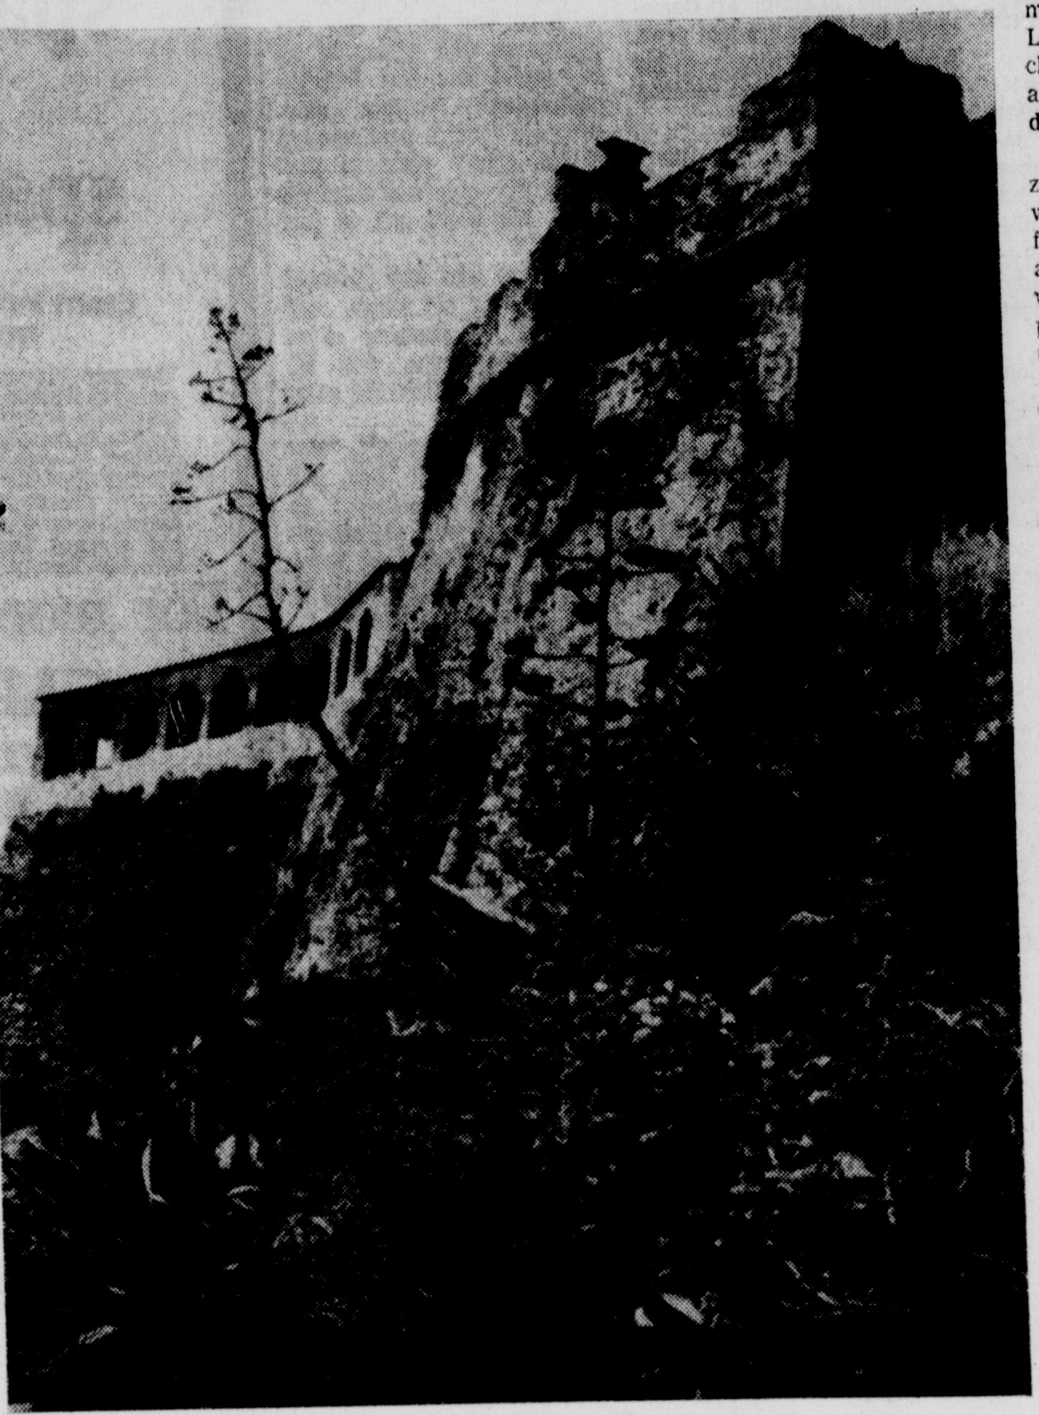
Worth $500,000

"When I bought it, I immediately started remodeling. The local villagers thought I was mad in doing this, but I eventually got the job done."

Dom Luiz said Milfontes Castle is now probably worth about $500,000. "All the furniture in the castle was inherited, except that which I had made. Plus, if you bought it as it is, you would get 140 pounds of sterling silver alone," he said.

For Dom Luiz, being the owner of a castle is more or less a hobby. "I live off of it, but I still owe to the banks. I am happy in what I am doing, because I love people."

But he said, "I don't think I will end my life here. We (Dom Luiz and his wife, Dona Margerita) are getting to the age where we are needing doctors and checkups and I can't do it here.



OPEN TO THE PUBLIC — "Paying guests" are not welcome at Milfontes Castle to help Dom Luiz De Castro E'Elmeida with the castle's expensive upkeep. Dom Luiz bought the ancient fortress in Portugal in 1939 for about $350, remodeled it and estimates it is worth $500,000 today. It is located on the Mira River on the Atlantic.

Education reform sparks new church-state hassle in Poland

WARSAW (UPI) —Bozena Karkowska is a blue-eyed, dark-haired 9-year-old who lives in a farming village 25 miles southwest of Warsaw. Like millions of other Polish children, she attends classes at her local schoolhouse six days a week until 1 p.m.

Under a recent proposal Bozena and her classmates would join other students from surrounding villages at a new, larger district school where they would study and play under faculty supervision until 5 or 6 p.m. each day.

The all-day school proposal— made by a top-level government commission—has touched off a serious row between Poland's Communist rulers and its Roman Catholic Church.

The dispute is threatening a fragile peace hammered out over the past 2 ½ years by state authorities and the Church, which claims 85 per cent of this country's 33 million people are Catholics.

Polish bishops have appealed to the faithful to "defend ourselves against this atheism," while a party leader said some churchmen were "anti-socialist." A government official told UPI, "We definitely have a state of tension."

Reforms spark trouble

The flashpoint is a wide-ranging educational reform plan released this spring from a government commission headed by sociologist Jan Szczepanski.

In calling for "universality of education" at primary and secondary levels throughout the country, the Szczepanski commission recommended:

— All-day, comprehensive schools with extensive extra-curricular activities for Poland's 10 million school-age children.

—Re-education over a six-year period of 150,000 teachers so they all have at least a college education.

— Consolidation of many small, understaffed and inadequate schools, especially in rural areas, into district schools with fuller programs and better staffs.

Religious education

Most educators described the proposed reforms as far-sighted and badly-needed. But Church officials disagree. They see the changes as an attack on the teaching of religion to children.

"The recommendations reveal without doubt a tendency to eliminate religious education," Polish bishops said in a communique. "Elements of the plan are very unfriendly."

Religious instruction long has been a sore point in Poland, where the state has adamantly refused church requests for catechism to be taught in schools. As a result, priests conduct religious classes after regular school hours during the week, or in the evening.

Bishops say under the Szczopanski proposals children would be too tired or too occupied with school activities to keep up with religion classes.

They also object to increased involvement of children in the state-run schools, which stress "socialist education," and to remarks such as one made to Parliament by Prime Minister Piotr Jaroszewicz that, "the chief organizer of education, work and social activity in our country is the socialist state."

At a recent meeting with Western correspondents, Education Minister Jerzy Kuberski expressed surprise at the church's complaints.

"The all-day system is used in many Western countries," he said. "What's all the fuss?"

Kuberski argued that children still would have time to attend catechism under the improved school system.

"Our proposals by no means conflict with the possibilities for religous instruction," he said. "We are simply meeting the needs of families and the community."

The argument may prove to be academic, however, since Parliament has yet to approve the recommendations. Still, the dispute has sent a chill through church-state relations — never good here—after several years of relative calm.

RESOLUTION NO. 1254

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT FIXING THE AMOUNT OF REVENUE FROM PROPERTY TAXES NECESSARY TO SUPPORT ITS DEPARTMENTS, THE GOVERNMENT AND OTHER BUSINESS OF THE CITY, AND TO PAY TO THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES AN AMOUNT EQUAL TO THE AMOUNT THE COUNTY WOULD DERIVE FROM TAXES FOR FIRE PROTECTION AND LIBRARY SERVICES, AND TO PAY OTHER INDEBTEDNESS OF THE CITY, DURING THE FISCAL YEAR 1973-74.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT DOES RESOLVE AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. This resolution shall be effective for the fiscal year 1973-74, commencing July 1, 1973, and terminating June 30, 1974.

SECTION 2. Pursuant to the budget of the City of Walnut for the fiscal year 1973-74, the City Council does hereby find that the amount of revenue from property taxes necessary to support its departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as well as the indebtedness of the City, exclusive of the cost of fire protection and library services provided to the City by the County of Los Angeles, during said fiscal year 1973-74 is $157,166.00.

SECTION 3. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code of the State of California (Assembly Bill 1588) the City Council of the City of Walnut has elected to pay to the District, as defined in Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, an amount equal to the amount said District would derive from its tax on all property within the incorporated limits of the City of Walnut for Fire or Library Services. Said amount of money necessarily must be determined by said District, in the amount, manner and time it determines the amount of money necessary to be raised by taxes throughout the District for said Fire or Library Services and the City Council of the City of Walnut does hereby authorize said District, or the County Tax Collector or Auditor, as the case may be, to determine on its behalf the amount of money to be raised by City property taxes to produce an amount equal to the amount said District would have derived from imposition of its tax on property within the City. Said amount of money and the rate of tax necessary to raise said amount of money is in addition to the amount of money set forth in Section 2 of this resolution and is in addition to the tax necessary to raise the amount of money set forth in Section 2 of this resolution. The City Council of the City of Walnut, by and on behalf of the City of Walnut does hereby agree and does by this resolution authorize the payment to the County of Los Angeles of an amount of revenue from City property taxes or from other City funds, and in any event at least an amount equal to the amount the District would have derived from imposition of its tax on property within the incorporated limits of the City of Walnut for Fire or Library Services if the City had not made the election herein contained under Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 2167.1(c) of the Revenue and Taxation Code of the State of California, said amount of money when so determined by the County Auditor or Tax Collector or District, whichever the case may be, to produce an amount equal to the amount the District would have derived from imposition of its tax on property within the City upon collection of City taxes by the County Tax Collector shall be. and the County Tax Collector is hereby authorized to transfer the same to the County Auditor for the benefit of said District.

SECTION 4. Pursuant to Section 51505 of the Government Code of the State of California, the City Council of the City of Walnut does hereby determine the amount of revenue from property taxes necessary to support its departments for the current fiscal year, to pay the bonded or other indebtedness of the City, and to pay said Fire and Library Services is the sum total of that amount set forth in Section 2 and determined pursuant to Section 3 of this resolution.

SECTION 5. The City Council hereby declares it would have passed this Resolution sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph, and section by section, and does declare that the provisions of this Resolution are severable, and if for any reason, any sentence, paragraph or section shall be held invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this Resolution.

SECTION 6. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and shall cause the same to be posted at least once within fifteen days of its final passage in four public places within the City of Walnut as heretofore designated by ordinance. The City Council hereby finds that there are no newspapers of general circulation published and circulated within the City and directs the City Clerk to cause this resolution to be published at least once within fifteen days of its final passage in the Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation, published and printed in the County of Los Angeles, and circulated in the City of Walnut. Failure to comply with said publication, however, shall not invalidate this resolution.

SECTION 7. This resolution shall take effect immediately upon adoption. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and shall forward a certified copy thereof to the Los Angeles County Auditor and to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles.

ADOPTED AND APPROVED this 29th day of August, 1973.

U.S. Information Agency --and Voice--in transition

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When James Keogh, a former Time magazine executive and White House speech writer, replaced Frank Shakespeare as director of the U.S. Information Agency in January, 1973, he found that America's propaganda machine needed not just an oiling but a major overhaul.

Created 20 years ago in the throes of the Cold War, the USIA has sought over the years to beat back the insults from Moscow and Peking, justify U.S. intervention in the Indochina War, and tell the story— sometimes tragic, sometimes dramatic—of domestic struggle and achievement.

Today the agency and its step-child, the Voice of America, are in transition.

"We're in trouble, and we better be changing," said one old-timer who has served from the beginning. "We were founded on assumptions which are no longer valid. We were founded as an advocacy agency in the strident sense of the word. This is no longer an approach which brings results."

Keogh, who was challenged by Congress almost as soon as he took office over the agency's proposed $231,854,000 budget, has been taking his own soundings. In an interview keyed to the agency's 20th anniversary this August, he gave this assessment:

Different Era

"We are in a different era today. It really began when President Nixon went to Peking. We at USIA have changed our policies for a new and different era that has been established.

"The contest between the socialist and capitalist countries is still there, of course. We can't make the assumption that it has gone even with the era of detente. And our relationship with Europe and Japan is evolving.

"There was a time when the United States had a client relationship to Europe and Japan. Now they are economic powers, and we need to make strong efforts to explain U.S. economic, financial and monetary positions."

Keogh contrasts sharply with his predecessor. He is attentive and soft-spoken. Subordinates describe him as a "good listener." They are watching to see what impact he will have on this sprawling bureaucracy, which employs over 9,000 Americans and foreign nationals in 100 countries around the world.

Shakespeare, a former CBS news executive, was known as an activist and strong conservative. He was skeptical of President Nixon's overtures to Moscow and Peking. Under his leadership the Voice of America was quick to broadcast reports of Egyptian and Soviet violations of the August, 1970, Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire at a time when the State Department was minimizing the affair.

Out of Step

Shakespeare insisted that promising USIA officers serve at least one tour in Eastern Europe, presumably to find out how bad it was. On the other hand, he was dedicated to his concept of the agency. He traveled widely, some say he was too often absent from Washington, and he allowed field officers more autonomy and control of local budgets.

After two years as director, Shakespeare recognized he was out of step with the Nixon administration and began casting around for another job, his friends recall. He left USIA to become a vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation after serving a full four years—longer than any other USIA director.

When Keogh assumed the spacious seventh floor office at 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, a stone's throw from the White House, he was immediately faced by two crises: the annual budget battle with Congress, and Watergate.

Through patient expositions, Keogh and his aides appear to have mollified some Congressional critics who were threatening a 15 per cent cut in the USIA budget. While Congress has not yet appropriated the agency's funds, USIA is expected to get about $219 million.

Keogh's Watergate decision caused considerable agonizing.

Since its creation in 1942, the Voice of America has prided itself on telling the whole truth. Employment of professional newsmen created a corps of reporters and editors eager to transmit every detail of the Watergate investigations, including charges from unidentified sources.

"The Watergate was a very sensitive problem for us," Keogh said. "The Voice of America is, after all, the official voice of the U.S. government. If we try to sugarcoat the pill, then we are not doing what we claim to be doing—telling the truth. But if we indulge in the kind of exageration and speculation which has occurred in the press, then we have gone far beyond our responsibility or duty."

So the order went out: The Voice of America will report the Watergate story factually, but will avoid hearsay, rumor, gossip or unattributed accounts. This was coupled with the guidance that the Voice of America must make every effort to explain the peculiarities of the American system of government, justice and the press.

There were charges that the Voice was being censored. But the order stuck, and Voice employes have labored on philosophically—some, predictably, more discontented than others.

Keogh has tried out successfully "the electronic dialogue" through which selected groups of officials, journalists and scholars overseas are plugged through to a high administration figure in Washington for a no-holds-barred interview of up to an hour. The new director also wants to promote personal contacts, cultural exchanges and ties in areas which have been neglected, such Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria.

Watergate hurting the Spy Store, too

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Clyde Wallace has more reason than most to be angered by the Watergate affair. Since the break-in at Democratic headquarters last year, Wallace says business at his "Spy Shop" has been reduced to bare bones.

Wallace said in an interview that he has been forced to reduce the number of full time employes at the Spy Shop from six to three. Sales of both bugging devices and counter measure devices have been cut sharply.

"I attribute it directly to Watergate," he said. "It's made a real and permanent impression on people's minds."

Wallace said potential customers confuse what he calls "Mickey Mouse" equipment used in the Watergate bugging with his equipment, most of it made by himself and his employes.

The Spy Shop also once did a sizable business in such items as tape cassettes, many of them sold to government employes.

"Now nobody wants a receipt from the Spy Shop," Wallace said.

But he contends that the customers who buy bugging equipment from him use it for legal purposes, at least he says he tries to make sure they do.

"According to the law any policeman who comes in off the street can buy bugging equipment," Wallace said. "But we require confirmation of the man's right to purchase this equipment from his chief. We won't sell to just anyone."

Wallace, who has operated his shop for six years, said most of his business is in counter measures, and he would like to restrict his sales to those items.

"But I can't," he said. "Not only do we make bugs, but we make arrangements to procure bugs from almost every other manufacturer. If we didn't, we wouldn't be able to design counter measures."

Wallace said most of his countermeasure devices are sold to businesses concerned about spying by competitors, especially firms that get contracts through competitive bidding.

"We set up countermeasures for companies that want to secure their bids on contracts," he said. "This is probably the biggest problem."

Our office boy never watches the clock; in fact, he pays no attention to it at all.

An optimist is anyone who hasn't read a news report the last three days.

RESOLUTION NO. 1255

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT FIXING THE RATE AND LEVYING TAXES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR BEGINNING JULY 1, 1973.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT DOES RESOLVE AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. That for the purpose of raising the sum of money necessary to be raised by taxes upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut as revenue to support its departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as well as other indebtedness of the City, except the cost of Fire and Library services, as set forth in Section 2 of Resolution No. 1254, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, the rate of taxes for the City of Walnut is hereby fixed, and the taxes are hereby levied on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City of Walnut in the amount of Eighty Seven Cents ($.87) upon each $100.00 of the assessed valuation of said property assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

SECTION 2. That for the purpose of raising the sum of money necessary to be raised by taxation as set forth in Section 3 of Resolution No. 1254 upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut as revenue to pay the County of Los Angeles for Fire and Library services, and as authorized and elected by the City Council pursuant to Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, the rate of taxes for the City of Walnut is hereby fixed and the taxes are hereby levied on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City of Walnut at the same rate determined and adopted by the County Board of Supervisors, acting as the governing body of said Districts providing Fire and Library services, upon each $100.00 of the assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

SECTION 3. The County Tax Collector, County Assessor, or County Auditor, as the case may be, is hereby authorized to raise by taxation upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut the amount of revenue necessary to support the departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as set forth in Section 1 of this resolution, plus the amount of revenue necessary to pay to the District as defined in Section 2167.1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code for Fire and Library services, and, is therefore authorized and directed by this resolution to fix and levy a total City of Walnut tax rate on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973 in the amount set forth in Section 1 of this resolution plus the amount authorized to be determined under Section 2 of this resolution, upon each $100.00 of the assessed valuation of said property assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

SECTION 4. The City Council finds that there are no City taxes to be set or fixed in any special districts within the City.

SECTION 5. The City Council hereby declares it would have passed this Resolution sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph, and section by section, and does declare that the provisions of this resolution are severable, and if for any reason, any sentence, paragraph or section shall be held invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this Resolution.

SECTION 6. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and shall cause the same to be posted at least once within fifteen days of its final passage in four public places within the City as heretofore designated by ordinance. The City Council hereby finds that there are no newspapers of general circulation published and circulated within the City and directs the City Clerk to cause this resolution to be published at least once within fifteeen days of its final passage in the Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the County of Los Angeles and circulated in the City. Failure to comply with said publication however, shall not invalidate this resolution.

SECTION 7. This resolution shall take effect immediately upon adoption. The City Clerk shall, prior to September 1, 1973, transmit to the Los Angeles County Auditor a statement of the tax rate so fixed and a certified copy of this resolution.

ADOPTED AND APPROVED this 29th day of August, 1973.

Richard A. Laughter

Agency gives birth defect scare info

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission announced Friday it is opening two telephone hotlines to answer a flood of queries from across the country on a birth defect scare involving aerosol spray glues.

At the same time, the agency said it hopes to have within the next few weeks a more definitive announcement on how great the hazard is of genetic defects for expectant parents who have been using the spray-on adhesives.

Since Aug. 17, when it banned the first of what eventually became 13 brands of spray adhesives, the commission has been flooded with telephone calls from doctors, industry representatives and patients from all over the country, a spokesman said. To help answer the questions, the commission said it had opened two telephone lines to locations in suburban Maryland. The numbers are (area code 301) 496-7965 and 496-7973.

A staff member will answer calls from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. EDT Monday through Friday, and a spokesman said collect calls probably would be accepted although they were not especially encouraged.

Work program cuts jail cost

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Convicts in the Texas prison system are required to work 40 hour weeks in agricultural, industrial, construction or maintenance programs. Prison officials say because of this employment the cost of keeping a prisoner in Texas is $4.55 a day compared with $20 a day in states without the work programs.

Quiet Texas town

'We're in Welfare, not on welfare'

By K. MACK SISK

WELFARE, Tex. (UPI) — Downtown is a tin-top general store and two wooden homes and at night the deer come right up to the house and eat the flowers from clay pots on the windowsill.

"I'd just a soon they eat my flowers than I would build a fence," said Mrs. Louis Magers, who lives with her husband out from town, in a "V" where the Zink and Little Joshua creeks come together.

"I love quiet. I don't like a lot of noise and a lot of buzzing around."

Most of the 90 folks who call Welfare home live in houses scattered through the hills. There are a few abandoned stone homes in the woods, the kind built with narrow slits from which pioneers fired their muskets at Indians.

The town's one-room schoolhouse where 42 kids used to study "Stories of Thrift for Young Americans" and other textbooks, still stand. A few books and desks are left but there is mostly silence there now.

Nutrias, raccoons, turkey, deer and other animals pretty well have the run of the hills of Kendall County, which once were thriving farmland. The hills are covered with huge oaks, wild grape vines and walnut trees that sprinkle the ground.

Mrs. Magers said it is cheaper to buy milk in town than to keep a cow at home.

"You farm for fun now," she said. "It doesn't pay anymore."

But the Magers grow and can about everything they eat, and even mill their own flour from wheat they grow in a small plot out back.

"She makes the finest chiffon cakes and homemade read," said Magers, miling proudly at his wife of 32 years. "She's one of a kind."

Magers and his wife get their water from a spring and they don't own a television. They never have. They listen to the radio some but he said most of the news he hears there is bad.

"We both read a lot," said his wife.

Welfare was founded in 1886 and it originally was called Bon Ton, Tex. But there was another town by the same name not far away, so citizens changed the name to Welfare. Their reasons for the name have been lost to posterity.

But as small as the town is, it has a mighty big motto: "We're in Welfare, not on welfare." It is a politically conservative county that has voted Republican in presidential elections since before Franklin D. Roosevelt's time.

Weiskopf ties Jack in Series

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus put on rubber pants and waded into a lake to blast out a shot and save a penalty, but that wasn't enough to hold off Tom Weiskopf's comeback and the two finished the first round of the World Series of Golf in a tie for the lead Saturday.

Both Nicklaus, who has won more major championships than any golfer in history, and Weiskopf had one-over-par 71— two strokes in front of Johnny Miller. Tommy Aaron struggled home with a 76.

The four-man field in golf's most exclusive tournament, which brings together the winners of the four major championships, looked most of the day like a bunch of weekend hackers rather than some of the world's greatest players.

For instance, only Masters champion Aaron was able to put his drives on the fairways more than half the time. The long-driving Weiskopf was all over the course, hitting just three fairways, putting one shot into the lake, and knocking another drive off a spectator.

Nicklaus had a three-stroke lead with three holes to go when he dumped an 80-yard approach shot into the lake guarding the front of the green at the 625-yard 16th hole. After surveying the situation, he took off his right shoe, put on a pair of rubber pants which he carries with him, put the shoe back on, stepped into the lake, and drilled the ball from beneath the water's surface onto the green.

He still went on to make a bogey six there, but had he taken a penalty stroke and replayed it over the lake, he almost certainly would have had at least a seven.

Weiskopf moved within one stroke of Nicklaus' lead when he made a five-foot birdie putt at the same hole and then the tie was created at 18 when Nicklaus flew his approach shot over the green and made a bogey.

Nicklaus, who has won the $50,000 first prize here four times and finished second in his four other tries, fashioned his round with some unaccustomed scrambling. He missed nine greens, but one-putted seven times—six of them for pars, including a 25-footer at No. 11 and a 14-footer from off the green at 12.

BILLY THE KID

Billy Martin, the controversial former Detroit manager, took over as the Texas Rangers' new manager Saturday night. He was named to succeed Whitey Herzog Saturday morning in a special press conference. Texas won Saturday night, 4-3.

Dodgers make it nine consecutive

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers are simply amazing.

Oh, they're still losing but they have at least found the way to make the defeats exciting.

They're on a record-setting pace and it seems almost impossible for them to change the script.

Even Hollywood couldn't make Saturday night's 9-6 defeat to the lowly San Diego Padres believable.

The Dodgers came up with a season high of four home runs to turn what looked like certain defeat into an apparent victory but the pitching failed them as the Padres took the final round by scoring three runs in the eleventh inning to win the slugfest.

Again the slumping Dodgers, who have dropped nine in a row to come within one of a Los Angeles record, failed to take advantage of a Cincinnati Reds defeat.

L.A. enters today's finale of the homestand still 2½ games behind the Reds and 1½ ahead of the third-place San Francisco Giants — another Saturday loser — as the National League West race turns into a weirdo.

It's unreal the Dodgers could end up losing a game in which they twice staged miracle rallies.

Down 4-2 entering the bottom of the eighth inning, the Dodgers struck like lightning when Willie Crawford belted a two-run homer to gain a tie and Ron Cey followed with a solo blast to put L.A. ahead.

But the Padres tied it in the ninth and went ahead in the tenth by scoring a run without the benefit of a hit against Jim Brewer [illegible] Colbert scored a run on Fred [illegible]ndall's sacrifice fly after Colbert was safe at first when catcher Joe Ferguson couldn't handle Brewer's third strike. Colbert then went to third on a two-base wild pitch, and scored on what has to be one of the weirdest innings of the season.

Mike Corkins easily retired Tom Paciorek and Ferguson to open the bottom of the tenth but San Diego manager Don Zimmer didn't want the righthander to face Crawford.

Lefthander Mike Caldwell came in but Dodger skipper Walt Alston substituted righthander Ken McMullen, who promptly belted the first pitch into the left field pavillion for a dramatic tying home run.

It looked like the momentum might give the Dodgers that long-coveted victory when Von Joshua and Cey connected with back-to-back singles. Reliever Gary Ross intentionally walked pinch-hitter Manny Mota to load the bases but then got out of the jam by getting another pinch-hitter, Steve Yeager, on a pop-up.

San Diego went to work against Dodger southpaw Pete Richert in the 11th. Jerry Morales hit a two-run double after Darrell Thomas and Cito Gaston hit singles to break the game open. John Grubb's hit scored Morales for the third run of the inning.

It was too much for the Dodgers to come back this time, even though Paciorek had a two-out single to give some hope for another miracle.

The Padres took an early 3-0 lead as Colbert connected for a two-run homer in the first inning off of Tommy John. Bill Russell cut the margin in the sixth by leading off with his fourth homer of the season but the Pads got it back when Dave Roberts drilled his 18th round-tripper in the eighth.

It's hard to convince the Dodgers that San Diego is the National League's worst team. The Padres now enjoy a 7-1 margin at Dodger Stadium and a 9-6 edge overall.

DODGER NOTES . . . The homestand ends today with Andy Messersmith (11-10) returning to the mound to face San Diego lefthander Rich Troedson (6-6). Messersmith has been idle because of a pulled hamstring. Saturday's T Shirt Night crowd of 29,860 puts the Dodgers over the 1972 season total. With eight home games still remaining the Dodgers have attracted 1,878, 921 . . . The Dodgers play in Cincinnati Tuesday and Wednesday in a showdown series with both games being telecast by KTTV Channel 11 at 5 p.m.

Aaron pockets 709th homer

ATLANTA (UPI) — Slugger Henry Aaron of the Atlanta Braves moved within five home runs of equalling Babe Ruth's career record Saturday night when he drilled the 709th of his career off Cincinnati Reds' righthander Jack Billingham in the seventh inning.

It was the 36th homer of the season for the 39-year old Braves' star, and it also set a major league record for most homers in one league.

The Braves went on to win, 3-2.

Everything 'ducky' for Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) —It was raining and the artificial field was wet and sloppy Saturday when Nebraska and UCLA began the first televised game of the college football season. The Cornhuskers turned out to have just the ducks for the weather.

Steve Runty, a super sub at quarterback, is a senior in zoology whose teammates call him "ducks." "Ducks" and a running back who ought to have webbed feet, sophomore I-back Tony Davis, were all the No. 2-ranked Cornhuskers really needed in a convincing 40-13 triumph over No. 8-rated UCLA.

It wasn't the weather that got Runty his starting role. A knee injury and an elbow infection kept returning starter David Humm out of practice for two weeks and on the sidelines in the drizzle.

Runty gave Humm no chance to get into the game, nor UCLA much chance to win. He completed his first four passes for 49 yards, one of them for 10 yards to Frosty Anderson— whose father used to be Bradley and Michigan State basketball coach—for a touchdown.

Runty ran for one touchdown from one yard out. For the game he completed nine of 11 passes for 105 yards and completion percentage of .818, a record for both the Big Eight and Nebraska. ,

When Runty wasn't doing it, Davis was. The 212-pound rookie, kept out of action last year by knee surgery, ran 24 times for 147 yards and scored on runs of 1 and 43 yards. He sat out the last five minutes to give sub Jeff Mo ran a chance to score on a two-yard plunge.

The other Cornhuskers' score was on a 77-yard punt return by Randy Borg, in which he got three key blocks to spring clear at midfield.

It was Tom Osborne's first game as Nebraska's coaching successor to Bob Devaney, who coached the Huskers to the national championship in 1971, and the Huskers might be on the title road again.

"I can't think of a good excuse," beaten Coach Pepper Rodgers said. "We practiced all week for Humm's dropback passes and then we saw Runty roll out. And Runty is very good. I can't blame the weather. They really whipped us."

"Last year before UCLA," Osborne said, "I felt something was wrong and I didn't sleep at all." UCLA won, 20-17.

"I slept real good last night," Osborne said. "The only thing we didn't know about Davis was how he'd react to pressure and he was real great. Humm could have played. We thought we'd put him in in the second half but Runty was doing so well we decided against it."

"The whole team had complete confidence in Steve," Davis said. "He's a good quarterback and I'd even say first string."

"We'd have felt terrible if Humm had got in and got hurt," Osborne said.

Runty, a walkon who was not recruited, said, "It's the greatest feeling I've had in my 22 years."

It might be better in Nebraska's next game two weeks from now because Runty could be the quarterback and Nebraska will be vying for another national crown. "I don't know how to rate them," Rogers said.

Long Beach fumbles help Grambling

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback Joe Comeaux hit 11 of 21 passes for 126 yards and two touchdowns Saturday as Grambling opened its season by beating fumbling Cal State Long Beach 21-16 in the fourth football Freedom Classic before 30,884 fans.

Long Beach fumbles set up three touchdowns for the Louisiana school.

The Tigers' first touchdown came after Gary Johnson tackled the 49ers' Ron Choate hard and the ball bounced loose. Sylvester Bates recovered for Grambling on the 49er 8. Fallon Bush dove two yards over right tackle for the first Tiger touchdown with 1:28 left in the first quarter.

Long Beach quarterback Gary Wann fumbled on the second play after the ensuing kickoff and Richard Mayfield recovered for the Tigers on the Long Beach 15. Comeaux, on third down, passed 18 yards to Dwight Scales for Grambling's second TD six seconds into the second quarter.

Rodney Zeno, who missed the first two Grambling conversion attempts, kicked a 35-yard field goal with 24 seconds left in the second quarter to give the Tigers a 15-0 lead at halftime.

Long Beach scored its first touchdown early in the fourth quarter when Scott Ward intercepted a Comeaux pass in the Grambling end zone.

But the Tigers bounced for two more touchdowns, one of them on a seven-yard pass from Comeaux to Sammie White.

The victory avenged a 25-19 defeat to Long Beach last season. It was the 11th win in a row for Grambling, which was 11-2 last year.

Frustrated Broncos stun Fresno

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

FRESNO—It looked like it was going to be a bad weekend as soon as Cal Poly boarded the bus Friday. It was an hour late arriving.

Then after traveling uncomfortably for four and one half hours, head coach Roy Anderson scheduled a practice for 8 p.m. that same evening. But there were more problems. The stadium was locked and the Brncos were unable to use the field.

Saturday wasn't near as bad except for the meals, and the realization of playing the tough Fresno State Bulldogs.

As soon as game time came around things started to happen.

A group of young ballplayers noted for their lack of experience, size and enthusiasm pulled something of a shocker.

Evidently the 45-man Bronco squad hadn't heard that they were a two-touchdown underdog because they pulled off a 17-9 upset over the Fresno State before 13,000 partisan fans at Ratcliffe Stadium.

The win also avenges Poly's 1969 27-7 loss to the Bulldogs.

For almost the entire 60 minutes Poly dominated the game. Especially the defense which consisted of a mixture of veterans and freshmen.

Leading 10-9, minutes into the final stanza, Poly's quarterback Jim Zorn hit wide receiver Ron Tatum for an eight-yard scoring pass with 11:22 remaining.

When asked on post-game radio about the surprising outcome, Anderson remarked, "I don't think I'm that surprised, we knew we've got more talent on this team than we've ever had. They just have to play up to it.

"I was prepared for the heart attacks and the hero possibilities as well.

"We lost the momentum, we really didn't score twice when we should have but that's the mark of our young team. When they get consistent, we'll get much better."

The Broncos took advantage of five miscues and 97 yards in penalties in taking a 10-0 lead to the dressing room at intermission.

Fresno's Mike Harris fumbled the opening kickoff with Poly's Dale Biggs recovering to set the stage for the entire game.

Zorn then directed the Broncos to the 33 where Klaus Tretton split the uprights to give Poly a 3-0 lead with 2:55 elapsed.

After exchanging fumbles, Fresno QB Dennis Veeh threw a screen pass to Larry Miller who was hit and fumbled behind the line of scrimmage with Collin Bronlen recovering at the Fresno five.

Two plays later, Zorn hit Greg Cruz out of the backfield on the six-yard scoring pass with 12:55 left in the half. Trettin's PAT extended the score to 10-0.

Fresno came to life in the third period as QB Rod Kraft sparked it to a field goal and a 33-yard TD pass to Tom Voth.

The Bulldogs had another score nullified when Kraft hit Voth on a 23-yard scoring pass which was called back for holding.

"I'm very disappointed," said Fresno State head coach J. R. Boone after the game. "If we had lost and played well I wouldn't feel quite as bad though we gave the ball away on too many occasions."

"I thought Poly played real well. I don't think either team was sharp but I think they did well with what they had. I thought their quarterback Zorn did a good job and they had a couple of good receivers.

Zorn starting his first game as a Bronco signal-caller hit on nine of 21 passes for 136 yards and two TDs. Besides carrying the ball for 79 yards on 12 totes.

Cruz gained 67 yards on 13 carries while Rick Robinson added 39 on 15 carries. Joe Fabien was on the receiving of four passes for 90 yards.

Angels sweep doubleheader against K.C.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Mickey Rivers drove in the tie-breaking run in a three run sixth inning Saturday night, propelling the California Angels to a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals and a sweep of their doubleheader.

Lee Stanton started a five-run eighth inning with a two-run homer in the opener, giving the Angels a 9-6 victory.

Behind 2-1 in the nightcap, Stanton started the sixth with a single and went to third when centerfielder Steve Hovley misplayed the ball. Winston Llenas delivered the tying run with a two-out single, his 29th career pinch-hit for the Angels.

Dave Chalk walked before Rivers singled scoring Llenas. Chalk also scored on a hit by Sandy Alomar, which finished Paul Splittorff 15-11.

The Royals got one run back in the sixth when Hal McRae walked, moved to third on a ground out and an infield single and scored on a wild pitch by reliever Steve Barber.

California's first run came in the third on singles by Rivers, Bob Oliver and Stanton.

The Royals scored two runs before winner Rich Hand, 5-5, could retire a batter in the first. Frank White singled, advanced to third on a single by Hovley. White scored and Hovley moved to second on a wild pitch before Amos Otis delievered a run-scoring single.

Stanton's two-run homer over the centerfield fence, his eighth of the season, provided the tie-breaking runs in the opener.

Mickey Rivers scored three runs and scored three more for the Angels while Aurelio Monteagudo, 2-1, picked up the victory in relief.

Cookie Rojas had tied the game at 4-4 for the Royals with a three-run double in the sixth.

Court wins women's title, but Smith upset

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Margaret Court, the veteran first lady of women's tennis, won her fifth U.S. Open Championship Saturday and indicated she'll be around for "a couple more years," while Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes upset favored Stan Smith to set up a men's final with former winner John Newcombe.

Mrs. Court won the first all-Australian women's final in the history of the championship, which dates back to 1887, by defeating Evonne Goolagong, 7-6, 5-7, 6-2, in a 1:40 thriller.

Newcombe, three-time Wimbledon champion, beat the veteran Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3, and Kodes, who was forced to save two match points, upset Smith, the joint No. 1 seed, 7-5, 6-7, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, in a 2-hour, 50-minute marathon which was concluded in almost total darkness.

A record crowd of 15,137 saw one of the best women's finals on record and afterwards Margaret, the 31-year-old mother of a 15-month-old son, said, "I hope to play in America in this great tournament for a couple of years more."

Mrs. Court, who has been globe-trotting since 1961, with a couple of breaks to get married and give birth to her son Daniel, has now won 32 national titles which include 24 of the Big Four championships.

Her tremendous power and ability to win the big points was the difference between victory and defeat. Evonne, 22, said as much afterwards and admitted: "I still have a lot to learn, but I always learn something when I play longer."

Mrs. Court, who has already won $139,000, picked up a check of $25,000—the first time the ladies have earned equal pay with the men in a tennis championship anywhere in the world.

The 5-foot-11 Australian, a shy and retiring person off the court, said she had not joined the campaign for equal pay but was "happy" to receive the check. She also won a car while Evonne earned a consolation $12,000.

The match was virtually error free, but when it came to the decider Margaret forced Evonne into a corner and never let her get out. She lost only three points in four service games, breaking Evonne in the second and eighth.

Evonne's backhand, with which she'd hit some great winners early in the match, failed her in the clutch and in that fateful eighth game she found herself love-40 and with the unenviable task of trying to save three match points. She saved one, but then hit an intended backhand long and it was over, except for the presentations.

The first set went to the tiebreak after four service breaks, Margaret taking it five points to two after Evonne had lost the first two points with a wild smash and a double fault, one of three she was to serve.

The girls traded breaks in the sixth and seventh games of the second set before Margaret lost her delivery in the 11th, allowing Evonne to square the match in the 12th with the loss of two points.

When it was all over, and as Margaret signed autographs with the sweat of victory dripping from her brow, husband Barry said: "She's some girl," and so she is.

Sharon rips Boston

By United Press International

Dick Sharon tagged a solo homer, doubled and reached base on an error to account for three runs Saturday as the Detroit Tigers tripped the Boston Red Sox, 6-1.

Sharon gave the Tigers a 1-0 lead when he opened the second inning with a drive into the left field screen.

The Tigers added two more runs in the fifth on a single, two walks, an infield out and a pair of errors by third baseman Carl Yastrzemski on Sharon's grounder.

Sharon began the eighth inning with a double, went to third on a ground ball and scored on Ed Brinkman's sacrifice fly.

The loss was Boston's 11th in 13 games with Detroit this season.

In other games Baltimore downed Cleveland 6-1, New York trounced Milwaukee 15-1 and Minnesota defeated Chicago 6-2.

Jim Palmer tossed a five-hitter to notch his 19th victory of the season against eight losses and Al Bumbry drove in three runs to lead Baltimore over the Indians.

The victory gave the Eastern Division leading Orioles a five game bulge over the second place Red Sox and officially eliminated the Indians from the pennant race.

Palmer, one victory away from his fourth straight 20 game season, upped his career record against Cleveland to 14-4.

Graig Nettles aided George Medich's three-hitter with six RBIs to lead the Yankees to an easy romp over the Brewers.

In the third inning Bobby Murcer and rookie Otto Velez walked and Nettles hit his 20th homer to finish Reynolds.

In the eighth, the Yanks added another four runs off rookie lefthander Kevin Koeppel on a single by Jim Ray Hart, a pair of walks and Fred Stanley's first major league grand slam off the leftfield foul pole.

Larry Hisle rapped out three hits and drove in three runs to help the Twins down Chicago and snap the Chisox' winning streak at eight.

The Twins jumped on starter and loser Terry Forster, 6-6, for two runs in the first inning. Bobby Darwin doubled off the rightfield wall to score Hisle, who had doubled and Eric Soderholm, who was safe on an error.

Sports news in brief

JIM HARDY, a former Southern California quarterback of the 1940s who led the Trojans to two straight Rose Bowl victories, was named General Manager of the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum and Sports Arena Friday

Hardy, 50, succeeds William H. Nicholas, 67, who held the job for almost 28 years. Nicholas was forced into mandatory retirement.

RON WALTERS, a center-right wing who scored 54 points for the World Hockey Association Edmonton Oilers, was acquired by the Los Angeles Sharks Friday.

BRAD RICE, a freshman, will replace Anthony Davis as University of Southern California's kickoff man this season, coach John McKay said Saturday.

The coach of the No. 1-ranked Trojans said he wanted to give Davis more breathing time this season.

DON PIERCE, leading stakes-winning jockey in California this year and a four-time winner of the riding crown at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona, will be back to defend his title when the 14-day Fair meeting opens Friday.

The 36-year-old Pierce, currently enjoying one of the finest years of his riding career, his directed his mounts to more than $2 million in earnings in 1973 and has posted 24 stakes victories in the state.

STEVE HOLLAND, A 15-year-old Australian schoolboy who swims like clockwork, shattered his own world 1,500 meters record by six seconds to win Australia's first gold medal of the World Swimming Championships Saturday at Belgrade.

Holland touched home in 15.31.85.

THE HOOSIER HUNDRED USAC Championship Dirt Track auto race was postponed Saturday for one week because of rain. The $60,000 race over the state fairgrounds at Indianapolis was re-set for 11 a.m. next Saturday.

THE UNITED STATES lost its bid for the championship of the first Intercontinental Baseball Cup Tournament by dropping a 9-2 decision to Puerto Rico Saturday night at Bologna, Italy. Japan took over the championship with a 1-0 victory over Canada.

REGGIE JACKSON, the American League's home run and RBI leader, pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg in the second inning of Saturday night's Oakand-Texas game and might be lost to the club for the rest of the season.

ANTONIO "KID PAMBELE" Cervantes of Colombia Saturday night successfully defended his World Boxing Association version of the Junior Welterweight World Championship by stopping Argentina challenger Carlos Maria Gimenez in five rounds.

National League roundup

Kessinger, Santo team up as Chicago tops Cards, 3-1

By United Press International

Don Kessinger ripped a single in the bottom of the seventh inning to send home pinch-runner Matt Alexander with the go-ahead run and Ron Santo homered Saturday to help the Chicago Cubs defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1, in a nationally televised game.

Cub rookie Peter Lacock opened the seventh with a single to right. Cleo James sacrificed Lacock to second and Alexander, running for Lacock, scored when Kessinger bounced a hit over the pitcher's mound.

The Cubs' first run came in the fourth inning after Billy Williams and Rico Carty got consecutive singles. Jim Hickman sacrificed the runners along to second and third and Santo was purposely walked, filling the bases. Paul Popovich then hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Williams.

Santo drilled his 7th homer of the year with two outs in the eighth for an insurance run.

In the other National League day game, Houston topped San Francisco, 9-7.

Lee May drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and Jim Wynn chipped in with a two-run homer to help snap San Francisco's winning streak at seven games.

A walk, a sacrifice, a single for Bob Watson, another walk and May's first double netted the Astros three runs in the first and they added three more in the fifth on a single by J. C. Richard, Wynn's homer and a solo homer by Cesar Cedeno.

Elliott Maddox's bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning scored Dave Nelson to give the Texas Rangers a 4-3 victory over the Oakland A's in Billy Martin's debut as manager.

The loss was a costly one for the Athletics as slugger Reggie Jackson pulled a hamstring in his right leg in the second inning and had to be flown to Oakland for hospitalization. He may be sidelined for the rest of the season.

Maddox, in his first appearance at the plate in the game, lined a shot that fell just beyond the outstretched glove of left fielder Joe Rudi.

Nelson who had singled after two men were out, went to second on a stolen base and moved to third when Ray Fosse's throw went into center field. After Toby Harrah walked, Alex Johnson was walked intentionally to load the bases and bring up Maddox.

Hank Aaron set a major league record for most homers in one league when he cracked the 709th homer of his distinguished career to spark the Atlanta Braves to a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The margin of victory turned out to be Dave Johnson's 39th homer but it was still overshadowed by Aaron's blast.

Aaron is still five homers short of Babe Ruth's career mark of 714 homers but only 708 of his homers came in one league. Ruth hit six of his 714 homers in the National League.

With the score tied 2-2 in the bottom of the ninth, Johnson led off the inning with a high fly ball that sailed far over the 375-foot mark in left-center field. It gave the Braves' second baseman the league-lead in homers. He needs just three more to match Rogers Hornsby's record of 42 homers for a second baseman.

Player grabs Open lead

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — South Africa's Gary Player, battling humid 95 degree temperatures, fired a 3-under-par 67 Saturday to grab the third round lead in the $100,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

The 36-year-old Player, winner of 88 career PGA tournaments but a non-winner this year, grabbed a two-stroke lead over Forrest Fezler who checked in with a 66

Player, who closed out with a pair of pressure-packed birdies at 17 and 18, goes into Sunday's final round with a 54-hole total of nine-under par 201. Fezler is at 203.

Four strokes behind Player were defending champion DeWitt Weaver, Jerry McGee and John Schroeder. Weaver carded a 67 Saturday while the steady McGee recorded a 67.

Schroeder carried a two-stroke lead into Saturday's play but a bogey at the par 4 first hole and a costly triple bogey at No. 5 quickly dropped him back of the charging Player. Schroeder skied to a three-over 73.

Player pointed to a rather simple eight-foot putt on the 13th hole as the turning point in his round over the 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

"I was playing with Fezler and he had moved to within a shot. I hit a one-iron off the tee into a trap then followed with a lousy second shot. I chipped it to within eight feet then holed out to keep the lead. That saved it," Player said.

Player returned to South Africa last November for major abdominal surgery, then left the tour again in the spring for an operation on his leg. He returned full time in May and has yet to record his first victory of 1973.

"I just tried to come back too soon," said Player "I wasn't ready. When you try to come back that quickly, you're not ready to compete again. One thing I learned was that you should appreciate your health and not take it for granted."

Fezler opened with a pair of bogeys but recovered with one of the more consistent finishes of the hot and muggy afternoon.

"I stayed out of trouble," the 24-year-old Fezler said. "That's the important thing here. The greens are all downhill and it's easier to make a 25 or 30 footer uphill than a seven or eight footer downhill."

Fezler, on the brink of victory in five tournaments this year, was philosophical about his duel with Player, who the young Californian said has been a golfing hero of his since he was 12 years old.

"I've lost on the final day this year to Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton and Jack Nicklaus. I hope it isn't Player this time," he said with a laugh.

Sharing sixth place at 206 were Mason Rudolph, winner of the 1970 Southern Open, and Curtis Sifford. Rudolph and Sifford each recorded 69s Saturday.

Bunched at 207 were Dick Rhyan, who had the second lowest round of the 1973 tour with a 63, Sam Adams, taking advantage of a 30 on the back nine for a 66, Chi Chi Rodriguez, young Larry Stubblefield and Grier Jones. Jones went into Saturday tied with Player for second but had his problems with a 73.

CAC denies Norton glove change bid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Athletic Commission Friday trimmed down a request from the Ken Norton camp for eight-ounce gloves for Norton's 12-round rematch with Muhammad Ali Monday night.

The commission has used 10-ounce gloves from 1963 after the ring death of featherweight champion Davey Moore.

The commission did not waive any California rules.

The state's three-knockdown rule for nontitle fights holds that a man cannot be saved by the bell at the end of the round, including the final one.

Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer, objected to the state's accidental butt rule as "stupid." Presiding Commissioner Bob Turley said he would discuss it with the other commissioners but did not inticipate any change.

The rule provides that the referee, immediately after the butt, shall call the bout a technical draw if the injured boxer is behind on points, or declare him the winner if he has the lead.

Mills' Civitan Open rally saves lead

DALLAS (UPI) —Mary Mills survived a slump of three straight bogeys at the end of the front nine Saturday and rallied to shoot her second straight 71 and take a one-stroke lead going into the final round of the $35,000 Dallas Civitan Open.

Miss Mills' two-under-par 142 for two rounds over the 6,200-yard, par-72 Brookhaven Country Club course left her in position to pick up her third victory this year.

One stroke back at one-under 141s were Donna Caponi Young, Murle Breer and defending champion Jane Blalock. Miss Blalock, who had owned a two-stroke lead after one round, bogeyed four holes on the front side and had to sink birdie putts of 15 and 25 feet on the final two holes to grab a share of second place.

Beth Stone and Australian Robyn Dummett were next at one-under 143 while Kathy Ahern was alone at 144.

Miss Mills started the day two strokes back of Miss Blalock and picked up a shot at the par-five fourth when she ran in a five-foot birdie putt.

But starting at the seventh she bogeyed three consecutive holes, three-putting the seventh, failing to reach the long par-four eighth into the wind and hooking her tee shot on the ninth into the trees.

"I knew I had to get it going," said Miss Mills. "I knew the field was bunched and if I wanted to get back in it I would have to play aggressive golf."

She started playing aggressively by hitting the flag stick on the 10th hole and rolling in a three-foot birdie putt. Miss Mills then birdied the 13th with a 12-footer, chipped in from the edge of the green on the 15th for another birdie and then dropped a seven-foot downhill birdie putt on the par-four 16th.

Miss Blalock, who won in Dallas last year in a sudden death playoff with Kathy Whitworth, felt just as happy at being one stroke behind going into the final round as she would have if she had been in the lead.

"It's very seldom I can play good when I'm in front," she said. "I've only won one tournament in my life that I led going into the last round. I was feeling awfully despondent late in the day. Those two birdie putts on the last two holes made up for a lot of mistakes."

The most consistent of the leaders was Mrs. Breer, who hit 16 greens but could find only one birdie putt, a 25-footer on the par-five 12th.

Despite almost ideal scoring conditions, the low round of the day was a mere three-under-par 69 by Clifford Ann Creed, which left her at 145.

Tee to Cup

Golf Couse Inns of America and professional Gene Littler have announced a new $520,000 event—"Gene Littler's $520,000 Golf Course Inns of America Tournament"—to be played over eight consecutive weeks starting October 10 at Whispering Palms and El Camino Country Clubs, both located in north San Diego County.

Golf Course Inns owns three courses in Southern California as well as golfing facilities in several European countries.

Vallas said that for each of the eight tournmanet weeks the pros will compete over 54 holes for a $50,000 weekly-purse with $8,000 going to the winner.

The sponsoring Golf Course Inns of America quarantees the minimum $400,000 purse for the eight weeks, Vallas said.

A full tournament would be 160 players, with the field alternately playing the 6652-yard Whispering Palms layout in Rancho Santa Fe and 6769-yard El Camino course in Oceanside.

Both communities are located about 25 miles north of San Diego and enjoy the famed coastal climate.

As a special and unique incentive, the tournament field will be "cut" after 36 holes with the remaining pros then competing in an 18-hole pro-pro best ball competition that will have a weekly purse of $15,000, with $2400 awarded to the winning team. This tangent tournament will be in effect each week when the overall field exceeds 130 players. Otherwise, there will be no cut made of the original field.

The 54-hole competition will be scheduled on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week with the tournament concluding on Nov. 30. Prize money weekly will be distributed to 84 players.

Littler anticipates little difficulty filling the field on a first-come first-served basis with admission priority being awarded to those pros who commit for the entire tournament schedule. Entry fee for the eight weeks and the guaranteed $400,000 purse is $4800 per player.

Entries now are being accepted at tournament headquarters: Whispering Palms Country Club, Post Office Box 550, Rancho Santa Fe, California.

Littler, a resident of nearby La Jolla, has won $94,255 in official PGA purses this year, including his victory in the St. Louis Classic.

"I wish there had been a tournament of this nature available to me when I was starting out," Littler said. "All the opportunity a young professional needs to develop competitively and at the same time discover, at a minimal cost, how he might rate on the PGA tour are available—strong competition, a new 54-hole tournament each week, challenging courses, friendly and comfortable surroundings and sizeable prize money to be won."

Golf Course Inns will guarantee a minimum $400,000 purse. There will be eight weekly tournaments each with a minimum $50,000 purse.

Facilities at Whispering Palms and El Camino, both long-established private clubs, will be available to all professionals entered.

Golf carts will be provided, so will practice balls and complimentary lunches. Practice time will be available on non-tournament days and assistance will be provided in arranging housing.

Ali at crossroads

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) —His career at a crossroads, legendary Muhammad Ali tries to move back into the heavyweight title picture Monday night against Ken Norton, a tough ex-Marine who upset the former world champion five and a half months ago.

"If I lose," said the 31-yearold Ali, "it's time for me to retire because I'm in the best shape of my life. This is the first time I've ever trained."

The oddsmakers have installed the former Cassius Marcellus Clay II as a 5-2 favorite but Norton said he was not concerned.

"I'd say the odds don't mean anything," said Norton, who was a 5-1 underdog in their first meeting at San Diego March 31. "I proved that before. I don't worry about the odds."

Ali suffered a broken jaw in the first meeting. He said it occurred in the second round and Norton said it happened in the 12th.

"I'm about 75 per cent better than the day he fought me," claimed Ali. "It's a hard thing for anybody else to be that much better than they were."

Answered Norton, "I'd say I've improved but I can't cite a specific percentage. I didn't have to improve 75 per cent, though. I won the first fight. He's the one who had to improve 75 per cent.

Neither man expects to fight the new heavyweight king George Foreman, next.

"I think about the title but I won't push it," said Ali. "The world sees what's happening. Foreman will have to come to me, I won't go to him."

"I haven't made any plans past this fight," Norton added. "Four years ago I planned ahead and fell on my face. Now I just take each fight as it comes."

The 28-year-old Carson, Calif., heavyweight's only defeat in 31 pro fights came in 1969, a third round knockout at the fists of Jose Luis Garcia of Venezuela. Garcia recently has dropped from among the top contenders.

Ali is fighting Norton for his fistic life, 14 years after his pro career began after he won a gold medal at the Rome Olympics. His stunning defeat of Sonny Liston for the heavyweight crown came nearly a decade ago — Feb. 25, 1964.

His career record stands at 41-2 with 31 knockouts compared to Norton's mark of 30-1 with 23 KOs.

Ali's strategy will be to outbox his muscular opponent. He tried it last time but spent most of the day flat footed. In scoring a 12-round win over England's Joe Bugner at Las Vegas, Nev., Ali also was lackluster with his footwork.

"I have," he said, "come this time for some serious Muhammad Ali dancing. I'm faster now than I've ever been in my whole career. This is the first time in my life I've ever trained."

Although he won't name a round, Ali is predicting a knockout. Norton is more general than that. He's only predicting a victory.

"If it goes one round, I'm going to win and if it goes 12 rounds I'm going to win," he declared.

A crowd of between 14,000 and 15,000 is expected to watch the fight at the Forum, which seats 18,750 for boxing.

Cards deal vet Farr to Detroit

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Miller Farr, a nine-year veteran defensive back, was traded to the Detroit Lions Friday by the St. Louis Cardinals in return for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Farr, 30, started at left cornerback in three seasons with St. Louis. He intercepted three passes last year to boost his career total to 34.

Farr joined the Cardinals in January, 1970, with Pete Beathard in a trade that sent Charley Johnson and Bob Atkins to Houston.

Farr was an all-pro selection in 1970 and all-AFL at Houston in 1967 and 1968.

$29.95

an important message from

Earl Scheib

. . . For over 30 years you've heard me say, "I'll paint any car for $29.95." Unfortunately, the rising cost of labor and materials has finally forced me into a position where I can no longer do so. But you can still take advantage of, what I think is, the biggest bargain in America. I guarantee to hold my price of $29.95 'til October first of this year. Remember that date . . . October first. I will still paint any car for $29.95 . . . 'til October 1st.

WALT SEVIGNY

Sevigny Joins Weber & Cooper Lincoln-Mercury

Weber & Cooper Lincoln-Mercury at 1050 West Holt Blvd., Ontario, is pleased to announce the addition to their sales staff of Walt Sevigny, formerly with Lincoln-Mercury in Pomona. Walt would be very happy to see or hear from his many friends whether he can be of service to them presently or in the future. (Adv.)

If you've got car troubles, come to Penneys Scientific Testing Center for an electronic examination of your car.

Only 12.50

We can point out weak spots in several vital areas of your car.
In less than one hour we put your car through a series of scientific tests (212 of them, to be exact). Steering, engine, brakes, transmission, electrical and cooling systems. You watch the results come out on an electronic typewriter.

The written report shows the results of the tests. It indicates what tested parts of your car are weak and what parts are strong. A trained diagnostician will go over the report with you. If you wish, he'll give you an estimate of any necessary repairs. You'll be able to take care of many small problems before they turn into big problems costing big money. There's no obligation to have any of the work done. You decide what to fix and where to fix it.

Only 12.50
Not bad for a check-up these days.

Golden Gate Bridge

World's busiest jumping off place

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —In the past 36 years, the Golden Gate Bridge has become the busiest jumping off place in the world for the suicidal.

Five months after the scenic orange bridge opened on May 27, 1937, Ralph DiRegolo leaped 220 feet through the fog to his death in the frigid waters at the mouth of San Francisco Bay.

The San Francisco man has been followed off the 4,200-foot long suspended span by nearly 500 known suicides —far surpassing the 358 persons who have leaped from the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

"Probably 150 or so more have jumped and been washed out to sea, unseen, unrecorded," said psychologist Richard H. Seiden, who has extensively studied Golden Gate Bridge leapers.

And Capt. Edward Ashoff, head of the bridge's security forces, estimated five or six potential suicides are deterred by bridge employes or California Highway patrolmen for each one who jumps.

Six persons who leaped from the bridge survived the long drop —one young man suffering only bruised feet when he struck the water.

After 36 years of suicides and a growing reputation as what Seiden called a landmark "with a fatal mystique that draws the suicide-prone," the bridge may be altered to make death more difficult.

The directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, Transportation and Highway District recently approved preliminary plans for an eight-foot high "suicide barrier" to replace the existing waist-high railing.

Architects Amman and Whitney were authorized to draw up plans for the barrier —thin tension rods six inches apart which would be too tiny to climb and too strong to bend — which had an estimated cost of $800,000 to $825,000.

Debate on the board centered around the practicality of preventing anyone bent on taking his own life from committing suicide.

"All we're doing is sending 'em to another bridge," scoffed district director Lowell Edington of outlying Napa County.

But Seiden, of the University of California School of Public Health, insisted "that simply isn't so."

"Of the officially confirmed number of suicide attempters who have been prevented from leaping from the bridge, less than 4 per cent have gone on to commit suicide," the psychologist said.

He also quoted one of the survivors telling him: "If there had been a barrier on the bridge, I would have gone home and forgotten about it."

Capt. Ashoff, who has worked on the span for 28 years, recalled "repeaters" —like a Los Angeles man who got on a bus every time he became drunk and showed up at the bridge periodically for a decade before he finally leaped to his death.

But Seiden and his colleagues pointed to the success of suicide barriers constructed at Arroyo Seco Bridge in Pasadena, Calif., and on the Empire State Building. Eighty persons jumped to the death from the bridge near the Rose Bowl from 1933 to 1936, before a barrier was built. There has been one suicide since. No one has leaped from the Empire State Building since an observation tower fence was built following 16 deaths between 1931 and 1947.

And the barriers' supporters, who rang church bells in San Francisco 491 times in mid-August in memory of the known bridge suicides at the time, quoted a note left behind by one leaper:

"Why do you make it so easy?"

Ashoff doesn't believe it's been easy since 1966, when two closed circuit television cameras and employes with binoculars began monitoring pedestrians on an around-the-clock basis.

The bridge also maintains a roving patrol on the span and the California Highway Patrol always has two cars driving back-and-forth over the bay.

"If they see anyone who looks suspicious, they stop and talk to them. Sometimes they lose one who assures them nothing is wrong, but we save five or six for every one that goes," Ashoff said.

He said the patrols have learned to spot potential suicides from their demeanor, the way they walk, their dress, and the way they arrive.

"If immediately," Ashoff said. "If we spot an old lady without a ciat standing on the bridge in cold weather, we stop. Or if someone's out in the rain without a raincoat ..."

"If someone gets out of a taxi and pays it off, we check them out immediately," Ashoff said. "If we spot an old lady without a coat standing on the bridge in cold weather, we stop. Or if someone's out in the rain without a raincoat ..."

Studies of the leapers showed their age has dropped —from an average of 49 in 1937 to 29.5 in 1971, men outnumbered women three to one, 95 per cent were from the bay area, all socioeconomic groups were represented, and there were more whites than blacks compared to their proportions of the population. Only one couple jumped together.

Their reasons: troubled romances and family squabbles, 40 per cent; emotional disturbances, 25 per cent; physically illness, 15 per cent; financial problems, 10 per cent; troubles with the law, 2 per cent.

"There are a lot more young people now," said Ashoff, "many of them longhairs and dopers. I believe some think they can fly out there."

Thomas C. Baker II, who survived the plunge on Nov. 5, 1969, said after he was plucked from the water: "It was like eternity, flying through the air like an angel. I felt as if it would last forever."

For most, the fall lasted just two and one-half seconds — ending with oblivion when they hit the water or the rocks below the Golden Gate Bridge at 80 miles an hour.

The doctor comments

Acid is stimulated by the vagus nerve

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You have commented on acid in the stomach in some of your columns. I had an ulcer operation and they cut the vagus nerve, which I understand is supposed to control the flow of acid in your stomach. Would you comment on this in your column, and how it affects the stomach acid?

Dear Reader — The stomach normally produces hydrochloric acid. The acid in conjunction with pepsin, also produced by the stomach, begins the initial digestion of proteins.

The acid pepsin formation in the stomach is stimulated by the vagus nerve. The nerve cells for the bagus originate in the brain stem and the nerve fibers then are passed extensively over the entire digestive tract and other regions of the body. You can stimulate the nerve and immediately the little cells in the wall of the stomach that produce acid digestive juice begin to pump out this material. It is this nerve connection that enables psychic stress, or any other form of stimulation that reaches the brain, to affect the stomach's production of acid pepsin juice.

Not all stimuli that reach the brain, then stimulate the stomach to pour out acid pepsin juice, are stressful. The sight of appealing food stimulates the brain. The impulse is relayed to the vagus nerve and then to the stomach. The smell of favorite food cooking is another input.

Ulcer patients usually have an overproduction of acid digestive juice from cells in the wall of the stomach. Whenever surgery is used in such an individual, it's common to remove part of the stomach, thereby eliminating part of the cells and to cut the vagus nerve, thereby eliminating the nerve stimulus to cause these cells to produce acid digestive juice.

This does not mean that acid digestive juices ceases to be formed. It's just decreased to a much smaller amount. The cells in the stomach can produce acid digestive juice on their own, but will usually not produce excessive amounts if there is no vagus stimulation.

Much the same effects of surgery are achieved through various medicines. Probanthine and atropine-like drugs all have the chemical effect of blocking nerve impulses along the vagus. Such medicines literally induce "chemical surgery of the gavus nerve."

How effective the surgery is depends a lot on the individual case, whether or not a portion of the stomach was removed, how much and even how the vagus is cut, and if the fibers of the vagus nerve are regenerated or resume their old stimulatory effect.

Finally, I would have to say in either medical or surgical treatment of ulcers, part of the success depends on changing living habits that may have been the major factor in causing the problem to start with. This includes eliminating the use of cigarettes, alcohol, excessive amounts of coffee and nervous or emotional tension or stress originating either because of occupational or family situations.

Many patients with ulcers cannot be adequately treated unless the cause of the psychic stress can be eliminated or reduced. This may mean a change in jobs for some people.

Craft skills can be profitable

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—How crafty can your hands be?

They can be crafty enough to spend 320 hours making a quilt into a work of art—tapestry or bedspread—although the hands that stitched the quilt are arthritic.

They can be crafty enough to carve an apple so that when it's dried, it wrinkles into a facial likeness and becomes the head of an unusual doll.

They can be crafty enough to crochet fisherman's twine into place mats, handbags, and hammocks. They can turn out handsome patchwork pillows.

And all the skills of those hands combined can turn within one year a non-business into a thriving business with more than 100 women, who need the cash, recycling skills inherited through generations.

Behind the whole project is a slip of a girl, 26-year-old Vicki Lynn Crowe, a native of New Germany, N.S.

Miss Crowe organized and heads up Suttles and Seawinds, Ltd., the collective outlet for handicrafts created by the women from the village of New Germany, from Tancook Island and surrounding areas in the Canadian province. The Suttles part of the name comes from the old Nova Scotian word for rags and leftovers.

Miss Crowe, the daughter of a country doctor, attended the University of Nova Scotia and studied at the New York School of Interior Design.

While an assistant editor of interior design for American Home magazine in New York, she learned of the successful cottage industry operation of Mountain Artisans, Inc., a center in Charleston, W. Va. Mrs. Jay (Sharon) Rockefeller is active with Artisans, pushing sale of handicrafts from sections of Appalachia.

"We didn't have a Sharon Rockefeller," Miss Crowe said in an interview. "But we had a lot of women willing to sew samples for free to show buyers in the United States and Canada what we could do."

Their first success was with Abercrombie & Fitch, the prestigious New York store. Two of the company executives visited Suttles and Seawinds' hastily acquired showroom—an empty dry-goods store in New Germany.

They placed an order for $30,000 worth of the various merchandise.

Then, the provincial government in Nova Scotia became interested to the extent of advising Suttles on business organization and operation. The project gets no governmental financial aid, however.

Now, the crafts are selling in several outlets and Suttles is being asked to exhibit at craft shows and stores in both the United States and Canada.

And the women are earning from their skills. Miss Crowe said an expert on quilting could earn easily $100 a week, sewing at home from materials provided through the New Germany center.

This week, Miss Crowe and four other craftswomen returned the visit of the Abercrombie people with a crowd-drawing display at the store of the various crafts plus demonstrations of quilting and doll making.

Mrs. Wesley Stevens showed how the women of Tancook carve apples, dry them, recycle old hosiery for doll bodies, and from bits and pieces of fabric fashion costumes authentic of a century ago.

Mrs. William Hiltz, mother of four and grandmother of eight, quilted away while explaining that recently she thought she'd have to give up hand-stitching because of arthritis.

But her doctor told her, "No, use those hands. Keep 'em limber."

Mrs. Hiltz alone had put in the 320 hours on a poppy wreath quilt, a stylized pattern of red flowers on a white background.

Also very much as part of the exhibit was the Bluenose quilt, its pattern named for a famous racing schooner of the 1920's, the Bluenose, built in Lunenburg county, Nova Scotia.

"That's how we got our name," Miss Crowe explained. "Nova Scotians are called bluenosers."

Fashion look is nostalgic

PARIS — (NEA) — The fall collections shown by the Paris haute couture could be labeled "the Great Gatsby Nostalgia."

They conjure up the styles of the roaring '20s, the Zelda Scott Fitzgerald era, that gentle, moving jazz age. They are all there — for evening, the swishing mushroom-pleated skirts which stop short of the ankle (the better to show off a pretty leg) the long torso tops, the fluttering ostrich or sinuous fox boas, the glitter, the high heeled sandals, the soft, clinging fabrics.

While Paris seems to be concentrating on the evening picture, the daytime is no less feminine with the pleated or gored skirts, the dressmaker jackets, wrist-length, tie-belted and lavishly fur-trimmed, the pyramid topcoats and the swinging redingotes.

Here are some of the high points of the collections:

DIOR: Here are midi coats — some ultrawide — over wide trouser ensembles, midcalf-length cocktail dresses with draped mid-riff, lame print evening dresses and satin pajamas with loose tunic top. There are fur trims and ruffles galore. The clothes acquire a different, younger look mainly because of the four-fifths-inch heels to the shoes.

Marc Bohan likes a palish, faded blue which he uses throughout the day and evening line. With matching hosiery. The daytime length hides the knees very thoroughly and after dark hems gravitate from mid-calf to ankle. Only the very formal models hit the shoe top.

GIVENCHY: This perfectionist has indulged in an even more luxurious note than usual. Starting with the fabrics, his wools are hand-quilted or striped with handstitching and for evening the velvets are stitched with gold or silver thread or strewn with gold stars.

Then over and above this he introduces, on daytime as well as evening models, the softest snakeskin as a trimming, dyed in unusual colors.

His daytime clothes are somewhat sober in silhouette but they carry his signature all the same. The longer jackets are belted on straight or pleated skirts.

LANVIN: This year offers a pleasing interlude by Jules F. Crahay, presenting a most luxurious, glittering, sophisticated collection in the form of a ballet directed by Norbert Schmidt.

Here for the very modern young woman are handknit and hand-crocheted cardigans and topcoats in a galaxy of colors. They share favors with the more conventional wools and mohairs. These are worn with pleated skirts or dresses stretched to a skinny top.

The Lanvin dinner dresses are often black but there is an over-abundance of glitter in the formal dresses. The two dominant styles are the clinging sweater top with full pleated skirt or the siren sheath.

YVES. ST. LAURENT: The boy wonder of the fashion world offers a collection created in a romantic mood and primarily beamed at wealthy women who are difficult to please and difficult to dress.

Here are the simple shirtwaist dresses with softly knotted ties, the wide pants, the long, long cardigans with narrow metal belt, the roomy topcoats. But it is in the evening line where he shows his mettle. There are sexy chiffons handled by a master, black velvet dinner suits and pindotted crepe georgette midis worn with yards and yards of spreckled ostrich feather and long skinny sheaths of Chinese inspiration in lames, printed crepes, lacquered satin, silk jersey.

His daytime clothes cover the knees and from then on they continue to fall until they reach the ankle, for evening.

PIERRE CARDIN: His collection includes ample topcoats in ribbed or plain mohair or spreckled tweeds inspired by the painter's smock, two-piece numbers teaming peasant skirts pleated around the waist topped by brief jackets, suede sleeveless jerkins over simple dresses. There are "poncho" cape coats and slender flaring redingotes, most of them with his new rounded horseshoe collar.

There are quite a few pants in the Cardin collection but the also stresses the return of the "little Paris dress" simple to the point of skimpiness. Sometimes there is a touch of drapery or a fluttering cape but nary a touch of glitter.

MADAME GRES: This season she has resolutely created slick, slender topcoats of flared redingotes when she was the first ever to launch many years ago the ultra-wide "tent" coat. There are elegant suits with culotte skirts, naive little dresses with wrapover skirts but more important still, sensational and truly elegant evening dresses, unexpectedly sexy — slit, cut out or transparent. Most are shown with cover-up versions of the poncho with uneven hemlines.

Ramon Esparza for Chanel manages to produce a perhaps younger edition of the Chanel suit but there were few if any signs of his having been assistant and Man Friday for many years to the late Balenciaga, who ranked among the top five of Paris haute couture.

UNGARO: His label now is well established with the younger set. This season he shows big fleece coats in red, oranges and greens over harlequin printed or striped wool dresses. His evening dresses are long and skinny in printed crepe and flare from below the knees.

ANDRE COURREGE: The Courrege collection is less stiff and constructed, stressing the frilly, feminine note. There are pinafore dresses over sheer turtlenecks, slinky evening dresses in burgundy satin with nylon tops and a handful of "little girl" coats in pastel wools trimmed with small mink collars and cuffs. Hems with this designer just barely cover the knees.

TODAY'S Women

MRS. DAVEN GRAY

MRS. ANTHONY SURINA

MRS. BRIAN L. SIMMONS

Vows said in summer rites

Gray-Smith

The Boys' Republic Chapel in Chino was the setting for the afternoon nuptial ceremony uniting Miss Brenda Smith and Daven E. Gray.

The Rev. Johnnie Parker officiated at the double-ring rites.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sal Mastrianni of San Dimas was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore an old-fashioned gown fashioned with a high collar, a cotton lace apron edged in daisy trim and chiffon sleeves. Her chiffon train was also edged in the daisy trim. The bride wore a hat decorated with blue and white flowers and lily of the valley and carried a bouquet of daisies, rose buds and baby's breath.

Miss Gail Lang was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Mickie Mastrianni, the bride's sister, Miss Beverly Brady and Mrs. Linda Robinson. Sharon Miller held the guest register and Katie Blickenstaff took gifts.

Joseph Gonzales served as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gray of Claremont. Ushers were Frankie Gonzales, Bryan Graves and John Armanderez.

A reception at the home of the groom's sister followed the wedding.

After a honeymoon in Occidental Mr. and Mrs. Gray are making their home in Montclair.

Special wedding guests included the bride's grandmother, Maxine Gilmore, and the groom's grandfather, James B. Smith.

McConnell-Baumgartner

Miss Judith Joy Baumgartner of Chino became the bride of Paul Alden McConnell of Pomona in a nuptial ceremony in the Pasco First United Methodist Church, Pasco, Wash.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dale O. Baumgartner of Pasco, Wash., and the late Mr. Baumgartner. Mr. McConnell is the son of the Raymond A. McConnells of Pomona.

Officiating at the wedding was the Rev. Ritchie D. Ocheltree.

The fomer Miss Baumgartner wore a floor-length gown of white dotted swiss.

Miss Florence Baker of Enumclaw, Wash., was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Haptonstall of Richland, Wash., and Mrs. Kathy Knecht of Moscow, Idaho. Miss Tara Baumgartner and Brady Baumgartner, niece and nephew of the bride, were the flower girl and ring bearer.

Three brothers of the bride served as the groom's atendants. Duane D. Baumgartner was the best man and Richard C. Baumgartner and Gary L. Baumgartner were ushers.

A reception at the church preceded the couple's departure for a honeymoon trip to Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell are now making their home in Chino where Mrs. McConnell is a high school physical education teacher and her husband is a material handler for Freighliner Corp.

Surina-Watson

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Cynthia JoAnne Watson and Anthony James Surina in an evening ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church of Covina.

The Rev. Richard Chistensen officated at the rites uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Watson of Covina and the son of Mrs. Stanley Surina of Chino.

Given in marriage by her parents, the former Miss Watson wore a nylon organdy gown with a high neck and ruffled train. She carried a bouquet of roses and miniature carnations.

Miss Cathy Plesko was the bride's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Michele Purpora, Terry Paulson, Jean Deaniel and JoAnn Surina, the groom's sister.

Mike Bidart stood as best man for the groom. Ushers were Greg Watson, brother of the bride, Larry Eckrote and Jack Surina and Mike Surina, brothers of the groom.

A reception was held in the church. After a honeymoon in northern California the newlyweds will make their home in Covina.

Green-Kurtzer

Congregation Emanu El in San Bernardino was the setting for the marriage of Miss Lee Ann Kurtzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fischer of Pomona, and Alan Lee Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cavaretta of Riverside.

The afternoon ceremony was performed by Rabbi Hillel Cohn.

Escorted to the altar by her mother and stepfather, the bride wore a floor-length gown with a cluny lace apron over an organza skirt. The dress was fashioned with a high neckline, a Basque waist and lantern sleeves. The bride fashioned her four-tier fingertip illusion veil which was gathered in a pearl cap. The former Miss Kurtzer carried a bouqet of white carnations, yellow baby roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Mrs. Roger Stinnett was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Betty Kurtzer and Miss Karen Kurtzer, sisters of the bride.

Theodore Huling served as best man, and Robert Neal and Dan Thompson were ushers. Lighting candles was Stephen Cavaretta.

After a honeymoon in northern California Mr. and Mrs. Green are making their home in Herlong where the groom is stationed with the Army. Mrs. Green is a graduate of Pomona High School, Mt. San Antonio College and UCR. She will attend graduate school at the University of Nevada, Reno. Her husband graduated from North High School in Riverside, Riverside City College and UCR.

Special out-of-town wedding guests included the bride's father, A. Kurtzer of Dallas, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Marv Kurtzer, Kingston, Pa., brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

Simmons-Arnold

An evening nuptial ceremony at the Chapel of the Roses in Pasadena united in marriage Miss Diana Louise Arnold and Brian L. Simmons on Saturday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Arnold of Rialto was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore a white floor-length gown of georgette over taffeta. The gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline edged in floral lace and pearls and sequins, and long straight sleeves. Her three tier silk illusion veil was held by a Juliet cap trimmed in pearls and sequins. The bride carried a single long-stemmed rose with fern and baby's breath.

Miss Sharon Sakatani was the maid of honor for the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Roxie Kaiser and Miss Cynthia Arnold, sister of the bride. Mrs. Sharon Brooks, sister of the groom, held the guest book.

Dennis Raybould stood as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Simmons of Pomona. Ushers were Norman Miller and Alan Brooks.

A reception at the chapel preceded the coupe's two-week honeymoon trip in northern California and Lake Tahoe. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will make their home in Pasadena.

Barrett-Cordasco

Miss Margy Cordasco and Thomas Barrett exchanged wedding vows in an afternoon nuptial ceremony at Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church, Claremont.

Officiating at the double-ring rites was the Very Rev. Msgr. William Barry.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, the bride wore a gown of organdy over taffeta accented with lace, seed pearls and crystals. Her full-length train was trimmed in lace and her gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. A Juliet cap with pearls and crystals held a five-tiered bouffant veil. The new matron carried a bouquet of carnations, roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sue Cordasco served as matron of honor for the daughter of Mrs. Carolyn Cordasco of Claremont. Bridesmaids were the Misses Marguerite Cordasco, Carol Ann Cordasco, Jo Ann Barrett and Lisa Barrett, and Mrs. Sue Bonetti. Maria Fratino and Jeanette Cordasco were the flower girls and Franklin Bruno was the ring bearer.

Philip Barrett stood as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barrett of Pomona. Ushering were Vince Fowler, Dennis Jones, Pat Cordasco, David Barrett and Bob James.

A reception at Di Censo's Restaurant followed the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip to Hawaii the newlyweds will make their home in Long Beach.

Golden anniversary marked by Pomonans

A party was held recently to honor Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lees of Pomona who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Friday.

Hosting the party were Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Lees of Cucamonga, son and daughter-in-law of the couple. Other children of the Lees are a son, Navy Cmdr. Leonard J. Lees of San Pedro, and a daughter, Mrs. Allen Van Duren of San Diego. The couple also has 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Thirty-five family members attended the event including Mr. Lees's sister, Mrs. Mary Gregory, 80, of New Bedford, Mass.

Married on Sept. 7, 1923, in Marblehead, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Lees lived in New Bedford, Mass., where Mr. Lees was a member of the New Bedford Police Department. After his retirement 17 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Lees moved to Pomona.

Mr. Lees is a World War I Navy veteran and both he and his wife were members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post in New Bedford. Mr. Lees is a member of the Keith Powell Post 78, American Legion, of Claremont.

Home-sewn fashions featured

Until recently, men have been neglected in the realm of home-sewn fashions. But the trend is changing.

Any major catalog will show patterns for men's styles.

"Sew Together: With William Heller Knits and McCall's Carefree Patterns," a fashion show of sew-at-home garments will be presented at all 20 May Company California stores this fall.

The 26 garments in the show will range from sweaters and jackets for both genders to glitter, evening garments in plush fabrics.

The style show will be presented at the Montclair May Company on Friday at 7 p.m. in the Forecast Shop and is open to all interested persons.

If you're a pearl girl, there are new ways of wearing them with the coming season's revival of the black short or long evening dress. Fasten one end to the shoulder with a jeweled pin, the other end of the strand (or strands) falling diagonally to the hipbone, and another fastener.

More mortgages

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mortgage debt,which more than doubled during the 1960s, is expected to show an even greater increase in the next 10 years, the Mortgage Bankers Association of America reports.

The projected rise is based on the anticipated need to finance higher-priced, higher-quality new homes and the resale of an ever-increasing number of houses, the Association says.

CHINESE COOKERY—Yula Yang, with the assistance of her daughter, Lisa, 8, uses a wok to prepare a Cantonese dish, stir-fried chicken almond. Mrs. Yang will conduct classes in Chinese cookery in a UCR extension course which begins Sept. 19 in Montclair.

Retired Teachers set fall picnic Saturday

California Retired Teachers Association will meet for a fall picnic at the Palomares Adobe Park, 491 E. Arrow Highway, Pomona, on Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Featured in the program will be community singing led by Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Jaeger. Mr. Jaeger, a trumpet player, teaches math at Chaffey High School. Mrs. Jaeger, who will accompany the singing on guitar, is a teacher at Mountain View School in Claremont.

Clemett L. Neibel, president of the Pomona Historical Society of Pomona Valley will speak on "Historical Facts and Figures Concerning Our Pomona Valley." Mr. Neibel was born in Pomona and attended Pomona schools and Pomona College. He is retired from the Southern California Edison Co.

Members of the CRTA board of directors will be hosts and hostesses for the evening.

Vice president of the association making the picnic arrangements are Mrs. Elfrieda Jaeger of Claremont, program; and Mrs. Verda R. Carl and Mrs. Edna Deal, both of Pomona, social. Reservations for the picnic may be made with Mrs. Carl or Mrs. Deal.

Fellowship program announced

The first fall meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational, will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m.

A short business meeting will be followed by a program under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Tishkins. Diane Hilbig, co-director of youth work, will outline plans for study and social events.

Members of the congregation who attended the 60th anniversary of the Missionary Education Conference will provide a dialog, "Asilomar over the Coffee Cups." The members brought tapes of a series of lectures on Japan from the conference. The tapes are available for group use along with two new study books.

A noon luncheon during the meeting has been planned by Marjorie and Esther Smith.

UCR Extension

Cooking class set

An exloration into the techniques of Chinese cookery will be led by Mrs. Yula Yang of Claremont during a three-month University of California at Riverside extension course at Montclair High School.

Beginning on Sept. 19 classes will meet in Room 6 at the high school, 4725 Benito St., Montclair, on Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. Class sessions will continue through Dec. 19.

The science of food and nutrition using Chinese cookery as an incentive will be covered in the classes with demonstrations of preparation techniques and discussion of the aesthetic aspects and the principles of the Chinese culture.

In Chinese cooking the techniques rather than the ingredients is stressed in the proper cooking method. The UCR class will feature the preparation and recipes for familiar and unusual dishes including paper-wrapped chicken, Peking duck, egg drop soup and eight-treasure rice pudding. Besides receiving the recipes, participants will also be able to taste the prepared foods.

Students will receive four college credits for the course which can also go towards post-graduate class credit since it was designed for professional and occupational upgrading. Enrollment is limited for the 14-meeting course.

Mrs. Yang was born and raised in China. She received her B. A. degree at the National Central University, Nanking, China, and her M.A. in food chemistry at the University of Toronto. She has completed the requirements for a Ph. D. in food technology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Questions on the course can be directed to Mrs. Yang by calling 624-4695.

Firemen's Wives set meeting

The Pomona Fire Department Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. Ron Torkelson at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The speaker for the meeting will be a member of the Upland Police Department who will discuss burglary prevention. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Dale Janssen and Mrs. Ron Bozarth.

Plans will be discussed for the bazaar at the Montclair Plaza, catering the Bekins sale and the children's Halloween party.

PBX Club schedules dinner

PBX Club of Pomona will hold its first meeting of the new club year Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Isabel Whelchel, 2457 S. Fairgreen Ave., Monrovia.

Events of the evening will include a swim party and potluck dinner followed by a business meeting and program.

During the meeting members will report on the International Convention in Mexico City held recently. Those attending from the local club were Mrs. Raylene Scott, Mrs. June Crane, president, and Mrs. Mary Jane Brown.

PBX members Mrs. Kay Reed and Mrs. Whelchel will present the Wednesday program on tooling and the making of leather goods. The two women are members of the Leather Guild.

Those interested in joining the PBX Club should call Mrs. Crane at 987-2521 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Plane service in Venezuala is maintained through 63 airports, including four international airports.

Small shoe look

The Fashion House of Norell believes in the small shoe look while many other stylists keep turning out those thick, thick soled numbers for both day and evening. David Evins did the shoe for the New York firm's fall and winter clothes collection. For day, the models wore "little girl" looking footwear, almost flat-heeled pumps done in alligator calif, lizard, patent and suede with grosgrain ribbon bow. For evening, bare sandals had skinny medium heels.

ARE PATTERNS OUT in today's carpet era, when there is so much news about textures and exciting new color mixtures? The answer is a ringing "No!" Patterns are just another way carpet manufacturers are showing us new ways to go.

New prints and patterns are very much part of the scene. This is partly due to the development of new printing and dyeing technologies — equipment and methods that make it possible to create patterns without a high penalty in cost.

All the popular textures and types — shags, cut-piles and loops — are available in a range of new patterns or prints, and in just about any fiber from wools to the modacrylics. And patterns are popular in the handy new carpet tiles as well as in broadlooms.

Prints and patterns fit into any decor. You'll find plaids for the Colonial setting, delicate florals for traditional rooms, bold geometrics for your modern class-and-chrome decor. The new patterns are made to be seen . . . and you should see them!

Prints and patterns — we have an outstanding array for you to choose from, and at prices from the most luxurious to honeymooners' budgets. Stop in, and bring your room measurements. Remember, you're always welcome to browse, at

Whats Going on At Griswolds

A woman was sitting in the Redlands SMORGASBORD enjoying the meal and apparently enthralled with the surroundings. The manager happily commented to the woman that she was glad she was SO pleased. The guest replied that she was a novelist and was absorbing the atmosphere—the SMORGASBORD is the setting for her latest novel. We can't wait to read it!

Griswold's has a very good friend in Alta Loma. A telephone caller asked, "Is Casa Ramon missing a sign?" Upon checking, sure enough, the sign directing guests to our Mexican restaurant in Griswold's Old School House in Claremont was missing. Some adventurous soul had "lifted" the sign and thrown it into the yard in Alta Loma.

Amy Vanderbilt

Improved English

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Sentence diagramming has not been cast out by all English teachers. I still teach it to my 7th and 8th-grade pupils, who are often surprised to find how much it helps them.

"When they are in high school they realize that their foundation in English is far better than that of most of their classmates. Some return to visit and express their thanks or very often in a chance meeting I'm told they do appreciate it.

"Teaching grammar is becoming more difficult each year. It has been bad enough trying to offset the mistakes in the publications and the glaring ones on TV and radio, but now we are receiving teachers whose spoken English is appalling. To hear 'Have went' or 'between you and I' was bad enough, but this year I hear 'yiz' for 'You.'

"Some teachers refuse to correct a pupil's spelling and grammar in written work because it may inhibit the child's free expression! The expression is so free that answers to essay-type tests can hardly be understood, and the result is that the testing in science, social studies and reading must be true or false or multiple-choice types.

"What are the teacher colleges doing?—Mr. W.F., Bayonne, N.J."

There absolutely must be a reversal in the teaching methods in the teacher colleges. How can young teachers who cannot speak well themselves, and who do not understand the grammar of their own language, expect to teach pupils how to express themselves orally or in writing?

You should add to your sources of bad grammar some of the advertising agencies. I recently heard a great conductor do a commericial on television, saying something like "As a conductor, noise . . ." Obviously the phrase should have been followed by the subject "I." The "conductor" isn't "noise."

Diagramming and very careful teaching can reach young children so they don't mangle the language in this way. Otherwise they may grow up to be advertising copywriters and other communicators who continue to communicate mushy English.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: What is the manner of succession when naming children? My husband's grandfather was John James Smith. My husband's father was Arthur John Smith. My husband is John James Smith. Our son is John James Smith. His son is John James Smith.

"Were we correct in calling our son Junior, or should he have been II? What is our grandchild?—Mr. F.G., El Paso.

Your son was properly named Junior. His son is III. He would have been II only if his name had been Arthur John Smith, for his grandfather. When a boy has the same name as his father, he is Junior until his father dies, then he may drop the Junior.

If a man who is a Junior becomes a doctor, and his father is not a doctor, he also wisely drops the Junior. The title Doctor is sufficiently definitive. On the other hand, if his father is a doctor and his a Junior and becomes a doctor himself, he retains the Junior until his father's death (or, if his father was a very distinguished man and there might be some confusion in history, as I point out, he might keep the Junior the rest of his life).

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: In regard to the 'early bird to church gets the aisle' controversy, my view has a logical reason. I have a small child and a baby whom I must take with me. If one or the other should cry or distract those around me, I must get out with as little commotion as possible. Have you ever tried to balance a baby in your arms and climb over six or eight pairs of legs?—Mrs. R.A., Fulton, Ky."

I have had so much mail on this subject that I will have to leave it for a while, but I could not resist running this letter, which makes so much sense.

(Miss Amy Vanderbilt welcomes your letters and strives to answer all those of general interst in her column. Send your questions and comments to Miss Vanderbilt in care of Progress-Bulletin.

Youths encouraged to develop potential

Phase two of a project held this summer will begin this month and continue throughout the school year under the direction of Epsilon Eta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

"To Reach Youth," TRY, offers youngsters an opportunity to develop their potential and explore areas beyond the regular school classroom. The Alpha Kappa Alpha project is in keeping with the sorority's national theme, "Personal Involvement Now."

Heading the project are sorority members Gwendolyn Tucker and Willie Tymony, assisted by parents of TRY participants, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moland. Member Vivian Scott provided transportation for some of the participants.

Each of the adults involved volunteered three-and-a-half hours daily giving guidance and providing constructive, productive and rewarding activities. Activities included knitting, crocheting, flower arranging, sewing, macrame, ceramics and woodcrafts.

The sorority is planning a public program to display the work of the children and offer it for sale.

Summer participants in the program were Vicki Gooden, Ellie Thompson, Sharon Hughes, Deardra Tucker, Dawn Terry, Kim Moland, Angela Boyd, Linda Hughes, April Scott, Adrienne Tucker, Stanley Harris, Ricky Moland and Alvin and Calvin Mosley.

They will play Beethoven's Quartet in E flat major, Op. 74; Schubert's Quartetsatz; Wolf's "Italian Serenade" and Walton's Quartet in A minor.

Two Christmas concert's are scheduled for December. The Concert Choir of Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd, Pitzer and Scripps colleges, conducted by John M. Lilley, will give the annual Advent-Christmas Concert at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 2 in Bridges Auditorium at the Claremont Colleges.

The Collegium Musicum of Scripps College, directed by Chris Lengefeld and Shirley Robbins, will perform Christmas music on early instruments at 8:15 p.m. Dec. 9 in Balch Auditorium at Scripps.

All the events are open to the public free of charge.

Art teacher at meeting

POMONA — Linda Lee, teacher at the School of Art in Pasadena, will demonstrate still life in oil at a meeting of the Associated Artists at Trinity United Methodist Church at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Miss Lee studied art at Pasadena City College and received a scholarship to Chouinard Art Institute. She has exhibited widely throughout the Southland and has won numerous awards. She is a member of the San Gabriel Fine Arts Association

Members of the Associated Artists are invited to bring a painting on an autumn theme to the meeting to be voted on for Painting of the Month.

The public is invited.

Mark Twain wouldn't recognize Russ 'Finn'

MOSCOW (UPI) —The film opens with a steamboat chugging down a river in what appears to be an American scene, but the river is the Dnieper, not the Mississippi.

The central character is a boy who smokes a pipe and rides a raft with a black man named Jim. The boy's features are Slavic, and his name in Russian is pronounced "Geckelberi."

The movie is the Russian version of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn," a book as popular with Russian readers as it is with Americans.

Filmed in southern Russia by one of the country's top directors, Georgi Daniela, it is scheduled to open in Moscow late this month. It already has proved a resounding success with preview audiences at the Moscow Film Club.

To American eyes, the film is remarkably authentic in many details, particularly in the costumes and sets. But it is also strangely tragi-comic, a rather far cry from the antic quality of the novel.

"When I started shooting, I meant this film to be very gay," Daniela said in an interview. "But as it went along, it became a film of problems, with this tragic atmosphere.

"I am mostly interested in the problem of good and evil. Good is symbolized by Jim and Huck and the river. When they get ashore, they come across hypocrisy and all kinds of evils. But in general, good triumphs."

There is a heavy emphasis on Jim's mistreatment at the hands of whites. Because this is a Russian film about an American subject, some viewers might see a political motivation in that.

But Daniela, 43, a short, lively Georgian with a mustache and graying hair, said he was attempting to describe a moral problem, man's inhumanity to man, rather than to indict American society.

"I have too many problems myself to be interested in that," he said. "Let American film makers do that. Injustice is a moral problem that exists in all countries."

Daniela's film is called "Sobsem Propashi" (Good For Nothing), a title based on Huck's frequent references to himself in the dialogue as "good for nothing." Daniela said he chose that title to avoid confusion with an earlier Romanian film called "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn."

"This has always been my favorite book, both as a child and as an adult," he said. "Hemingway said that all American literature came from one source — Huckleberry Finn. What Mark Twain wrote is still valid for mankind today."

The Russian Huck Finn is a blond, apple-cheeked, 10-yearold Moscow schoolboy, Roman Modyanov, who is appearing in his first film.

Daniela described him as "very fitted" for the role but said the boy had difficulty learning American names. "In one scene, he is asked where he is heading, and the first time we did it he answered 'New York Times', instead of New Orleans," Daniela said.

Jim is played by Felix Iemakuede, a former student at Patrice Lumumba University in Moscow who is now an oil engineer in his native Nigeria. Iemakuede had no previous acting experience, and his interpretation of Jim is emphatically solemn.

Daniela, who trained as an architect and went into filmmaking later in his career, is known to some American film buffs as the director of "A Summer To Remember," which won a film critics prize in the United States in the late 1950's.

He acknowledged that some aspects of his current film might be puzzling to American audiences, but points out he made it for Russian audiences, not American. It might even confuse Mark Twain, Daniela conceded with a smile.

"If Mark Twain could see it," he said, "he would think it was a film about Russia that has nothing to do with his novel."

HUCK FINN is an all-American boy, right? Right, except when he's Russian. Young Roman Madyanov plays the title role in a film of the Mark Twain novel being produced by the Soviet Mosfilm.

Condominium boom results from changes in society

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Condominium. Not so long ago it was something you looked up in the dictionary: "individual ownership of a unit in a multi-unit structure; a unit so owned."

Today, it's a household word. What's more, an increasing number of households are condominiums.

New condominium units offered for sale this year are expected to account for more than 50 per cent of the total number of new dwellings — perhaps as high as 58 per cent. As recently as 1970 condominiums accounted for only 11 per cent of new home sales.

The condominium boom mirrors important changes in the composition of American society. The groups most attracted to condominiums — younger buyers and senior citizens — now comprise 55 per cent of our population.

Unlike some housing trends of the past, condominiums did not emerge quietly — slowly gaining popularity. "Instead," says Robert W. Gaber, president of Conco Mortgage Co., San Francisco, "and explosion of demand reached, amost overnight, boom proportions."

Would-be owners are rushing to buy condominiums in all forms: townhouse and cluster homes; apartments — both the garden-type low rise and high rises.

There is a growing trend of converting rental apartments to condominiums. This involves rehabilitation of older rundown buildings, helping to renew many deteriorating neighborhoods and to meet the demand for inner-city housing in some areas. Many of the conversions also involve newer more modern apartment buildings that require little or no renovation.

Price and geographical location, of course, are important considerations for all buyers, and often a deciding factor is the minimum of time-consuming maintenance required by the condominium.

On principle, the concept has much to commend it. In many ways it gives the condominium owner the equivalent of single family home ownership. He can tailor the financing to a degree, to his own needs; has an equity interest which figures to give him a measure of inflation protection and gets the tax advantages of private home ownership—tax and interest deductions, deferment of tax on gain on sale within Code limits, and long-term capital gain treatment if tax deferment is not available. Normally, he is the absolute owner. And, if he wants, he can rent and take depreciation deductions like any other landlord.

As with most things, however, the condominium form of ownership is not without drawbacks and pitfalls. As with any home purchase, it requires an alert buyer aware of the cons as well as the pro.

From the Institute for Business Planning, New York City publisher of financial and real estate planning information, comes a checklist of some of the key items the potential buyer of a condominium should be aware of:

— Lease of Land. In many cases, the developer will retain ownership of the land and recreational facilities. He may thus collect rent for both from the condominium owners for longer periods—such as 99 years or possibly more. The rent may be way out of line.

For example, recreational facilities which cost $500,000 to build may be leased for $150,000 a year. Because of this, the condominium owner may be paying $50 or more per month over his normal maintenance expenses. Some developers write the lease into the deed as a mechanic's lien with the idea of getting priority for themselves over the lien of the mortgage.

— Maintenance Costs. The estimate given prospective purchasers may be very low. The developers may be able to defer costs while he's around. When he leaves, the actual costs show up.

— Renting. Possibility for renting a unit often is used as an inducement to purchase. Glowing rent estimates are made. They neglect to take account of the actual market, rental commissions, screening fees, the IRS limitation on tax deductions, the fix-up expenses and other factors. Taken into account, all these things might require a rent far larger than the market would support.

— Construction. The heating and cooling systems may be inadequate. The plumbing may not live up to expectations. Sound proofing may be thin. Room sizes may be smaller than the sale floor plans showed. The same may be true of parking spaces.

— Voting Control. The developer often will keep voting control of the management board of the project until all units are sold. This control serves the legitimate purpose of assuring proper operation and maintenance while the units are being sold. The danger is if there's no time limit on the developer's control and he finds it difficult to sell the units, he may be able to lower prices or start renting. That, of course, is not good for the unit owners. To guard against this, the developer's control should be limited, especially the time element, which should be no more than two years at the outside.

— Control of Utilities. In some projects, the developer will continue to control gas and electricity, water and sewers, and other utilities. This is to be avoided as unit owners are exposed to the risk of uncontrolled rates and poor performance without effective remedy.

— Growth of Project. Sometimes the developer plans to add more to the project in some undefined way. He might build so many additional units that planned recreation facilities may prove inadequate. Also the comfort and value of the original units may be adversely affected by the sheer increase in size and number of units available.

The whole character of a community may change. What starts out as a townhouse community may later have high-rise apartments added, creating all sorts of problems for the original owners — transportation schools, shopping, traffic, pollution, view obstruction . . .

— Management contract, Special attention should be paid to any management contract a developer may retain. Such a contract may, for example, give him an exclusive on the sale or lease of units by the condominium owners at standard commission rates or permit insurance deals and the placing of repair and maintenance contracts and orders for work with affiliated or related outfits. These management contracts usually are put together before any units have been sold. There's no bargaining or negotiation. And they could tie down the unit owners for years.

Condominium is a good way of life for increasing numbers of families, but, as with any other major purchase, it's "Caveat Emptor," let the buyer beware—and be informed!

Job mishaps in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI) — The Florida Department of Commerce says 27 deaths and nearly 35,000 injuries from on-the-job accidents were reported to the department's Bureau of Workmen's Compensation during May, 1973. Of the injuries, 13,341 were listed as disabling.

ANDY RAPATTONI

Group will host speaker at program

CLAREMONT — Andy Rapattoni, president of the Realty Computer Corp. in Westwood, will be speaker at the Apartment Association - Mt. Baldy Area program on Wednesday.

The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards.

The program, open to the public is being hosted by the Herbert Hawkins Realtors, which uses a computer in its investment division.

Rappattoni heads the firm that installed a computer at Herbert Hawkins Realtors several months ago for use in investment property analysis and property management accounting systems.

The problem clinic will be conducted by Victor Tessier, association attorney. Refreshments will be served.

Homebuilders charge:

Housing needs aren't being met

WASHINGTON — The increase in the FHA-VA mortgage interest rate to 8½ per cent, the second this summer, underscores the failure of federal credit and housing policies to provide for consumer's housing needs, said George C. Martin, president of the National Association of Homebuilders.

"Once again governmental inability to develop balanced economic policies to contain inflation has resulted in placing the major burden of the anti-inflation fight on the consumers served by the home building industry," he said.

"The housing needs of our people are being sacrificed on the altar of high interest rates and tight money, and the housing industry and those sectors of the economy related to it are headed for a major decline."

The housing mortgage market is already in deep trouble from the actions of July 5 when the federal regulatory agencies, led by the Federal Reserve Board, lifted interest rate ceilings on amounts paid to savers, he charged.

"That touched off an interest rate spiral that is still going on, and although theoretically intended to help keep funds in savings and mortgage financing institutions, had results diametrically opposite from those in tended," said Martin. "This action of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Veteran Administration will simply add to the burdens of the already troubled consumer seeking housing, making it more difficult for him to get mortgage financing at reasonable rates.

"Our information is that Savings and Loans and Mutual Savings Banks, the principle suppliers of mortgage funds, will probably show a losss of $2 billion in August in savings accounts on deposit with them; most of this decline appears to be in funds shifted to Commercial banks, and into non-mortgage uses," he added.

Unless the July 5 action is reversed, making it possible for Savings and Loans and Mutual Savings Banks to experience a return of saving funds flows, it is more than possible that there will be virtually no money at any price for mortgage lending.

"Past experience clearly indicates that raising the FHA-VA rate does little to do away with discounts on mortgages; the conventional rate has already risen sharply in the last two months, and this action will reinforce that rise."

On the whole, the American people, consumers, and the housing industry are being badly served by policies which clearly result in higher interest rates, tighter mortgage money, and a decline in home building and the inability of people either to sell their current houses or buy new ones, said Martin.

National meeting:

Builders to discuss high interest rates

WASHINGTON — The mortgage money crunch affecting home buyers and builders will be a major issue when more than 1,000 persons involved in the housing industry convene Sept. 20-25 at New Orleans.

In addition to the shortage of mortgage money and high interest rates, directors of the National Association of Home Builders will also consider plans to implement a nationwide program of home warranty insurance for consumer protection.

The program concept was approved in principle last May at a board of directors meeting in Washington, D. C. Since then, task forces have been at work studying all the complex details involved in organizing such a program.

George C. Martin of Louisville, Ky., president of the NAHB, will preside

Another major topic will be proposed changes in the federal approach to housing low and moderate income families. James Lynn, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, is scheduled to address the NAHB board.

The board will consider further implementation of NAHB's 12 point program for action by Congress or the Administration to combat growing inflation and provide for the nation's housing needs.

Charging that the present administration policy which relies on high interest rates for inflation control is "self defeating and inflationary in itself," NAHB officials said the present policy adds to housing costs and diminishes the supply of mortgage funds in savings institutions.

Power of eminent domain seen in expanding states

POMONA — In a state as constantly changing and expanding as California, the power of eminent domain is highly visible.

It may involve taking property for a freeway, tearing down tenements for a city park, and taking for for other reasons, said James Odom, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

"But some aspects of that power are not always so visible, even though they can profoundly affect the owner of real estate.

"What if, for instance, you have a busy service station next to a railroad and the city puts in an underpass? Traffic is whizzing by at a lower grade level and you're forced to try to attract the drivers with signs, be satisfied with less volume, or go out of business."

That's a form of eminent domain causing consequential damage, and if the controlling governmental body has not paid compensation for it, there probably is cause for a damage suit, said Odom.

"In my work as a Realtor, I see clients sometimes shudder at the use of the word condemnation, but it is the word commonly used for invoking the power of eminent domain."

The federal government, states, cities, counties, improvement districts, public utilities, public educational institutions, and similar public and semipublic bodies may use it. When they do, the main issue is almost invariably "just compensation." How much will you be paid for your property.

Most costs have ruled you must be paid fair market value. But you are not entitled to moving expenses, compensation for loss of profits because you had to move your business and most other intangibles resulting from condemnation of your property, he noted.

There is what is known as "severance damage." Say only part of your property is taken under condemantion, reducing the market value of the whole parcel. You are usually entitled to just compensation as worked out in an agreement or established by a court.

"But suppose part of your land were taken for a new library and as a result the fair market value of your property increased. If the increased value of what remains more than compensates for your loss of acreage, you wouldn't be entitled to compensation. That is known as a special benefit."

Another consequence: suppose the water department puts up a maintenance station right next door, condeming residences to do so, but paying you nothing for the decrease in value the high block wall on your property line has caused. You can institute a suit for "inverse condemnation," hoping the court will agree with your claim, said Odom.

"Actions surrounding eminent domain are grounded in law and if you want to challenge them it should be with the aid of an attorney. This article is only a general look at such actions affecting real estate."

A long line even longer

FRESNO (UPI) —A man who apparently grew impatient standing in line and indicated he might use a gun to force the issue wound up in jail instead of the circus he was waiting to see.

Police said that William C. Cornett, 66, Fresno, was waiting in line with scores of other persons to buy circus tickets at the Fresno Convention Center recently.

A witness said Cornett pointed to a gun tucked in his pocket and said "What is everyone standing around for? I can get in the ticket office if I want to. I've got this."

Two deputies and a security guard wrestled the loaded .32 caliber automatic away from the suspect who was booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon.

A FAMILY SCENE — A mother pouring herself a cup of coffee is watched by her two children in a color-coordinated kitchen at Orchard Lane, an Upland condominium community. The homes, located near Fredricks Lane and Spencer Avenue, feature luminous ceilings, gas ovens and ranges, dishwashers, double sinks, ash cabinets and vinyl flooring.

Mobile homes show increase

NEW YORK — The modern mobile home is assuming an increasingly important role as a practical means of helping budget-conscious families beat the high cost of housing, said a finance firm official.

"Last year, manufacturers shipped nearly 600,000 new mobile homes to dealers throughout the U.S., which is close to six times the 1960 shipments of 103,700," said Glen E. Jorgensen, president of C.I.T. Financial Services.

Shipments for 1973 are expected to exceed 625,000, he added.

Citing the $7,000 to $8,000 price tag on typical newly produced mobile home, Jorgensen terms this mode of shelter "a real bargain in today's tight housing market."

What's more, he explained, the price includes such features as drapes, furniture, major appliances and wall-to wall carpeting supplied by the manufacturer as part of the package.

At least one of every three single family housing units produced in January through March was a mobile home, said Jorgensen. "The exact share of this market claimed by mobile homes was 36 per cent on the basis of units produced during that period.

"Improvements in the design and construction of the new mobile homes, more attractive and better managed mobile home parks and the skyrocketing costs of other forms of shelter are contributing to the strong demand for mobile homes," said Jorgensen.

The Sooners beat the gun

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Oklahoma was unique in instituting legally organized "land runs" which were begun with a pistol shot. The term "Sooners," a nickname for the state and its people, referred to those who "jumped the gun' and crossed into the land rush areas before the official starting time in order to stake out claims to the best land.

Highway deaths down

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Fatalities in motor vehicle accidents on California highways decreased 4.3 per cent in the first six months of 1973, compared with the corresponding period of 1972, the California Traffic Safety Foundation reports.

Old hand-crank phones to stay

BRYANT POND, Maine (UPI) —It's the only handcrank telephone system left in New England, and despite an attempt to have it replaced with electronic dial equipment, the hand cranks will stay, the Maine Public Utilities Commission has ruled.

Some telephone customers in nearby South Paris, Maine, which is within the Bryant Pond telephone system, said incoming long distance calls were being delayed because the hand-crank system does not allow for direct long distance dialing. An operator has to handle each call.

The complainers petitioned the state utilities commission, demanding modern equipment. But the commission ruled in favor of the status quo.

"We have carefully reviewed the complaint, and are convinced that the problem the complaintants are having with incoming toll calls is not with the Bryant Pond system."

The commission blamed the delay on "the unfamiliarity of Bell System personnel with the hand-crank magneto system."

Builder reports:

Parkview East homes provide 'best deal'

POMONA — Homes at Parkview East provide buyers a "best deal," said Edward Lynch, sales manager for Lewis Homes.

"You'll find homes there with nearly 1,600 square feet of living area, selling at a price that no builder could replace them for today."

The four bedroom homes are priced from $28,300. The price includes built-in dishwashers, ovens, ranges, and garbage disposal units. There is also wall-to-wall carpet in the living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms.

Other features include cathedral ceilings, stone and brick fireplaces and large family rooms.

The Parkview East homes are offered with FHA, VA and conventional terms with minimum down payments, said Lynch. Qualified Cal-Vets receive loans at 4½ per cent interest rates.

"Like the smart automobile buyer, the wise home buyer benefits from good timing," he added. "The builder's desire to close out the remaining homes at Parkview East so sales personnel may be moved to other building projects is reflected in the low selling prices of the homes."

The community is located on La Verne Avenue, east of Garey Avenue.

Real estate seminar set

LOS ANGELES — The National Institute of Real Estate Brokers will present a six day course entitled "Fundamentals of Real Estate Investment and Taxation" Sept. 24-29 at the Airport Marina Hotel here.

The course provides an introduction to the fundamentals of real estate investment from the standpoint of a broker who serves an investor-client. It will be co-sponsored by the California Real Estate Association.

These include: demonstration of the mathematical tools to calculate the rate of return on real estate investments; analysis of mortgage loans and other common real estate problems; analysis of operating statements of income-producing real properties; the impact of alternative forms of depreciation on the return from an investment; and the preparation of investment analysis forms used in client analysis and projection.

Registration may be made through the national institute's registration coordinator, 155 E. Superior Ct., Chicago, Ill., 60611. Further information may be obtained by contacting Al Wray, California Real Estate Association, 520 S. Grand Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90017.

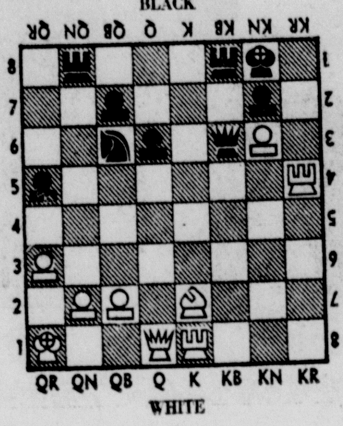
Chess

Kicking oneself no compensation

No result can ever be taken for granted in chess. The best player in the world courts disaster and can lose to the worst if he makes one sufficiently weak move. Vulnerability to serious error is so widespread that even players of world championship calibre have overlooked simple mates when under extreme pressure.

(Diagram 1)

BLACK



WHITE

Our first position (diagram one) is to be found in the repertoire of many experienced amateur players. White has a quick checkmate after a double rook sacrifice. What is the mating procedure? Answer: 1) R-R8 check, KxR; 2) R-R1 check, K-N1; 3) R-R8 check, KxR; 4) Q-R1 check, K-N1; 5) Q-R7 mate.

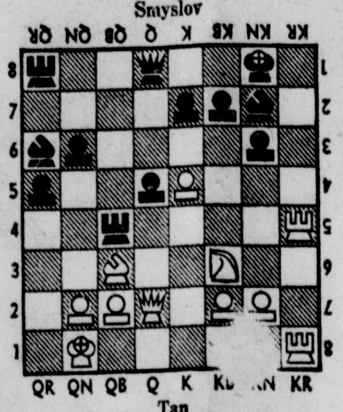
There are many known examples of this type.

Doubtlessly the Malaysian player Lian Tan is not unfamiliar with the sacrifice of the two rooks. Yet he missed the win and the glory in the following position (Diagram two) reached against ex-world champion Vassily Smyslov in the 1973 Brazil Interzonal.

(Diagram 2)

BLACK

Smyslov



Tan

WHITE

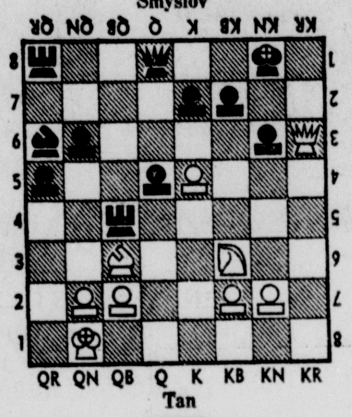
True, the position has its own unique twist but Tan will probably kick himself the rest of his days for missing the opportunity to so dramatically polish off his famous opponent.

Let's take the situation step by step and follow the hypothetical winning sequence, ingloriously missed by Tan (He played R-R7.) The first moves feature the sacrifice of the two rooks, i.e. 1) R-R8 check, BxR; 2) RxB check, KxR; 3) Q-R6 check, K-N1 and our third position is reached.

(Diagram 3)

BLACK

Smyslov



Tan

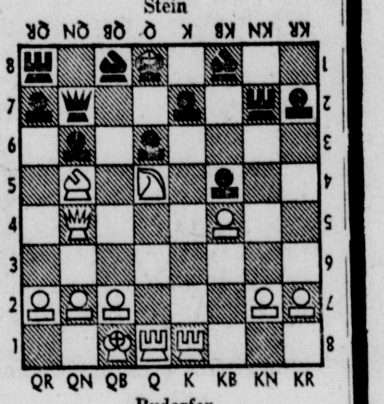
WHITE

Now one move and one move only wins. It is not 4) N-N5 . . . threatening Q-R7 check and Q-R8 mate. N-N5 would lose after . . . . P-K3, which would provide an escape square at K2 for the black king. The winning move would have been 4) P-K6, unblocking the diagonal of the queen bishop and threatening mate with the queen at both N7 and R8. Both . . . . RxB and P-B3 fail to stop the mate since 5) N-N5 is unanswerable.

(Diagram 4)

BLACK

Stein



Ruderfer

WHITE

So that you can more fully appreciate the effect of game conditions on mental function, diagram four presents a position in which the late Leonid Stein has just played R-N2, allowing an instant breakthrough by white. The game was lost whatever black did but it was probably not Stein's choice to lose so abruptly.

The winning move by white is 1) QxP check! - If . . . PxQ; 2) R-K8 checkmate. If . . . B-Q2 2) QxB check, QxQ; 3) BxQ, KxB; 4) NxP (discovered check) wins the rook.

As you can see, being a grandmaster is not insurance against drastic oversights.

Pollution fight is expensive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bringing existing facilities up to present pollution-control standards could cost American business $22.3 billion, or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year, according to McGraw-Hill's 6th Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

"This year's total investment of pollution abatement will represent 5.9 per cent, or $6.2 billion, of all capital spending — up from 5.1 per cent in 1972," reports Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill's chief economist. "Total outlays in the anti-pollution area are expected to remain near the 6 per cent mark into 1976."

Company offers good advice

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A sign at the Pacific Fire Extinguisher Co. reads:

"Don't make an ash of yourself."

Good sandwich to keep one on a diet? peanut butter and sardines.

Advice is one of the worst things you can take for a cold.

South Ontario, with its open spaces and friendly people, is one of the few spots left in Southern California with old-fashioned room to stretch out, to roam the countryside, to enjoy the outdoor living of yesteryear. But there's nothing old-fashioned about the conveniences of South Ontario! Modern shopping centers and cultural facilities are within minutes — and the schools are numerous and top-ranked. Look over the map above and check the many public and private schools near California Homes, including the new elementary and high schools just across the street. Then come out and see us . . . and discover the open spaces of South Ontario!

POLICEMAN: (Q.) I really need your help. A few days ago I met a COP! He asked me to go out with him some time, and I said OK.

To me, cops are something special. I don't want him to regret ever asking me out. Are there any tips you can give me on how to act or what to say when we're out? I am 18. He is 22 or 23. — Looking Forward in Florida.

(A.) I am glad he is young. You should not date a man much older than yourself, no matter what his work.

You might consider referring to your friend as a police officer, policeman, law officer or something else other than a "cop." Some officers think that word is uncomplimentary.

Be the same with him as you would be with any young man you wanted to know better.

A good friend is a treasure. Winning friends is an art. Some of the secrets are friendliness, knowing and caring about what a prospective friend is interested in, understanding and thoughtfuiness, Respect is also a key ingredient in making friends.

HAIR: (Q.) My parents are really driving me crazy about my hair because I won't get it cut. I'll admit that long hair for boys is going out of style, but I still want it long. My friends all have long hair, and the girls I know like it long.

I think if I'm 15 years old, which I am, I should have a choice about the way I want my hair. Please try to help me! — Long hair in Louisiana.

(A.) You are correct about hair styles. There is a trend toward shorter hair, without sideburns, for males.

But if you and your firends are not ready to change, your parents should be tolerant about it.

I think any human, male or female, should have the freedom to wear his or her hair in the style preferred. Why should we dictate how males wear their hair when females have the freedom to change hair styles any time they wish?

Oscar-winner Hayes using fame to aid other blacks

CHICAGO (UPI) —In four lightning years Academy Award winner Isaac Hayes, "Black Moses", has become a superstar in black entertainment. Now Hayes is using his success to help people less fortunate.

Hayes, 30, won an Oscar for his score of the film "Shaft" in 1972. Shaft opened the door for a new wave of black films. Hollywood quickly realized the dollar potential of black films and the rest is history.

Born in Covington, Tenn., Hayes remembered when he was a child he didn't get a chance to see black entertainers. "Sometimes I would see them in the newspapers or I'd get lucky and see them on television," he said in an interview.

"More and more black entertainers are coming into the neighborhoods now. They are real, you can reach out and touch them.

"Black entertainers are where you can see, they're live, they did it. That's living proof that it can be done. This is what the whole philosophy is about. They don't have to read about them (black entertainers) in Negro history books once a year like we did."

Forms foundation

Hayes formed the Isaac Hayes Foundation three years ago to build low cost housing for poor people and contributed heavily to aid in the fight against sickle cell anemia, a disease that strikes blacks primarily. Hayes said that he had just completed two 36 low income housing units in St. Croix, Virgin Islands. He said the housing complex would be run by the tenants. He is even sponsoring a Little League team within the complex.

"We plan to build more low cost housing in the future," he said.

Hayes said he is sensitive to the needs of all poor people, not only blacks.

"I am constantly saying 'black' because before you do anything, you have to straighten up your own backyard," he said, "but after that you should deal with people in general, not only black but white, Chicanos, Mexicans, the whole thing."

His first commitment is to blacks. "There are still areas where they're being denied and we can't be naive about that," he said.

Singing the blues

On the subject of music, Hayes said black music has always been relevant. During certain times it was only through music that a black artist could express himself.

"Ten years ago a black could not sing about social problems. So he had to express himself in a different way," Hayes said. "The black man has been singing the blues for years."

He said the blues was always considered illiterate and often vulgar. Hayes said only recently has the blues been recognized as a "cultural thing."

"The reason black music has become much more serious now is because black artists have the freedom to express themselves in a lot of different ways."

In commenting on his million seller, "By the Time I Get to Phoenix," Hayes said, "I could relate to Phoenix because I have had experiences that were familiar. I'm sure whoever it touched had experiences or knew of someone who did, because it was so human."

Hayes said he tries to get to the core of any song he does. "I try to arouse the senses. There is a thing about sensuality, I try to touch."

DAINTY DANCE — Merriment characterizes many of the dances to be performed by these and other members of the Ballet Folklorico Mexicano de Graciela Tapia at the Ahmanson Theater of the Los Angeles Music Center Sept. 14 and 15. The performances will celebrate the weekend of Mexico's Independence Day. Tickets are on sale at the box office and Mutual, Liberty and Wallichs ticket agencies.

Francis Drake ship, with engine, at sea

LONDON (UPI) —She ghosted up the River Thames with all flags flying, and the clock seemed to turn back 400 years as the good ship Golden Hinde berthed at the Tower of London Friday.

There was only one problem. No wind.

Ignominiously, the American owned replica of the ship Sir Francis Drake sailed around the world in 1577 had to make the last stage of her first journey with the help of a distinctly modern engine.

Still the ancient-looking 102-foot ship made an impressive sight under the frowning battlements of the grim fortress Drake and his queen, the first Elizabeth, knew well.

On Saturday the Golden Hinde began the career for which she was built —showing herself to paying visitors. For this new ship is bound for San Francisco as a demonstration of the cramped, cockleshell vessels which first explored America.

This Golden Hinde has cost $750,000 so far, and the real payoff for her owners is a long and uncertain way off.

For the plan is to sail her across the Atlantic, without the engine if possible, through the Panama Canal since insurers were not keen about rounding the Horn, and up the Pacific Coast to her final berth near the spot where Drake landed in 1579.

"She seems a fair ship," said Capt. Adrian Small, who sailed her from Plymouth, near the southwest English port where she was built, to London over the past 17 days.

"She's new, and it's very early to tell how she'll handle," Small said, fingering the sword hung at his side by a thick leather belt across the chest. "She's slow. But I think we'll make it."

The Golden Hinde almost didn't make it out to sea, much less across one. Inspectors for the British Board of Trade decided she was unseaworthy and insisted 35 tons of ballast be added to the keel, not to mention such un-16th-century touches as ship-to-shore radio and fire extinguishers everywhere in the all-wooden craft.

But the new Golden Hinde looks impressively old. Her towering cliff-like wooden sides have been tarred, her forest of spars looks knocked about and the spider's web of rigging on her three stumpy masts seems purposeful and used.

Small said future plans were uncertain. The new Golden Hinde may tackle the Atlantic next spring or wait until next fall, he said.

Watercolor expert to demonstrate

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Watercolorist Kolan Peterson will give a demonstration at the year's first meeting of the Heights Art Association at the county library, 16010 La-Monde St., at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A native of Utah, Peterson now lives in Hemet and was president of the Hemet Valley Art Association for two years. His awards include the first place Professional Trophy Award at the Farmers Fair in 1970, and second in the Rancho California Invitational Show in 1972.

The demonstration is open to the public.

Self service coming fast

BOEBLINGEN, Germany (UPI) — Half of West Germany's service stations will be converted into self-service places by 1980 an oil company predicts.

A survey by the Shell Oil Co. showed 44 per cent of all motorists prefer to service their cars themselves. Shell predicted that by 1980 Germany's 44,000 gasoline stations will be reduced to 30,000 and only half of them will be manned.

TULARE (UPI) —Tulare County sheriff's deputies reported that vandals severed 800 young grape vines at the James Abercrombie Ranch here.

Inland ports

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI) — Duluth and neighboring Superior, Wis. lie more than 2,340 miles by canal and lake routes inland from the Atlantic Ocean. Ocean-going vessels make the voyage from the Atlantic along the Great Lakes in an average of seven days. The ships traverse several locks and climb 600 feet above sea level to dock here.

STOMACH TROUBLE GONE

SOLITUDE
ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY PINES!

Here's a secluded kind of apartment luxury living that you haven't seen before.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

I DON'T KNOW WHAT'S WRONG WITH ME, MR. TRACY, I JUST DON'T KNOW!
WELL FOR ONE THING, JIM, YOUR KARATE IS LOUSY.
I'M NO GOOD, MR. TRACY! I HATE THE WORLD!
I'M SUPPOSED TO BE PART OF THE FRONT OF LOVE AND GENTLENESS, BUT I HATE THEM BOTH.
MY BIAS KNOWS NO BOUNDS! ANYONE WHO THINKS AND ACTS DIFFERENTLY FROM ME -I HATE!
"JIM, YOUR TROUBLE IS THE WORLD'S TROUBLE".
SOMEWHERE IN YOUR BRINGING UP, THEY FORGOT YOUR COMPASS. THEY NEGLECTED TO GIVE YOU A SENSE OF DIRECTION.
THEY LEFT OUT ONE IMPORTANT INGREDIENT– GOD'S TEN COMMANDMENTS. YOU GOT SHORT-CHANGED.
FAMILY FAITH THAT TEACHES REVERENCE AND RESPECT AND PEACE WITHIN, THAT'S YOUR REAL SHORTAGE.
"IN YOUR DAYS AHEAD YOU'LL HAVE TIME TO READ AND THINK ABOUT THESE THINGS."
I DON'T BUY EVERYTHING YOU'RE SAYING, COPPER.
IF YOU BUY JUST A PART OF IT, JIM, YOU'LL BE A LOT HAPPIER AND SO WILL I.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—Cut off and save the hems from worn-out pillowcases and insert a yardstick inside one for cleaning hard-to-get-at places such as underneath refrigerators, etc.—MRS. C. W.

DEAR POLLY—I was always losing my socks, but no more. I put all of my socks in a nylon bag (onions came in it originally) and since most of them are blue or black and only distinguishable from one another by pattern, I pin each pair together before they go in the hamper. —HAL

(Polly's Note—Just be sure the safety pins are rustproof and that the bag colors do not run.)

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—When working on a macrame project such as a belt I find it is quite easy to do the work on an empty fabric bolt that a store will usually give you. The pins stay in this well and it is the right size to lean against a table or place on your lap.—LES

DEAR POLLY—When a frosted cake slithers all around and the top layer is in real danger of sliding off I firmly anchor the layers together with a couple of thin steel knitting needles instead of toothpicks (those can be a hazard). The knitting needles can be removed easily at the last minute without going through the needle-in-the-haystack routine that toothpicks demand.—MRS. W. W. M.

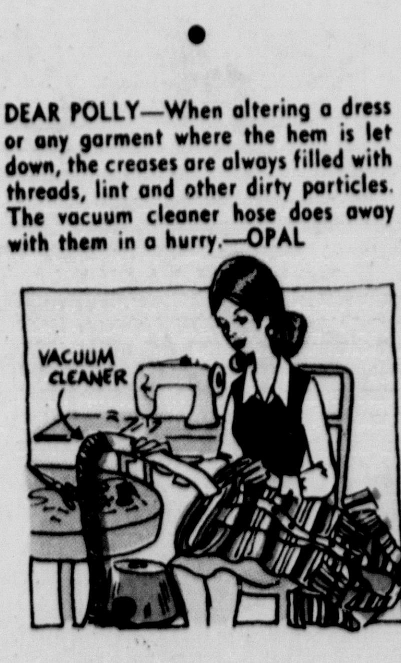
DEAR POLLY—When altering a dress or any garment where the hem is let down, the creases are always filled with threads, lint and other dirty particles. The vacuum cleaner hose does away with them in a hurry.—OPAL



VACUUM CLEANER

DEAR POLLY—To save time when baking a cake with a cake mix that calls for the pan to be greased and floured, I use a tablespoon of the dry cake mix instead of the flour and it works very well.—MRS. L. A.

DEAR POLLY—Here's a tip for those sewers who have a lot of cutting to do, particularly for such things as curtains: If there is no cutting space handy, they can use a smooth flush door. I pulled the hinge pins out of one, placed one end of the door on top of the ironing board at one end and on two chairs at the other end and found it made a most successful cutting table.—MRS. T. A.

DEAR POLLY—My baby uses so many bibs I now make most satisfactory and inexpensive ones. I buy soft, inexpensive washcloths in bright colors, cut a half-circle at the top for the neck and bind with bias tape, which is put on so that enough is left at each end for ties. Such a bib is easy to care for and can be used to wipe up a messy baby after his meal. —MARY BETH

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:
"WHY DOES A BOAT FLOAT ?"
S.S. AM
COMPTON'S Encyclopedia

FOR AN OBJECT TO FLOAT, IT MUST BE "LIGHT" ENOUGH TO BE BUOYED, OR HELD UP, BY THE WATER. A BOAT CAN FLOAT BECAUSE IT HAS A HOLLOW HULL. WHEN YOU PUT A BOAT IN THE WATER, THE WATER THE BOAT'S BIG HULL DISPLACES, OR PUSHES ASIDE, WEIGHS MORE THAN THE WHOLE BOAT ITSELF, AND THE BOAT BECOMES "LIGHT" ENOUGH TO FLOAT. A BOAT WILL FLOAT AS LONG AS IT NEVER WEIGHS MORE THAN THE WATER ITS HULL PUSHES ASIDE.

NBC

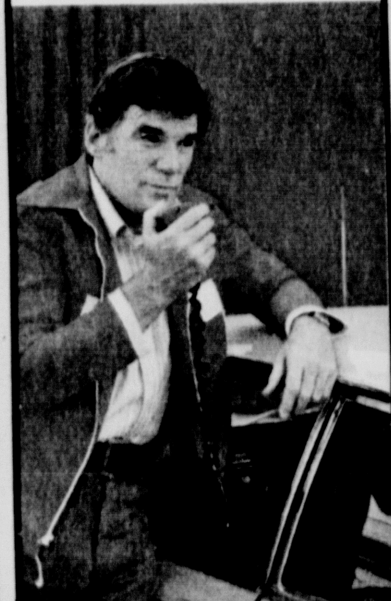
A one-hour dramatic series involving five Los Angeles policemen who form a quasi-official unit designated to handle major criminal cases that other departments cannot solve. The squad, which divorces itself from official uniform, is headed by Capt. Chase Reddick (Mitchell Ryan). Reid Smith portrays Norm Hamilton, expert helicopter pilot; Michael Richardson is Steve Baker, hot rod/car expert; Brian Fong portrays Fred Sing, who rides his own custom motorcycle; Wayne Maunder is Sgt. Sam MacCray, supervisor of the younger officers and a specialist with trained police dogs; and Albert Reed appears as Inspector Frank Dawson, the squad chief's only contact with the police department.

TUESDAYS 8PM

CHASE



NBC

An hour-long musical variety series featuring comedians, top singers, variety acts and a chorus line. Sammy Davis Jr. will be just one of the headliners. Each hour is presented on a proscenium arch stage, complete with gliding curtain and music conductor in the orchestra pit. There will be no host, no customary patter between numbers and no interruptions in the entertainment . . . except for commercials.

THURSDAYS 10PM

NBC FOLLIES

NBC

Sally Field and John Davidson co-star in this half-hour romantic comedy series about a young married couple facing all of the typical problems of newlyweds . . . plus one . . . SHE has extrasensory perception! Sally and John Burton's lives are complicated by the fact that Sally knows what John (or anyone else for that matter) is thinking, or going to say, before he says or does it. Jack Sheldon is featured as John's brother, Jerry; and Zohra Lampert portrays Anne, an artist and co-owner of a boutique with Sally.

FRIDAYS 8:30PM

THE GIRL WITH SOMETHING EXTRA

NBC

Comedian Dom DeLuise stars as bachelor Stanley Belmont in this comedy series adapted from the British hit "On the Buses." Belmont, a man in his 30s, works as a clerk in the lost and found department of a New York City bus line. Stanley is beset by a variety of problems at work AND at home . . . where he must support his mother (Kathleen Freeman), his married sister Olive Swann (Beverly Sanders) and his "unemployable" brother-in-law Arthur Swann (Wynn Irwin). Jack Knight appears as Stanley's friend and neighbor, Bummy.

FOCUS '73

SPECIAL NOTE FROM THE EDITOR: What with the Watergate Hearings, the gas shortage, beef shortage, skyrocketing food prices and grain shortages, it has been a most irritating summer for most of us. TV WEEK is sorry to have to add to that irritation by being forced to provide you with a somewhat "edited" down version of the annual Premiere Issue of TV Week, encompassing information on the new season's offerings by the networks. Due to another SHORTAGE—this time it's newsprint paper stock—we've been placed on a limited monthly allotment of paper that enables us to "just meet" our weekly commitments of TV WEEK. A bigger and better edition (as has been the case each year for the Premiere Issue) would mean that we would NOT have paper to print the regular weekly issues at the end of the year. Therefore, for the month of September, we will endeavor to provide you with information on each of the new shows during the week they premiere on TV. With the limited space allowed us, we will still do our very best to keep you informed of what's happening and provide you with an up-to-date log of each week's programs. We extend our apologies and ask that you bear with us through this "lean" period.

on THE COVER

ADAM'S RIB
ABC FRIDAYS 9:30PM

Ken Howard and Blythe Danner star—as Adam and Amanda Bonner—in this romantic comedy based on the early motion picture starring Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy. The couple are both practicing attorneys, he an Assistant District Attorney on the rise and she a full partner in a respectable law office. Dena Dietrich co-stars as Grace, Amanda's secretary; Edward Winter is Kipple, Amanda's law partner; and Ron Rifkin portrays Roy, Adam's associate in the D.A.'s office.

DIANA
NBC MONDAYS 8:30PM

Unexpected apartment "drop-ins" and the frenetic activities of a New York department store provide the basis for this half-hour situation comedy starring Diana Rigg as Diana Smythe. A divorcee seeking a new life in America as a fashion coordinator, she works in the merchandising and advertising departments of Butley's Department Store on Fifth Avenue. David Sheiner co-stars as Norman Brodnik, president of the store; Barbara Barrie is Mrs. Brodnik; Richard B. Schull is Howard Tolbrook, Diana's co-worker; Carol Androsky is Holly Green, a zany tenant in Diana's apartment building; and Robert Moore portrays Reginald "Reggie" Dubois, the window-dresser at the store.

CALUCCI'S DEPT.
CBS FRIDAYS 8PM

Video-taped in New York, this half-hour comedy series stars James Coco as the head of a state unemployment office that is staffed by a bunch of bureaucratic eccentrics. Co-starring are Candy Azzara as Shirley Balukis, Jose Perez as Gonzales, Jack Fletcher as Cosgrove, Peggy Pope as Elaine Fusco, Bill Lazarus as Woods, and Bernard Wexler as Frohler.

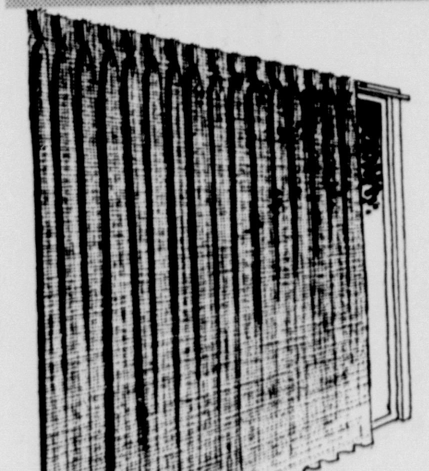
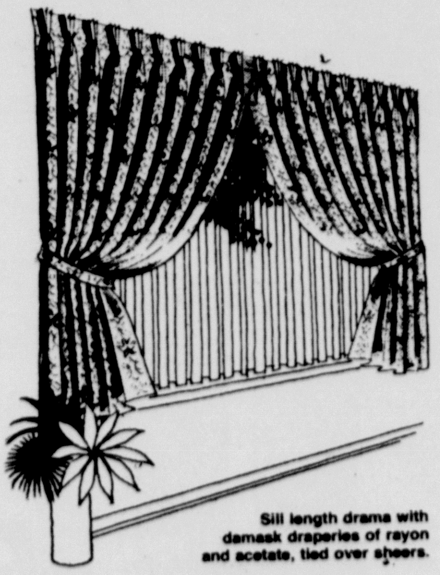
SAVE 20%-25%-30%! Made-to-Measure Draperies

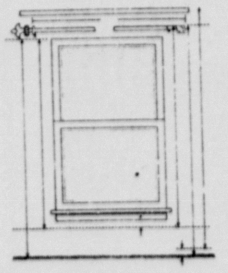
You help us measure. And we'll help you save! With Sears made-to-measure draperies, the only place we skimp is on the price. Take your window measurements. Then, choose from our great selection of fabrics and colors. Open or closed weave casements. Multicolored and monotone textures. Florals and prints. Formal fabrics. Sheers. You'll receive beautifully tailored draperies.



A colorful one-way draw casement can be the answer for a sliding glass door.

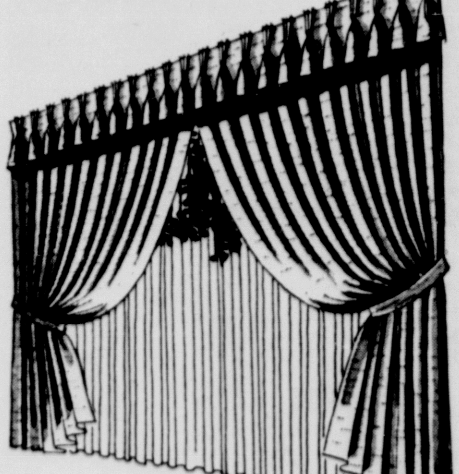


Sill length drama with damask draperies of rayon and acetate, tied over sheers.

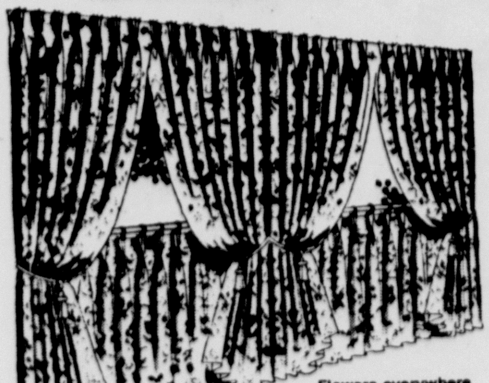


HOW TO MEASURE

For width, measure the width of a conventional rod plus right and left projection from wall. With decorative rod, measure distance between the end rings. For length, measure from the top of conventional rod, to desired length. Ask a salesperson for any help you need.



Go formal with rayon and acetate valance and draperies over coordinating sheers.



Flowers everywhere. Gathered up with tiebacks for a graceful feeling.

Must Doctors' Ethics Change?

Some Mind-Boggling Questions From Medicine's Brave New World

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DON SHULA, Miami Dolphins football coach

What are the main ingredients for your successful coaching in the National Football League?—Richard Böye, Elkart Lake, Wis.

● I'm just a guy who rolls up his sleeves and goes to work. I don't have peace of mind until I know I've given the game everything I can, because the whole idea is to get an edge somehow. Sometimes it takes just a little extra something to get that edge. I try to do it with mental and physical preparation. Of course, I know that the people we play have the same goal—winning—so I try to put more effort into our preparation than they do into theirs. You set a goal to be the best, then work hard to reach that goal. If you let yourself settle for anything less than No. 1, you're cheating yourself.

FOR SHIRLEY JONES, actress

I hear that you are going to add a new member to your television "Partridge Family." True?—Cynthia Easton, Hillsborough, Calif.

● Yes. Four-year-old Ricky Segall will play the son of our next-door neighbors. He likes to visit the family because he feels free to "sing my little heart out." He will sing a solo in each episode.

FOR BOBBY RIGGS, tennis star

At first I thought your bit about beating the leading female professional stars was just a way to pick up money and publicity. Now I hear talk from the ladies about making a victory over you a "cause." Do you have a cause yourself?—John Collins, Atlantic City, N.J.

● Yes. I personally believe women should stay home and do kitchen work. I'm going to put these women back where they belong.

FOR ALICE COOPER, rock singer

Who created your image?—Sandy Henley, Hobart, Ind.

● I know it's not my father, who is an engineer and ordained minister in Phoenix, Ariz., because he's often said, "It is quite a shock when you expect to sire a gospel missionary and instead you get a rebel rock star." On the other hand, my father's first name is Esther—so who knows?

FOR ANITA LOOS, author

You have done well writing books like "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," in which beautiful but "dumb" women get the better of rich and "smart" men. Do you believe that women are smarter than men?—Mrs. R. F. Hunt, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● It's true that women are brainier than men, but we should keep this fact quiet because it could ruin our whole racket.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, pro football star

How do you feel about the proposal to give urinalysis tests to players in order to detect use of drugs?—John Morrissey, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I'm against it. I don't take "bennies" or anything else, but I don't like anyone forcing me to take a test. I'm a human being. Urine tests are okay for cows or horses, but I am not an animal. I spend a lot of time going all over the country talking about the evils of drugs. Now the league officials just about make me and every other NFL player a suspect.

FOR SID CAESAR

As far as you know, did any of your comedy material ever offend anyone?—M. T. T., Garrison, N.Y.

● I once portrayed a musician who wore funny clothes and thick glasses. I got a letter from a woman in Baltimore who worked in a clinic for children with poor eyesight. She said the character made the children feel self-conscious—so I changed it. I would never consciously offend anyone.

FOR GARY PLAYER, South African golfer

Another pro golfer from a foreign country has stated that the U.S. Open championship does not mean much to foreign golfers. Is this true?—Frank Allen, Green Bay, Wis.

● No. If you gave me my choice of $1 million or a U.S. National Open championship, I would take the Open.

FOR CYBILL SHEPHERD, actress

Do you go to see your own movies?—H. H. M., Wamac, Ill.

● No. I never even see daily takes while I'm making a movie, because I want to be as natural as possible. I would rather act intuitively than methodically, and not be dependent on specific directing. I think it's sad that the great Marilyn Monroe needed her drama coach to the end.

FOR SEN. ROMAN L. HRUSKA (R-Neb.)

With gasoline supplies so tight, can't a substitute be found?—B. H., North Platte, Neb.

● Several years ago, the state of Nebraska experimented on something called "gasohol." It explored the utilization of alcohol distilled from grain and blended on a basis of ten percent alcohol to 90 percent gasoline. It was found that this mix can be successfully burned in any existing automobiles. Now seems an ideal time to explore the possibility of developing this resource.

Doctors' Ethics in Upheaval:

Tough Questions from the Brave New World of Medicine

"When the doctor came back, he saw to his relief that the baby was no longer breathing. The next morning he called the Hastings Center to ask, 'What do you think I should have done?'"

By Bruce Hilton

Ten years ago, life was simpler. So was the medical profession. The lines between life and death, right and wrong, were relatively clear and unquestioned.

This is no longer the case.

For two years I was a senior staff member of the Hastings Center, based in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. The Center brings together scientists and physicians with lawyers, philosophers and others to examine the ethical dilemmas arising from the "biomedical revolution." Below are just a few of the hundreds of knotty problems the Center has studied, and which doctors are encountering every day (names and details have been changed to protect anonymity). Most of these cases would not have come up ten years ago. None of them has an easy answer, but each demands an answer. Judge for yourself. You're the doctor. What would your answers be?

Elizabeth Gee

"She said nothing after the first experience of being strapped to the table, given a sedative, and jolted into a convulsion by the shock. But two days later she rebelled. 'That was torture!' she screamed. 'I won't let you touch me again!'"

THE FETUS THAT WAS A BABY

Mrs. L., a mother with five children, had come to a major big-city hospital for a therapeutic abortion. The child, she said, had been unplanned and was unwanted.

The operation was normal right up to the time Dr. B., the young physician on duty, realized that he was holding not an inert fetus, but a living, breathing premature baby.

What should he do? Placed quickly in an incubator, the baby would undoubtedly survive. Left alone, it would die. And there was no senior physician on duty to ask.

Looking much more calm than he really was, Dr. B. saw to the mother's needs, had the baby placed in a bassinet, and went to the cafeteria "for a smoke and time to think it over."

The author, Bruce Hilton, is now director of the National Center for Bio-Ethics a nonprofit organization whose role is to foster public awareness of ethical and social problems arising out of the "new biology."

When he came back, he saw to his relief that the baby was no longer breathing.

The next morning he called the Hastings Center to ask, "What do you think I should have done?"

While the Center doesn't function as a counseling group, the staff did come up with these questions that might be part of the decision:

How much importance should be given to the mother's intent? To her ability to raise the child? To the rights of the child to life? To the rights of the brothers and sisters?

What about the possibility that the saline solution used to start the abortion could have caused brain damage in the baby?

And who should have made the decision anyway? Should the mother have been consulted?

The discussion produced no easy answer. But the staff, now at least, had some of the questions that would help them make such decisions in the future.

FORCIBLE SHOCK THERAPY

Mrs. F. had become deeply despondent and quarrelsome after her husband's death, and wasn't being helped by her psychiatrist.

She signed herself into the psychiatric ward of a private hospital for shock therapy. She had to sign a consent form before submitting to the treatment.

She said nothing after the first experience of being strapped to the table, given a sedative, and jolted into a convulsion by the shock. But two days later she rebelled. "That was torture!" she screamed. "I won't let you touch me again!"

The psychiatrist used every means to get her to continue. But she remained firm in her refusal, and only the locked door kept her from running away.

The staff met, and the majority decided to continue treatment. Kicking and screaming, Mrs. F. was carried back into the treatment room.

Later, in Center discussions, a psychiatric nurse argued that the full course of treatment was necessary for success, and that to stop before it was over could leave the patient in worse condition than before.

Once Mrs. F. signed the agreement, it was argued, she became the responsibility of the hospital staff, who had to do what was best for her own good. She could not withdraw consent—especially since her change of mind might be a symptom of her disease.

On the other hand, a physician-attorney argued, forcible treatment should be used only for a patient judged by a court to be unable to choose for himself —that is, one who's been legally committed. To force a voluntary patient like Mrs. F. to undergo treatment she doesn't want is clearly a violation of her rights, he said.

BUYING "DISCOUNT" BLOOD

With the growing need for blood in this country, a commercial firm found a profitable business: importing 10,000 liters of blood plasma each month from Haiti. Poorer citizens there could make as much as $182 a year selling blood.

Is such commerce ethical? Those who defended the practice pointed out that the money was helping the local economy to the tune of some half-million dollars a year, and putting food on the tables of many who might have gone hungry. It also brought badly needed plasma to the U.S.

Critics argued that the practice demeaned the donors and threatened their health, and that it eased the pressure to develop a better blood exchange system within the U.S. The extraordinary poverty of the Haitians meant they did not have the freedom to say no; any offer was one they couldn't refuse.

Finally, critics suggested, making blood a salable and importable commodity opened the door for an international commercial traffic in kidneys and hearts.

The question became moot when the man who arranged the deal fell out of favor with the Haitian regime, and the company lost its contract. But it—or a similar venture—will surely pop up elsewhere.

IT'S A GIRL—ABORTION FOR SEX REASONS

Mrs. S., the 38-year-old mother of a boy and two girls, told her physician she feared her child might have Down's syndrome—mongolism, which is more common among children of mothers over 35. She asked for a relatively new test called amniocentesis, which reveals the child's condition—and its sex.

Dr. L., using a needle through the abdominal wall, drew out some of the fluid surrounding the fetus, and examined the chromosomes.

"There's good news," he told Mrs. S. "Your baby won't be mongoloid."

"But what sex is it?" she asked. And when she learned the baby would be a girl—she asked for an abortion.

Shocked, the doctor discovered from Mrs. S. and her husband that their real concern all along had been the desire to have another boy!

Aside from the ethical question of the lie to the doctor, other questions arise:

Is sex determination alone a sufficient reason for undergoing the amniocentesis —a relatively safe procedure, but which carries a risk of one to two percent for the fetus? And in a male-dominated society, what would be the effect on the boy-girl ratio if parents could select?

Assuming there are some genetic diseases so severe that early detection and abortion would be morally acceptable, just what is a genetic "defect"? Is being an unwanted gender a defect? Is conceiving a child with the intent of destroying it if it's the wrong sex any different from infanticide?

On the positive side, it has been argued that being able to select the sex of one's child, even by such a drastic measure, would help slow the population boom, since many "extra" babies come from attempts to beget a child of the desired sex. And those who favor free abortion for any and all reasons suggest sex determination is as good a reason as any.

IS YOUR BABY A CRIMINAL?

This time it was the physician who was tempted to lie. Mrs. R. was another older mother who wanted to rule out the possibility that her baby had Down's syndrome, and the tests indeed showed the fetus to be unaffected.

But the examination did turn up an extra "Y" chromosome in the baby's cells—and there is evidence that such "XYY males" may be somewhat more prone to crimes of violence than the general population.

The physician's dilemma was this: Should he tell Mrs. R.?

On the "no" side, he argued with himself that she had not asked him to check for the XYY syndrome—only for mongolism. And what would it do to the way she reared her son if she knew? Would she panic each time he threw a temper tantrum? Would she overprotect him, or damage him psychologically with her nervousness?

On the "yes" side was the trust the patient places in her physician, and his obligation to honor it. And, he asked, doesn't a patient have an inherent right to know the whole truth, even if it hurts? And, pragmatically: If the boy one day was one of that small minority of XYY males who end up behind bars, could the parents sue the physician for withholding the truth?

There are more than two pickups to choose from.

It seems that whenever most people consider buying a pickup they only consider the two biggies, Ford and Chevy.

Unfortunately, they don't know what they're missing.

The Other Pickup — International.

The Other Pickup has everything going for it except a familiar name. We have a smooth ride. Easy handling. Safety features like a collapsible steering column and a fuel tank located outside the cab.

We give you 13 colors to choose from, four different color-keyed interiors, and luxuries you don't often see in a truck.

You can have torsion bar suspension for easy handling or leaf spring suspension for heavy loads.

Or automatic transmission. Power steering. Power brakes. Or our exclusive anti-skid system.

After you've looked at the Ford and Chevy Pickup, look at us. The Other Pickup.

The Franklin Mint announces a limited edition of

Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories

IN SOLID STERLING SILVER

Norman Rockwell has just completed a series of ten new works of art to be issued exclusively in the form of sterling silver ingots. Subscriptions for First Edition Proof Sets of this new Rockwell collection will be accepted only if they are postmarked by September 15, 1973.

FOR MORE than half a century, the art of Norman Rockwell has brought joy to the hearts of millions of Americans, young and old.

Now this great artist, at the summit of his career, looks back at the people and the country he loves . . . and portrays his fondest memories in the enduring medium of sterling silver.

Original Rockwell Art

Norman Rockwell has created ten original works of art exclusively for this collection of sterling silver ingots. These ten works will never be produced in any other form.

The First Edition should be of special interest to knowledgeable collectors. Not only because of the importance of the work itself—but also because the First Edition will be the only Proof-quality, hallmarked and serially numbered edition.

The artist speaks about his newest works

"I suppose I'm just a sentimentalist," says Norman Rockwell in describing this series. "I like to show people in happy and tender moments of their lives—sometimes with a little touch of humor. These are the things about people I remember most fondly."

Rockwell has now depicted his "fondest memories," exclusively for this collection, with that special brand of magic that is his alone.

The joy of kids romping at the old swimming hole. The pleasure of old friends meeting around a pot-belly stove. The pride of a Boy Scout carrying the flag in a parade down Main Street. The tenderness of a young girl helping her grandmother with her knitting. The warmth and devotion of a family enjoying a holiday dinner together.

Ten precious moments, ten cherished memories, each one sensitively portrayed by the best-loved American artist of our time.

The genius of Norman Rockwell

Each of "Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories" has been captured in a distinctive form: a sterling silver ingot measuring 2" x 2½" and containing 1500 grains of sterling silver. The famous signature of NORMAN ROCKWELL will appear on each ingot. And the complete set will be struck by The Franklin Mint, the world's foremost private mint.

The hallmarked First Edition Proof Set is available exclusively to subscribers whose orders are postmarked by September 15, 1973.

Build your collection on a convenient monthly basis

Regardless of how high the price of silver may escalate, we guarantee to send you the complete collection of these solid sterling silver ingots at the original issue price of $25 per ingot. You will receive the first ingot in October. Each month thereafter, for nine months, an additional ingot will be sent to you. You will enjoy the pleasure of seeing your collection steadily grow. And within ten months, your collection of "Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories" will be complete.

To house the complete collection, a handsome collector's case fitted with a hardwood display frame will be provided at no additional cost. The collection may thus be kept in the case or proudly displayed on the wall.

An heirloom collection

Any new work by an artist of the stature of Norman Rockwell is likely to become an important heirloom. This new Rockwell series is particularly desirable—not only for its beauty and intrinsic value but because it is the first time the work of this beloved artist has ever appeared in ingot form. The only previous medallic issues of Norman Rockwell's work have been the Rockwell Christmas Plates and the "Spirit of Scouting" medals—both Franklin Mint issues which are highly prized today and much sought after by collectors.

Now this new series—"Norman Rockwell's Fondest Memories"—can bring you many years of pleasure and provide a treasured legacy you can pass along to your children and grandchildren.

Subscriptions close September 15, 1973

To acquire this important new Rockwell collection, your subscription must be sent to The Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pennsylvania 19063 and postmarked by September 15, 1973. There is a strict limit of one First Edition Proof Set per subscriber.

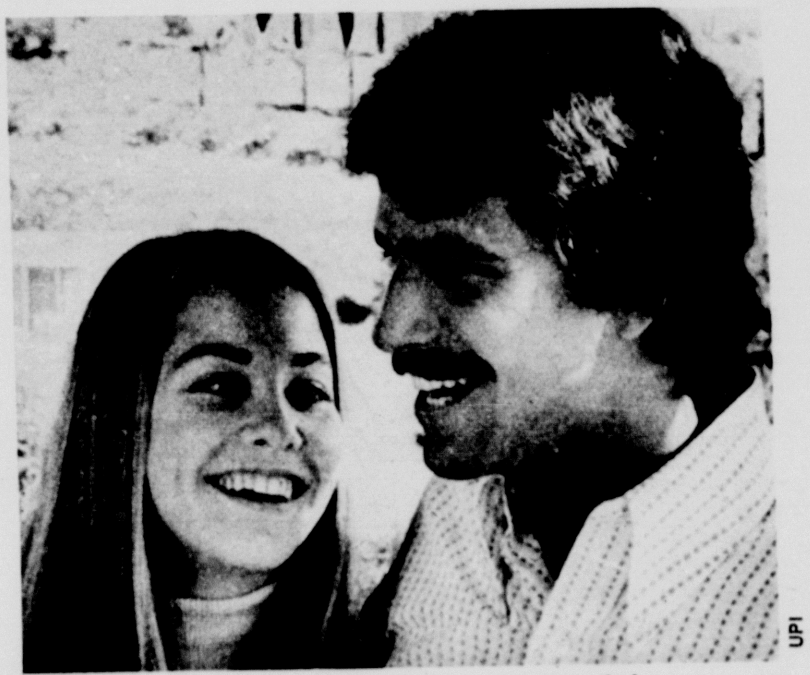
"Mark Spitz, You're 23 — What Do You Do for a Living?"

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

"Sometimes it gets embarrassing. People will come up and say, 'Are you really Mark Spitz?' Sometimes it also gets funny. I get offered an awful lot of free glasses of milk!"



Mark poses with his bride, Susan. They met because their fathers were in scrap iron.

UPI

We talked in the office of his publicist, Jay Bernstein, one of the multitude of people who currently surround swimmer-turned-endorser/hopes-to-be-actor Mark Spitz. He wore blue jeans, a white-and-blue plaid shirt and tennis shoes. To my surprise, he did not insist upon his publicist's attending the interview. When I'd met Mark at a previous press conference, he was surrounded by so many advisers, I had wondered if he had a mind of his own.

FAMILY WEEKLY: You seem to have made a career of becoming an endorser. Do you mind not having a profession?

MARK: Being an endorser is a profession. Whatever I do sells products. It's a basis of our society—to appeal to the public. After all, look at the cigarettes. They use a lot of beautiful women because they appeal to men who might smoke cigarettes.

FW: Then you don't mind being just an endorser?

MARK: Why should I? A lot of people like Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer do it as well. They cash in on what they're good at.

FW: But they don't spend all of their time endorsing. They play a pretty good game of golf on the side.

MARK: That's true, but they can't afford to live the way they do from what they earn, like $20,000 a game—something like that. That's why they are endorsers. They don't mind making a buck endorsing things.

FW: Just how many products do you endorse?

MARK: I've signed contracts with seven corporations and am discussing other deals but it is too early to talk about them.

FW: What do you actually do besides give your name?

MARK: I help coordinate the products I endorse. I inject my opinions. I wouldn't endorse anything I didn't thoroughly believe in. People like to believe in something, follow someone, identify. That's why I think I work out as an endorser. Young people want to identify with me.

FW: I understand you were offered a lot of acting roles. Have you settled on a film yet?

MARK: No. We are in the process of making a presentation of my first movie to the public. It takes 100 percent effort to get it going.

FW: What does it depend on?

MARK: Money. We have to find someone who will finance it.

FW: What kind of a part will you play in the film?

MARK: A young man—me.

FW: You mean a swimmer?

MARK: No, because people expect me to be a swimmer.

FW: Then someone entirely different?

MARK: Well, no, because if I play a bank robber, people might say "He's supposed to be a swimmer—how can he be a bank robber?" And I don't want to be identified with one type like Sally Struthers. She's in a series and can't do anything else. Same with Carroll O'Connor. He's Archie Bunker. I couldn't see him in a serious role. Or Lucille Ball. She's always Lucy. You can't see her in a serious part. And I wouldn't want to be known as Mark Spitz, the swimmer.

FW: If you feel people won't accept you in an entirely different role, what can you do?

MARK: I expect to play a character who is athletic and extremely motivated to win.

FW: I've heard various stories how you met your wife. What's the true one?

MARK: Well—I initiated it, but indirectly it was through our fathers that we got together. Both of our parents are in scrap iron. At least, mine used to be —he's now working for me . . . I mean, he's now working with me. The two men had a mutual friend and he had dinner with us one night and told me that if I ever came to Los Angeles, I should look up Herman Weiner's beautiful daughter. I looked her up, and that's how we became acquainted.

FW: In films, the director guides the actor; in acting school the drama coach does it. Isn't that just about the same as a swimming coach telling a swimmer what to do?

MARK: No one told me what to do for the last six years. I was just pampered.

FW: What did the coach do for you?

MARK: He was someone I could talk to. The workout I could do myself.

FW: But you think coaches are necessary?

MARK: They are—even after I became a successful champion swimmer I had to have one. It's a psychological necessity to have someone to talk to, to get psyched up. He provides a sounding board.

FW: What about Munich?

MARK: What about Munich!

FW: Why did you leave so hurriedly?

MARK: I didn't run away from any threats. I was already three and a half weeks late for dental school, and I couldn't wait around any longer. If I had stayed to the end of the second week of the Olympics, I would have had to take off a year.

FW: Was your life ever actually threatened?

MARK: No. If they had wanted to get me they could have and would have. Besides, if I would have stayed on in Munich, what could I have done?

FW: You had only one semester of dental school. What made you decide to give up dentistry?

MARK: When I got hepatitis early this year. It gave me time to think, and I figured with all the endorsements I'm giving, I would have no time for school or to practice oral surgery when I graduated. Besides, I like to win. I didn't want to be just another person doing a job. I like to be the best at whatever I am doing.

FW: Why did you pick oral surgery in the first place?

MARK: Because I love to work with my hands. I love to do mechanical things. Swimming, in a way, is a mechanical effort.

FW: What does financial success mean to you?

MARK: To be my own boss, to do what I want to do, to take time off as I want to.

FW: But what is it you want with the money? Couldn't you have made enough as an oral surgeon?

MARK: I looked into that too when I got started. The average doctor makes between $15,000 and $20,000 a year. Very few make over $100,000.

FW: What kind of a car do you have now?

MARK: A Mercedes 450.

FW: And your bride?

MARK: She has the same car.

FW: Do you like all the attention you get?

MARK: Sometimes it gets embarrassing. People will come up and say, "Are you really Mark Spitz?" Sometimes it also gets funny. I get offered an awful lot of free glasses of milk!

FW: Where do you think you got hepatitis?

MARK: I am told I may have caught it at the Olympic Games in Munich. I was in such great shape, it took that long to catch up with me.

THE KIDNEY FAMINE

Ralph S. advertised that he would pay $3,000 to the donor of a healthy kidney. Ralph suffered from total kidney failure, and his ad said he would commit suicide unless a transplant made it possible to end his sessions on the kidney machine.

On the day his notice appeared, 25 accident victims were buried in his state —most of them taking two healthy, transplantable kidneys to the grave with them.

Ralph's state, like others, has passed the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act, permitting people to carry cards willing healthy organs to others .

But as Ralph found out, very few people carry the cards, and there are not enough kidneys to go around. (It's estimated that more than 7,500 persons in the country have fatal kidney disease; fewer than 4,000 have access to kidney machines, and there are enough kidneys for only 1,500 transplants a year—leaving at least 2,000 people without hope. Some put the figure at twice that.)

Should the law be changed to make all healthy organs of the dead available for transplant? That is, unless the victim carries a card forbidding such use?

If the city can condemn a strip of private land for the public good, does it have the right—or duty—to "condemn" organs no longer of use to their original owners, for the survival of others?

BRAIN SURGERY OR IMPRISONMENT?

Ernest M., 38, is a huge, bright, good-natured and successful salesman—except once or twice a year when he flies into an uncontrollable rage. Then he may use his 265 pounds to fight seven police officers to a draw, or put his fist through a concrete block in his cell.

As the result of one such episode, and a subsequent courtroom threat to the judge, he now faces the equivalent of a life sentence in solitary confinement—in a hospital for the criminally insane.

Ernest's symptoms are similar to those of a rare form of epilepsy, associated with damage to the brain. And some neurosurgeons have had success in ending such attacks by making a tiny incision in one section of the brain.

But neurosurgeons have so far refused Ernest's case because there is no observable physical damage to his brain.

Should they take the case, and perhaps release Ernest from spending the rest of his life alone, under lock and key?

Those who say "no" would include those who oppose all psychosurgery (surgery on the brain for behavioral disorders), usually saying that the side effects are unpredictable, that there may be a blunting effect on the patient's emotional responses. They also say that slicing away some of a man's emotions means killing a part of him.

Others would argue that many operations have been performed without apparent side effects, that the patient has a right to treatment after all other methods have failed, even if there is no apparent physical damage—and that life on the outside with his family, even if the worst happens, would be preferable to a living death behind bars.

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya takes you on a beauty safari starring two young Americans. "One reward in this business," she says, "is to see how a change of appearance can affect a girl's personality. Gay and Dianne went to Europe as teenagers. When they came back, they had blossomed into women!"

A study in contrasts, Dianne is a former "Miss Bricelyn," has won the President's Physical Fitness Award, and is a fine clarinet and saxophone player. Dianne's happy reaction: "It was such a change—I hardly recognized me."

"Before." Dianne tours London before getting the beauty "works" at two prominent salons.

The last thing Dianne Risius ever thought she had was an exquisite set of cheekbones! Her new beauty asset emerged after an exciting one-day make-over session in London that included cosmetic and hairstyle transformations.

Dianne, who lives in Bricelyn, Minn. (she gets FAMILY WEEKLY in the Albert Lea Tribune), was one of the three finalists in the annual coast-to-coast hairstyling contest sponsored by John H. Breck, Inc. As a finalist she was given a trip to Europe in addition to a college scholarship. Here's how Dianne's exclusive make-over began:

The first stop on her beauty safari was the Michaeljohn salon, a young "with-it" establishment known for the elegant heads it turns out, from Princess Anne to Elizabeth Taylor.

Enter Dianne, whose hair is immediately swooped up and away from her face to the cry, "Look what it does for her cheekbones and how it adds height!" The Michaeljohn philosophy "that a woman doesn't start from the neck up, that you can't isolate the head, but must look at the whole shape" was beginning to take root. There remained one problem. Since a good cut is what any top hairdresser recommends and the trend is toward short, manageable hair, the stylist began sharpen-

Don't Let This Summer Destroy Your Complexion

The summer months may be a recreation season for you, but a near-disaster for your complexion. You enjoy a change of pace that ought to bring your face a relaxed, younger-looking expression. But instead you may end the three-month summer season looking decidedly older.

A single summer day can be a little like a whirlwind tour through all the climates of the world. You swim, then bake yourself on a sandy beach under a desert-like sun. You take windswept car rides. You step from sun-baked pavements, squinting against the glare, into chill air-conditioned restaurants or stores. A sudden summer storm leaves the air steaming and humid. Your complexion is exposed to a wide variety of environments, each with shocking suddenness.

Is it any wonder that your skin becomes dryer as the days pass? The dryer your skin, the more that dryness emphasizes little lines and wrinkles. And the older you look. But there's no need to despair. It is possible to enjoy the pleasures of summer and still maintain your youthful look.

Many younger-looking women, from Acapulco to Sydney, discovered that they can barely get through the summer happily without their beautiful secret, the unique fluid known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. This summer, share the secret, the lovely benefits of this world-renowned blend. Oil of Olay was created by beauty researchers to soften and silken a woman's complexion. The complexion-cherishing lotion contains a wealth of natural moisture, tropical moisturizing oils and other emollients.

Oil of Olay, available at drugstores, penetrates the important surface layer of the skin quickly, working with nature to ease away the dryness that can make you look older. The beauty blend helps maintain the oil-moisture balance, an essential element necessary for your complexion to look as young as possible. The skin-loving liquid also sets up an effective barrier to keep nature's own moisture from surrendering to sudden environmental changes.

You will know when your skin would welcome Oil of Olay. Whenever it feels dry or slightly tight or rough to the touch, your complexion is asking for, and needs, all the help it can get from the beauty blend.

No matter how often you soothe on cherishing Oil of Olay during the day, apply at bedtime, so it can work its wonders during nocturnal hours. And in the morning, as a moisty, non-greasy makeup base that lets cosmetics stay fresh for hours.

Summer Beauty Hints

Gently bathe away your sun-protective lotion after sunning. Pat your body almost dry, then soothe your still-damp skin with Oil of Olay wherever the sun's rays have reached you.

During these months when the need for Oil of Olay® is great, always carry a bottle with you . . . to the beach, on weekend trips, when going shopping.

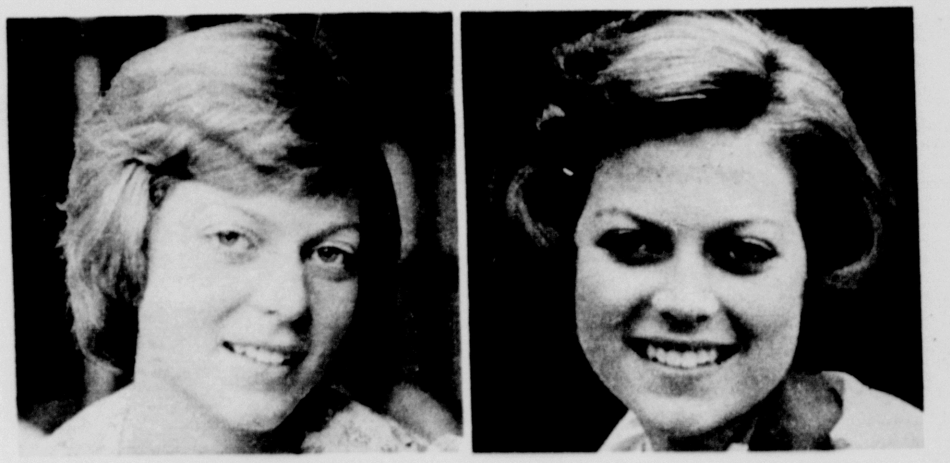
ing his scissors. But Dianne wasn't having any of that. Because of contest obligations in which her own hairdo design was still to be judged by a London jury, there could be no haircut. So the salon gave Dianne the short tousled look that seems so right for her. It was accomplished with tiny rollers, a brushout, then curls pinned all over her head.

Beauty prescription for Dianne's eyes: pearl-beige shade close to lash and swirls of mascara.

Next, on to Yardley of London, where cosmetic expert Sue Priston analyzed Dianne's facial features. Prescription: Accentuate her eyes and cheekbones, shape her eyebrows and lengthen her upper-lip line, which tends to curve down. The primary step: "Start with an absolutely clean face." Skin freshener was applied to remove traces of oil or grime, then a light moisturizer to replenish the skin. (Dianne's skin tends to be normal-to-oily. For dry skin, a cream would be applied instead.) Because Dianne's skin is evenly textured, no makeup base was needed. Her eyebrows, a bit too thick, were plucked and given more of an arch. (A tip: Eyebrows should only be plucked from under the brow, never above, or the natural guideline is lost. The result could be a mismatched set.) To keep Dianne's total look very natural, her lips were first covered with a brown-shaded lipstick, then highlighted with a peach color. Her upper-lip line was extended to balance her fuller bottom lip.

To bring out her cheekbones, a tawny cream rouge was blended in a circular motion out toward her hairline. An apricot eyeshadow was used on her eyelids; a medium-brown was applied in the crease to add depth, and a soft white highlighter was used on the brow bone. No dark liner was used, but Dianne's eyelids were polished off with a pearl-beige cream applied close to the upper lash line, to give sparkle. Upper and lower lashes were treated with a coat of mascara.

A Californian in Paris



Gay Dixon "before" and "after" her beauty make-over at famed Carita of Paris.

Gay Dixon of Lakewood, Calif., who was the winner of the Breck hairstyling competition as judged by a panel of prominent Londoners, had her beauty make-over in the chic French capital–where the smartest heads are sporting short hair and smoky, mysterious eyes. Gay's hairdo was changed to reflect a more sophisticated look and frame her face flatteringly. One side was parted, the other combed in a thirties-like wave caught up with a barrette. (Her hair, naturally curly, has to be straightened every three months.) Gay's cosmetic change was twofold: Her eyes, which have a distinctly round contour, had dark-blue liner applied at the base of the upper and lower lashes and extending slightly at the edge of eyes, to create an almond shape. Gay's full lips were de-emphasized by redrawing a thinner lip line with a coloring pencil, then filled in with tinted lip gloss.

Baskin-Robbins brings back what we believe are the 31 greatest flavors of all time.

If we're wrong, set us right.

Since 1946 we've created 331 sometimes exotic, sometimes outlandish, but always unbelievably delicious, ice cream flavors. And during September we're bringing back the 31 we think are the greatest of them all. Should you challenge our choices, we invite correction. In the box below cross out those choices you feel absurd, ridiculous or just mistaken. Then write in your nomination as a "Great" next to it. If venting your annoyance this way isn't enough to relieve the irritation you feel, cut out your corrected list and present it to the people at your Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store. To please you they have been instructed to cheerfully offer you a sample taste of any one of the 31 Greatest Flavors.

WHERE'S LUNAR CHEESE-CAKE?
I WANT PINK BUBBLEGUM!
OLALLIEBERRY! WHY ISN'T IT ON MY LIST?
WHAT HAPPENED TO CHA CHA CHA?
WHY IS BASEBALL NUT OUT?
WHERE DID THE 32ND FLAVOR GO?
YOU'RE NUTTY TO LEAVE OUT FLUFFERNUT.
NUTS!
NO NUTS TO YOU!
I MISS SCOTCH-ON-THE-ROCKS.
YOU LEFT MOD MINI MINT OFF THE LIST!
WE WANT PEANUT BUTTER 'N JELLY.

Cut along the dotted line and bring to Baskin-Robbins.

Dear Baskin-Robbins,

You people are so close to the ice you fail to see the cream. Here are the real 31 greatest flavors of all time. Get with it, Baskin-Robbins!

Cleopatra had her beauty recipes, so did Marie Antoinette.

Beauty & You

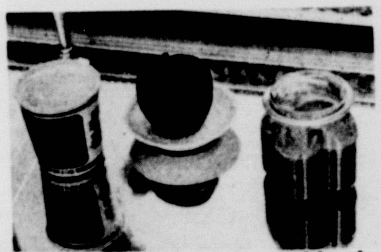
Blend Your Own Beauty Recipes

Blend your own dry-hair conditioner with a mix of safflower oil, egg, avocado and lemon.

Today, with products from the supermarket, pharmacy, or garden, you can create natural beauty aids right in your own home, using a wire whisk, egg beater, hand mixer, or a blender, as we did.

But you won't be the first to devise your own beauty treatments. Cosmetic art, supposed to have started with the Egyptians about 5000 B.C., was the result of mixing natural ingredients. Queen Nefertiti designed her own foundation cream: a mixture of white lead, chalk powder, perfume and honey. During Cleopatra's day, wealthy women used overnight beauty masks made of honey, barley flour and narcissus balm, rinsed off the next morning with almond oil. Later in France, to prove their "blue blood," members of royalty painted the veins of their temples bright blue. They whitened their skins with creams of vanilla, cacao and almond paste.



Apple-Yogurt Mask is combined in "half-pint" Waring Lexan blend-and-store jars.

Here are some simple beauty recipes you can whip up:

Apple-Yogurt Mask

1 large apple
6 tablespoons yogurt

Peel and core apple. Chop fine and mash, or slice into wedges and place in a blender. Set blender for high speed, and switch on and off until well blended. Add yogurt. Beat with a fork, use a hand mixer, or blend at medium speed, until

Columbia House
Terre Haute, Indiana 47808

Just look at this great selection of recorded entertainment—available on records, cartridges, cassettes and reel tapes! So no matter which type of stereo playback equipment you now have — you can take advantage of this special introductory offer from the Columbia Record & Tape Club!

If you prefer your music on 12" Stereo Records join now and you may have ANY 13 of these selections for only $1.97. Just indicate the 13 records you want on the handy postpaid application form and mail it today. In exchange, you agree to buy eleven records (at regular Club prices) during the coming two years . . . and you may cancel your membership at any time after doing so.

OR — If you prefer your music on Stereo Tapes join now and you may take ANY 10 of these selections for only $1.97. Just write in the numbers of your 10 tapes on the application (indicate whether you want cartridges or cassettes or reel tapes). In exchange, you agree to buy eight selections (at regular Club prices) during the coming two years . . . and you may cancel membership any time after doing so.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment . . . and the selections you order as a member will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices: records, $4.98 or $5.98; cartridges and cassettes, $6.98; reel tapes, $7.98 . . . plus a processing and postage charge. (Occasional special selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks you will receive a new copy of the Club's entertaining music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest, plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. (Since you'll receive 13 informative magazines a year, you'll always be up-to-date on the most current hits.)

. . . if you do not want any selection offered, just mail the response card always provided by the date specified (you'll always have at least ten days in which to make your decision)

. . . if you want only the Selection of the Month for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped to you automatically (naturally, you may return the regular selection at our expense and for full credit if you did not have at least ten days in which to decide)

. . . if you want any of the other selections offered, order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified

. . . and about four times a year we will offer some special selections (usually at a discount off regular Club prices), which you may reject by mailing the dated form provided . . . or accept by doing nothing.

You'll be eligible for the Club's bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement — a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases. Act now!

mixture achieves a smooth consistency. Use: Smooth on face, leave for 20-30 minutes. Rinse with cool water. The acidity in the apple acts on excessive oiliness. The yogurt clears and tones oily or sallow skin and has a mildly drying effect.

Avocado Dry-Hair Conditioner

1 cup safflower oil
1 egg
⅓ ripe avocado, peeled and seeded
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Beat or blend ½ cup safflower oil and all other ingredients. While beating, gradually add remainder of safflower oil until smooth. Use: Massage mixture into scalp and work into hair, leaving on 2 minutes. If hair is extremely dry, cover with plastic shower cap, leaving on 20-30 minutes. Rinse and shampoo as usual. The lemon juice adds highlights to the hair. The safflower oil contributes necessary moisture while the egg and avocado are good protein derivatives.

After-Sun Dry-Skin Cream

¼ cup glycerin
¼ cup petroleum jelly
4 tablespoons lanolin
2 teaspoons spirits of peppermint

Combine ingredients, blending until smooth. Use: Apply liberally to skin until cream is absorbed. It will protect against dryness and peeling. Glycerin, petroleum jelly and lanolin are natural moisturizers. Lanolin is a natural oil from sheep's wool. Glycerin, a by-product in soap-making, has moisturizing properties. The peppermint soothes and cools skin.

Oily Skin Foaming Cleanser

½ cup liquid Castile soap
3 tablespoons rubbing alcohol
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 tablespoons witch hazel

Blend or beat vigorously all ingredients until smooth. Use: Dip washcloth into the solution and scrub the face. Rinse with warm water, followed by cold. The alcohol and witch hazel are drying, disinfecting agents desirable for oily, blemished skin. Baking soda contains grains that deep-cleanse the pores. The Castile soap has olive oil to replace natural moisture and balance the effects of the two astringents.

Beauty Effects You Couldn't Get Last Year

Starting at the top, with your eyebrows in mind, Maybelline has formulated the first automatic brush-on eyebrow color. It's called Liquimatic Brow Color, and it comes in four shades. There's also an automatic Lightener that lets you tone your eyebrows to match your hair.

Consumers are demanding cosmetics that do more than one thing. How about a product that lets you shade a lid, line an eye, color cheeks, line and fill in lips and highlight anywhere? Elizabeth Arden's Creative Coloring Pencils fill the bill. Or a new waterproof makeup that weathers all climates without caking or requiring touchups? The protein-formulated foundation, called Great Coverage All Day Makeup, comes in six shades and is made by Coty. Studies show that air pollution and the stresses of modern-day living affect the skin. After a year of developing and testing, Dorothy Gray introduces the Basic Formula collection: a cleanser, toner and moisturizer—fragrance free, with no artificial coloring. Importantly, the formula is balanced to maintain the skin's ideal 5.5 pH factor, (acid mantle). Cosmetic technology moves ahead in nail-color application with new press-on polish. You simply stick colored nail shapes on top of your own and trim to fit. The finish is flawless and there's a wide range of colors to choose from.

These are called Swinger-Tips. fy

Lamb Shanks With Noodles

Served over noodles and garnished with slices of lemon, these Lemony Lamb Shanks are a great food buy.

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen prepares a family dinner of economical lamb shanks. "Lamb shanks are one of the best meat buys in the country right now," says Marilyn, "yet I often hear from women that they don't know how to use them. This tangy lemon-flavored recipe is just right for a cool fall day."

Lemony Lamb Shanks with Noodles*

*Recipe given

LEMONY LAMB SHANKS WITH NOODLES

2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
4-6 lamb shanks (1-1½ lbs. each)
2-3 tablespoons flour
3-4 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup thinly sliced onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
4 peppercorns
1 bay leaf
2 sprigs parsley, chopped
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup water
12 ozs. noodles, cooked
2 tablespoons capers, optional
1 lemon, thinly sliced

1. Combine salt, pepper, paprika and thyme on sheet of waxed paper. Rub seasonings well over all sides of lamb. Coat lightly with flour.

2. Heat vegetable oil slowly in large heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Brown shanks, a few at a time, very slowly on all sides. Remove from pan.

3. Sauté onion and garlic in remaining oil about 5 minutes, until limp and transparent.

4. Return shanks to pan. Add peppercorns, bay leaf, parsley, lemon rind, lemon juice and water.

5. Bring to boiling. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 2 hours, or until tender. Turn shanks once or twice for even cooking. Add small amount of water if necessary.

6. Place meat on warm serving platter and keep warm. Blot up surface grease from pan gravy with paper towel; discard.

7. Heat gravy and stir briskly. Thicken if desired with mixture of 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons water. Bring to boiling, stirring. Let simmer 2-3 minutes.

8. Arrange cooked, drained noodles on platter, top with lamb shanks. Sprinkle with capers and pour some of gravy over lamb. Pass remaining gravy in sauce boat. Garnish platter with lemon slices. Makes 4-6 servings

Once upon a time there was a paper towel.
It was strong, soft and very, very absorbent.
But it was plain.

Now the towel was warm and pretty.
So Chiffon called the towel Sun Fresh™.
And made it in two designs and three colors.

Look inside the Mass through an outsider's eyes!

A man meets a woman on her way to Sunday Mass. She invites him to come along. He does. The result is a Sunday morning he will long remember.

Why? Because he discovers that the Mass can be a warm experience of people worshipping together. He senses the presence of Christ, feels moved to pray, finds a new sympathy for the beliefs of others which differ from his own, listens to the word of God calling all to love.

The woman's whispered comments guide him through the ritual and explain away the strangeness. He asks questions and gets straight answers. Pleased and impressed, he concludes that it was God's providence which provided him with this experience.

Now you can share his experience. Read the full story in our free pamphlet: "Pilgrim Goes to Mass." Mail the coupon today. No one will call.

Sports Mini-Profile

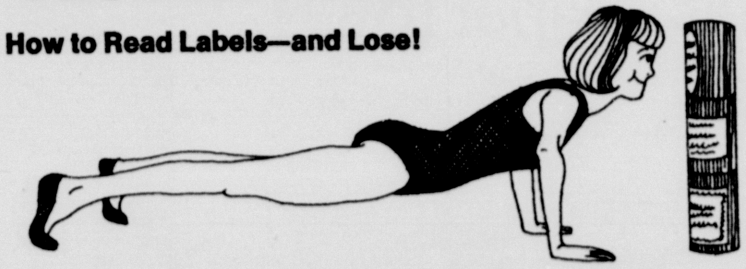
Outfielder GARY MADDOX:

Can He Fill Willie Mays' Shoes?

If Gary Maddox of the San Francisco Giants hadn't known when to duck, he wouldn't be alive today to be in the race to capture the National League batting championship. He was on patrol in Vietnam in 1970 when a Vietcong mortar shell came screaming toward his bunker. He ducked just in time to escape the impact of the explosion. When he dug himself free, he found he was unhurt. . . . Gary has found enemy pitchers easier to defeat than the Vietcong. In June he was hitting the ball at a .345 clip. If he wins the batting title he will be in a very select class of major-leaguers who were able to win a crown after less than two seasons in the majors. Maddox, 23, is a native of Cincinnati who grew up in California. He only played half a season in organized ball before getting shipped to Vietnam. "I grew up very fast in Vietnam and decided baseball wasn't my thing," he says. "I felt I should go to college. But my father had a heart attack and my mother became ill, so I wanted to go out and support the family.". . . Maddox's biggest thrill came when he was told he was being groomed to fill the shoes of his boyhood idol, Willie Mays. Maddox has displayed some of Mays' talent in making spectacular catches. He also has been given special dispensation by manager Charlie Fox to wear thick fuzz on his face—his skin is sensitive to the razor's touch.—By Barry Abramson

The Diet Watch

How to Read Labels—and Lose!



Reading the labels on canned groceries can make you skinnier. Canned stewed tomatoes, for example, contain sugar, but if you buy plain canned tomatoes and add a sugar substitute, you save calories. Checking the labels on canned fruits is important—canned sweetened applesauce, for instance, has 230 calories per cup, but the unsweetened has 100 calories; canned sweetened grapefruit juice has 130 calories per cup, but the unsweetened has only 100 per cup. Fruits packed in light syrup have fewer calories than those in heavy syrup, and water-packed fruits have fewest calories. Keep an eye out, too, when buying uncanned foods: A container of creamed cottage cheese has 260 calories per cup, but plain cottage cheese has only 170 per cup. A dieter needs plenty of nutrition, so cottage cheese might be called the "ideal" food for dieters. It's inexpensive, and a mere half-cupful gives you 20 protein grams, which is a third of our day's protein needs. That's about the same number as you get from a quarter pound of expensive steak.

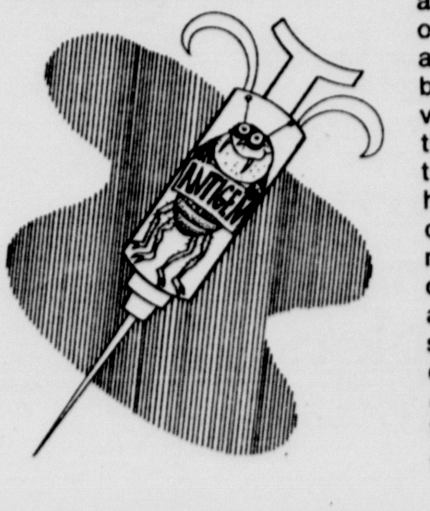
The Doctor Lets You In

How Long Does A Vaccination Last?



Do you believe that once you're immunized you're always safe? As with many other common beliefs—this is also wrong. The body does build up immunity through vaccination, but revaccination is necessary to have continuous protection. Here is how it works: A vaccine called an antigen, made from microorganisms that cause a disease, is injected in minute amounts into the body. It stimulates the body to produce another substance, called an antibody, that fights the disease. But protection conferred by immunization tapers off with the years. For example, a smallpox vaccination lasts only five to seven years. People should get revaccinated when exposed to smallpox or when traveling to areas in which smallpox occurs, like the Far East. (By the way, did you know that a combined vaccine made from six live antigens has been developed recently but is still under study? It consists of a combination of diphtheria-tetanus-whooping-cough-measles-mumps-German-measles antigens—plus a polio vaccine, too!)

CLAIRE BLOOM:
She Needs Three Locks on Her Dressing Room Door

"When I was acting in 'Hedda Gabler' on the stage in New York, the stage pistols were stolen off the wall, the tape recorder on which we played the music for the show was stolen, and I needed three locks on my dressing room door. When my husband knocked, I had to ask his middle name before I dared to let him in. What will our cities be like a few years from now if something isn't done to stop the deterioration?" asks Claire Bloom, whose latest film is "A Doll's House." "It isn't only in New York that life is unsafe and filled with hatred between people. I have found a similar atmosphere in other cities around the country that I have visited. Least afflicted are the rural areas, and these are the parts of America I enjoy most. But the problem will spread to the rural areas, too, if it is allowed to continue. I have no formula for changing things. But I hope those who have the power to take action will at least try to come to grips with the situation and not just let things drift. Surely we can't just sit back and watch the deterioration without doing something about it."

Jobmanship

Praise: What's the Real Story?

Do supervisors often express appreciation for a job well-done? One cause of friction between supervisors and workers is that they don't see the answer as the same one. According to one study: "My supervisor doesn't often show appreciation for a good job. Neither do I get more responsibility, a pat on the back or training for better jobs," was the response of almost 90 percent of the workers. But when the supervisors of these same people were asked how and when they reward good work, their replies were very different. "I give a pat on the back and thorough praise very often," said 80 percent of the supervisors. Somebody's fooling himself, but who?

People and You

Getting Kids to "Brush!"

Perhaps like so many others you have the "brush your teeth" problem in your home. At last, they've discovered where many of us go wrong. Seems that explaining to children and reasoning with them isn't enough. "Brushing will make your teeth healthy and strong," and other such talk is all well and good, but you have to add rewards. That is the finding of an in-depth investigation of children's health behavior. Heavy disciplinary methods fail.

Like other parents, you've probably read that children were supposed to take to good routines because you explained and treated them "like people." Not so, says the study. To create good health habits, you need three things: (1) provide the child with the explanation; (2) encourage your child to take responsibility for his own good health habits; (3) then polish up your words of praise and perhaps add some other rewards.

INTRODUCING THE MIRACLE
DROP

the key to a new diet program that lets you enjoy great-tasting, nutritious, low-calorie meals while still losing weight!

The Miracle Fruit Drop is the key to a totally new way of dieting—the Miralin™ Diet Program. This program can change your whole idea about dieting! The amazing Miracle Fruit Drop contains a protein concentrate—extracted from the berries of a tropical plant that scientists commonly call the Miracle Fruit Tree. This protein actually sharpens your taste for about an hour—the length of a meal. When you chew a Drop before mealtime, it causes you to perceive delicious tastes and natural flavors in Miralin low-calorie meals.

The Miralin Diet features menus and recipes that save you hundreds of calories by substantially reducing your sugar intake. Do you know that the average American eats more than one hundred pounds of sugar a year? Even if you don't like rich desserts and don't use table sugar, you still consume loads of sugar in the foods you eat regularly. Do you realize that most canned fruits, canned pork and beans, ketchup, even fruit-flavored yogurt all contain sugar? The unique action of the Miracle Fruit Drop's natural protein allows you to eat low-calorie, sugar-restricted foods and still enjoy the sweet taste of sugar-rich, high-calorie foods!

An extensive selection of weekly menu plans and recipes! Different people need to lose different amounts of weight. And because different people should lose weight at different rates, the Miralin Diet Program offers a wide choice of menu plans. You select one that's right for you! All of the easy-to-follow recipes—tested for taste satisfaction in typical households—have been created to take full advantage of the Miracle Fruit Drop's flavor-enhancing and sweetening qualities.

Why you'll stay on the Miralin Diet Program. You'll discover that you don't have to sacrifice flavor and sweetness in order to lose weight. Naturally, the Miralin menu plans are calculated for you to eat fewer calories than you ate before, but they provide satisfying taste sensations that help you forget the urge to eat sugar-sweetened, fattening foods!

Nutritional value makes this Program right for you. Each and every recipe in the Miralin Diet Program has been analyzed for taste, nutritional value, and low-calorie content by a team of scientists, nutritionists, and dietitians. The Miralin Diet Program wants you to consult your physician if you have any questions about losing weight.

Put yourself on the Miralin Diet Program now! We want you to experience the Miralin Diet . . . and decide for yourself if this isn't the best-tasting, most enjoyable Diet you've ever followed!

Send now for the Miralin Introductory Pack. It gives you exciting Miralin recipes and menu plans, and a three-to-five-day supply of Miracle Fruit Drops (enough for two people). The Drops will make the low-calorie Miralin meals taste more satisfying than you ever imagined a diet could taste! Also included are 12 samples from Miralin's growing line of food products, all designed to complement your meals and save you calories! You'll receive 4 servings each of iced tea mix and lemon drink mix, and 2 servings each of gelatin dessert and low-calorie dressing.

For a limited time, you'll also receive The Miralin Plan Cookbook—all for just $4.95, plus 75¢ for shipping and handling. This saves you a full $1.00 off the regular price! There's a full money-back guarantee if you're not delighted! Mail this coupon today with your name, address and $5.70 to: MIRALIN COMPANY, Dept. S0027, P.O. Box H, Hudson, Mass. 01749. Now fry up good food for breakfast with no cholesterol, no animal fat.

Introducing three new protein-rich breakfast foods from Morningstar Farms.™

Until today, when you wanted to serve a hearty breakfast everybody liked, you usually had to serve fried foods high in cholesterol and animal fat.

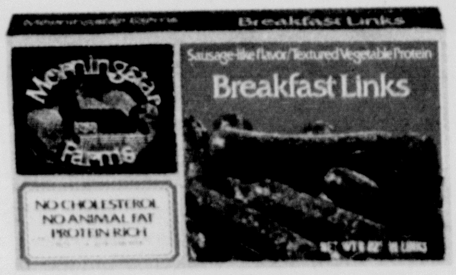
No more.

Now you can please everyone with three delicious new breakfast foods made from textured vegetable protein. Each is rich in protein and free of cholesterol and animal fat.

Breakfast Slices
Morningstar Farms
Ham-like flavor/Textured Vegetable Protein
Breakfast Slices
NO CHOLESTEROL
NO ANIMAL FAT
PROTEIN RICH

Announcing new Breakfast Slices.

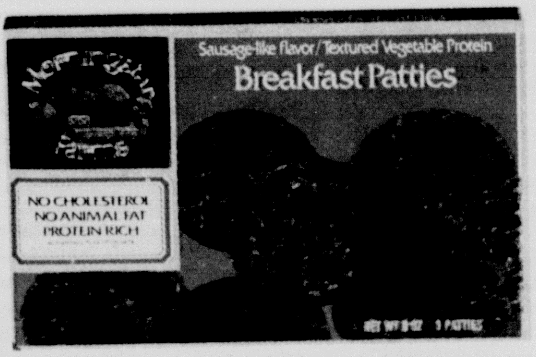
They're sweet. They're tender. They taste a little like ham, a little like Canadian Bacon—and yet they have a new taste that's all their own. They're our Breakfast Slices . . . and that mild, smoky flavor just might make them your favorite.



Breakfast Links
Morningstar Farms
Sausage-like flavor/Textured Vegetable Protein
Breakfast Links
NO CHOLESTEROL
NO ANIMAL FAT
PROTEIN RICH

Announcing new Breakfast Links.

They're plump like pork sausages. Fry like pork sausages. And they have some of the spices of pork sausage, too. But we've also added some brand new flavors . . . to make Breakfast Links better tasting than any pork sausage you've ever tried.



Morningstar Farms
Sausage-like flavor/Textured Vegetable Protein
Breakfast Patties
NO CHOLESTEROL
NO ANIMAL FAT
PROTEIN RICH

Announcing new Breakfast Patties.

They look like country-style sausage patties. Actually, they're something better. Many of the mild, spicy flavors of sausage plus some new ones—to give our patties a new taste that's really worth waking up for.

The Subtle Art of Influencing Others—Do You Really Know How It Works?

True or False: Your chances of talking your boss into giving you a raise are better if he's either overweight or underweight. (See number 3)

By John E. Gibson

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. When you're trying to sell someone on an idea or persuade him to do something you want, you should be careful not to repeat yourself—for this is likely to increase his sales resistance.

2. Don't waste your powers of persuasion on someone while he's in a worried or anxious state of mind. You aren't likely to get anywhere.

3. Your chances of talking your boss into giving you a raise are better if he's either overweight or underweight.

4. People who are the best at persuading others are the most difficult to influence.

5. If you're trying to talk somebody into doing something that's important to you, you should wait till you can get him alone, where there will be no distractions or interruptions.

6. When it comes to influencing people, flattery will get you somewhere.

ANSWERS

1. False. In studies at the University of Oklahoma, 120 subjects were exposed to various types of persuasive communications. Half of the subjects were exposed once, the other half three times. Results: "Speed of agreement was fastest for those who were exposed to persuasive communications three times." The moral seems to be that when you're knocking at the door of a man's mind, don't give up after just one try.

2. False. Studies at two universities have demonstrated that people tend to be much more receptive to suggestion, and thus easier to influence, when they're worried or anxious about something. (Note: If someone tries to sell you a bill of goods while you're in such a state of mind, postpone decision until you're in a different mood—tests show you'll be more astute and much less gullible.)

3. True—according to research sponsored by the National Science Foundation, in which over one hundred men and women were subjected to psychological tests designed to evaluate persuadability. Conclusions of the investigators: "The results show that both overweight and underweight subjects were more persuadable than others." It's difficult to determine exactly why this is so, but in the case of the overweight individual, it isn't likely he would be overweight if he didn't lack the resistance to say "no" to the silent persuasion of food.

4. True. Studies show that the most persuasive people tend to be the most difficult to influence. Incidentally, investigators have found that people of high intelligence are more easily influenced than those of lesser mental stature, when confronted with impressive logical arguments. But they are the most resistant to persuasion "which relies on unsupported generalities, or false, illogical, irregular argumentation." Moral: If your idea or project has merit, the smartest man you can find will be the easiest to sell on it.

5. False. Consensus of psychological studies has demonstrated—on tests on men and women from all walks of life—that people are most influenced by a persuasive appeal when it is interrupted by casual distractions, such as other people talking, a radio going, or other incidental sounds and noises. This distraction, as investigators point out, is effective because "it curtails counter-arguing on the part of the person listening to the persuasive message and makes him more receptive to the attempt to influence him."

6. True—for some personality types, False for others. Studies have shown that while persons with high self-esteem and self-confidence tend ordinarily to be harder to influence than others, they are rendered much more persuadable when flattered or complimented, and are more susceptible to being influenced if "exposed to favorable messages about themselves." On the other hand, it was found that "low-esteem persons [lacking in self-reliance] were more persuadable with unfavorable messages about themselves." In other words, with them, compliments are likely to get you nowhere at all—for these personality types simply can't believe that they rate them, and thus are inclined to question your other statements.

This child has a good home, nice clothes,
a loving mother-
and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

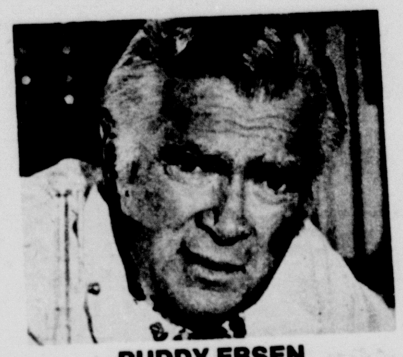
COME ON IN, THE PING-PONG'S FINE!
A new winter swimming idea?

Question: If you cross a swimming pool with 44,000 table-tennis balls, what do you get? If you said a pool table, sit down. What you get is this lovely waterscape in Duhrenbach, Germany. Here, they found that Danish-made plastic balls will act as a thermal insulation blanket when they cover the water. This lowers the cost of heating the water, and enables the pool to remain open year-round. The balls weigh only 3.8 grams each. This means that swimming can be done without any hindrance from the "blanket."

"High blood pressure, a major factor today in premature death from coronary disease, stroke, and also kidney disease, is strongly influenced by heredity. The brothers and sisters of any patient going to a doctor for high blood pressure are eight times as likely as other people to have high blood pressure themselves. If both your parents have had high blood pressure the chances are about 45 percent for you, and if one parent, 30 percent." From "How Not to Die Young," by Dr. Joan Gomez (Stein and Day, $6.98).



BUDDY EBSEN
A Broderick Crawford he's not

Actor Buddy Ebsen, TV's "Barnaby Jones," talks about the difficulties of learning lines: "When I started 'The Beverly Hillbillies,' I learned every word. For two years I had headaches. So I learned to 'wing' it. By that I mean that instead of sitting down every night with a tape recorder and learning the script verbatim, I use word association, with sounds, locations, and so forth. If you asked me today what I said yesterday, I couldn't tell you! I once saw Broderick Crawford come on a set, scan a page of dialogue—and he had it. Every word! Well, now, I don't have that kind of a mind! But once my method backfired. I did a stage play last year and on opening night I was fine. Had every line down pat. But the next night I was terrible! I had erased!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

ROBED THE WRONG WAY

There is a bathrobe that I wear
That has two moth holes and a tear.
It has no style, indeed it's drapeless;
It's wrinkled, rumpled, sadly
shapeless.
But it, for me, is fine and dandy:
It's always hanging where it's handy,
It's not too heavy, not too thin,
It fits me like another skin.
Oh yes, I know it's old and ratty
And makes me, I am sure, look batty.
But who's to see me? That's the trick:
The doctor, maybe, when I'm sick,
My wife, my children; others not—
I'd lose what status I have got.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Having one daughter five years old and a son three years old, we were pleased that our third child was another little girl. On my arrival home with the brand new baby, my daughter sat next to me. I was talking about my two beautiful little daughters when my son rambled over and asked sullenly, "Momma, do you like them girls better than me?" Of course I answered, "No, I love all of you, and especially you because you're my only son." With sheer delight and amazement he looked at me and said, "Oh Momma, am I really?"

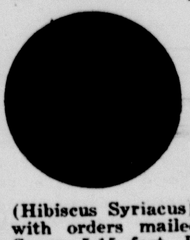
FREE DOUBLE FLOWERING ROSE OF SHARON SHRUB Without Extra Cost



(Hibiscus Syriacus) Special bonus with orders mailed by Nov. 10. Grows 5-15 feet. Blooms Aug. to frost. A truly valuable bonus so mail order now.

Already Selected and Tried . . . These Are The Best Roses You Can Buy . . . Now at Low, Low Prices

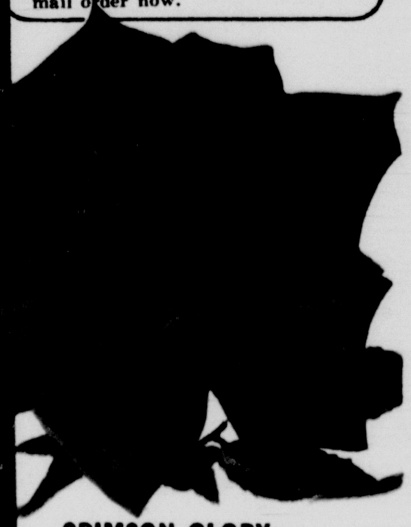
Only the Rose has such great beauty of form, pleasing color range, delightful fragrance and is so adaptable to almost every flower garden. However, since there are thousands of different roses, you can only be sure of beautiful blooms by selecting varieties that continually rate high and prove popular year after year by amateur and expert alike. That is why the American Rose Society official rose rating system has been our guide in bringing you this outstanding rose offering. Not only is every rose offered here recognized as rated, six have been honored as "All American Rose of the Year" selections. All are offered at final money saving "last call" prices. Check your selections on the coupon below and mail now. You will receive a PROMPTNESS BONUS of a double flowering ROSE OF SHARON when your roses arrive for fall planting.

EVERY ROSE GUARANTEED TO BLOOM

1 Be satisfied on arrival for fall planting or return within 10 days for purchase price refund.

2 Any fall planted rose not blooming this year and for 5 years, replacement is free.

3 If you purchase from us and see the same rose variety in the same size at a lower price, upon receipt of proof we will refund the difference in cash.



CRIMSON GLORY

Deep velvety blooms are highest red of all . . . and most fragrant, too. Blooms in profusion all summer long. Rated 8.3 and ever popular. Only 99¢.

CHARLOTTE ARMSTRONG

Another former All American Rose of the Year selection, rated 8.4. Long buds open to wavy-petaled, high centered, light reddish-pink blooms. Consistent bloomer. Only 99¢ each.

FORTY-NINER

Blooms all summer long with brilliantly contrasting petals that are vivid Oriental red inside and chrome yellow outside. Grows to 3 feet high. Former All American Rose of the year is rated 6.1. Only 99¢.

NOCTURNE

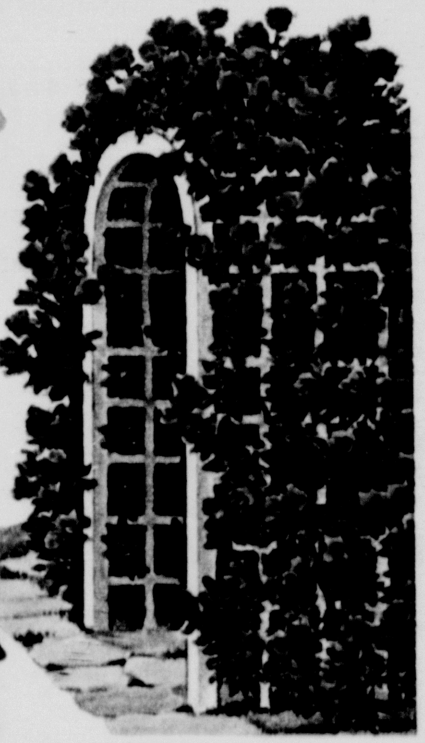
This velvety deep cardinal-red rose has one of the longest, most perfectly formed buds of any rose in its color range. Pleasantly fragrant, Nocturne is a former All American Rose of the Year selection. Rated 7.3. Only 99¢.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

Truly one of the most breathtakingly beautiful roses, its lovely pink flowers bloom early June to frost. Delightfully fragrant. Former All American Rose of the Year, very highly rated at 9.3. Only 99c.

RED PINOCCHIO

Rated 7.9, this free-flowering rose compliments any garden with its clusters of double petaled, cup-shaped scarlet blooms up to 3 inches across. Extremely hardy. Only 99¢.



CLIMBING BLAZE

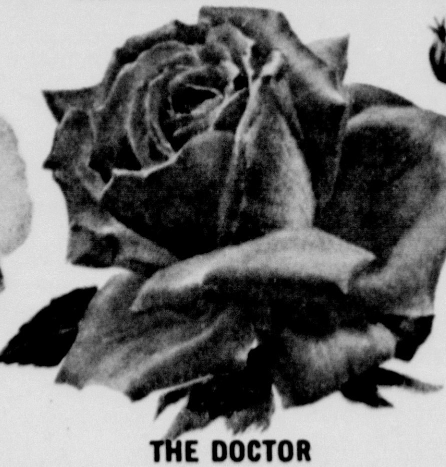
This champion climber produces a living blanket of big, 2 to 3 inch scarlet-red double blooms on many branched canes. Blooms again and again summer into fall, covering trellis, walls, fences with vivid color. Rated 7.9. Only 99¢.

MIRANDY

Strong, vigorous grower produces many surprisingly large well formed blooms, as befits a past All American Rose of the Year selection. Purplish-red maroon color. Rated 7.1. Only 99¢.

ECLIPSE

Profuse and remarkably long pointed buds open to deep-cupped, long-lasting doubled golden yellow blooms that come in waves far into fall. ECLIPSE is showy, alternately green, then yellow. Rated 7.5. Only 99¢.



THE DOCTOR

Long pointed buds expand to enormous blooms of silvery, satiny pink. Light green soft foliaged bush grows into a compact mound 2 to 3 feet high. Rated 6.9. Only 99¢.

It's really quite simple to get acquainted with Spiegel...

All you do is select any of the items in this catalog that you'd like to see. List them on one of the attached order blanks and mail to Spiegel. That's all there is to it. Be sure to give complete information. Fill in your name and address - give the catalog number and name of each item as well as size, color and quantity desired. There's no risk. No obligation. And you don't send a single penny.

To help us get acquainted with you - and to try anything we sell - please answer the questions on the back of the order blank and sign where indicated. We'll open an account for you (subject to credit approval by Spiegel) when we send your merchandise.

When we say Free Trial
that's Exactly what we mean

This free trial is just that. Free! And the trial means try. We want you to try the items you select. Don't just inspect them. If it's a camera you've chosen we want you to shoot some pictures with it. If it's cookware, cook a meal in it. If it's apparel, wear it - enjoy the compliments of your family and friends. That's the best way to get acquainted with Spiegel. By actually trying the things we sell.

Only If you are Satisfied and Choose Charge or Monthly Payments

With a Spiegel Charge Account, there is no finance charge. You simply pay the full cash sale price, plus shipping/handling charge and tax if any, within 25 days after your billing date.

You also have the option of paying on the famous Budget Power Monthly Payment Plan.

Under this plan you pay the time sales price, which is the cash sale price including shipping/handling charge and tax if any, plus the time price differential (monthly finance charge) and the charge for Spiegel Budget Power Group insurance (if authorized) according to the monthly terms below. Payments are credited on the date of receipt and early payments or payments in excess of minimum payment due result in smaller finance charges. No finance charge will be added if the outstanding balance is paid within 25 days of your billing date.

Effective July 1, 1972 for all new and paid-up customers.

MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENT	$8	$9	$10	$11	$12	$13	$14	$15	$20	$25
BUYS UP TO	$160	$180	$200	$220	$240	$260	$280	$300	$400	$500

With the Monthly Payment plan, there is a FINANCE CHARGE computed by the Average Daily Balance method which is the sum of the amount of actual daily balances each day during the billing cycle divided by the number of days in the billing cycle, calaculated at a periodic rate of 1.65% monthly (or a minimum of 50¢ monthly on balances under $30.30) which is an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 19.8%.

Shipping and tax, if any, Insurance coverage (if authorized) and the $1.00 handling charge on orders shipped direct will be included in your account.

Budget Power Group Insurance Available

PROPERTY INSURANCE for Direct and Accidental Loss or Damage to your purchases financed by Spiegel in the United States and Canada caused by: fire, lightning, inland marine perils, windstorm, cyclone, tornado, hail, explosion, vehicles, smoke, flood from rising waters and burglary is available to Spiegel customers from American Bankers Insurance Company of Florida, where not prohibited by law. Claims are paid by a credit to your account for the repair or replacement value of the damaged insured property or the unpaid balance (whichever is less). The cost of property insurance is only pennies a month, .0015 of outstanding monthly balance (which, for example, is only 15¢ for a balance of $100). This insurance may be obtained from any person of applicant's choice and purchase of this insurance is not a factor in approving the extension of credit. You may terminate this insurance at any time.

CREDIT LIFE INSURANCE. For pennies a month, .00165 of monthly balance (which for example is only 16½¢ for a balance of $100), you can be safeguarded by Spiegel Group Credit Insurance Policy, issued by Guaranty Life Insurance Company of America, which will pay your account balance up to $2,500 in the event of the death of you or your spouse. A certificate will be sent, describing all benefits in full. Purchase of this insurance is not a factor in approving the extension of credit, and the insurance can be terminated at any time.

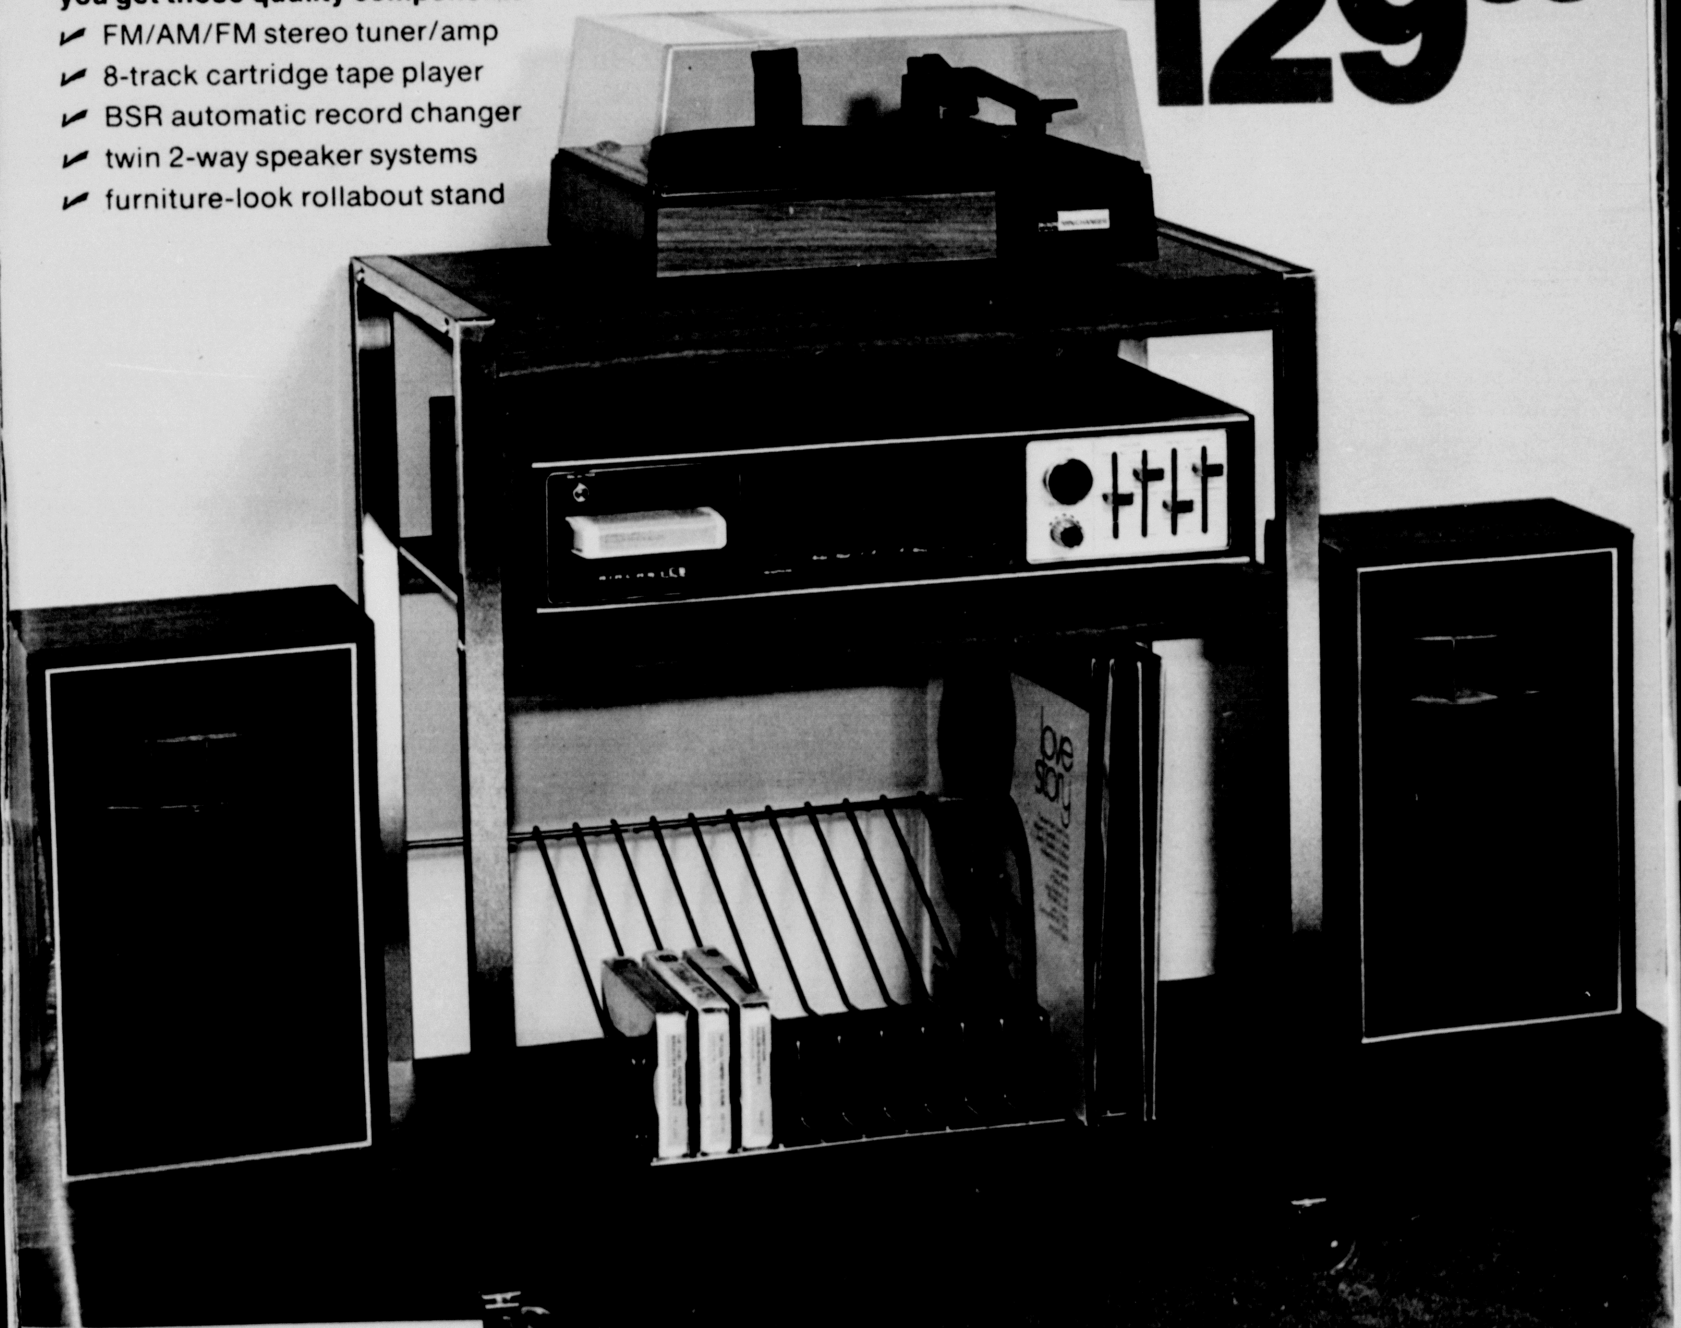
you get these quality components:

- FM/AM/FM stereo tuner/amp
- 8-track cartridge tape player
- BSR automatic record changer
- twin 2-way speaker systems
- furniture-look rollabout stand



3 pcs. 99.95

Buy now . . . we've cut our Fall Catalog price $10.00 on this complete component system with rollabout stand! Here's everything you need for real stereo enjoyment. Regular FM, AM, FM-stereo, pre-recorded tapes sound great thanks to the 12-watt music power output. Tuner/amp has blackout dial, slide-bar controls for volume, bass, treble. Automatic and manual track selection. Instant-on solid-state circuitry; stereo light indicates multiplex broadcasts; AFC prevents FM drift. Jack for stereo headphone. Walnut-finished vinyl-covered plywood cabinet 19⅝x10⅛x4¼-in. high. Speaker enclosures 8⅞x4⅞x14¼-in. high; each has 5-in. woofer and 2-in. tweeter. Imported from Japan.

BSR 3-speed mini-changer must plug into tuner/amp; plays all size records. Lightweight tonearm with flip-over cartridge. 45-rpm spindle, connector cables included. Walnut-finish plastic base 15½x10x6½-in. high; smoke plastic dust cover. Imported from England.

Rollabout stand holds components and there is plenty of storage space for your tapes and albums. Walnut-print hardboard shelves. Chromed metal frame rolls on plastic casters. Overall size: 45½x12½x27⅛-in. high.
